Tomato And Potato Casserole

With a large family as we have, we like to try to cook different side dishes and sometimes simply run out of ideas. But recently, I prepared this potato casserole with great results! Especially for those who love potatoes as we do.

TOMATO AND POTATO CASSEROLE
5 or 6 medium potatoes
1 onion (chopped)
2 cups tomato sauce
(or fresh tomatoes from a garden, soon?)
grated parmesan or romano cheese seasoned bread crumbs for topping

Grease a casserole dish. Cut potatoes into paper thin slices (about a quarter of an inch). Place alternating slices of the potato, the tomato sauce and the grated cheese sprinkling each layer with the chopped onion. Top the layers with potato and some bread crumbs and pour any extra tomato sauce over the mixture.

Bake in a 350 degree preheated oven for 35 to 40 minutes or until potatoes are tender and delicately browned. Makes four to six servings. If you want the casserole to look fancy, edge the dish with fresh parsley sprigs before serving.

GIRL SCOUTS from Troop #4205 recently met with Ch. 7 meteorologist Miselle Michaels while working on a project studying the weather at Lincoln-Hancock School.

St. John's Girl Scouts Earning Weather Watch Badge

The girls are working towards completion of the Weather Watch Badge which includes the construction of weather equipment.

The equipment was installed on the roof of Lincoln-Hancock School where the girls observed temperature, barometric pressure, wind speed and direction and rain and snowfall.

Michaels, a meteorologist, attended the installation and shared weather information from the Ch. 7 computer as well as her own insight into meteorology.

Eight High School Students Participate In Palmer Institute

Eight area high school seniors are viewing state government first hand this week at the 13th annual Palmer Institute which is being conducted by Sen. Paul Harold at the State House.

The institute, named for Joseph Palmer, the first state senator from the Norfolk District, includes seminars for students on state government, the role of the media in government, the legislative process, the role of a lobbyist and meetings with state officials. Students attend public hearings and sit in on formal and informal sessions of the House of Representatives and the Senate.

"The program is intended to provide the young people with an opportunity to learn about the political process and also to advance their awareness of government.

Students participating in the institute include: Erin Pelletier, Woodward School; Michael Anderson, Quincy High School; Joseph Murphy, Quincy High School; Jeffrey Drew, Braintree High School; Marc Caruso, Archbishop Williams High School; James Moodie, Thayer Academy; Jill Jakubajtys, Holbrook High; and Richard Heath, Avon High.

The students were selected for the program by their teachers based on their interest in government. Ann M. Knafelz, an aide to Harold, conducted the three-day seminar.

Kids Unlimited Raises $1,526 For Easter Seals

Youngsters from Kids Unlimited, Quincy, hopped to help people with disabilities on Feb. 26 and raised $1,526 in an Easter Seal Hop-N-Ing.

The children spent the previous week learning about disabilities -- what causes them and how they can effect everyday lives.

Each child then secured pledges from family and friends for every hop performed during a three-minute span. The funds raised help provide Easter Seal services for people with disabilities.

Cahill Commends 50 'Adopt-Island' Participants

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Councillor Timothy Cahill recently awarded commendations to 50 groups and individuals for their participation last year in the city's Adopt-An-Island program.

As a token of the city's appreciation, each individual or group was given both a commendation and a small rosebush plant for taking part in the program.

"This is to recognize the people who tried to help the City of Quincy through the Adopt-An-Island program," said Cahill, who called Adopt-An-Island "one of the most successful parts of the Cleaner Greener Quincy program."

The commendations mark the end of the third year of Adopt-An-Island, which was created by Former Mayor Francis McCauley during his administration.

"The program has continued to grow," said Cahill. "Every year more islands have been adopted." Around 25 islands were adopted in the first year of the program and about 35 in the second, he said.

The 50 receiving commendations Monday night were: The Quincy Post Office, the Joyce Family, Philip and Barbara Kenney, Groleau's Landscape Contractors, Curry Hardware, St. John's Girl Scout Troop 4205, Paul Harold, Time Out Toys, Teresa Bergstrom, Ayers Bros. Inc. Handicap Conversion Center, Keohane Funeral Services, Early American Restaurant.

Quincy Firefighters Association, Morrill Real Estate, Mantis Plants & Flowers, Ellen Ross-Pecce, Houghs Neck American Legion Post, Mr. Bloomer's Emotional Growth and Development IV Class at the Point Webster Elementary School, 101st Infantry Veteran's Association of World War I and II, Renee M. Stone, Arborscape, Agnitti Insurance, Tim and Tina Cahill, Atherton Hough School, New England Telephone, Viden Road residents.

Crown Colony office park, Quincy Housing Authority, Trifone Litre & Wedge, Quincy Youth Council, Friends for a Better Quincy High School, Rob Ross, A.H. Campbell, Trucks of Quincy, the Brill Family, Germantown Children's Chorus, Don Uvanitte, Students of Snug Harbor School.

Cahill also praised Raymond Cattaneo, Executive Director of the Park Department, for the job he has done in making Adopt-An-Island such a success.

"Without him, the program wouldn't really work," said Cahill.

There are still more islands available to be adopted for the start of the program's new year, which officially begins in April. Those interested in adopting an island in the City of Quincy should call Cattaneo at 376-1251.

Bryant Carter Jr. Re-elected Park, Rec Board Chairman

Frank C. Santoro was elected vice chairman and Kathleen T. Mitchell was elected secretary of the board.

Carter is employed as the office manager of South Shore Buick Company of Quincy. He attended Quincy public schools and is a graduate of North Quincy High School and Bentley College in Waltham.

He was appointed to the board in 1987. As a representative of Ward 6 the past five years, he served as vice chairman of the board before his election to chairman.

Girl Scouts Decorate Hospital Pediatric Unit

The Scouts decorated the rooms with brightly colored prints, clocks and flame retardant curtains in an effort to make a youngsters' stay at the hospital a pleasant one. Donations were solicited from local merchants.

The project enabled the Scouts to earn gold merit badges. A celebration tea and tour of the facility was recently enjoyed by the Scouts and the auxiliary members.

Auction April 10 To Benefit Playground

The Quincy Park Improvement Committee will hold a fundraising auction to benefit the restoration of Collins-Rest-A-While Park, Friday, April 10, from 7 to 11 p.m. at the Quincy Legion Post, 2 Mechanic St.

The playground is located on Southern Artery across from Veterans Memorial Field. QPIC has already raised $30,000 - half way to its $60,000 goal. Included in that amount are 950,000 pennies ($9,500) raised in Quincy elementary schools so far out of a goal of 1 million ($10,000).

QPIC plans to build a "state-of-the-art" playground that parents can count on to be safe and kids can count on to be fun.

"This auction promises to be a great opportunity for South Shore residents to bid on an assortment of desirable items and, in the process, contribute to making one of Quincy's popular playgrounds a fun and safe place for Quincy's kids," said Michelle Lydon, QPIC Chairperson.

Local auctioneer Vincent Sullivan will put items up for bid including a week at an Orlando, Fla., condominium, Red Sox tickets, color television, scenic flight over Boston, bungee jumping, Boston Trolley Tours, whale watch cruises, health and fitness club memberships, tuxedo rentals, limousine service, gift certificates to fine restaurants and hair stylists and tanning salons, movie passes, fruit and floral arrangements, hotel get-aways and more.

"We are counting on contributions from Quincy businesses to make this auction a success and we're hopeful that the generosity of the local business community will inspire others to join in our efforts," Lydon said. "Any help or contribution, no matter how small, brings us one step closer to making this project a reality."

D. Scott Deware

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Perhaps the most satisfying statement a person can make is, "Mine has been a helpful life." In our everyday living there are so many ways to be helpful, one to another.

True helpfulness knows no social class nor recognizes no religious distinction. It also doesn't matter what the creed or nationality of a person may be ... Yes, true helpfulness is simply an opening of the heart to the needs of others, and doing the little things that mean so much ... An unknown author says it quite simply and beautifully:

I count that day as wisely spent .. in which I do some good... For someone who is far away ...Or where my neighborhood... A day devoted to the deed ... That lends a helping hand ... And demonstrates a willingness ... To care and understand ... I long to be of usefulness ... In little ways and large ... Without a selfish motive ...And without the slightest charge ... Because in my philosophy ... There never is a doubt ... That all of us here on earth ... Must help each other out ... I feel that a day is fruitful ... And the time is worth the while ... When I promote the happiness ... Of one enduring smile ...

Wouldn't today be a good day to reach out a helping hand to someone who is in trouble and sorrow or is filled with anxiety or fear and needs your help?

Yes, today may just be the very day! ...

Joseph E. MacBride, 66

Insurance Executive

A funeral Mass for Joseph E. MacBride, 66, of Quincy, was celebrated Monday in St. Ann's Church.

Mr. MacBride died March 26 at Carney Hospital in Dorchester.

An insurance executive, he was treasurer of the Boston office and regional controller for the East Coast for the Frank B. Hall Insurance Agency. He headed the firm's accounting operation until retiring in December 1990.

During World War II, he was a Navy yeoman second class and a gunner. He served on the destroyer USS Greene in the North Atlantic, spending a good deal of time hunting for German U-boats.

He also served in the South Pacific and later with occupation forces in Japan. His years in the Navy gave him an opportunity to visit Italy and France, which became his favorite sites.

Born in Quincy, he left North Quincy High School early to enlist in the Navy and after the war earned a business degree at Boston University.

He coached youth baseball teams for St. Ann's Church in Wollaston.

He is survived by his wife, Mary (Foran) MacBride, and a son, Joseph G. MacBride of San Francisco.

Burial was in Massachusetts National Cemetery, Bourne.

Thomas J. Mitchell, 81

Former MBTA Starter

A funeral Mass for Thomas J. Mitchell, 81, of Quincy, was celebrated March 27 in St. Ann's Church.

Mr. Mitchell died March 24 at home after a brief illness.

A starter for the Massachusetts Bay Transit Authority for 30 years and a member of the Carmen's Union, he retired from the MBTA in 1973.

He was past president of St. Ann's Senior Citizens group.

Born in Boston, he lived in Quincy 48 years.

Husband of the late Eleanor P. (Golden) Mitchell, he is survived two sons, Thomas J. Mitchell Jr. of Hanover and David E. Mitchell of Quincy; a daughter, Eleanor T. Sullivan of Quincy; a brother, Frank Mitchell of Plymouth; six grandchildren and a great-grandchild.

Burial was in Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

Funeral arrangements were by the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Edward R. Carmody Sr., 65

Former Brookline Fire Lieutenant

A funeral Mass for Edward R. Carmody Sr., 65, of Wollaston, a lieutenant with the Brookline Fire Department for 30 years before retiring in 1978, was celebrated Tuesday at St. Agatha's Church, Milton.

Mr. Carmody died unexpectedly March 25.

Born in Brookline, he lived in Wollaston 35 years.

A World War II veteran of the Marine Corps, he was a member of the John P. McKeown Am-vets Post of Dorchester, the Morrisette American Legion Post of Quincy, and the Rutlidge Post of Brookline.

He is survived by his wife, Claire (Lydon) Carmody; two sons, Edward R. Carmody Jr. and Robert E. Carmody, both of Quincy; a daughter, Margaret A. Augustine of Waltham; two brothers, James Carmody of Wellesley and John Carmody of California; two sisters, Jean Keane of West Roxbury and Betty Murphy of Roslindale; and two grandchildren.

Burial was in Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

Funeral arrangements were by the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St.

Donations may be made to the American Heart Association, 33 Fourth Ave., Needham, MA 02192.

Celia Russell Follis

First Church of Christ Scientist Reader

A memorial funeral service for Celia Russell (Joy) Follis of Quincy was held March 28 at the Deware Funeral Home, 576 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Mrs. Follis died March 23 in Chestnut Hill after a brief illness.

She was a reader and chairman of the executive board of First Church of Christ Scientist.

For many years she operated the former Stanley Winthrop Motion Picture library with her husband, George S. Follis.

She was an enthusiastic supporter of Principia College in Elsah, Ill., where she regularly attended summer sessions.

Born in Weymouth, she was a graduate of Weymouth High School and Burdett College.

She was also a member of First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston.

She is also survived by a daughter, Dr. Elaine R. Follis of Elsah, Ill.; and a brother, Harold W. Joy of Randolph.

Donations may be made to First Church of Christ, Scientist, 22 Greenleaf St., Quincy, MA 02169, or to Principia College, Elsah, Ill. 62028.

Phyllis T. McGillvary, 56

Clerk For VA Hospital

A funeral Mass for Phyllis T. (McEvoy) McGillivray, 56, of Quincy, was celebrated March 27 in St. Mark's Church, Dorchester.

Mrs. McGillivray died March 23 in Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston after a brief illness.

Born in Boston, she lived in Dorchester before moving to Quincy.

She is survived by her husband, Raymond J. McGillivray; four sons, Paul McGillivray of Saugus, Andrew McGillivray of Dorchester, Scott McGillivray of South Boston and Glenn McGillivray of Quincy, a member of the Boston Fire Department; three sisters, Madeline McSweeney of Attleboro, Bernice Hendrickson of Nevada and Corinne Marino of Quincy.

Partial Hospitalization Program Opens At Quincy Hospital

The program, like the inpatient unit already in place, places special emphasis on patients 55 and older.

"Since we opened our program in November of 1991, Quincy Heights at Quincy Hospital has dramatically expanded treatment options to older adults suffering from emotional and behavioral problems," said Ellen Zane, Director of the Hospital.

The program provides seniors, families and friends the opportunity to participate in an intensive weekday mental health program conducted in an outpatient setting. The program will run Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

"Patients remain active participants in their families, social networks, and the larger community while receiving comprehensive treatment for their physical problems," Accardi said.

Referrals can be made by physicians, health care professionals, employers, family members, friends or the individual by calling 773-9634.

Assessment of a person's condition is free and the services provided at Quincy Heights are covered in full by Medicare.

Emergency Shelter Management Course For Volunteers April 22

The American Red Cross and Quincy Emergency Management Agency will conduct a free emergency shelter management course for volunteers Wednesday, April 22 from 7 to 10 p.m. at the agency's headquarters, basement level of the Quincy Public Works Building, 55 Sea St.

Anyone interested in assisting the Red Cross and emergency management agencies in staffing shelters in emergencies should call the office at 617-376-1210.

Both agencies need trained personnel to staff emergency shelters whenever people are relocated because of fire, severe storms, power outages or other disastrous emergencies.

A certificate will be issued to those people who complete the three-hour course.

Quincy Opens At Falmouth

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Quincy baseball team is scheduled to open its season next Monday, April 6, at Falmouth and coach Bob Sylvia admits he is "very excited" about the squad.

"I am really excited about this group and feel sure we will vastly improve upon last year's frustrating (3-17) season," said Sylvia.

"We have several returnees from last year and, despite our youth (only four seniors, nine juniors and six sophomores), we have quite a bit of experience."

Leading the pitching corps are veterans Mike Malvesti and Steve Loud, who saw a lot of action last year. Junior John Russell will also pitch as well as playing first base as will junior Dewey Holmes. Mike Malvesti will also play first. Holmes is the only southpaw.

Junior Robbie Kane, one of the best in the Old Colony League, is back at second base and will be backed up by sophomore Steve Miller.

Last year, Sylvia expected to have one of the finest double play combinations in the league in Kane and Pat Gallagher, but Gallagher was declared ineligible and freshman Malvesti took over and did a good job.

This year Gallagher is back and gives the Presidents an outstanding double play combination. Tom Malvesti will back him up at shortstop.

Sylvia lost one of the league's top catchers in Tom Balzano and is depending upon two sophomores, John Gangi, last season's backup, and Erick Buckley to fill this important spot.

"I think our pitching will hold up and, although are catchers are young, they should be able to do the job," Sylvia said. "We will be strong defensively and I look for Kane, Gallagher and Loud, in particular, to hit well.

"I'll know a lot more when we get a chance to work outside and I don't know how the league will be. But, this is a strong league with Taunton, last year's champion, Bridgewater-Raynham, Falmouth and Barnstable always having fine teams.

"Also, North Quincy looks very strong this season."

After Monday's scheduled opener, Quincy will play at Barnstable on April 8 and will meet North Quincy at Adams Field on Friday, April 10.

In addition to its league games, Quincy will have home-and-home games with Dedham and home games against Boston Latin and South Boston.

In addition, Sylvia's longtime "right arm," George Peachy, is back and will handle several duties including scorer and statistician. He has also handled these chores for Sylvia's hockey team for many years. He is a member of Quincy's Hockey Hall of Fame.

"George is just terrific and I don't know what I would do without him," Sylvia said.

QUINCY'S Wayne Chambers will be a key man for the Hartford University baseball team this spring. The southpaw pitcher is coming off rehabilitation to fix an unstable shoulder that sidelined him for nearly all of last season. Coach Dan Gooley plans to use the former Quincy pitcher as a closer and spot starter. An all-scholastic at Quincy, he captained the baseball, golf and hockey teams.

Basketball

St. Joseph's Adds EMass. Championship

St. Joseph School basketball team of Quincy Point, which earlier won the South Shore title, defeated St. John's of Beverly, 52-39, to win the Eastern Mass. Parochial School championship.

St. Joseph's jumped off to an early seven-point lead at Xaverian Brothers High School and St. John's never threatened the rest of the way.

Capt. Sean Joyce paced St. Joseph's with 17 points, John-Michael Lopriore had 14, John Chagnon 11 and Paul Marnikovic eight. Dan Cellucci and Steve Carlson stood out defensively.

St. Joseph's started out with a 58-41 victory over St. Ann's of Somerville. Joyce again led the scoring with 16 points, Lopriore had 12 and Marnikovic and Chagnon 11 each. Jason Chagnon spelled Cellucci at point guard and had six assists.

St. Joseph's jumped out to an early lead but St. Agnes came storming back with a late rally. Lopriore had 13 points and Joyce and Marnikovic 11 each. Carmen Lorenzano and John Chagnon played strong defense.

St. Joseph's will travel to Providence for the New England Regionals April 10, 11 and 12.

Snug Harbor, Atlantic Advance In Senior Tourney

Snug Harbor defeated Point, 51-36, and Atlantic advanced past Merrymount, 48-35, in the senior division of the Quincy Recreation Department All-City Basketball Tournament.

Coach Mike Norton's Snug Harbor team was led by Brian Fitzgerald's outstanding defense and Joe Manton's 17 points. Sam Brown scored 16, Erik Kenney nine, Fitzgerald had five, Pete Orseno three, Steve Orseno two and Shawn MacDonald one.

Coach Joe MacDonald's Point squad used a variety of defenses to keep it a two-point game at halftime. Jayson Presente scored 12 points, Ivan McNulty nine, John Fraser six, Don Gross four, Anthony Spadorcia three and Eddie Pettinelli two. Andrew Smith was the top rebounder and Kevin Hutchins made two first-half steals to keep Point close.

In another quarterfinal game, coach George Dunn's Atlantic team used its height advantage to defeat coach Brian Buckley's Merrymount squad.

Shawn Warren netted 12 points, Eric Zimmerman 11, Timmy Hannon 10. Steve Manning seven (including a three-pointer), Jeff Jones four, Steve Ragne and Matt Doyle two each. Adam DeBoer played outstanding defense and Mark Sinclair led Atlantic in assists.

Merrymount's Dan Donovan led all scorers with 16, Jason Fennessey and Jim Lencki had six each, Greg Shea four and J.J. Borden two. Mark Miner led the defense and Greg Stepkovich had several key rebounds.

$50,000 For Jobs Training At Shipyard

Lt. Gov. A. Paul Cellucci recently designated approximately $50,000 in training funds to A.K. Engineering, located in the Quincy Fore River Shipyard and Ironworks.

A.K. Engineering is one of approximately 15 companies selected to receive monies made available through the state's new Tactical Training Initiative (TTI).

The announcement was made at the Department of Employment and Training's (D.E.T) Quincy Opportunity Job Center, 50 Ross Way. Joining Cellucci at the event were Arthur Flaherty, owner of A.K. Engineering; Mayor James Sheets, Sen. Paul Harold, Michael Yunits, chairman of the South Coastal Regional Employment Board; Paul Ricci, director of the South Coastal Service Delivery Area; and Jane Tuohy, director of business development for the Department of Employment and Training.

A governor's program created for business development, TTI is designed to promote workforce expansion in Massachusetts. It designates up to $50,000 per employer to finance skills upgrading and development training for new hires or current employees.

A total of 56 companies applied for the $1.1 million available in the FY92 training reserve fund. Of that total, approximately 15 companies were selected to receive funding.

TTI training reserve funds are provided through the education and training budgets of the D.E.T., the Industrial Services Program and the Bay State Skills Corporation, and are administered through D.E.T. Local oversight of the initiative is provided by the 15 regional employment boards across the state.

A.K. Engineering was among the interested local companies that submitted a short standard form to the Department of Employment and Training TTI office. D.E.T. reviewed the two-page form for basic compliance and then forwarded it to the local regional employment board. In Quincy, that board is the South Coastal Career Development Administration.

If it approves the application, South Coastal consults with the company that applied for the grant, in this case A.K. Engineering, and jointly develop a Request for Proposal (RFP) which will meet their training needs.

South Coastal then issues the RFP and subsequently reviews the proposals, selects the vendor and writes the contract for the final approval and sign off by the mayor.

Those eligible to apply for the TTI funds are Massachusetts companies prepared for expansion, overseas investors ready to invest in businesses in the state and new businesses starting up in Massachusetts. To bid for these resources, a company must demonstrate that any training programs proposed will result in additional employment opportunities, including a minimum of five jobs and positions that pay at least $7 an hour and provide benefits.

All funding for FY92 has been reserved. However, companies may apply for FY93 funding beginning in May.

In operation since 1988, A.K. Engineering has earned $10 million in business per year. With 65 permanent large steel fabricators, machinists and ship repairers currently working at the plant, this firm is looking to hire up to 50 new first class inside machinists at a wage of $12.77 per hour.

TTI funds will not be given directly to companies but will be provided through local service delivery areas to vendors selected from bidding processes.

Skills programs will operate between one and nine months and may be provided on-site at a company, at a local community college or on the premises of established training vendors.

Registration Underway For Lifeguard Training Course

The Quincy Recreation Department has begun conducting registration for an American Red Cross Lifeguard Training Course weeknights from 6 to 9 p.m. at the Lincoln-Hancock School Pool, announces Recreation Director Barry Welch.

The course is open to persons who are at least 15 years of age, who have current First Aid and C.P.R. certification and are capable of passing a prerequisite swim test.

The course will be held Wednesday and Friday evenings beginning Friday, April 10 at 7 p.m. The successful completion of this course along with a completed First Aid and C.P.R. course will qualify participants for positions as lifeguards at waterfront or pool locations.

This will be the last class sponsored by the Quincy Recreation Department before the summer season.

Course fee is $10 for Quincy residents who have a current pool membership. Non-resident fee is $50. Both groups are responsible for purchasing their own text book from the Red Cross.

For more information, call the Quincy Recreation Department at 376-1394.

Peter O'Connell Honored For Establishing Marina Memorial Clock Tower

By JOHN NOONAN

The Vietnam Combat Veterans of Quincy honored Peter F. O'Connell, a prominent Quincy businessman and developer, for his tireless efforts in establishing the Marina Bay Clock Tower as a memorial for those men and women who served in the Vietnam War.

The tower was dedicated Oct. 16, 1988 by local, state and national government and military officials including Retired Gen. William Westmoreland, U.S. Army and former Chief of Staff during the Vietnam War who was guest of honor.

Through the dedicated efforts of Peter O'Connell and the Boston Marina Company, the Marina Bay Memorial Clock Tower has become one of the most significant memorials in Massachusetts.

In addition, Marina Bay as well as numerous veterans organizations of various wars, have given hours of their time to instill an ongoing tribute to those men and women who served and died in the Vietnam War.

The 85-foot high tower, made of brick and granite with a gold leaf cupola, has become a significant backdrop for the Marina Bay and Boston skylines. The memorial features a working clock and clarion. A tableau contains the names of Quincy veterans who were killed or missing in action during the Vietnam War.

In his remarks, Sheets paid tribute to the men and women of the United States and particularly to those from Quincy who served their country in an unpopular war.

"Peter O'Connell is a special man," said Sheets," for he deals not only in bricks, mortar and steel in the construction of buildings but he also leaves behind something of himself, a love and understanding which makes those projects more beautiful."

In presenting the replica of the Vietnam Service Medal to O'Connell, Brooker said he honor was bestowed, "in recognition of his tireless efforts in establishing the memorial clock tower in behalf of the Vietnam Veterans of Quincy."

Guest speaker Sgt. Major Michael Hurley of the South Weymouth Naval Air Station said it was difficult what the words, duty, honor and country mean because each individual attaches their own meaning to those words.

He said it is difficult to express in words what, the brave men and women who gave their lives, did in Vietnam and exactly what contributions these individuals may have given to Quincy had they lived.

"I feel anger that these young men and women were never properly honored by our nation for many years after their death. The loss of life is tragic but the loss of a country's respect for these young men and women is even more tragic," said Hurley, a Vietnam War veteran.

"These men and women however sacrificed their lives willingly for the honor and duty to serve their country," he added.

Fr. William McCarthy, pastor of St. John's Church, gave the invocation and benediction.

Local veterans posts, Legion, VFW and Marine organizations and auxiliaries provided details for color guards. A wreath was placed at the Vietnam Memorial by Sheets and Hurley.

Also attending the ceremony were state representatives, city councillors and friends and relatives of Vietnam Veterans remembered. A roll call of the veterans was read by Joe Brooker and John Barber.

At T Station Restaurant

Board Clamps Down On Drug 'Hangout'

By STEVE KAVANAGH

A 'hangout' for drug abusers and loiterers has been targeted for action by the Quincy License Board.

George and Gail Tsolirides wanted to open a coffee and sandwich shop, the Express Coffee Shop, at the Quincy Center MBTA Station. But there request has been derailed.

A history of drug dealers and drug users loitering at the site has prompted the License Board to put conditions on the site which make it undesirable to the Tsolirides.

Next week the board will hold a hearing to determine whether the present occupant, The Orient Express, a Chinese restaurant, should have its Common Victualer license revoked.

George Tsolirides, and his attorney Thomas Largey, withdrew the request Tuesday for a transfer of the CV license from Grace Eng, proprietor of the Orient Express.

That action came after the board approved the transfer with the stipulation that the new business not include any seating.

Tsolirides wanted an 18-seat operation which would feature coffee, pastries and sandwiches. The Orient Express has 40 seats.

"I don't think it's reasonable to expect people waiting for a train or bus to take their food and eat it somewhere else," Largey said.

Quincy Police Officer Donald Pearson and MBTA Police Detective Mark Gillespie told the board that the restaurant is a "hang out" for "undesirables" including drug dealers, drug users, truants and gangs. Pearson has walked the beat in Quincy Center for many years and Gillespie duties have focused on Quincy Center for the past eight years.

"It's a nuisance and a trouble area. Undesirables gather there for several hours," Pearson said. He explained that police can control loitering in and around the T Station but once gangs go into the restaurant police are powerless unless they get a call from the restaurant.

"There is a particular group that we strongly believe sells drugs there

For Medical Expenses

Gorman Seeks $30,000 For Injured Firefighters

Fire Chief Thomas Gorman has asked the City Council for $30,000 to pay medical expenses for injured firefighters.

Gorman told the Council that when a firefighter is injured on the job the department pays his salary while he is out and must also pay for medical expenses related to the injury.

Gorman said an increase in treatment of individual cases drives up the cost to the city.

"It seems like once the doctors get a hold of a city employee they'll send them to therapy for God knows how long," Gorman said. The Chief told the Council that injuries are handled differently then in the past. He said injured workers will see a doctor, have an MRI (special x-ray) done, be referred to specialists, go to therapy, etc.

"I understand that the doctors are covering themselves too," Gorman said. "These days with malpractice suits, they don't want to send a man back to work who is not 100%."

Quincy is not alone in feeling effects of this trend, Gorman said. "I've talked to other fire and police chiefs and everyone's having the same problem."

City Auditor Robert Foy told the board that the $30,000 which was budgeted for Fire Department sick leave has already been spent as well as more than $23,000 which was transferred from other areas of the Fire Dept. budget to cover sick leave and medical costs.

Gorman said his request of an additional $30,000 would be for $22,000 of money currently owed and another $8,000 he anticipates will be needed through the end of the fiscal year June 30.

Quincy firefighters (and police) are not covered by workmen's compensation as other city employees are. Money comes out of the department budget to pay salaries and medical costs of injured employees.

Because the situation is unique and some City Councillors were not aware of it the Council voted to refer the request to the Finance Committee for further study and discussion.

Councillor-at-Large Michael Cheney asked Gorman if the increased medical costs could also be attributed to increased injuries caused by lack of manpower.

"If manpower goes down, injuries go up," Gorman said. He also noted that because of the department manpower shortage he has less young firefighters and older men are more injury prone.

Ban Lifted On Pitchers Of Beer

Bar owners don't have to pack their idle beer pitchers in moth balls. The License Board overturned its own ruling last week to ban the pitchers.

The board voted unanimously to allow pitchers of beer to be served in Quincy bars and restaurants provided patrons also order food.

"We got a glut of calls (opposing the ban on pitchers)," said Board Chairman John Gillis. "People want to have a pitcher of beer with their food."

The ban was initiated by Gillis who also introduced this week's action. The board originally outlawed the pitchers to help prevent over-consumption of alcohol.

Gillis told fellow board members his office was flooded with phone calls last week by people complaining about the ban.

"If people are having a meal I don't see anything wrong with it," Gillis said. "But we don't want a guy just drinking a pitcher of beer by itself."

Gillis also said the two-person per pitcher minimum would also be back in effect.

Patrick Conroy State Rep. Candidate

North Quincy resident Patrick Conroy announces he is running for state representative in the First Norfolk District as an unenrolled candidate.

Conroy said he is not aligned with either the Democratic, Republican or the new Independent Voters Party. His name will appear on the general election ballot in November.

"Human beings generally hate change," Conroy said, "but I believe my neighbors will support my efforts to fundamentally improve the efficiency of state government, and the responsiveness of elected officials to the needs of working people."

Pledging to campaign at the front doors of the residents of North Quincy, Wollaston, Montclair and Squantum, he said, "I have a strong base of experience, a solid education, and a strong opinion that government should advance the public interest rather than cater to special interests."

PATRICK CONROY

A registered nurse and a former high school teacher, Conroy received an M.B.A. from Babson College and a B.S. from the University of Massachusetts at Amherst. He passed the CPA exam last year.

If elected, Conroy said his first priority is to "disarm the children. The public's right to safety is much more important than any theoretical rights of the children. We must enable the police to seize illegal guns and knives from children, without fear of lawsuits. Whenever a judge interprets the law against the public interest, I'll be there with legislation that can't be misinterpreted."

Conroy, who said he endorses six political reforms.

He supports the elimination of public pensions for elected officials and the elimination of "premium pay" for legislators. To prevent "lame ducks," he favors allowing winning candidates to take office in November, not January, immediately after the election is certified.

In addition, Conroy said he supports limiting campaign contributions to $100 per person annually and prohibiting contributions by political action committees.

Finally, the candidate said he wants to move the deadline for submitting nomination papers from April to August.

In the coming months, Conroy said he will offer specific proposals for public education, public safety, public charity programs, the criminal injustice system, and the "Authorities." He said he would "oppose any effort of the government to interfere in the reproductive decisions of women."

Chretien Candidate For State Representative

Ward 3 Councillor Larry Chretien announces he is a Democratic candidate for state representative in the First Norfolk District.

"Although we face a wide range of problems and opportunities today, I will focus my campaign on three things: improving the state and local economy, making the state a real partner in education, and protecting the environment. These are the most important challenges facing our district," Chretien said.

The seat is presently held by Michael Morrissey who is running for State Senate. The district comprises Squantum, North Quincy, Montclair, part of West Quincy, and most of Wollaston. Specifically, the district consists of Ward 3 Precincts 3, 4 and 5; Ward 5 Precincts 2, 4, 5; all of Ward 6 and Ward 4 Precinct 3.

Chretien, 30, is a lifelong resident of Quincy. He was born on Rawson Road and raised at 51 North Central Ave. In 1979, he graduated from North Quincy High School.

LARRY CHRETIEN

In 1983, Chretien received a bachelor's degree in resource management from the State University of New York College of Environmental Science and Forestry in affiliation with Syracuse University.

From 1984 to 1988, he worked as a legislative aide to former State Rep. Thomas Brownell. In 1989, Chretien received a master's degree in Economic Policy from Northeastern University.

During the past three years, he has worked in the private sector in various capacities. He is currently employed as the director of energy conservation for Quincy Community Action Programs, Inc., a non-profit corporation.

Chretien, who is serving his third term as Ward 3 city councillor, pointed out several accomplishments and highlights since he was first elected in 1987. He has been leader in starting Quincy's recycling program and has worked toward traffic improvements throughout his ward. In addition, Chretien said he has been a strong advocate for education and public safety while stressing to maintain the city's sound fiscal condition.

"Throughout this campaign, I will be going door-to-door and asking the voters of the First Norfolk District to look at my qualifications, my record on the City Council, and my proposals for improving economic conditions and the quality of life here in Quincy and in Massachusetts.

"I look forward to meeting as many voters as possible. In the meantime, voters who have any questions should feel free to call my home at 472-1400," Chretien said.

Morrissey Announces Bid For State Senator

MICHAEL MORRISSEY

State Rep. Michael Morrissey (D-Quincy) announces his candidacy for the State Senate Norfolk District seat. The senate district includes the City of Quincy, and towns of Braintree, Holbrook and Avon.

Morrissey has served on six different legislative committees, including chairman of the Committee on Counties and Committee on Public Safety.

An outspoken advocate of open, visible and responsive state government, Morrissey has aggressively represented the interests of his constituents on issues that affect their quality of life. He was part of the successful movement to unseat the Speaker of the House and institute changes to open up the legislative process.

Morrissey was removed from his position as committee chairman because of his open defiance of the House leadership's position on balancing the budget by raising taxes. "Despite the political consequences, I have not been afraid to take a stand on tough, controversial issues--issues that affect the people I represent."

Morrissey is a vocal opponent of the spending and rate increases of the MWRA. He is a leader in the fight to relocate the MWRA executive offices to the Quincy shipyard and is one of the first legislators to call for legislation that would mandate the MWRA receive approval from the Department of Public Utilities before it can raise rates. Morrissey said this is only right, and that all other public utilities must receive approval from the DPU before raising rates. "Controlling MWRA spending and rates must be a top priority," he said.

"The Senate position," Morrissey said, "offers a chance to use my legislative skills and knowledge to get involved in more issues on a regional basis." He has fought the proposed Clean Harbors incinerator in East Braintree, Boston's plan to build a jail on Moon Island in Quincy, and the construction of a sewage plant in Quincy on Long Island. "The fight is not over yet.

"Regional and local issues must remain a priority. We must continue to fight those who would remove local control and oversight of companies which handle and produce hazardous waste. The town of Holbrook is facing new challenges with the Baird and McGuire superfund site which must be addressed."

Morrissey said his knowledge of the legislative process, state administration, and his advocacy history establishes him as an outspoken advocate for the people of the Norfolk Senate district.

Morrissey pledged the focus of his campaign will be on those issues that affect the quality of life for those people of the Norfolk district. He said during the campaign he hopes to personally meet and share with the people of the district his ideas on economic development, job creation, public education reform, the criminal justice system and the MWRA.

Morrissey is married to the former Joanne Ross. He and his wife live in Quincy with their two children, Colby, age 6, and James, age 4.

North Quincy Pub Liquor License Suspended Two Days

By STEVE KAVANAGH

Kelly's Pub & Grub, 21-27 Billings Road, North Quincy, has had its liquor license suspended for two days for allegedly serving intoxicated persons.

The Quincy License Board voted 4-1 for the penalty following a hearing Tuesday.

"We have to get the word out that this board will not tolerate serving intoxicated persons," said Fire Chief Thomas Gorman.

If owner Peter Kelly does not appeal the suspension to the state Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission within 10 days the License Board will then set the dates of the suspension.

Quincy Police Sgt. Robert Crowley told the board that on the evening of March 20 he observed four young men, who in his opinion were intoxicated, being served mixed drinks and beer.

Crowley, who was working a paid detail at the bar, said this happened at about midnight and that the four had arrived at about 9:30. Crowley said, in his opinion, the sobriety of the four men was "questionable" when they first entered Kelly's.

Det. Sgt. Richard Laracy, the city's liquor inspector, arrived at the bar at about 11 p.m. and spoke with Crowley who told Laracy he was concerned that the bar staff was over-serving patrons.

Laracy then met with the staff in the kitchen and warned them about serving patrons who appeared to be intoxicated.

Laracy wrote in his report that, in his opinion, that the two barmaids were not paying attention to how much alcohol they were serving patrons.

Police Chief Francis Mullen told Kelly and

'Snowless Winter' Saves City $85,000

This year's mild winter resulted in left over money for snow and ice removal which DPW Commissioner David Colton wants to use to offset the unforeseen expenses caused by Hurricane Bob and the even costlier "no-name" storm at the end of October.

Monday night the City Council approved the transfer of $85,000 from the Department of Public Works snow and ice removal budget to the DPW's sewer-water-drain current expense budget.

Colton told the Council the money would be used to replenish the sewer budget for day-to-day maintenance.

"The two major storms chewed up in excess of $250,000 from the Public Works budget," Colton said.

"We have about $130,000 in the snow and ice account," Colton said. "By leaving $45,000 that should cover us in the event of a freak storm between now and the end of the fiscal year (June 30)."

Safety Saturday At Quincy Hospital

Quincy Hospital will conduct a hands-on safety activities clinic called Safety Saturday on April 25 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The program is designed to be fun, as well as educational, for kids between the ages of 4 and 14 and their parents. It is designed to instruct youngsters in how to handle emergency situations, such as how to call the police or paramedics in an emergency and what to do if a fire started in the kitchen and they were home alone.

The morning will include activities presented by members of the Quincy Hospital nursing and medical staff, as well as members of the Quincy Police and Fire Departments. Workshops include personal safety, fire safety and first aide, for children of all ages and CPR, substance abuse and safe babysitting, healthy eating and poison prevention.

The program is free. For more information, call the Quincy Hospital public relations Department at 773-6100 ext. 4016.

Mariano Named To Banking Committee

House Speaker Charles Flaherty has appointed Rep. Ronald Mariano (D-Quincy), to serve on the Committee on Banks and Banking.

The Banks and Banking Committee oversees banks, banking institutions, credit unions, small loans and consumer credit. Hundreds of important bills relating to the banking industry are heard by this committee annually. Last year, this committee was responsible for producing legislation aimed at cracking down on second mortgage loan

GOOD NEWS ABOUT LEAD EXPOSURE

Recent years have been marked by increasing alarm about lead contamination in children. Once thought to be a problem of poverty-ridden inner cities, lead contamination has been documented in affluent rural and suburban communities as well. Lead continues to be a major area of concern for all children, but a study published by the American Academy of Pediatrics has reported that growth deficiencies in children exposed to moderate levels before birth or as babies may be temporary. When the lead exposure is reduced, growth that was being stunted can recoup to nearly normal levels. The study pointed out that, in addition to growth in stature, lead affects growth of the central nervous system and immune system.

P.S. High levels of lead in the blood and urine have also been linked to hyperactivity in children.

If you suspect that your child has been exposed to lead, bring him or her in to your doctor to be tested for lead levels in the blood. If you would like to learn more, call

Harold On The Move

Paul Harold isn't letting any grass grow under his feet in his bid for the 11th Congressional seat being vacated by Brian Donnelly.

Harold, who is giving up his State Senate seat to make the run, has already collected over 2,000 names on his nomination papers and plans to double that number for good measure.

HAROLD

He has won the endorsement of the Holbrook Democratic Committee. And he has the support of Paul Studenski, former Brockton mayor who is now chairman of the Brockton City Committee. He also has a majority of the Brockton City Council in his camp.

A full-page ad in last week's Quincy Sun triggered a flow of campaign donations.

He also has a campaign brunch set for Sunday, May 3 from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Bryan VFW Post, Broad St., Quincy. Tickets are $10.

MEANWHILE, Norfolk County Dist. Atty. William Delahunt is telling friends he is running for the Congressional seat. He reportedly has a big fundraiser in the works for sometime in May.

DELAHUNT

Delahunt lives in North Quincy. His entrance into the race would mean two Quincy candidates slicing up Quincy votes.

But Harold, who was the first to jump in, says no other Quincy candidate or any other candidate for that matter, will change his mind. He's in to stay and ready for an all-out campaign.

THREE LONG TIME familiar Quincy Police Department figures will be honored at the 12th annual Retirement Party Thursday, May 14.

The trio—with a combined service of 109 years: Captain Paul Nestor (36 years); Sgt. Denis Cronin (36 years) and Detective Robert Bird (37 years).

The event will be held at Morrisette Legion Post with a social starting at 6:30 p.m. and dinner at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $20 and may be obtained by calling Nancy Griffin in the chief's office, 479-1212.

Former Senator George McGovern of South Dakota, the Democratic Presidential nominee in 1972, will be in Quincy Tuesday, April 14 to speak at the Business Forum at Eastern Nazarene College. The event will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Mann Student Center Auditorium.

MORRISSEY

Morrissey attended a recent benefit auction for Cerebral Palsy at the Braintree Sons of Italy and won a half-priced rental of the Golden Lion Suite donated by the Quincy Sons of Italy.

He says he will use the rental for either his campaign kick-off, another campaign function—or "a victory party in November."

SUGGESTION DEPT.: As part of Quincy's bicentennial celebration, Fr. John McMahon, former pastor of St. Mary's Church, West Quincy, would like to see a Concelebrated Mass as one of the events. He suggests it be held during Quincy's tie-in with Sail Boston July 10-16. And, of course, he would like to have the Mass at St. Mary's, the first Catholic church on the South Shore.

DID YOU KNOW where and what Hoffs Thumb is?

Senator Paul Harold, attending an antique map exhibition at the Boston Athhenaeum (opposite the State House) found the names of Quincy locations have changed somewhat since 1707.

Back then, for example, present Houghs Neck was known as Hoffs Thumb. Fore River was labeled "the river to Bantry" (Braintree). Black's Creek was Quinzies Creek. Neponsent River was Milton River. And Peddock's Island was Pettick's Isle.

Water Pressure May Drop During MWRA Meter Upgrading

The MWRA waterworks division will continue its meter modernization program tonight (Thursday) and early Friday morning, announces Sheila McGann of the Authority's public affairs office.

Between 9 p.m. Thursday and 5 a.m. Friday, the MWRA will be upgrading some of its meters in four areas in Quincy. The work could result in reduced water pressure in these areas:

- Adams St. at Beale St.
- Beale St. at Summit Ave.
- Furnace Brook Parkway at Copeland St.
- West Squantum St. at Amsterdam Ave.

In order to upgrade the meters, the Authority will shut down one of two 24-inch parallel water main pipes in the affected areas. McGann said only one of the water mains will be shut down, not both of them. As a result, there could be a drop in water pressure during that eight-hour period.

Concert Raises Over $1,000 For MDA

The Muscular Dystrophy Association recently held a benefit concert at the Outer Limits Club at the Quincy Bay Inn, raising more than $1,000 to help find the cure for 40 neuromuscular disease that affect more than one million Americans.

Sponsored by Papa Gino's of Quincy, the event featured local bands including Fez Henry, Clutch Grabwell, Ripe, Rare Form and Marc Cutler (formerly of the Raindogs).

City To Conduct Rabies Immunization Clinic May 2

The Quincy Health Department will hold its annual Rabies Immunization Clinic Saturday, May 2 from noon to 3 p.m. at the Quincy Animal Shelter, 56 Broad St., behind the George F. Bryan VFW Post and Father Bill's Place.

The clinic will be held, rain or shine, and is offered at the minimal cost of $8 for each dog and $4 for each cat. The health department strongly encourages pet owners to have their pets immunized against this serious disease.

Rabies is a viral disease transmitted mainly to dogs and cats through bite wounds from wildlife such as bats, skunks, foxes and raccoons. The disease is extremely rare in humans and has been fairly uncommon among animals in this part of the country. Less than a dozen rabid animals per year on average are discovered through analysis at the State Rabies Laboratory.

Tests revealed that in the last fews year, all but one of the infected animals were bats. However, an outbreak of wildlife rabies among raccoons is expected to reach Massachusetts this year.

Even though the disease is rare, once contracted, rabies is usually a fatal disease. Preventive measures, including the following, should be taken:

•Up-to-date rabies vaccinations for dogs and cats. By law, dogs are required to be vaccinated. Cats are not required by law to be vaccinated, but it is strongly advised, since they are hunters by nature and are therefore more likely to come in contact with wild animals which are at higher risk for rabies.

•Avoid any animal (domestic or wild) which behaves oddly, appears sick or injured, or appears unusually friendly. Reports of odd behavior should be reported to the animal control officer and/or health department.

•Avoid keeping skunks, raccoons or any other wildlife as pets, as no rabies vaccine exists for these wildlife species.

•Discourage wild animals from your property by eliminating sources of food and harborage. Hire a professional exterminator to safely remove any nesting bats from your home.

•Avoid touching dead, sick or injured animals. If you must, wear heavy gloves and use sticks or other objects to move the animals.

•If you are bitten or scratched by an unfamiliar animal, do not try to figure out if the animal is rabid. Immediately wash the wound with soap and water. Then contact your physician, at once, to decide if rabies treatment will be necessary.

For more information, contact the Division of Communicable Disease Control of the Massachusetts Department of Public Health at 522-3700 ext 420 and/or the Quincy Health Department at 376-1270.

MWRA Placing New Signs For Truck Route

A series of new "MWRA Truck Route" signs have been placed along Routes 18 and 53 to assist truckers in using designated truck routes to the MWRA's Fore River Staging Area.

A new sign on Route 3 southbound will be placed next week. The sign will be located 1000 feet north of Exit 16 and will read: "MWRA Truck Route, Use Exit 16A."

MWRA Executive Director Douglas MacDonald said the signs are a response to the concern expressed by members of the Fore River Staging Task Force, representing officials and citizens of Quincy, Braintree and Weymouth.

"It is important that all Boston Harbor Project contractors, subcontractors and their truckers use the designated state and local routes agreed to by the MWRA and the Task Force," MacDonald said.

Quincy To Observe National Building Safety Week

The city of Quincy will join units of state and local governments across America observing National Building Safety Week April 12-18, announces Building Inspector Matthias J. Mulvey.

Building Safety Week began in 1980 to publicize the importance of construction codes and their administration by units of government. National Building Safety Week has also heightened recognition of the role professional code officials play in assuring safe construction of buildings of various types and sizes.

"The importance of construction codes and their enforcement is often overlooked until some great fire or other construction related tragedy occurs and shocks peoples' consciousness," Mulvey said.

Last year, the Quincy Building Department reviewed building plans and inspected construction for 1,558 construction projects in the city.

National Building Safety Week this year is endorsed by such organizations as Building Officials and Code Administration (BOCA) International, the Council of America Building Officials (CABO) and the National Conference of States on Building Codes and Standards (NCSBCS).

Quincy is a member of BOCA International. Founded in 1915, BOCA is the nation's largest original professional association of construction code officials.

The Quincy Building Department is available to Quincy citizens for assistance or instruction regarding building permits, code interpretation, zoning questions, flood plain information or any other inquiries related to construction in Quincy.

ARTS/ENTERTAINMENT

ATLANTIC MIDDLE SCHOOL students rehearsing for their upcoming musical production, "Singing In The Rain." The show will be performed for the public Monday, April 13 and Wednesday, April 15 at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $3 and can be obtained by calling the school at 984-8727.

'Singing In The Rain' Musical At Atlantic Middle School

Atlantic Middle School will perform its annual school play for the public Monday, April 13 and Wednesday, April 15 at 7:30 p.m. in the school auditorium.

"Singing In The Rain," is a toe-tapping musical with fascinating characters and several promising Donald O'Connor types that dance their way through the show.

Unlike most musicals, "Singing In The Rain," was made as a movie before it ever became a stage show. Set in the 1920s, the play gives insight into the many problems that had to be overcome in order to make the successful transition from silent film to talking pictures.

The "Atlantic Players" bring a quality of freshness to the stage with this musical that is tuneful, tasteful and truly entertaining. The students have prepared over the past three months for the play.

Tickets may be obtained for $3 before April 13 at the Atlantic Middle School, 86 Hollis Ave., North Quincy. For more information, call the school between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. Monday through Friday at 984-8727.

AWHS Presents 'Godspell' April 10, 11

Archbishop Williams High School students will perform the musical "Godspell" Friday and Saturday, April 10 and 11 at 8 p.m. at the school auditorium, 80 Independence Ave., Braintree.

Tickets are $5 adults, $3 students (under 18) and senior citizens. The auditorium is handicapped accessible. For information call 843-3636.

Spring Vacation Camp At Beechwood Center

Enrollment is underway for Beechwood Community Life Center's Spring Vacation Camp for children in grades 1-5.

"Spring Camp and all Spring classes are expanding this year," said Sharron Beals, director.

"Many working parents told us they aren't planning vacations during the school break this year, so Beechwood's Full-Day Vacation Camp was designed so that children may have a creative and fun-filled school vacation, even if parents are working," she said.

Enrollment is limited. For information call 471-5712.

Quincy Art Assn. Meets April 14

There will be six-week classes for adults in oil painting, watercolor, portraiture, calligraphy, and oriental rug making. One-day workshops will be conducted in watercolor and oils.

Trip To Restaurant April 14

The Houghs Neck Community Council will run a trip to the Hilltop Restaurant in Braintree on Tuesday, April 14 at 10:30 a.m.

The Center will also pick up passengers at O'Brien Towers at 10:45 a.m. Return time will be about 1:30 p.m. There will be ample time to shop at the Hilltop Store after lunch.

Fee for bus is $4. Participants will choose and pay for their own lunch.

Meeting On Flooding Problems April 13

A community meeting will be held Monday, April 13 from 7 to 9 p.m. in the second floor conference room of City Hall regarding possible solutions to the flooding problems in the Squantum, Houghs Neck and Germantown areas.

This will be an informational meeting for the public explaining the city's flood plan ordinances and regulations.

There will be representatives at the meeting from Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), and Department of Environmental Management (DEM) as well as Councillors Bruce Ayers and Peter Kolson.

All residents living in flood prone areas are urged to attend to gain information on how to alleviate future flooding problems.

Fire Chief To Address Ward 4 Assn. April 14

Fire Chief Thomas Gorman will be the guest speaker at the next meeting of the South and West Quincy Ward 4 Neighborhood Association Tuesday, April 14 at 7 p.m. at the Faith Lutheran Center, 65 Roberts St., South Quincy.

Updated information on the soon-to-be-demolished Lincoln School and the area community center will be discussed.

Keeping with Mayor James Sheets "Cleaner, Greener" effort, the association's drive to clean-up the Brook Rd. and Liberty St. area is beginning to show results.

Guest speakers scheduled for future meetings are Sheets on May 12 and Norfolk County Sheriff Clifford Marshall June 9.

'OUR TOWN'--Emily Brewster, Jeff Gibson and Dean Boshart, rear, perform a scene from Eastern Nazarene College's production of "Our Town." Performances will be April 9, 10 and 11 at 7 p.m. at the Cove Auditorium. Tickets are $5 at the box office.

Republican Committee To Meet April 17

The Quincy Republican City Committee will hold an organizational meeting Friday, April 17 at 7 p.m. at United First Parish Church, 1306 Hancock St. across from City Hall.

There are openings on the Ward Committees. Any Quincy resident registered as a Republican wishing to serve on his ward committee is encouraged to attend. Those registered as a Republican can be voted into their ward committee that evening, within the limits of the ward size set in 1991 with the Secretary of State's Office.

Frank McCauley, our newly-elected State Committeeman and Kathryn Roberts, our re-elected State Committeewoman, will attend.

Republican candidates in the upcoming election will speak after the ward meetings.

Republicans are urged to attend and become an active participant.

Call 1-800-852-5900 and one of your local plumbers/heating contractors listed below.

All it takes is two phone calls. And if you already have gas service to your home, you only need to make one call to a local contractor. That's it.

And you'll have an efficient, clean, natural gas heating system that comes with a number of important advantages. Like the fact that gas prices tend to stay steady year after year. With fewer moving parts, there's less maintenance, too. And unlike other fossil fuels, natural gas is piped directly into your home so there are no storage or delivery problems, either.

Get our Home Heating Service Plan. Free.

Switch to a gas heating system before October 31, 1992 and we'll give you a Boston Gas Home Heating Service Plan for 3 full years. Free. And you'll have an even greater measure of dependability with your equipment.

So if you're thinking about a new heating system or want more information about our programs, give us a call. And we'll connect you with natural gas directly.

Quincy Hospital Board Re-elects Officers

The Quincy Hospital Board of Managers recently re-elected its officers for 1992. David MacIntosh was re-elected chairman; Daniel Dunn, vice chairman and Gertrude "Trudy" Buckley, secretary.

MacIntosh previously served as chairman of the board in 1991 and from 1987-89 and 1977-79. Originally appointed to the board in 1976, he was reappointed in 1981 and in 1986 by former Mayor Francis McCauley, which makes MacIntosh the board's senior member. In addition to a number of committee assignments, MacIntosh was also vice chairman and secretary of the board.

A graduate of Harvard University, MacIntosh is retired as the purchasing manager of Armstrong World Industries in Braintree. Active in the community, he serves as chairman of the South Shore Cooperative Bank Board of Directors and is a member of the Harvard Club of Quincy and the Rural Lodge of Masons of Quincy. He is a past president of the Harvard Club of Quincy, and from 1986 through 1989 served as regional director of Southeastern New England for the Harvard Alumni Association. His other community activities have included Boy Scouts of America and children's baseball leagues.

Dunn, appointed to the board in 1988 by McCauley, has served on several committees. A senior registered nurse at the Veterans Administration Medical Center in West Roxbury, he is familiar with the challenges facing health care environment. He is a member of the Boston Chapter of the Emergency Department Nurse Association and past member of the Boston Chapter of the American Association Critical Care Nurses. Dunn is also a member of the Quincy Lions Club.

Dunn received a B.A. in history and a B.S. in nursing from Wichita State University in Kansas. He also did some post-graduate work in public administration at Suffolk University.

Buckley served as secretary in 1991 and as chairperson of the Board of Managers in 1989 and 1990. She presided during the hospital's centennial celebration and the opening of its new $60 million patient care facility.

She also provided leadership during a period of great change at the hospital, including the resignation of the former director and the appointment of Ellen Zane as the director, and at the time the name was changed to Quincy Hospital.

Buckley was appointed to the board by McCauley in May, 1985. She was reappointed to a five-year term in 1987, and served as secretary of the board from 1987-98. She was in the financial industry for 32 years, and is a retired equity trader affiliated with Weeden and Co.

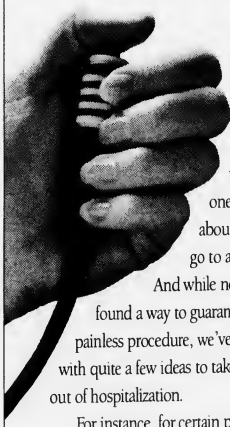
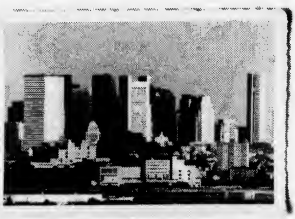
Going To The Hospital Doesn't Have To Be Such A Pain.



"Is it going to hurt?" That's what everyone worries about when they go to a hospital.

And while no one has found a way to guarantee a painless procedure, we've come up with quite a few ideas to take the sting out of hospitalization.

For instance, for certain post-operative recoveries, we offer the most advanced method for dispensing pain medication: Patient Controlled Analgesia (PCA). When something starts to hurt, you press a button and, instead of waiting for a nurse, a computer automatically dispenses the proper, limited dosage of your medication. This way you alleviate pain before it peaks, not after.



Maybe you think having a stranger as a roommate is a pain in the neck. That's why all the patient rooms in our new building are private. And many have spectacular views of the Harbor and Boston.

If you have day treatment such as cataract surgery, an arthroscopic procedure, or a routine biopsy here, you won't have to suffer through a lot of traffic. And if you've been to any of those big downtown hospitals lately, you know what a pain that can be. We have plenty of parking, for guests and patients alike, and it's all free.

So consider Quincy Hospital. And for more information, call 773-6100, ext. 4016.

After all, the less pain you have going to a hospital, the quicker you'll get home.

Basic Cable Prices To Rise $2 In Quincy May 1

Continental Cablevision will raise the monthly prices of its two basic service packages by $2 in Quincy, effective May 1.

The most popular, 47 channel Supercable service will increase to $19.40 in Quincy. Senior Supercable will go up to $18.25, including a remote control. And the 29 channel focus service will go up for the first time in seven years, to $8.50.

Charges for some optional services and one-time fees also will increase.

"On May 1 it will have been 15 months since we last raised our Supercable price and, despite our best efforts to hold down costs, dramatic increases in our operational expenses make an increase unavoidable," said Continental general manager Steve Farquhar.

He cited cost increases over the last year of 19 percent for insurance, 19 percent for employee medical coverage, 17 percent in bad debt expense, 15 percent for postage and in the charges from national cable networks for the programming carried on Continental's basic service.

Farquhar said basic programming costs have jumped by 17 percent over the last year alone, and by 35 percent over the last two years.

By contrast, the net impact of all the May 1 price changes on the average Quincy customer's total monthly bill is 7.7 percent over 15 months. or 6.2 percent calculated on an annual basis, as the inflation rate is.

"The effect of a price increase on the average total bill is important, not only because our customers choose from among a number of discretionary options to put together a total cable package, but also because that 7.7 percent figure represents the net annual increase in revenue that Continental will realize from the price changes," said Farquhar.

"It's a fact of life that the price of all entertainment services and products has risen much faster than the rate of inflation as the producers, whether Hollywood studios or the owners of professional sports teams, raise their ticket prices and television rights fees to pay the skyrocketing salaries of superstar athletes and the box office idols," said Farquhar.

"As the last link in that distribution chain, cable operators like Continental also must pay more heavily for the entertainment we bring our customers, because the cable networks we carry pass their costs along to us."

He noted a number of recent improvements Continental has made to benefit customers, including extending phone and office hours to include Saturday afternoons and all day Sunday. The Quincy office is now open six days a week for customer drop-in and seven days a week until 9:30 p.m. for telephone service.

Besides the increases for service packages, Continental will raise the monthly charge for additional household cable outlets from $6.95 to $7.95; the one-time fee for cable service installation from $40 to $50; and the monthly rate for the Sportschannel/NESN premium Sports Package from $13.95 to $14.95.

The monthly a la carte prices for premium channel services will remain unchanged, as will the $3.95 price for pay-per-view movies, if customers use the computerized organizing system. Pay-per-view movies when ordered through a customer service representative will increase to $4.50.

QCBPA Elects New Officers, Board Members

The Quincy Center Business and Professional Association has elected new officers and new members to the Board of Directors.

Newly elected Board of Director members are: Cynthia Arabasz, South Shore Bank; Donald Fawcett, Jr., Dependable Cleaners; Richard Gormley, The Shawmut Bank; Kathy Missell, Infinity Books; and Paul Sturman, Frantic Framers, Inc.

Other QCBPA Board members are: Henry Bosworth, The Quincy Sun; Richard Carriger, The Pilgrim Restaurant; James Clifford, Clifford's Flowers; Deanna Gazarian, Phase II Jewelry; Gene Healey, The Wollaston Credit Union; Donald Johnson, Quincy Savings Bank; Anastasios Kapsaskis, Taso's Pizza and Subs; Michael Kenealy, Key Realty; John Nicolson, WJDA; Stephen Robbins, Quincy Visiting Nurses Association; Peggy Scahill, Lucille's Little House; Leo Sheehan, Cooperative Bank; Caryn Smith, Caryn's Corner; and Laura Vosbergh, Presidents Place Associates.

Bentley's Requests Sports Bar Approval

Bentley's Steak House, 579 S. Artery, wants to change its format to a sports bar.

Manager Brian Leonard has requested permission from the License Board to change the name to Bentley's Sports Club & Grille and to add five more pool tables, a hockey game, bowling game, two basketball games and four video games. The club presently has three pool tables.

Board Chairman John Gillis told Leonard he was not opposed to his change of format but that a city ordinance prohibits more than four games in a single establishment with a CV-All Alcohol license. The board voted to continue the hearing.

Joe McLaughlin, a vendor who sells the games to area businesses, told the board that many towns had put in ordinances back in the late 1970s during the video game boom to discourage teenagers from hanging around in restaurants and other establishments.

Many communities are repealing the ordinances, McLaughlin said, because of the economy and because attitudes towards the games have changed.

Leonard asked the board if it would continue the hearing until he could speak with City Solicitor Steve McGrath about possibly repealing the ordinance.

Mariano Urges Federal Involvement In Harbor Cleanup

The Massachusetts House of Representatives recently repealed the law which would force local MWRA rate payers to prepay existing bonds.

State Rep. Ron Mariano said the legislation will save MWRA rate payers over $200 million in bonding costs.

"It is outrageous that the state could call in the loan and force the 60 MWRA communities to prepay existing bonds in so that The Commonwealth could derive some benefits. Thanks to swift action in the House, local rate payers will be spared this expense," Mariano said.

Mariano also said that the federal government should be more involved in the $6.1 billion cleanup of Boston Harbor.

"The federal government only contributes 4% towards the cost of the Harbor cleanup, while it pays for up to 90% of similar projects around the country. Expecting local residents to assume the bulk of the cleanup cost is unfair especially when it was a federal mandate to begin with," he said. It's imperitive that Washington accept its responsibility and provide local residents rate relief."

Mariano and other area legislators are working on other measures to help provide rate relief including a roll back of exorbitant pay raises for MWRA employees, granting more power to the MWRA Advisory Board to improve accountability, allowing home owners to deduct water and sewer charges from their taxes, transferring unassociated projects away from the MWRA district, and eliminating water taxes not used to pay for the actual cost of providing water to MWRA communities.

Past Ward 2 Councillors To Be Honored

Mayor James Sheets will be the guest speaker at the Ward 2 Civic Association meeting, April 14 at 7:30 p.m. at the Fore River Clubhouse.

During the meeting, Assn. President Mike Marshall will present the Unity Award to past Ward 2 City Councillors Carl Anderson, Joseph LaRaia, Daniel Raymondi, William Papile and Clifford Marshall.

Current Ward 2 Councillor Ted DeCristofaro will also present the past councillors with a special commendation from the City Council.

Youth Council Concerned About Environment

The City Council resolved Monday to support The Massachusetts Youth Conservation Corps bill before the state legislature.

The Council vote followed a presentation by the Quincy Youth Council's Environmental Sub-Committee. Youth Council members said the bill would help them with environmental projects and an environmental awareness program for Quincy youths.

"To influence the youth of tomorrow about environmental awareness we need to educate them," said Jeffrey Ernest, a member of the Youth Council Environmental Sub-Committee.

Youth Council co-founder Darren Kerfien said the 24-member sub-committee wants to conduct three workshops for Quincy students on environmental issues beginning at Sterling Middle School.

Liberty St. Auto Shop Leaves Town

D.W. Tarbox, II & Sons, 85 Liberty St., has left Quincy. The auto repair and used car shop turned in its licenses to the City Clerk's office last week and has moved its operation to Rockland.

The move prompted the License Board to cancel a continued hearing Tuesday regarding alleged license violations by the auto shop.

Neighbors have complained of traffic and parking problems, trash and unsightly buildings on the Liberty Street block between Quincy Street and Brook Road.

City officials are studying the area and Ward 4 City Councillor Thomas Fabrizio has pledged to bring any other violators before the License Board.

'Quit Smoking' Seminar April 10

Quincy Masonic Lodge will present a free seminar "The Patch--Treatment of Nicotine Addiction In The 1990s" with speaker Dr. Laura Nowosielski, Friday, April 10 at 8:30 p.m. at the Quincy Masonic Temple, 1170 Hancock St.

Kelly's night manager Bernadette Reynolds that they must be extremely careful about monitoring how much customers drink.

"It's your responsibility that if a patron is drinking too much you shut them off and send them out the door. And you have to watch out for the so-called "foreign load" (when a customer is intoxicated from drinking elsewhere).

Crowley said he ordered the four men shut off and escorted them out of the bar. He said two men lived in the neighborhood and walked home while the other two were driven home by a friend.

Kelly said he will take steps to prevent similar incidents from occuring in the future including hiring a new bartender and a floorman.

City Ceramics Display In Sun Window

On display are items created by 16 youngsters, boys and girls age eight to 14, who take classes once a week taught by the Quincy Rec. Dept. staff.

The display marks the conclusion of the 20-week program which runs from November through April.

Recreation Director Barry Welch thanked The Sun for sponsoring the annual display.

"The Sun window allows each participant an opportunity to share their artistic talents with all who pass by. This experience is important to our program because often times the individual creative expression of these participants are overshadowed by our highly recognized sport activities. The participants look forward to having their completed work placed on display," Welch said.

This year's display will run through April 17. Participants with items on display are:

Emma March, Janean Puleo, Joseph Hern, Bobby McCole, Colleen Blake, Brian Lee, Marcia Hern, Shannon Hillis, Elizabeth Lynch, Chris Lee, Kerri McLaren, Maureen Casey, Joanna Rowland, Kate Lynch, Sheila Lynch and Christine Kirby.

Welch also thanked the ceramics instructors for "their dedication and enthusiasm as they shared their ceramic skills with each individual participant."

The programs are supervised by Nancy Joyce and instructors are Tina Calabro, Susan Swanton, Liza Zambruno, Julie Kelley, Patty McSweeney and Marjorie Swanton.

'All The Mighty Works' Sermon Sunday At Point Congregational

The Rev. Fred Atwood-Lyon, pastor, will deliver the sixth in a series of seven Lenten sermons on the "Action Verbs of Lent," on Palm Sunday, April 12 at the 10 a.m. worship service at Quincy Point Congregational Church, 444 Washington St., Quincy.

Palms will be distributed to all adults, children and young people following the morning service.

Sunday's sermon is entitled "Praise God for All the Mighty Works!" The Rev. Carol Atwood-Lyon, pastor, will assist as liturgist.

Cross Bearer will be David Lindblom, and the Acolyte will be Michelle Hunter, both members of the 1992 Confirmation Class.

Dr. Herman Weiss, church organist and choir director, will play and the Chancel Choir will sing. Soloist Sally Powers will also sing.

Parents of infant and very young children may take them to the Crib Room, the Nursery and the Kindergarten at 10 a.m. All other children and young people will gather first in the sanctuary for worship with their families, participate in "Time With the Children," and then depart for Church School classes supervised by Debbie Tait.

The church provides telecast services via Continental Cablevision Channel 3, Quincy, Sundays at 8 a.m. and Wednesdays at 11 a.m. "The Daily Bible," a three-minute devotional message, can be heard by calling 773-4434 throughout the day and evening.

For more information about Holy Week services, call the church office at 773-6424 Mondays through Fridays, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

'No Silence Or Secrecy' United Methodist Topic

"No Silence or Secrecy" will be the Palm Sunday sermon topic of the Rev. Harry Soper Jr. at the 10 a.m. worship service at Quincy United Methodist Church, 40 Beale St., Wollaston.

Church facilities are handicapped accessible and child care is provided. The Sunday School, directed by Douglas Ulwick, will offer a special anthem and following the pastor's Young Disciples Message, will go to their classes. Palms will be distributed at the end of the service.

Serving as greeters will be Paul and Linda DelGreco and Anne Giger, the lay reader. Fellowship Hour will be hosted by Joan Honig, Maude Kyoperi, Marion Elkhill and Kathleen White. The New Women's Group will have a good sale in Susannah Wesley Hall. That evening, the Junior High Fellowship meets at 6 p.m.

The week's events start Friday, April 10 with the 3M's Pot Luck Supper at 6:30 p.m. with an unusual travelog as entertainment. On Monday, open recreation in the church gym at 7 p.m. and Bible Study class at 7:30 p.m.; on Tuesday at 7 p.m. the memorial and gifts committee meets and on Wednesday at 6:30 p.m., the Confirmation class; at 10 a.m. on Thursday, the Pastor's Bible Class meets at 10 a.m. Bell Ringers rehearsal at 6:30 p.m. and choir at 8 p.m.

Holy Week Services Begin At Church Of Good Shepherd

Holy Week services will begin with a procession with palms on Sunday, April 12, at 10:30 a.m. at the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, West Squantum and Harvard Sts.

Mid-week services will be held Monday through Saturday from 7:15-7:30 a.m. and Thursday and Friday at 7:30 p.m.

Salvation Army Noontime Services For Holy Week

The Quincy Salvation Army Corps will sponsor three Holy Week outdoor services at Quincy Center Plaza next week.

Capt. James LaBossiere, Corps commander, announces the services will be held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, April 14, 15, and 16, at noon. Music will be provided by members of the Corps Band.

The band will also participate in an Easter Sunrise Service to be held April 19 at 7 a.m. at Caddy Park, Quincy Shore Dr., Wollaston.

'Face Guilt And Win' Topic At Bethany Congregational

Palm Sunday and Family Sunday will be observed at Bethany Congregational Church Sunday at 10 a.m.

The Rev. Roger Ketcham's sermon series "How To face the Challenges of Life" will continue as he preaches on "How To Face Guilt and Win!" Mr. Ketcham will speak with the children in the congregation prior to having them go to their respective classes in the Parish House.

Scripture reader will be Mrs. Lynda Ketcham. Musical selections for Palm Sunday will be sung by the Chancel Choir directed by Gregory Flynn, organist and choir director. Worship greeters will be Esther Sauter and Irene Belcher.

Hosting the Fellowship Hour in the Allen Parlor following the service will be Jackie and Ron Rivera. The Bible Study Group will meet at 8:30 a.m. Sunday morning in Room 3 of the Parish House.

At 11:20 Sunday morning a Palm Sunday tradition at Bethany Church will continue with children of the church reenacting the Palm Sunday procession riding the ponies "Nugget" and "Red Cow." This will take place on the lawn on the Spear Street side of the church.

A Maundy Thursday Service of Communion and Tenebrae will be held April 16 in the sanctuary at 7:30 p.m. Readers will be Wendell Cosgrove, Vivian Miller, Lena Foster, Lois Green, Bob McLain, Mildred Rickson and Jane McLain. James Ross and Betty Newton will assist the minister in serving Communion.

On Good Friday, April 17 there will be two identical services to be held jointly with the Quincy Point Congregational Church. They will be conducted by the Revs. Atwood Lyon and Rev. Roger Ketcham.

The noon service will be held in the chapel at Quincy Point Congregational Church and the 7:30 p.m. service will be held at Bethany Church with music provided by combined choirs of both churches.

Sacrament Of Penance At Most Blessed Sacrament

The entire parish community of Most Blessed Sacrament is invited to participate in a celebration of Reconciliation, Friday, April 10, at 7 p.m.

The Sacrament of Penance will be available with additional priests assisting the parish staff.

'Praise To Christ' Topic At Covenant Congregational

Sunday School children will participate in a procession with palms and banners to commemorate Christ's triumphal entry into Jerusalem at the 10:45 a.m. worship service Sunday at Covenant Congregational Church, Whitwell and Granite Sts., Quincy.

Rev. James Lindgren, interim pastor, will preach on a topic entitled "Praise To Christ." The choir, directed and accompanied on either organ or piano, by Richard Smith, minister of music, will sing. Smith will also play an organ prelude, offertory and postlude.

Sunday School, with classes for all ages, nursery through adult, will begin at 9:30 a.m. During the worship service, an attended nursery is available for children age four and younger. For children up to age 12, there is junior church.

Following the worship service, coffee will be served in fellowship hall downstairs. Hosts will be Anna and Bob Day. Volunteers are needed to serve for the last Sunday in April and all of May.

Choir rehearsal will be held Thursday at 7 p.m.

Coming events include the Women's Seamen's Friend Society Meeting in Marblehead on Monday, April 13 at 10:30 a.m.; the Naomi Society meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday; a Maundy Thursday Communion Service April 16 at 7:30 p.m.; and a pancake breakfast served by the youth group, 9 a.m. Easter Sunday morning. At the Good Friday services a collection will be taken for restoration and preservation of the Holy Places in Jerusalem.

'Infinite Love' Topic At Houghs Neck

There will be two worship services Sunday at the Houghs Neck Congregational Church, Manet Ave.

As part of the Palm Sunday worship, palms will be distributed at both services and to both church school groups. The Rev. M. Alicia Corea will preach on "Jesus' Final Week" as her sermon topic at the 9 a.m. service. Jason Schofield and Alpha Story will serve for the Diaconate. Greeter will be Bea Goodwin.

At the 10:30 a.m. service, Dr. Peter V. Corea's topic will be "Infinite Love." Greeter will be Peg MacDonald. The choir will sing under the direction of Arden T. Schofield. Diaconate members serving at this service will be Ruth Gordon and Michael Stewart.

The church school will hold classes for nursery school through grade 1 during the 9 a.m. worship. Grades 2 through 12 meet from 10 to 11:30 a.m. under the direction of Gloria Brummitt, Church School superintendent. Both groups will be working on their "Peace Around the World" projects and will observe Palm Sunday recreating the journey of Jesus into Jerusalem.

The coffee hour between the services will be hosted by Miriam Coombs. Reservations for the Easter morning breakfast can be made at this time. Also between services, the Fair Committee will have a chocolate sale in the coffee room. Parishioners are reminded that they can fill their Easter Baskets with homemade goodies.

The Pilgrim Fellowship Group will meet at 1 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall. Group advisors are Rev. M. Alicia Corea, Ned Hogan and Gail Freel. All young people in grades 6-12 are invited to attend.

Dr. Peter V. Corea and Rev. M. Alicia Corea will lead a service of worship[and communion in commemoration of Maundy Thursday and Jesus' last supper April 16 at 7:30 p.m. Diaconate members serving at the service will be Waymon Giggey, John Conway, Martha Chase and Ruth Gordon. Refreshments will be served in Fellowship Hall following the service by Mary Fisher.

Walk For Hunger To Benefit Five Quincy Feeding Programs

Five feeding programs in Quincy will benefit from Project Bread's 23rd annual Walk for Hunger to be held Sunday, May 3 on the Boston Common.

The Walk is the largest annual walking event in the world and the largest one-day fundraiser against local hunger in America. The event supports 375 soup kitchens, food pantries and homeless shelter feeding programs throughout Massachusetts, including five in Quincy: Atlantic Neighborhood Center, DOVE, Quincy Community Action Programs, Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition/Father Bill's Place and the Salvation Army.

The Walk for Hunger begins between 7 and 9 a.m. on the Boston Common by Charles Street, and weaves 20 miles through Boston, Brookline, Newton, and Cambridge before returning to the Common.

Statistics show that more than 500,000 Massachusetts residents live at or below the poverty line and are at risk of hunger. Hunger now affects families in every city and town throughout the state.

All proceeds from the Walk fund emergency feeding programs throughout the state. Since 1989, the number of agencies funded by the event have increased by 50 percent, from 250 to 375.

Individuals interested in walking, volunteering, or sponsoring a walker or volunteer should contact Project Bread at 617-723-5000. Sign-up sheets, called "Walking Papers," are also available at the Bank of Boston branches and Stop and Shop Supermarkets.

Easter Cantata At Faith Lutheran Church

Faith Lutheran Church's Sunday School will usher in the Palm Sunday service with a processional of palms at the 10 a.m. at 201 Granite St., Quincy.

The choir, led by Kelven Book, presents its Easter Cantata, "Who Will Call Him King of Kings" by Claire Cloninger. The musical celebrates the transformation of human lives through the Easter love of Christ.

Fellowship will follow the service during coffee hour.

During Holy Week, Maundy Thursday and Good Friday services will be held at 7:30 p.m. April 16-17. The Youth Group L.Y.F.E. will lead the Easter Sunrise worship service at 7 a.m. A pancake breakfast and Easter egghunt will follow at 65 Roberts St., Quincy.

Pastor James Kimmell will administer the sacrament of Holy Communion during the 10 a.m. Easter celebration service at 210 Granite St.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Someone once said that emotions are the color of life and we would be drab creatures without them.

Love, hate, trust, fear, pride, resentment, sympathy, laughter, joy, sorrow and anger are only some of our emotions.

At times, because of restrained inner emotions, we try not to show outer emotion.

For example, we can and should say words of kindness; we can and should express our love to loved ones. Yet at times, because of shyness or pride, the words are not said. Pride or stubbornness, for example, breaks up many homes when kind words could avoid it ... In times of bereavement, kind words are often said, but the words cannot be heard by the one for whom the words would have meant a lot.

We can and should express affection when affection exists. And fancy words are not needed. Some people say they don't have to say such things because their loved ones know it anyway ... Maybe so ... Maybe not ... But why risk it?

We should never be reluctant or refuse to say a nice-to-hear things. We deepen our own sorrow when the words are said too late and that sort of sorrow is a hard-to-dispel emotion of our own making.

A funeral Mass for Frederick Pedrelli, 85, of Wollaston, the owner and tailor at Freddie's Cleaners on Pope's Hill, Dorchester, for 50 years, was celebrated April 4 in St. Agatha's Church.

Mr. Pedrelli died at home April 1 after a long illness.

As a young man, he became a presser, working at the Southside Dye House and other cleaning establishments. He met his wife, the late Angelina "Jean" Eannello, also a presser, at work.

She taught him to sew when they started the business after World War II. He became an expert in altering clothing.

He was a member of the Marconi Club.

Mr. Pedrelli is survived by a daughter, Margaret J. Hartford of Quincy; a son, Richard J. Pedrelli of Georgia; a son-in-law, Myron D. Hartford; a grandson and a granddaughter.

Burial was in Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

Funeral arrangements were by the Alfred D. Thomas Funeral Home, Milton.

Donations may be made to American Cancer Society, 294 Pleasant St., Stoughton, MA 02072; or to the Hospice of Quincy Visiting Nurse Association, P.O. Box 2370, Quincy, MA 02269.

Alveta A. Byk, 70

A funeral Mass for Alveta A. (Roberge) Byk, 70, a Quincy resident for 45 years, was celebrated Monday in Star of the Sea Church, Squantum.

Mrs. Byk died April 3 at home after a long illness.

Born in Lowell, she lived in New Bedford before moving to Quincy.

She is survived by her husband, Alfred A. Byk; two sons, Ronald Byk of Boston and Thomas Byk of Florida; two daughters, Mariane Male of Pennsylvania and Sandra Byk of Quincy; three brothers, Paul Byk, Del Byk and Ray Byk; three sisters, Yvette Roberge, Lucille Koberski and Noella Taney; one granddaughter and many nieces, nephews, grandnieces and grandnephews.

Burial was private.

Funeral arrangements were by the Keohane Funeral Home, Wollaston.

Donations may be made to the Hospice of the South Shore, 100 Baystate Drive, Box 334, Braintree, MA 02184.

Claude S. Wilson, 92

Second Class Marine Engineer

A funeral private funeral service and burial were held earlier this week for Claude S. Wilson, 92, of Quincy, a second class marine engineer at the Fore River Shipyard in Quincy who died April 4 at a local nursing home.

He was employed at the shipyard 39 years, designing steam turbine propulsion for various ships and working on the aircraft carrier U.S.S. Lexington, the battleship U.S.S. Quincy, and the passenger ship S.S. Independence.

He attended the British Technical School from 1914 to 1917 and received a certificate in marine engineering, serving in the Merchant Marine. When he was 16 he was a mechanic with the Royal Navy Air Service during World War I.

Mr. Wilson emigrated to the United States in 1925, settling in Quincy where he lived 67 years.

He worked for the Cunard Steamship Line and the United Fruit Co., before working at the Quincy shipyard.

He retired from the shipyard in 1964 and was a member of the Fore River Long Service Club.

Husband of the late Ellen (Chadwick) Wilson, he is survived by a son, John W. Wilson of Scituate; a daughter, Audrey M. Britton of Weymouth Heights; five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements were by the Mortimer N. Peck Funeral Home, Weymouth.

Burial was in Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

Donations may be made to charity.

Wanda O'Brien, 85

A funeral Mass for Wanda (Hadro) O'Brien of Mesa, Ariz., formerly of Squantum, an avid bridge player, was celebrated Tuesday in Our Lady of Good Counsel Church.

Mrs. O'Brien died in Arizona April 2 on her 85th birthday.

Born in Ludlow, she lived in Squantum before moving to Arizona 17 years ago.

Wife of the late John J. O'Brien, she is survived by a son, Kevin C. O'Brien of Eatontown, N.J.; two daughters, Jill M. Palmer of Pembroke and Gail E. Coleran of Quincy; a brother, Ervin Hadro of Ludlow; 12 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Burial was in Holyhood Cemetery, Brookline.

Funeral arrangements were by the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Donations may be made to the Ministry of Care Resurrection Church, 3201 S. Evergreen Road, Tempe, AZ 85202.

Calnan Family Skis For Dyslexia Research Money

Much of the money was raised during the Benefit Race. Nine-year-old Caitlan Calnan won the women's division with a two-run combined time of 42.89.

Caitlan's mother, Donna, won first place in the women's 31-and-over category and her father, Rick, took third in the men's 31-and-over category. Danny Calnan, 12, also made a strong showing.

Caitlan was awarded a pair of Rossignol skis. Second through fifth place finishers also earned prizes including bindings, poles, goggles and a Tenney Mountain hat.

A Few Words on FUNERAL SERVICE

What is the Nurse's Role?

The nurse may well have been the last person to talk with the dying person.

Hers is a heart-rending role over and over again. She gives comfort and compassion. She is alert to sense her patients' wish to see the clergy or family.

She's usually been trained in emotional stress and is an important member of the care-giving team and is really part of your family. Thank her for special care of your loved one.

For those times when the darkness lingers

With the loss of a loved one through death, it is helpful to be able to share the feelings and emotions which we all experience.

For most of us, there are family members, clergy, and friends who are ready to listen in a caring way.

Yet, there are those who find it helpful to share their grief with someone outside their immediate circle of support.

Because of our continuing commitment to the families we serve, Keohane Funeral Service is pleased to announce that Dr. Sherry Johnson has joined our staff as a Grief Counselor. Her educational background, professional experience and understanding manner can be particularly helpful.

We are the first funeral home in New England to offer the service of a Grief Counselor.

Falmouth Shells Quincy

Quincy's baseball team got off to a rough start Monday as Falmouth exploded for six runs in the bottom of the sixth inning and defeated the Presidents, 10-2.

Quincy hoped to bounce back yesterday (Wednesday) at Barnstable, will meet North Quincy Friday at 3:30 p.m. at Adams Field, will host Plymouth Monday and will be home to Silver Lake next Wednesday.

"This game wasn't as bad as the score indicates," said Quincy coach Bob Sylvia. "It was 2-2 after four innings and 4-2 after five but I ran out of arms and Falmouth had a big sixth inning.

"Steve Loud started and pitched well for four innings, but Dewey Holmes and John Russell weren't quite ready and a lot of walks hurt us. Once all of our pitchers are ready, we will win some games."

Robbie Kane had two hits and Steve Miller and Pat Gallagher had singles. A bright spot for the Presidents was the showing of sophomore catcher Erik Buckley. It was his first varsity game and he did an outstanding job.

North Off To Slow Start

The North Quincy baseball team is off to a slow start, losing its first two games, and the Raiders hoped to rebound yesterday (Wednesday) against Falmouth.

North will face Quincy Friday at 3:30 p.m. at Adams Field, will host South Boston Monday and will play at Taunton next Tuesday.

Leo Donovan's Raiders lost a tough 4-3 decision at Billerica last Saturday as Sean Donovan went the distance for North, allowing only five hits, including two bunts, and striking out nine and walking two.

However, errors killed him as all four Billerica runs were unearned.

Adams Calvert went 3-for-4 including a triple and Dave Reinhart had a double and single for North.

Monday's game with Plymouth was a nightmare as the Blue Eagles scored 13 runs in the first two innings and went on to defeat the Raiders, 15-7.

"This is a game I just want to forget," said Donovan. "Everything went wrong and we made things easy for Plymouth with a number of walks and errors. A bright spot was the pitching of Reinhart, who came in in relief of Liam Higgins and Danny Duncan and allowed only two runs over the last five innings."

Mark Kelleher had a double and a single, Reinhart two singles and Duncan a double. Pat Shea had an outstanding game at shortstop, making several excellent plays.

Union Cong. Sampsons Win Y Church League Hoop Title

The Union Congregational Church basketball team recently won the Sampson Division YMCA/Church League Championship, defeating Blessed Sacrament, 26-17, in the final game.

The win completed an undefeated, 15-0, season for Union.

In the title game the "orange-and-black" attack was led by high-scoring center Al McQuarrie, guards Shawn Cassidy and Brian Johnson and forwards Steve Ross and Rich Loughmiller.

Also playing well in the front court were Josh Sampson and Dave Ross. Strong defensive games were played by guards Kyle Sampson and Billy Moore as Moore made a key third quarter steal.

Blessed Sacrament was led by guard Gregg Walsh who netted eight points despite early foul trouble.

Excellent defense by Loughmiller and Ross held Blessed Sacrament's high-scoring front court combination of Mark Dunn and Nick DiStasi to just nine points.

Union players and coach Bill Johnson and other participant's in the church's basketball program at a banquet at the church Friday evening.

Softball

Quincy Girls Need Strong Pitching

If coach Bud Mosher can solve his pitching problems, he feels his Quincy High girls softball team could have a good season.

"I feel defensively we will be okay in time and we have the potential to score runs, but Jacqui Slattery, a senior, and sophomore Danielle Perry must give us consistent pitching to be successful," Mosher said.

Seniors are shortstop Sue McCloe, who hit .234 last year; Holly McDonough (.302) at first base, Jenn Steen (.313) at third base, Kim Marsden (.200) catching, Jen Walsh (.237) and Tricia Vacca (.150) in the outfield, and Slattery, who had three wins last year, pitching.

Juniors are Colleen Gallagher (.267) in the outfield, Christy Richmond (.222) at second base and Ann Christian (.200) in the outfield, and sophomore Kristen Holliday (.188) in the outfield.

Perry, who will also play shortstop, and Kim Donofria, a sophomore, who will play second base and also in the outfield, are up from last year's junior varsity.

Slattery pitched all the way for Quincy and pitched better than the score indicates.

McCole had two singles, Gallagher two singles and two RBI, Steen a triple and two RBI and McDonough a double and two RBI.

"We did well offensively, but we didn't play too well on defense," Mosher said.

Quincy will meet North Quincy Friday at Faxon Field, will be at Plymouth Monday and at Silver Lake next Wednesday.

Middle Schools

Point-Webster, Beechwood, Montclair, Atlantic Win

Point-Webster defeated Snug Harbor, 48-34, and Beechwood Knoll edged Merrymount, 27-22, in the middle school division of the Quincy Recreation Department All-City Basketball Tournament.

In the other bracket, Montclair crushed Wollaston, 50-7, and Atlantic topped Squantum 50-20. The teams play this weekend in the semifinals.

Point-Webster was led by Jeff Feiner with 26 points including 16 in the second half. Jeff Russell had 12 and Todd Sullivan six for coach Janice Sullivan's Point club. Dave Gunther scored four points John DeAngelis was cited for his outstanding floor play and Joe Mariano had several key steals.

Jim Kelly paced Snug Harbor's balanced attack with 12 points. Kevin Norton scored six, Terrance Bowman five, Scott Pier four, Jim Quigley three and Brian O'Connell and Lee Shaw two each. Tom Vecchione and Scott Sheppard chipped in with some timely rebounds for coach Will Hughes' team.

Beechwood got a big effort from Geoff Meade who scored six of his 12 points in the final 1:40.

Five others scored for coach Mike McManus' team including Anthony Chella with six points, Jimmy Finn with three and David Klingenstein, Shawn Harvie and Eric Sherman with two each.

Chuck Feely and Mark Miller had eight apiece and Sean Thomas six for Merrymount. Thomas was hampered by early foul trouble. Jonathan Caliri played great defense and Chris DiMattia was cited for his floor leadership and hustle. Until the Meade outburst veteran coach Dan Coughlin had hopes of his Merrymount club pulling off an upset.

At the Atlantic gym "50s" were wild. Coach Dean Zoia's Montclair squad got scoring from nine players against Wollaston led by Dan Simpson with 12, Sean O'Toole 10, Shawn Donovan nine, Chris Plaskasouitis six, Dan Calnan four, Mike Barry three and Steve Ridge, Matt Johnson and Eric Wirtz with two each.

Youth Soccer League Opens Season

The Quincy Youth Soccer League opened its spring season last weekend but only a few games were played due to poor field conditions.

The results were as follows:

Coed under 12: Joe Watson and Kerry Higgins had two goals apiece as Previte's Market blanked Feenan Income Tax, 5-0. Mark Doran had the other goal and Doran, Kate Gaughan and Suzanne Milburn had assists. Chris Burden, Justin Gruber and Dorothy Cronin played well. For Feenan Diane Jordan, Jaclyn Dubois and Irvin Diaz had excellent games.

Brad Cruell had a fantastic game as he scored all the goals in That's Italian's 7-3 victory over Quincy Savings Bank. Elizabeth Holland, Michelle Boncek and Alysia O'Connell had assists and James MacDonald, Carlos Ashmanskas and Mike Demeo played strong games.

Bill Desbler had all three goals for Savings, Matt Graham had two assists and Laura McEvoy one and Katie Miller, Tim O'Connor and Patrick Lyons played well.

Boys under 10: Phil Leth's goal gave Commercial Ceiling a 1-0 decision over Commonwealth Builders. Paul Skarzensi assisted and David Browne and Scott MacDonald had fine games. For Commonwealth, Jeffrey Bartoloni, Sean Owens and Patrick Lahar played well.

Reggie's Oil edged Braces by Abramowitz, 2-1, on goals by Bill O'Connell and Chris LaConte. Mark Fitzpatrick and Ryan Casey had assists and Mike Webber and Billy O'Brien had strong games. Rene Lumaghini scored for Braces, Matthew Miller assisted and Matthew Moriarity had an outstanding game.

Girls under 10: Casey Ridge scored twice and Meghan Ginty once as Fleming & Langlois blanked Rona W. Goodman, 3-0. Ridge had an assist and Caitlin Brillo had a fine game. For Goodman Aimee Dubois, Kathlyn Gates and Nadia Cardone had excellent games.

Colleen McNichol's hat trick paced Morrill Real Estate to a 4-3 victory over Flower Loft. Angela McCarthy had the other goal, McNichol and Sarah Houghton had assists and Elizabeth Quinn, Meredith Hutchinson and Morgan Peterson stood out. Katie Erler had all three Flower Loft goals. Hillary Miller, Katie Kelly and Marie Wallace had assists and Jocelyn Moran had a fine game.

Lipton Cup Regatta Registration July 17

Registration for the sixth annual Lipton Cup Regatta will be Friday, July 17 from 7-9 p.m. at Squantum Yacht Club. Co-chairmen Don McGilvary and Dick Casey announce the Regatta will be held July 18 and 19.

The Lipton Cup Committee '92 recently hosted a reception at the Quincy Neighborhood Club featuring a slide presentation by Brian Hancock, of South Africa, of his voyages around Cape Horn and through the southern ocean. Hancock is a three-time veteran of the Whitbread 'Round the World Race.

The reception was attended by SYC Commodore Dave Lewis, Vice Commodore Kevin Madden and Rear Commodore Paul Hines, yacht club members, guests and past Lipton Cup participants.

Boussy Stars On German Ice

Mark Boussy, who got his start in the Quincy Youth Hockey program and who later had outstanding schoolboy and college careers, recently completed an excellent season far from home.

Boussy, now a captain in the Army and who a year ago was shooting down Scud missiles during Desert Storm, is serving in Germany and tried out for the local pro hockey team, although he hadn't played in five years.

According to Reuters dispatches, he became a real hockey star and played for Germany's Oberliga (third division) for the Frankfurt Loewen (Lions).

Boussy scored 41 goals and had 77 points in a 20-game season. There were 7,000 fans chanting his name in the arenas and he was signing autographs in the street.

He was named the area's Sportsman of the Month. He will not be back for a second season as his assignment is over in May and he will be transferred to Texas.

Dondero Completes Good Season

Jennifer Dondero of Quincy recently completed a fine season as a member of the Curry College women's basketball team.

The 5'1" freshman, a graduate of Quincy High where she lettered in basketball, softball and volleyball, provided the Lady Colonels with a spark off the bench, playing strong defense. She was one of only four players to play in all 26 games.

Curry finished with a 13-13 record and finished in a tie for third place in the Commonwealth Coast Conference with a 7-5 record.

John Santos Boxing In Jr. Olympic Tourney

Boxer John Santos, 9, of Germantown, won a recent decision over Juan Torres of Worcester in Coventry, R.I.

It was the eighth win in 11 fights for Santos. He has been boxing for one year and is currently fighting in the 65 lb. class.

He will next compete Friday, April 10 at the Junior Olympic Tournament in Coventry.

Bowling

Bob Saluti Leads St. John's Bowling

Senior Citizen Trip To See Pawtucket Red Sox May 7

The Quincy Council on Aging is sponsoring a senior citizen trip to see the Pawtucket Red Sox play against the Tidewater Tides of the New York Mets system at McCoy Stadium on Thursday, May 7 at noon.

The Council will supervise a coach bus that will depart Quincy at 10:45 a.m. and return immediately after the game.

Quincy PAL Co-Sponsors Basketball Tournament

The guest police athletic league was from Wayne, New Jersey. Boys and girls in fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades comprised the teams.

The Quincy PAL entered two boys teams, a seventh and eighth grade team. The 26 Quincy boys, 13 on each team, attend the Broad Meadows Middle School.

The tournament kick-off with a friendship dance and pizza party at Footprints, 1515 Hancock St., Quincy, supplied by owner Jack Blythe. Three hundred youngsters from Quincy, Boston and New Jersey attended the dance, exchanged gifts and enjoyed pizza.

The two Quincy boys teams each won a game and lost a game to two very strong New Jersey teams.

This was the second year Quincy helped sponsor the tournament. Boston PAL has been hosting the tournament for five years.

With the help of Bob Clark, Joe Kintigos and Ernie Deane and the Quincy Council on Aging the tournament was a big success. The Quincy PAL is looking forward to next year's tournament.

Ned Tobin In Boston Marathon

Ned Tobin of Quincy will be among the starters this year in the Boston Marathon after training since Thanksgiving and working his way up to 30 miles, running two days a week.

He joined the L Street Running Club in South Boston and runs with fellow members from the Quincy area. Tobin ran his first Boston Marathon last year and finished in three hours and 27 minutes.

He hopes this year to finish in 3:20. He also trains with several runners from the South Shore YMCA.

"The last six miles of the race are the toughest of all," said Tobin's friend, Jim Wagner. "My hat's off to all who run. And just remember Ned, there is no agony of defeat, only the thrill of victory when you cross the finish line."

HN Women's Softball Registration April 25-26

The Houghs Neck Women's Softball League will hold registration Saturday, April 25 and Sunday, April 26 from 2 to 3 p.m. at Brill Field.

Registration fee is $25 and should be paid on one of the registration dates.

Tips To Protect Special Vehicles

Bicycles, Motorcycles and Trail Bikes

• Park it out of sight in a garage or basement or use a cover.

• Mark it with an Operation Identification number recommended by local law enforcement.

• Lock your bicycle with a case-hardened chain or cable and lock, winding the cable through the frame and both wheels and then around a fixed object.

• Use the fork lock found on most street motorcycles. For extra protection, invest in a heavy U-shaped lock made of extremely hard steel that cannot be hacksawed or a case-hardened chain and sturdy padlock.

• Watch out for key numbers! Some motorcycle manufacturers stamp the key number on the lock. With this number, anyone can go to a key maker and have a key cut that will fit perfectly. Many key makers ask for identification but don't take any chances -- write down your key number and then file it off the lock.

Trucks and Recreational Vehicles:

• Many specialized vehicles don't have VINs and should be marked with an identification number, such as a driver's license.

• Lock up all easy-to-carry items like motors and camping gear before leaving your vehicle.

• Use secured "toppers" or tool boxes. Don't assume a thief can't life a box because it's heavy.

CB Alert!

Citizen Band radios are very popular targets for thieves. Locking the car, parking in a well-lighted place, and are moving the antenna offer some protection. For maximum security, have the radio installed in a slide mount so it can be taken into the home or office or locked in the trunk when the car is not occupied. Keep a record of the CB's serial and model numbers and engrave an identifying number or the radio. Another alternative is a factory-installed CB which is harder to rip out than a portable one. Anti-theft devices are also available. Don't buy a CB from a stranger when the price is unreasonably low -- you might be buying stolen goods. The ease of sale contributes to the present high rate of theft.

Volleyball Teams Raise $32,100 For Easter Seals

"Tuesday Brew" was the top fundraiser. The team contributed $984.50 and won t-shirts and Wear Guard sweatshirts.

The team was managed by Tom Ahearn who won two Red Sox tickets.

Other teams which raised over $600 were C.A.C., Badger, Slade Gorton & Co., Beth Israel Hospital, Bayview Security, South Shore YMCA, New England Telephone, Clean Harbors, Thomson & Thomson and Testa Hurwitz & Thibeault.

Proceeds fund swim programs, summer camp, equipment loan, stroke support groups, physical and occupational therapy, speech therapy, technology for independence and home health care.

Aerobic students at World Gym in Quincy 'danced for heart' and raised $3,700 to benefit the American Heart Association.

This year's event included an aerobathon, a step-a-thon, a push-up competition, with a raffle and door prizes.

With the support of owners Tom Adams and Dave Rossborough, community spirit and contributions from local businesses, and team spirit and sweat from the members, the second annual event was a tremendous success.

BUSINESS & REAL ESTATE

Home Buyers Seminar At Boston Five April 14

The Boston Five will present a free Home Buyer Seminar Tuesday, April 14 in the Granite Street Branch, 77 Granite St., Quincy.

Refreshments will be served from 5 to 5:30 p.m. followed by the seminar which will conclude at 7:30 p.m.

The workshop is designed to help prospective buyers better understand the home buying process and learn about services provided by the Boston Five.

Richard Garvey President Hurley Insurance Agency

The Hurley Insurance Agency, an independent insurance agency located in Quincy for 51 years, announces the election of Richard P. Garvey as president.

Garvey has been associated with the agency for 26 years, and is a resident of Scituate. He is also a member of the Board of Directors of Excel Bankcorp, the bank holding company that owns both Quincy Savings Bank and Lincoln Trust Company.

Also elected to The Hurley Agency's Board of Directors were Michael J. Prendergast, CLU as Executive Vice President, and Robert B. Abraham, CPCU, as Clerk and Vice President. Prendergast is a Hingham resident, Abraham lives in Plymouth. Both principals have been associated with the agency for over 15 years.

Retiring from the company is its founder, Paul E. Hurley, and Paul E. Hurley, Jr. Hurley, Sr. is a former Chairman of the Board of the Hancock Bank and Trust Company, past president of the South Shore YMCA, and has been active for many years in Quincy civic activities. Hurley, Jr. is also a past president of the South Shore YMCA, and is a member of the Board of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce.

George Miller Named NFPA President, CEO

The National Fire Protection Association announces that George Miller has been named president and CEO of the fire safety advocacy group.

Miller served as executive director of the U.S. Olympic Committee from 1985 to 1987 and most recently served as president of the Morris Animal Foundation, a $10 million endowment firm concerned with animal health research.

GEORGE MILLER

"We are confident we've made an excellent choice. Mr. Miller's extensive experience in high level strategic planning and management of diverse organizations will be an ideal background for NFPA leadership," said Board Chairman Warren Jackson.

Seafood Express Opens At 57 Granite Street

The Seafood Express, which recently opened at 57 Granite St., Quincy Center, represents two generations continuing in the restaurant business.

Robert Schena, his son Sean, and long-time family friend Leonard Desmaris have opened Quincy's newest eating establishment.

The elder Schena owned and operated the popular Hale's Dog House on the North Shore in West Newbury for many years. He specialized in seafood and Italian sandwiches, a tradition which he is continuing in Quincy.

The Schena family also own and operate the Roma Restaurant in Bradford, Mass., and Christopher's Restaurant in Haverhill, Mass.

The owners of Seafood Express say they are committed to serving the finest seafood and meats available. The Italian outlet and chicken parmigiana are the same that made them famous in the North Shore area.

Sean's engagement to a Quincy native has brought the Schena family to Quincy. They are very enthusiastic and pleased with the positive reception given to them by the greater Quincy community.

between 8 a.m. to 1 p.m.," Pearson said.

Gillespie said he frequently sees individuals known to him as drug dealers and drug users "spending two to four hours at a time in The Orient Express. I arrested a person a few weeks ago for distributing a controlled substance in the restaurant."

Many of the loiterers congregate at the restaurant in the morning after visiting the methadone drug clinic van behind the Quincy Police Department, Gillespie said. The clinic attracts drug users who sell drugs in Quincy Center although they do not obtain drugs which they sell from the methadone clinic, he said.

He said although Eng has been cooperative with police and receptive to suggestions, she hasn't been able to deal effectively with loiterers. Many people will loiter in the restaurant without purchasing anything, he said.

Largey argued that Tsolirides would be able to control the problems.

"My client will take steps to rectify the existing situation including a drastic seating reduction to 18 from 40. My client can handle the situation," Largey said.

"The only sure way to stop it is to eliminate seating altogether," said Fire Chief Thomas Gorman.

"In your opinion, can it be controlled under proper management?" Police Chief Francis Mullen asked Gillespie before the vote.

"I've seen four different owners there and none of them have controlled it," Gillespie said.

"The problem filters out around the station, onto the (McIntyre) Mall, Hancock Street and the Center," Mullen said. "I'm trying to address problems in the Center and that's a big problem."

Grade Reduction Part Of School Tardy, Absentee Policy

Quincy and North Quincy High School students who are frequently absent or late will be penalized academically under a new attendance policy.

The School Committee voted 5-1 for the new policy which goes into effect at the start of the fourth quarter marking period in April.

Cutting classes and unexcused tardies and absences from class will result in a five-point reduction in a students' final grade for each offense. Students with seven unapproved absences during a marking period will automatically fail.

Proponents of the policy say it is aimed at students who occasionally skip class or who are frequently late.

Acting Superintendent of Schools Eugene Creedon said the new policy should also reduce classroom disruptions caused by students reporting to class late.

Opponents argue that academic punishment should not be applied to absenteeism and truancy.

School Committeeman Frank Santoro voted against the policy and members Steve Durkin, Linda Stice, Ron Mariano, Dan Raymondi and Mayor James Sheets voted for it. Mary Collins was absent.

'Civil Rights Violated'

Uncle Sam Th After Fenway Park Strikeout

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Although Quincy's Uncle Sam Rounseville struck out at Fenway Park earlier this week, he isn't finished swinging.

Rounseville said Tuesday he is considering filing a legal suit against park officials after being thrown out of Monday's Red Sox home opener by Fenway's head of security for wearing his patriotic uniform to the park.

"I feel my civil rights have been violated," said Rounseville. "I'm going to speak to the ACLU (American Civil Liberties Union) about this."

Rounseville claimed that Fenway security head Steve Brady treated him unfairly by throwing him out simply because he was wearing his now-famous patriotic colors.

"I guess that means that no one can wear a uniform into the park--priests, nuns, boy scouts or anyone else," said Rounseville.

To Target Quincy Red Line Stations

New Police Unit Goes On Patrol Friday

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

A special police unit targeted to eliminate crimes committed in and around the city's MBTA stations will hit the streets Friday, according to Police Chief Francis Mullen.

The special unit, comprised of a sergeant and six patrolmen, was formed by Mullen at the request of Mayor James Sheets. The mayor and chief said the unit's main goal is to make the four Quincy Red Line stations safer by cracking down on crime in those areas, especially in Quincy Center.

"I'm concerned about the crime that I think emanates from the Quincy Center MBTA station and other stations. In order to deal effectively with the drug problems, assaults and other crimes, we're going to have to have a special police unit and invest resources in a major way to curtail that," Sheets said Tuesday.

Sheets said the Quincy Center, Wollaston and North Quincy Red Line stations have become popular territory for criminals, thieves and drug dealers.

"This (the unit) is just the beginning. We're going to clean up the area and get rid of the problem before it gets worse," the mayor said.

According to Mullen, the unit will patrol the Red Line station areas on foot, by car and on motorcycles. The unit will work flexible hours according to need. "We'll have a real flexible unit, " he said.

The chief said the unit will target groups who hang out at the stations, as well as those who drink in public and exhibit unruly behavior. Sheets and Mullen said they believe the young people bring drugs and guns into the city and are responsible for

City, Quincy College Co-Sponsoring Nine Composting Workshops

What do you get when you combine the city's recycling effort with the "Cleaner, Greener" campaign?

A new composting program called "Don't Waste That Waste."

That's the idea behind a new state law which prohibits leaving grass cuttings, leaves and other yard waste for garbage collections The new Solid Waste Management Facility Regulations banned the landfilling or incineration of leaves as of last Dec. 31.

Quincy homeowners can do one of three things with their grass clippings, leaves and other yard waste: make compost on their own, drop the materials off at the Quincy Public Works Department or save the waste for special separate curbside collections.

To help homeowners make the most of these useable and useful natural resources, the City of Quincy and Quincy College will present nine neighborhood composting workshops in April and May free-of-charge.

The first composting workshop will be held Saturday, April 25 from 10 a.m. to noon at Quincy College.

Other workshops are scheduled for:

•Tuesday, April 28, 7 to 9 p.m., Houghs Neck Community Center.

•Thursday, April 30, 7 to 9 p.m., Beechwood Community Life Center.

•Tuesday, May 5, 7 to 9 p.m., Atlantic Neighborhood Center.

•Thursday, May 7, 7 to 9 p.m., Ward 2 Community Center.

•Saturday, May 9, 10 a.m. to noon, Squantum Neighborhood Center.

•Tuesday, May 12, 7 to

Chretien Urges Residents To Attend Hearing On Open Space

Ward 3 Councillor Larry Chretien urges residents of Montclair and Wollaston to attend a City Council public hearing on his proposal to rezone city-owned property at the intersection of Newport and Wilson Ave. from Industrial B to open space.

The public hearing will take place Tuesday, April 21 at 7:15 p.m. in the Council Chamber.

"I strongly encourage people living in the area to attend the public hearing and to speak in favor of the rezoning," said Chretien. "We are considering a good-sized parcel that is located in front of Robbins Automotive and next to Pneumatic Scale on Newport Ave. I am sure many people are not aware that the property is in fact city-owned."

Chretien added, "Furthermore, at my request, Mayor Sheets has directed the Department of Public Works and the Parks Department to beautify the parcel for the enjoyment of area residents. This is obviously very much in keeping with the mayor's Cleaner and Greener effort. Newport Ave. is one of the key entrances to Quincy and it will be great to see a nice little park at the corner of Wilson Ave."

East Squantum St. Parking Lot Planned

A hearing regarding the request by Dickinson, 542 E. Squantum St., to operate a parking lot at the site has been continued by the License Board.

Ward 6 City Councillor Bruce Ayers asked Evelyn Malvarosa, of Dickinson, to meet with him to discuss traffic plans and possible effects of the proposal on residents of Marina Bay.

"There are questions unanswered concerning the tall ships weekend (in July)," Ayers said.

Police Chief Francis Mullen said his department has a committee, which is making plans for the tall ships visit, which Malvarosa should meet with.

Fire Chief Thomas Gorman said Malvarosa should also check with the Conservation Commission regarding the suitability of the land for a parking lot.

No Liquor Sales 12-3 P.M. Good Friday

The License Board voted 5-0 to request that liquor license holders in Quincy refrain from selling alcohol between noon and 3 p.m. on Good Friday, April 17.

Reaction Mixed On Deli Expansion

By STEVE KAVANAGH

Neighborhood reaction is mixed regarding the proposed expansion of the Montclair Deli, 218-220 W. Squantum St.

Owners of the deli, Joyce and Peter DelGardo, want permission for seating at the site and to expand its menu to include items including ice cream, frozen yogurt and espresso.

Neighbors claim the expansion will create increased traffic in an already congested area.

Roger Lyons, of 211 W. Squantum St., said John Blatharas, the owner of the property which also includes a dry cleaning operation, has not complied with License Board conditions imposed on the property when Montclair Deli was originally licensed in 1990.

The License Board will review the situation and continue the hearing Tuesday, April 21 at 10 a.m. at City Hall.

The expansion of the deli would "only attract more vehicles and problems with left turns," said James Kelly of nearby Vershire St. in a letter to the board. "From a traffic and safety point of view please deny this."

Graeber's letter, also signed by other Association members, said that although they favored the proposal "we are concerned about the effects on neighbors and abutters."

Neighbors also don't want increased traffic in an already congested area, odors from additional refuse, or loiterers, the letter said.

Lyons told the board that trucks making deliveries park on the sidewalk and on the street instead of going to the rear of the building as they are supposed to.

"The trucks don't pull in. They park in the street and force traffic to cross the double-yellow line creating a safety problem," Lyons said.

He also said the parking area has not been secured and blinds have not been installed on windows to block bright shining light in the evening as promised. He also questioned the number of parking spaces at the site and said he has observed customers eating at the deli even though their license stipulates take-out only.

Lyons said the carousel at the cleaners and signs hanging outside are eyesores.

Lyons said he wants the board to bring Blatharas into compliance with city regulations.

"We've been insulted long enough. My tenants and family have been hurt," Lyons said.

"Since the beginning of time, each generation has fought nature. Now, in the span of a single generation, we must turn and become the protector of nature."

Stephen McGrath State Senate Candidate

McGrath, who became Quincy's city solicitor after Mayor James Sheets took office in January, 1990, said he knows "firsthand the effort it takes to respond effectively to voter concerns.

"I've worked with municipal departments at many levels--as both a city councillor and city solicitor--to ensure the delivery of essential services to the residents of Quincy. I have always been accountable and accessible to my constituency. This is what we in Quincy, Braintree, Holbrook and Avon need in our next state senator," McGrath said at a series of campaign announcement stops throughout the district Tuesday.

As a city councillor and city solicitor, McGrath said he is proud of his record in city government. "Under the Sheets' administration, the solicitor's office has taken a very aggressive approach to dealing with the MWRA. For example, we successfully negotiated a traffic mitigation package for the citizens of Squantum, the result of MWRA projects impacting the community."

As a former Quincy City Council president and chairman of the council finance committee, McGrath said, "I will draw on my experience in a leadership role in the local fiscal process come budget time on Beacon Hill. I known I can be an effective watchdog and advocate for the district.

"My experience on the municipal level has taught me that you live within your means and you prioritize. We in municipal government run things the way we run our homes. We don't spend what we don't have. It is this philosophy I will bring with me to state government."

McGrath said the preservation of the environment will be a major campaign issue. "Braintree and Quincy are fighting Clean Harbors and industrial development in the Fore River Basin. Holbrook is fighting to clean up the Baird-McGuire site, which is also a concern to neighboring Braintree.

"Clearly, this is a district requiring forceful environmental leadership. I have worked with Mayor Sheets and the community leaders in Braintree in last year's successful fight against the expansion of the Clean Harbors' facility.

"I pledge to continue working with your community leaders to aggressively address these environmental concerns. This is particularly important in light of the recent legislation which removes local control over the hazardous waste siting process."

McGrath said the MWRA will be another campaign issue. "This district is impacted enormously by the harbor cleanup project. As MWRA ratepayers, we are all angry with the soaring water and sewer bills. The legislature created the MWRA, and it must now act to contain, if not reduce, rate increases."

In addition, McGrath said the legislature should "look at apportioning the burden of the harbor cleanup more fairly, so as to include contributions from property owners throughout the state, not just the communities within the district

"There has been much talk on Beacon Hill about these concerns, with no results. I pledge to work toward obtaining the relief we all deserve."

In conclusion, McGrath said, "I look forward to sharing my goals and plans with the voters, and hearing from them about their concerns over the course of the campaign. State government is at a critical juncture in the eyes of the voters. People want accountability, efficiency, and results on the state level."

If elected, McGrath said he will not forget that the state senate seat belongs to the residents of the Norfolk Senatorial District. "I am only asking you for a temporary lease on it--to serve our communities."

City Gives $15,000 For Immigrant Counseling

The Protestant Social Service Bureau received $15,000 from the City of Quincy last week to fund counseling services for refugees and immigrants in Quincy.

The award from Quincy will earn PSSB a $15,000 matching grant for the program from the Hyams Foundation.

In a letter to Mayor James Sheets earlier this year, PSSB Executive Director Robert Taylor said, "In early 1991, leaders of the refugee and immigrant community met with our Board. They confirmed to us that counseling service is the number one unmet need.

"They could not find in the entire City of Quincy a single clinical social worker or psychologist who can communicate with the refugees and immigrants who had limited language skills in English. This is still true today."

Rich Meade, City of Quincy Planning Director, told the Council that the PSSB has explored other sources of funding unsuccessfully.

"I don't think we are setting a precedent," Meade said. "The city has matched fund for other non-profit groups in the past."

"I understand the need on the one hand, but it's a pragmatic thing on the other. We can't give out money to every group that comes down the pike," Ward 1 City Councillor Peter Kolson said.

The $15,000 comes out of the city's UDAG account. City Auditor Robert Foy told the Council that there is a balance of over $530,000 in Quincy's UDAG account.

License Board Briefs

•Granted a request from G. J. Coddington's, 1250 Hancock St., (George Cook), for a One-day extension of Premises Liquor license for a scholarship fundraiser for the Leo E. Cook Scholarship Fund, May 30 from 7:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. at the Galleria, Presidents Place.

•Granted a request from St. Joseph's Basketball League, (Frank Brillo), for a permit to conduct a "Tag Day" Friday, June 12 and Sunday, June 14.

•Granted a request from Quincy First Night Committee, (Michael Cheney), for permission to conduct a canning drive June 19, 20, 21, 26, 27 and 28 instead of April 13, 14 and 26.

The National Park Service announces the Adams National Historic Site will open Sunday for the 1992 season.

Park Rangers at the site provide conducted tours through the homes, recognizing the public and family lives of the Adamses, providing a more personal view of this distinguished family.

The conducted tour of the "Old House" is approximately one hour as is the tour of the Adams Birthplaces. Tours are conducted on a first come first serve basis. The site is open 7 days a week from 9 a.m to 5 p.m., from April 19 through Nov. 10. Reservations are required for groups of 8 or more. The last full tours are at 4:15 p.m. Fee is $2 for adults for all three homes. Children is 16 years and under are admitted free.

HIC-CUP!

Hiccups are surely not the most serious medical problem we may encounter, but they can be among the most annoying or embarrassing. A hiccup is sudden, involuntary contraction of the diaphragm followed immediately by the closing of the vocal chords. If your mouth is open at the time, this results in a loud "hic" sound. The cause of these rhythmic reflexes is unknown. A true cure for hiccups is also unknown, although popular remedies include drinking quick sips of water, holding your breath, and swallowing a spoonful of sugar. Since hiccups usually stop by themselves as unexpectedly as they began, there is little need for concern. However, long-term, persistent hiccuping could signal that another disorder is present.

P.S. Perhaps the best-known case of hiccups is that of Charles Osbourne of Anthon, Iowa, who has been hiccuping for 68 years.

Drinking a glass of water upside down is said by many to be a sure-fire cure for hiccups. If you would like to learn what you can do to stay healthy and ward off the dangers of heart attacks, feel free to call COMPREHENSIVE CARDIAC CARE at 472-2550. If necessary, we will refer you to another medical professional. Office hours are by appointment at 101 Adams St., Suite 24, in Quincy. I am affiliated with Quincy Hospital and South Shore Hospitals.

Shades Of John Quincy

A famous local name of the past is cropping up in this year's Presidential election: John Quincy Adams. Not as a candidate, of course. John Quincy hasn't been around for years.

J.Q. ADAMS

But there's speculation that Election Year 1992, before it is over, may look a lot like Election Year 1824 which made John Quincy Adams our sixth president.

If billionaire H. Ross Perot gets into this year's race, as an Independent candidate, some observers think it might set the stage for a three-way battle with Republican George Bush and Democrat Bill Clinton—or whoever might be the Democrat's final choice.

PEROT

Tight enough maybe to send the election into the House of Representatives to decide the winner.

The last time that occurred was the election of 1824 with Adams being elected by the House of Representatives over Andrew Jackson and William Crawford, former secretary of the treasury.

The Constitution stipulates that a majority of electoral votes is need to be elected president. When there is no majority, the Constitution provides that it will be up to the House of Representatives to call the final shot. And, the House doesn't have to abide by any prior voter preferences.

JACKSON

In the 1824 election, Jackson actually won the popular vote and most electoral votes—but didn't muster a majority.

On Feb. 9, 1825 the matter was tossed into the House. The vote was by ballot and John Quincy got the nod with 13 votes to seven for Jackson and four for Crawford.

There was some suspicion that Adams and House Speaker Henry Clay from Kentucky who had been a candidate that year struck a deal.

Jackson had received 99 electoral votes, Adams 84 (most of them from New York and New England), Crawford 41 and Clay 37.

As fourth man, Clay was eliminated. Who would get the three states—Kentucky, Missouri and Ohio which had been with Clay?

Clay visited Adams at his Washington home. Two days later, the Kentucky legislature instructed its Congressmen to vote for Adams. Clay ignored their edict and cast the vote for Adams and swung Missouri and Ohio to Adams. Each state has one vote in the House.

On March 4, 1825, Adams was inaugurated president. On March 5 he sent the name of Clay to the Senate for confirmation as secretary of state.

See, they knew how to play politics back then, too.

Incidentally, John Quincy's father, second president John Adams, was also involved in a Presidential election that wound up in the House.

That was in 1800 when Adams was running for a second term and being challenged by Thomas Jefferson and Aaron Burr.

Jefferson and Burr had tied with 73 electoral votes to 65 for Adams. It took 36 ballots in the House to make Jefferson the winner.

Jackson got his revenge on John Quincy in 1828 defeating him in his bid for a second term. This time the House wasn't involved.

The last place anyone would want to see this year's Presidential election wind up is in the House of Representatives.

Not in the current House.

The voters' mood right now is to bounce as many Congressmen out on their ears like they have bounced rubber checks. Perish the thought of these guys having the honor of selecting the next President.

Bush and Clinton leave a lot to be desired as far as many voters are concerned. There's the making of a voters' revolution out there this year. And Perot, a popular figure with millions of dollars of his own money to spend, could be an attractive alternative to Bush and Clinton.

Attractive enough to tie the election up and send it to the House.

It could happen.

The "broad stripes and bright stars" Francis Scott Key wrote of in the Star Spangled Banner each numbered 15 for the original 13 states plus Vermont and Kentucky.

NORFOLK COUNTY Dist. Atty. William Delahunt hasn't made it official yet but he is running for the Congressional seat being vacated by Brian Donnelly.

DELAHUNT

He had a batch of nomination papers picked up for him at City Hall last Friday.

YOU NEVER KNOW who you will bump into these days at City Hall. Ron Mariano filed his nomination papers for the Third Norfolk District state representative seat last week. And, while he was there, in walked Jeffrey Saliba to pick up papers for Jack McGlone.

MARIANO

If McGlone follows through and files them, it would set the stage for a good three-way battle for the Democratic nomination.

George Miller, who made an impressive debut as a city councillor at-large candidate last year, is the third candidate.

McGlone gave Mariano a good run for the seat (vacated by Robert Cerasoli to become state Inspector General) in a special election last fall.

McGlone, with deep Weymouth roots, no doubt feels he could win it by coming out of Weymouth strong and Mariano and Miller splitting Quincy votes.

McGLONE

GALLAGHER

SUSAN GALLAGHER will officially announce her candidacy for the First Norfolk District seat at a fundraiser set for Wednesday, April 29 from 7 to 11 p.m. at the Adams Heights Men's Club, Bower Rd., Quincy Point.

Gallagher, who is Quincy Republican City Committee chairman, challenged Michael Morrissey for the seat two years ago.

Tickets for the fundraiser are $15 per person or $25 per couple. They can be obtained by calling Chet Freeman, campaign treasurer at 328-0811. They'll also be available at the door.

NUTLEY

FORMER WARD 6 Councillor Tom Nutley is "giving serious thought" to entering the First Norfolk District race.

"Right now I'm 50-50 about getting in," he says. "I think I would have a good shot at it."

ANOTHER CANDIDATE for the state senate seat, Brian Kelley of Calvin Rd., Adams Shore, has taken out nomination papers. He's a Republican.

FINNEGAN

A TESTIMONIAL DINNER for Marty Finnegan, who recently retired as Quincy public schools athletics director, is planned for Sunday, June 7 at the Lantana, Randolph. A reception at 1 p.m. and dinner at 2.

Tickets are $25 each. Reservations may be made through Janice Francis in the Quincy public schools Physical Education Department, 70 Coddington St. or Vin Moscardelli, ERA Central Real Estate, 128 McGrath Highway, Quincy.

The committee — which includes Mary Lydon, Jean Ann Phinney, Bob Sylvia and Marty's wife, Norma — is planning a memory book to be presented to him. If you would like to submit memorabilia contact any member of the committee.

A FUNDRAISER for Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson will be held Thursday, April 23 from 7 to 10 p.m. at the Coddington Restaurant in Presidents Place, Quincy Sq.

$15,000 Needed For 11 Entrance Signs

Quincy Partnership Launches 'Sign Quincy' Project

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

The Quincy Partnership is undertaking another promotion and improvement project for the city.

The partnership, which raised more than $70,000 for the installation of outside lighting at several landmarks and historical buildings last year, has begun a new endeavor called the "Sign Quincy" project.

The group is aiming to raise $15,000 for the purchase and installation of 11 historically designed wooden signs at each major entrance to Quincy. The signs, with light blue and goldleaf coloring, will read "Welcome to Quincy, 1625." The date signifies the year the Quincy area was settled by Capt. Wollaston (first name unknown).

The Quincy Partnership will host its first fundraising event for the project at its second annual Springtime Garden fundraiser Sunday, April 26 from 4 to 7 p.m. at the Adams Mansion, National Historic Site, 135 Adams St., Quincy.

Tickets cost $25 per person. Hors d'oeuvres and beverages will be served.

Tickets can be purchased through the Quincy Partnership, P.O. Box 488, Quincy MA 02269 or by calling Maureen Rogers at 479-1111.

The partnership is a volunteer group comprising government officials, civic groups, businesses leaders and residents who wish to preserve the historical nature of Quincy and to promote its quality of life. The partnership also acts as a catalyst, helping various Quincy groups with improvement projects.

"The purpose of the sign project is to instill interest in the city of Quincy as being the gateway to the South Shore. We want visitors of the South Shore to visit our historic treasures and businesses," said Partnership Chairman Ed Keohane.

City officials welcome the partnership's sign project. Thomas Koch, executive secretary for Mayor James Sheets, said the city will help install the signs after they are purchased by the partnership.

"It's a great deal for the city. They (the partnership) will purchase the signs and the city will help with the installation. The least we can do is help install the signs with our resources," Koch said.

The signs will come in two different sizes. One will measure four by seven feet and be oval-shaped; the smaller signs will measure two by four feet and stand vertically.

The larger signs will be placed in areas which are spacious; the smaller signs will be erected in smaller areas.

The first oval sign will be placed at the Hancock St.--Newport Ave. intersection at the north entrance of the city after the April 26th fundraiser. The sign will be on public display during the fundraiser.

Other signs will be located at:

Quincy Shore Drive off the Neponset River Bridge; Quincy Ave. from Braintree near East Howard Street; Franklin St. from Braintree on Penn's Hill; Independence Ave. from Braintree; Burgin Parkway from Route 3 near Centre St.; Willard St. from Braintree near Pine Hill Cemetery.

Also, Furnace Brook Parkway off Southeast Expressway ramp; Bryant Ave off the expressway; Adams St. from East Milton near Lakin Square; and West Squantum St. near Presidents Golf Course.

The other main entrance to the city, from the Fore River Bridge, already has a sign at the rotary.

David Hassan of Hassan Woodcarving and Sign Company of Cohasset, which made the sign at the Fore River Bridge Rotary, will also carve the new signs. The new signs will be similar to the one at the rotary, except the new signs will have the date 1625, not 1888. The latter date signifies the year Quincy became a city.

The fundraising event is officially named Springtime Garden and Field of Daffodils for the Adams Mansion's grounds are blanketed with daffodils, one of the first flowers of spring. In reference to her Adams Mansion garden, Abigail Adams mentioned "the full bloom of the daffy" in an 1801 letter to Mrs. Johnson, John Quincy Adams' mother-in-law. The National Park Service plants daffodils every year in memory of Abigail Adams.

Founded in 1990, the Quincy Partnership's first project involved the outside lighting of four of Quincy's historical buildings: Quincy Historical Society (Adams Academy), Crane Library, Church of the Presidents and Old City Hall (James R. McIntyre Government Center). The project was completed within a year.

QUINCY PARTNERSHIP director Mark Bertman, left, and Ed Keohane, chairman, stand beside a "Welcome to Quincy" sign at the Fore River Rotary. The Partnership will be raising money for 11 similar signs to be installed at the city's other major entrances. The new signs will have the same greeting but bear the date 1625, the year Capt. Wollaston settled in Quincy.

Old Colony Train Service To End

April 16-22 1949 43 Years Ago

Laurence F. Whittemore, president of the New Haven Railroad, said that unless some new source of revenue is found passenger service to the South Shore on the Old Colony line will end in a few months.

"It is mu opinion," he said, "that if we cannot relieve the cost of operating this service by some such arrangement as state purchase of the South Station we will not be able to continue after this summer."

Whittemore said when the New Haven applied for rate increases in New York it was told, "We won't give you a cent until you stop wasting money on the Old Colony in Massachusetts."

He placed losses at $1.7 million in 1947 and $2.2 million in 1948.

FIREARMS BAN

Mayor Charles A. Ross filed an ordinance with the City Council that would ban firearms within the city limits except by licensed gun clubs and military organizations.

Allen H. Hermance Jr., 20, of Milton, was shot and killed April 2 by a stray bullet while he was target shooting at Lyon's Quarry. The shot was believed to have been fired by another target shooter.

"The time has come when we must put a stop to tragedies like this," said Ross.

TRAILER CAMP OPPOSED

Mrs. Ambrose S. Thomas, president of the Squantum Women's Club, announced that the club will revive its fight for a city takeover of Squantum Park to forestall construction of a trailer camp.

Mayor Ross said that a prominent Boston politician had been trying to get a permit to establish such a camp there but that Ross had turned it down. The area is owned by the city of Boston.

"A trailer camp is unthinkable," said Mrs. Thomas. "The fact that a trailer camp was even considered shows how important it is for Squantum Park to be taken over as a public park."

White House Music Program At First Parish Church

The National Park Service, Adams National Historic Site, in celebration of the 200th anniversary of the White House, will sponsor "Music at the White House: A Musical Tour of Our Nation's Oldest Showcase for the Performing Arts," Wednesday, May 6 at 7:30 p.m. at the United First Parish Church, 1306 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

The audiovisual presentation and lecture by Elise K. Kirk, noted author and musicologist, is being offered free of charge in cooperation with United First Parish Church.

"Music at the White House" offers a musical tour of the nation's oldest performing arts showcase--the White House. Kirk discusses some of the many famous performers who entertained at the White House--artists from the world of popular and classical music, jazz and Broadway. Her lecture features nine rare slides of the entertainers, accompanied by brief recorded musical excerpts of their performances.

Dr. Kirk, Ph.D., is an author, lecturer, and musicologist who is recognized in the fields of the performing arts and American cultural history. She has received awards for her research and writing.

In 1987, her book, Music at the White House, won the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers Deems Taylor award for outstanding books in the field of music. She currently teaches music history at Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C.

Joseph Barron Promoted To Quincy Fire Lieutenant

Joseph P. Barron, a Quincy firefighter for nearly 14 years, was promoted and sworn in to the rank of lieutenant at a ceremony April 9 in the office of Mayor James Sheets.

The swearing-in ceremony was attended by two dozen family, friends and fire officials.

"I'm really overwhelmed," Barron said after his swearing-in. "It's a great day. I thank everyone for being here."

As a lieutenant, he will earn $37,914.

Barron, 37, a West Plymouth resident who joined the Quincy fire force in June, 1978, was sworn in by City Clerk John Gillis. He received his lieutenant's badge from Fire Chief Thomas Gorman. Barron's father, William J. Barron, a retired Quincy fire department deputy chief, pinned the badge on his son's lieutenant uniform.

About 20 family members attended the ceremony. In addition to his father, Barron's wife, Patricia, son, Joseph, mother, Doris, and several sisters and brothers attended. Barron's brother, William Barron Jr., a Quincy firefighter since 1975, was also present.

City officials congratulated Barron for attaining the rank of lieutenant and continuing his family's firefighting tradition.

"It's always a real pleasure when you make someone a lieutenant and you increase their rank level," Sheets told the gathering. "But it's more unique and impressive when you're dealing with a profession that's been in the family for a substantial period of time."

Barron's father is a 35-year veteran of the Quincy Fire Department. Before joining the Quincy Fire Department in 1947, William Barron was a Quincy police officer for approximately two and a half years. He served as a firefighter from 1947 to 1952, lieutenant from 1952 to 1955, captain from 1955 to 1958 and deputy chief from 1958 to 1982.

Praising the city's newest fire lieutenant, Sheets said, "We're very proud of the heritage of your family in the firefighting profession and we appreciate you putting your life on the line. I wish you many, many years of happiness in the Quincy Fire Department. Congratulations and God bless you."

Gorman also congratulated Barron on his promotion. "I know you'll make a fine lieutenant. I'm glad to see his family see one of his (William Barron's) sons follow in his footsteps."

When the elder Barron retired 10 years ago, it was Gorman who replaced him as a deputy chief.

Council President Charles Phelan, former chairman of the city's Public Safety Committee, also commended Barron. "We're very proud of you. It's great to see a family like yours continue its service in the fire department."

Michael Cronin Candidate For State Representative

Former Registrar of Voters Michael J. Cronin of Wollaston announces he is a candidate for state representative in the First Norfolk District.

Cronin, a Republican, has been campaigning since incumbent Rep. Michael Morrissey announced he would vacate the seat to run for state senate. Cronin intentionally withheld his official announcement until April 15 "Tax Day" in order to call attention to the plight of the taxpayer.

"I'm told that the Democratic leadership in the legislature has already begun planning a major tax increase for next year, and I think it's vital that the taxpayers of this district have a representative in office who will oppose the tax and spend philosophy which has become so burdensome for us all," he said.

Cronin said he plans to make an issue of the skyrocketing MWRA rates and believes Quincy taxpayers should be exempted from the rates or be given a discount rate in exchange for hosting various MWRA sites in the city. "It's ludicrous to force these sites on the people of this city and get little or nothing in return. As a fellow Republican, I'd have no hesitation telling Gov. Weld to end the nonsense."

MICHAEL CRONIN

Cronin said whoever is elected to the seat should be vigilant regarding future uses of Moon Island and Long Island, only through Squantum's narrow Dorchester St. "Any activity on the islands should have the approval of Squantum."

Cronin, a former part-time worker in the Quincy Police communications division, said the state must allocate more local aid for public safety. He applauded Quincy Police Chief Francis Mullen for recently forming a new anti-gang unit to patrol Quincy's business districts.

"The people of this city deserve the right to be able to patronize local businesses without fear of being spit upon or attacked. Being in the business community myself, I know this project will benefit shoppers as well as merchants."

Cronin's family owns Cronin's Publick House, a Quincy Point restaurant. Cronin is not a stranger to the crime issue. In March 1991, he was presented a Quincy Police Commendation Award by Mullen for outstanding efforts leading to the capture of a felony suspect who had burglarized a Quincy Point home.

Cronin, who served as an associate member of the Quincy School Committee while attending North Quincy High School, has pledged to enact legislation to waive the responsibility of cities and towns to provide tutoring to students who bring drugs or guns to school. "Such students belong in institutions other than our public schools," he said.

Cronin also supports welfare reform and believes the state should keep close watch on welfare revisions put forth in Wisconsin by Gov. Tommy Thompson.

Cronin, a graduate of North Quincy High School, attends Boston University. A member of the North Quincy Knights of Columbus, he has served as an usher at Sacred Heart Church and Our Lady of Good Voyage Chapel in Boston.

He received the Howard Mason Award at North Quincy High School for outstanding volunteer service to special needs students, and was also active in establishing a Quincy public school policy on recycling school materials.

Cronin is currently forming a campaign committee, and has named John J. "Jack" Greene Jr. of 100 Fenno St. as campaign director. Cronin's father, retired Quincy Police Sgt. Denis P. Cronin, will serve as campaign committee chairman.

Softball Netting, New Health Center To Be Discussed At N.Q. Community Meeting

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Softball netting, a new health center, and low interest home improvement loans will be among the topics discussed at a community meeting tonight (Thursday) conducted by Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers at 7:30 p.m. at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center.

Ayers and representatives from North Quincy organizations, will discuss these and other topics at the meeting.

Norman Grenier of Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services, will discuss low interest home improvement loans and other housing programs in the area.

Ellen Hafer, Manet Health Center, will speak on the possibilities of a new health center in the North Quincy area.

John Powers, president of the Quincy Men's Softball League, will discuss the proposed netting that will be installed at Welcome Young Park to protect neighboring homes on Young St from balls hit out of the park.

According to Ayers, the league is proposing to place netting measuring 175 feet long and 40 feet high atop the present eight-foot chain link fence in the outfield.

Three 55-foot wooden poles with 600 feet of cable would be erected to support the netting.

Ayers said estimates for the netting project range from $8,000 to $10,000. He said the league will pay for a portion of the project. He also said he hopes to secure some donations, such as a bucket truck, to help defray the cost.

In addition, Ayers said he may request funding from the city's Community Development Block Grant revenue which is supplied by the federal government for improvements to the field.

Ayers said the netting would help keep homerun balls from landing on private property.. In the past, balls hit out of the field have crashed into homes and cars, denting aluminum siding and knocking out windows.

He said the league hopes to have the netting installed before the league's season opens at the end of the month.

Besides the netting project, some other issues regarding the men's softball league will be discussed, such as new rules for softball players to protect residents living near the field.

Anyone with questions regarding the meeting can call Ayers at 472-9877.

April 28 National Youth Service Day

Mayor James Sheets has proclaimed April 28 as National Youth Service Day in Quincy.

During the U.S. Conference of Mayors Winter Conference in Washington, D.C., it was agreed that Quincy would participate in National Youth Service Day 1992.

National Youth Service Day 1992 is co-sponsored by The U.S. Conference of Mayors, the Jefferson Awards, and the Points of Light Foundation. They are coordinating youth service activities across the country on April 28.

The purpose of the day is to underscore the positive contributions that young people are making to help their communities.

Young people of college age and under are encouraged to use their creativity, enthusiasm, and energy to establish an ongoing system of community service for the next generation.

In Quincy, the Thomas Jefferson Forum and the AFJROTC units will lead the local community service recognition of National Youth Service Day. Both North Quincy High School and Quincy High School has Thomas Jefferson Forum groups and AFJROTC units.

On April 28 it is expected that there will be the added combined efforts of volunteer community service groups at Eastern Nazarene College and Quincy College.

Veterans' Corner

By HENRY BRADLEY
Veterans' Services Director

Veterans, or members of their families who wish to have questions answered are invited to send them to Henry R. Bradley, Director, QVS, c/o The Quincy Sun, 1372 Hancock St., Quincy, MA 02169.

The column will include questions from readers along with any current questions that come to this office, ie: home loans, schooling, insurance, burial at national cemeteries, etc.

Q: My father, a veteran of World War II, recently died and I purchased a headstone for his grave. Will the government reimburse me?

A: Veterans who died after November 1, 1990, the headstone or marker allowance is no longer paid. Eligible veterans are still entitled to receive a government-provided headstone or marker for the burial site.

Q: May the VA request my social security number on my application for compensation and pension benefits?

A: The VA is required to request social security numbers to match its beneficiary rolls against files of other agencies. Beneficiaries have 60 days to respond. Those who fail to reply may face suspension or termination of benefits through the VA.

Snug Harbor School Recommended For Blue Ribbon Award

Snug Harbor Community School in Quincy is one of six Bay State elementary schools which have been recommended for a Blue Ribbon Award under the U.S. Department of Education's 1991-92 Elementary School Recognition Program.

The awards, generally announced in May and presented at a White House ceremony is September, honor schools that are considered models of leadership, teacher empowerment, student support and successful, innovative curriculum.

The Snug Harbor school has a Chapter 1 school-wide project which provides students with numerous multicultural offerings, including ethnic food festivals, Chinese New Year celebrations, and Martin Luther King Jr. Day observances. The school houses a 24-hour station individualized computer laboratory and provides extensive staff development to teachers and administrators on-site.

Snug Harbor has formed two partnerships with local colleges to increase community education opportunities for its students. "Project 2000" with Quincy College will allow students in the school's current fifth grade class to attend the college tuition free in the year 2000. The students are receiving tutoring and vocational guidance from college staff that will continue through their middle and high school years.

Another partnership, the "Friendship Connection," with Easter Nazarene College, a "Big Brother/Big Sister" type of program, gives elementary students access to a wide range of cultural, sports and other community-based offerings of the college.

Michael Bellotti Candidate For State Representative

Bellotti, co-owner of Bella Produce in Quincy and a member of the Democratic State Committee, will be on the state primary ballot Sept. 15.

He is among the candidates vying for the seat held by State Rep. Michael Morrissey. Morrissey is vacating his seat to run for state senate.

"Local aid, MWRA rate hikes and education are just some of the issues facing this district," Bellotti said. "I want to help strengthen the Quincy delegation and to increase local aid, to decrease and alleviate the burden that the MWRA has put on our backs, and I want to help restructure our educational system.

"In addition, I am especially looking forward to representing the district that my family grew up and remains today."

Bellotti, 29, a lifelong resident of Quincy, is the son of Francis and Marguerita Bellotti. He served on the management team of his father's 1990 bid for governor of Massachusetts.

On March 10, Bellotti defeated Quincy's Dan Raymondi and William O'Connell of Braintree in the race for Democratic State Committeeman in the Norfolk District which comprises Quincy, Braintree, Avon and Holbrook. It was Bellotti's first bid for elected office.

In addition to operating the wholesale produce business company with his brothers Tom Bellotti, Mike Bellotti is involved in several charitable organizations. He is a member of the Board of Directors of Catholic Charities, Boston; the Kennedy Donovan Centers for exceptional children in Foxboro; and serves as a delegate for the Massachusetts Easter Seal Society.

The Committee to Elect Mike Bellotti management team includes Donna Woods of Quincy, campaign chairperson; and John E. McKay, co-owner of Cohn McKay Communications in Waltham, finance chairman. Christopher J. Bell of Quincy is director of operations.

Special Police Unit Hits Streets Friday

break-ins at businesses and homes as well as drug incidents at Quincy schools.

"It's going to be an ongoing effort. This should offshoot into solving some of our other problems," the chief said.

In addition, Mullen said the new unit will be in communications with the Boston Police Gang Unit and Brockton police. "We feel some of these people are making the rounds," Mullen said.

"Because the unit will be dealing with the problem continuously, we'll seek a lot of information and intellectual data which will help us," the chief added.

Sheets said the unit may cost the city as much as $250,000 for one year. He said the final figure has yet to be determined. Once the amount is known, the mayor will ask the City Council to appropriate the necessary funding for the unit.

Sheets said the new unit will likely be permanent and function nearly 24 hours a day. He and Mullen emphasized the new unit will not drain city resources earmarked for other police efforts.

"We're not going to reduce coverage anywhere else to put this special unit on the street. I will be looking for additional resources to support the cost of this unit" without detracting from other police efforts.

"We're not going to be taking police away from other areas of the city. We'll maintain our present police coverage," the mayor pledged.

Mullen added, "We'll be fulfilling our regular patrols. This unit will be in addition to those patrols."

The unit's main thrust is to make the MBTA stations safe. Some commuters who use the Quincy Red Line stations have been threatened and harassed by street people who gather at the stations for hours at a time, Sheets said.

"I have received letters from people who have been harassed (at the T stations.) I won't tolerate that," Sheets said. "This area has to be safe. The only people who should be over there at the stations are those who are waiting for a bus or going on the T.

"Everyone has a fundamental right to be safe in his person and on their property," the mayor added.

Because of the "street subculture" which he said permeates the stations, Sheets said he has instructed his own children not to use the MBTA stations in Quincy. "It's not a good environment."

The mayor called the new police unit a "major effort. "Whatever has to be done to ensure it is successful I am committed to doing that."

Mullen said he is pleased the new unit has been formed. "I'm happy we have been able to do this."

A four-alarm fire across the street from the Adams Mansion caused more than $200,000 in damage Monday afternoon to the home of Louis Thomas, 140 Adams St.

Adams Street from Whitwell Street to Newport Avenue was closed to traffic for several hours while firefighters extinguished the flames and secured the house.

"The men (firefighters) did an excellent job," said Fire Chief Thomas Gorman. "The fire had made great headway to the second floor and attic by the time we got there."

Gorman said the fire apparently started in the kitchen where Thomas had been cooking. The owner had left the kitchen unattended to escort a friend to the door.

"The construction of the house helped the fire travel faster," said Gorman. "It is an older house."

"It was a tough fire. There was a lot of heavy work," Gorman said. The slate roof was difficult for firefighters to break through and aided the fire, Gorman said, by keeping the heat in causing the fire to spread quicker to other areas of the house.

He said the fire was extinguished in about 40 minutes. "The outstanding work of the men prevented more damage," Gorman said.

Six fire engines, a rescue truck and four ladder trucks responded to the scene including assistance by two vehicles from the Boston Fire Department.

Uncle Sam May Sue After Fenway Park Strikeout

"He (Brady) said I was only promoting a business," added Rounseville, who changed his legal name from Leroy Lincoln Rounseville to Uncle Sam last year. "I told him that I wasn't, that I'm the state's official Uncle Sam and that I wear these clothes every day. I showed him my driver's license and other identification, but he threw me out anyway."

Rounseville said he was approached by Brady shortly after walking through the park turnstile with his ticket. Brady told him he could stay and watch the game only if he changed out of his Uncle Sam uniform. Since he did not have a change of clothes with him, Rounseville left the park.

Attempts to reach Brady by phone Tuesday were unsuccessful.

Rounseville said he has never faced this kind of problem before, not at Foxboro Stadium, Boston Garden, the recent Winter Olympics or at this season's New York Yankees home opener at Yankee Stadium.

He also noted that he was not thrown out of any of the "about 20" Red Sox games he attended last season, and that the only derogatory comment he previously received at Fenway was also from Brady.

"I don't know where this guy's head is at," said Rounseville. "He's such a dork."

Quincy Public Works, BFI Co-Sponsoring Poster Contest

In observance of National Public Works Week, the Quincy Public Works Department and Browning-Ferris Industries (BFI) are co-sponsoring a poster contest for elementary school students.

Entries will be displayed at an Open House Thursday, May 21, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Quincy DPW, 55 Sea St.

There will be three divisions: kindergarten through grade two; grades three through five; and grades six through eight. First, second, and third place recognition awards (nine in all) will be presented for each division by Mayor James Sheets during the Open House.

Each first place winner will receive a commemorative plaque, $50 savings bond and tee shirt. Each second and third place winner will receive a tee shirt and certificate of award.

Poster themes should show some aspect of public works activity, such as snow plowing, recycling, repairing streets, street signage; sewer, water, drainage service; street lighting and related activities.

Entries must be received by the Quincy DPW administration offices by Tuesday, May 12 at 3 p.m.

Entries should be sent to Michael C. Wheelwright, program manager, Department of Public Works, 55 Sea St., Quincy, MA 02169, (617) 376-1901.

$19,779 Grant For Quincy Arts Lottery

The Massachusetts Cultural Council, a state agency, has awarded $19,779 in grants to the Quincy Local Arts Lottery Council, announces Rep. Steve Tobin.

Local grants support community arts and provide cultural enrichment programs for school children. "These local grants contribute to the cultural and economic vitality of our community," Tobin said.

The Quincy Local Arts Lottery Council, chaired by Elliot Hoffman, accepted applications in early winter and reviewed requests for compliance with state guidelines and local priorities.

Mullen Wants Sale Of Non-Alchoholic Beer To Minors Stopped

Police Chief Francis Mullen wants to put an end to the sale of non-alcoholic beer to children.

Mullen told the License Board Tuesday that a concerned parent recently told police that a Quincy Point convenience store was selling the product to youths.

Mullen was told by the state Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission that there is no law against selling non-alcoholic beer to minors but that package store policy prohibits it.

It was unclear how the convenience store obtained the product for sale as distributors supply it only to licensed establishments.

Mullen said he wants the board to send a letter to stores in Quincy asking them not to sell the product to minors.

"I think the state should make it for only 21 and over," he said.

"It takes just like beer and kids are drinking it," said Mullen shaking his head.

"Why promote the process of drinking," said Health Commissioner Jane Gallahue.

He also said while most soft drinks are now packaged in plastic containers the non-alcoholic beer comes in glass bottles which poses a safety threat to children. Mullen said his department will check to see if other stores are selling the "near" beer to minors.

Sacred Triduum Of Holy Week At St. Joseph's Church

St. Joseph's Church, 550 Washington St., Quincy Point, announces its schedule of events in observing the Sacred Triduum of Holy Week.

On Holy Thursday (today), at 7:30 p.m. the solemn concelebrated Mass of the Lord's Supper will be held in the Church. Ordained priests will perform the customary mandatum ritual when the feet of 12 parishioners will be washed in imitation of the command of Jesus to serve the people entrusted to our care.

Fr. Dan Graham, pastor, will be the principal celebrant and homolist.

The Mass will conclude with a procession around the church with the Blessed Sacrament. The church will remain open for personal visitation and prayer until 11 p.m.

On Good Friday at noon, the church will conduct the solemn Stations of the Cross. Between noon and 3 p.m., a professional harpist will provide music for meditation and reflection. The solemn service of Good Friday will begin at 3 p.m. during which the Passion will be chanted and the Veneration of the Cross will be observed.

Fr. Dan Riley, associate pastor, will be the celebrant and homolist. The church encourages all Christians to take Good Friday afternoon off from their labor to come and re-enact the suffering and death of the Lord.

On Holy Saturday, April 18 there are no services during the day until after sunset. The solemn Easter Vigil service begins at 7:30 p.m.

The most important liturgy of the entire church year, the service has four parts: service of light, readings from scripture concerning salvation history; Easter alleluia; and the welcoming of new members into the church and renewing baptismal promises.

Fr. Graham will be presider and Fr. Riley the homolist. Music will be provided by the parish adult choir under the direction of Carla Errichiello and accompanied by a four piece brass ensemble.

Easter Sunday Masses will be celebrated at:

•8:30 a.m., Fr. Graham, presider and homolist;

•10 a.m. in the church, Fr. Lawlor, presider; Deacon John Jennette, homolist.

•10 a.m. in parish hall, a special Mass for tiny tots and families with small children. After the Mass, children will be able to visit live Easter animals and join in an Easter egg hunt.

•5 p.m., Fr. Ron Lawlor, O.F.M., celebrant and homolist.

Special collection will be taken at the Easter vigil and Easter Masses to support sick, disabled and retired priests.

The parish staff wishes a blessed and Happy Easter to all.

Two Easter Services At United Methodist Church

Easter worship services at Quincy Community United Methodist Church, 40 Beale St., Wollaston, will be held at 9:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. with the Rev. Harry Soper Jr.'s sermon topic "Transformed By Christ's Resurrection."

The Wesley Hand Bell Ringers will be featured at the 9:30 a.m. worship service.with Lisa Rue as the soloist.

At the 11 a.m. service, Douglas Ulwick, music director, will have an Easter anthem and a solo by Herbert Williams III. Serving as 9:30 a.m. greeters will be Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mauriello. Ushers will be Michael and Gayle Johnson, Jay Emerson and Amy Lawrence. Mr. and Mrs. Robert McConaghy will be 11 a.m. greeters and ushers will be Michael Johnson, Kenneth Melville, Crissy Emerson and Sherry Wood.

Mr. Williams will be the Scripture reader at both services.

A fellowship hour will be observed at 10:30 a.m. with Anne Giger, Florence Hunter, Shirley Poore and Annie Ohman as hostesses.

The church will host Good Friday services conducted by the Inter-Faith Council from noon to 3 p.m.

Events for the week include:

On Tuesday the Committee on Missions and Christian Outlook will meet at 7:30 p.m.;

On Wednesday, Confirmation class will meet at 6:30 p.m, senior high fellowship at 7:30 p.m. and the United Methodist Women's Mission Fund Raiser featuring Norm Conrad's Mini-Minstrels will be held at 8 p.m.;

On Thursday, Bible class will meet at 10 a.m. and choir rehearsal at 8 p.m.

Maundy Thursday, Easter Services At Covenant Congregational

The Easter Sunday worship service of the Covenant Congregational Church, Whitwell and Granite Sts., will be held at 10:45 a.m. Preceding it, there will be a pancake breakfast, served by the youth group. Tickets cost $3 for all the pancakes you can eat.

Rev. James Lindgren, interim pastor, will preach. His sermon title will be "God Perseveres And Triumphs Over Death." He will also read the Easter story from Luke.

The choir, directed and accompanied on either organ or piano by Richard Smith, minister of music, will process and sing two anthems. There will be no Sunday School, but an attended nursery is available for children age four and younger.

Following the service, coffee will be served in the fellowship hall downstairs by the Dano family.

On Maundy Thursday, April 16, there will be a special Communion service at 7:30 p.m. The choir will sing, but the service will be held in the fellowship hall downstairs.

Activities for the week are: choir rehearsal on Wednesday (instead of Thursday) at 7 p.m. and the men's breakfast at 8:30 a.m. Saturday, April 18.

Coming events include the Seamen's Mission Harbor Cruise on Sunday, May 17, the church council meeting on Tuesday, April 28, and the quarterly congregational business meeting on Sunday, May 3.

For more information about any of the church's activities, call the church office at 479-5728.

Easter Services Planned At Squantum Church

On Easter morning, members of the First Church of Squantum will gather at Moswetusset Hummock at 7:30 for an early Easter service. The public is invited.

Following the service, worshippers will return to the church for Easter breakfast. The regular Easter worship service will be held at 10:30 a.m. A nursery is provided for infants and toddlers.

On Maundy Thursday, the congregation will gather at 7:30 p.m. to observe the Lord's Supper.

On Good Friday, friends and members of the church are encouraged to participate in the Good Friday Service at the Quincy Community United Methodist Church anytime from noon to 3 p.m. The service is sponsored by the member churches of the North Quincy Inter-Church Council.

"The Way Up," a program for teenagers, is held Saturday's at 8:30 a.m., Sunday's at 2 p.m. and at various times during the week.

Last week the observance of Palm Sunday included a special breakfast before the service, the distribution of palms, a choral procession to "Prepare Ye" by Stephen Schwartz with a solo by Leif Thornton, a singing of Faure's "The Palms" by the congregation and a special sermon by the Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor, entitled "Into Adversity."

Thornton and Patti Langevin served as readers. Organist Mary Ruth Scott and pianist Janet Williamson accompanied the congregation. The Junior Choir was accompanied by four tone bell players, Lauren Harper, Matthew Moran, Emily Zaehring and Vanessa Zaehring. The Chancel Choir was directed by Scott.

Tenebrae And Easter Services At Memorial Congregational

The video "In Remembrance" will be shown on Maundy Thursday at 7 p.m. at Memorial Congregational Church, UCC; Newbury Ave., North Quincy followed by a service of Tenebrae and a procession of the cross.

Resurrection Sunday will be celebrated beginning with a combined Sunrise Service at Wollaston Beach at 7 a.m. There will be an Egg Hunt on the church lawn at 8:15 a.m. followed by a full breakfast.

Holy Communion will be served at the 10:30 a.m. worship service. The Rev. Diane Durgin will preach on "Our Easter Faith." The choir anthem will be "Alleluia." Child care is provided.

Holy Week Services At Wollaston Lutheran Church

Wollaston Lutheran Church, 550 Hancock St., will hold a service Maundy Thursday (today) at 7:30 p.m.

The service of the Eucharist incorporates several usages from the ancient church. A special unleavened bread will be prepared and the altar will be stripped in preparation for the solemnities of Good Friday.

Vincent Stringer will sing a solo, and a collation will follow the service.

Good Friday tenebrae service, or service of darkness, will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Easter worship begins Sunday at 9:45 a.m. with the divine service. A combined choir of members from the Chinese ministry and the English-speaking congregation will sing an Easter anthem.

The Chinese Easter Service begins at 11 a.m.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Easter is not a time for sadness ... but a time for rejoicing ... We are emerging from the bleak, dark days of winter into the wonderful light days of spring.

It is an exciting and happy time when life bursts anew around us.

We have all noticed what happens in nature at Easter time. In northern areas at the end of a long winter, the country and city landscapes look dingy and desolate. The trees are bare except for a few dead leaves that escaped the wintry winds still clinging onto their branches.

Then, miraculously, the first gentle warm breezes of springtime appear on the bushes, trees and ground. Each spring we see the miracles of new life in nature rising out of the deadness of winter. We see it in the fresh, green blades of grass popping up from the ground. We see it in the budding flowers. We hear it in the singing of the birds. We hear it in the insect's hum ... The earth is being renewed.

In Easter we have the promise of life ... in Easter we have immortal hope ...

Restaurant's Lawyer Blasts Board, MBTA, News Media

By STEVE KAVANAGH

The lawyer for The Orient Express, a Chinese restaurant at the Quincy Center MBTA Station, blasted the License Board, the media and the MBTA, for hurting his clients' business.

Attorney Robert Fleming of Quincy told the License Board Tuesday that "government has done an injustice" and "press releases have devastated the business" of his client, Grace Eng.

The restaurant has been plagued by loiterers including drug dealers and other "undesirables," according to police.

Eng was before the board to discuss problems at The Orient Express.

"Government should not let hoodlums run people out of town," Fleming said. "You (the License Board) are attacking businessmen to solve the problem (of loitering)."

Eng, who leases the property owned by the MBTA, has been trying to sell the operation. Last week, a potential buyer, George Tsolirides, withdrew his application for a Common Victualer license after the board approved his application for a coffee and sandwich shop with the condition that no seating be allowed.

Fleming said the License Board and bad press have "caused a situation where Mrs. Eng won't get a buyer. We've done damage to one of our own citizens and that's a tragedy," he said.

Eng, a mother of four, has lived in Quincy 12 years.

"I hate to see these people punished when we seem to have an agency, the MBTA, that doesn't care," Fleming said.

Fire Chief Thomas Gorman also criticized the MBTA. He said the Quincy Center station should be patrolled full-time.

"The T has ample police and they should police the station. They are very lax in taking care of the South Shore," Gorman said.

"There is unfairness here," Fleming said. He said his client "has never been before the board for violations."

However, The Orient Express was recently cited for more than 10 health and building code violations.

Health Commissioner Jane Gallahue explained to Fleming that Eng was not being singled out but that it is standard procedure for the License Board to inspect an establishment prior to approving a license transfer.

Gallahue also said Eng has cooperated with city inspectors and has corrected more than half of the violations already.

Board Wants Input From Neighbors On Auto Repair Shop

The License Board wants an auto repairman to meet with Southwest Quincy residents before issuing him a permit to fix cars but a neighbor says the shop is already operating--without a license.

David Omar wants to start an auto repair business, Omar's Auto Service, at 153 Brook Road. The site is close to the Liberty Street area which neighbors have complained about for its saturation of auto repair shops.

Following the hearing, Ernie Aristide, who lives at 156 Brook Road and is president of the Ward 4 Neighborhood Association, told the board that "the shop is already in operation."

Aristide said he counted 12 cars at the site recently and has witnessed work being done on cars there, including on Sundays.

Aristide addressed the board later in its meeting after Omar's hearing. Omar was not present.

Building Inspector Matt Mulvey said he was sending a man to the site to order the business shut down.

Omar inherited the business from his father and currently operates nearby at 15 Liberty St. The business had previously been located at the current Brook Road site.

Aristide said that the last time the Omar family had been in business on Brook Road there were many times when cars from the business blocked his driveway.

"We (neighbors) want the Omar's to do well, we just want them to run their business properly," Aristide said.

During the hearing board members praised Omar and asked him to meet with neighbors to discuss possible conditions on the license to satisfy the neighbors.

Owner of the property, Richard Buccheri, told the board that he has made safety and landscaping improvements at the site and pledged that Omar would not park cars on the street.

Ward 4 City Councillor Thomas Fabrizio was concerned about issuing another automobile-related license in the neighborhood.

"Can the board insure no problems?" he asked.

"I don't think this location will accomplish what we want to do - alleviate auto repair in the neighborhood," Fabrizio said. He said there is already a "large concentration" of similar businesses in the area.

Quincy, North Off To Slow Starts

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Quincy and North Quincy baseball teams are off to slow starts with each winning its first game during the past week.

Last Friday Quincy entered the win column with a 3-0 decision over North behind the three-hit pitching of Steve Loud, and Monday North won its first, squeezing by South Boston, 1-0, behind the three-hit pitching of Mike Patch.

Quincy was 1-3 and and North 1-4 after Monday's games.

Loud had a big day in Quincy's win over North. In addition to his three-hitter, he went 3-for-4 at the plate, including two doubles and an RBI.

He had to be at his best as North's Sean Donovan also pitched well for the Raiders, but lost his second tough decision. (He lost his first start against Billerica, 4-3, not giving up an earned run).

The Presidents took a 2-0 lead in the first inning when Loud and Pat Gallagher singled, Loud scored on Dewey Holmes' double and Gallagher scored on Jeff Craig's sacrifice fly.

Donovan settled down and blanked Quincy over the next five innings with nine strikeouts. In the top of the seventh, Quincy added an insurance run when Robbie Kane reached on a fielder's choice, stole second and moved to third on a throwing error. Loud brought him in with a double to left center.

"There were two thoroughbreds out there on the mound in Loud and Donovan," said Quincy coach Bob Sylvia. "Loud pitched a great game and he had to because Donovan shut us down for a long stretch."

"Loud did a great job," said North coach Leo Donovan. "We haven't got it all together yet. Our bats aren't going, so we are having trouble winning."

In Monday's win over South Boston, Patch struck out seven and walked only one for North. Jim Sapienza drove in the only run with a fourth inning triple scoring Scott Kohler, who had forced Dave Reinhart and second followed Reinhart's single.

Quincy lost to Plymouth, 5-1, Monday as the Blue Eagles scored four runs in the seventh to spoil a fine pitching effort by Mike Malvesti. Malvesti hit a batter to force in the winning run and Plymouth added three more runs.

In their previous game the Presidents were bombed by Barnstable, 12-1, with Malvesti the losing pitcher. Gallagher had two hits and singled home Kane, who had singled, with the lone Quincy run.

North dropped a 6-3 decision to Falmouth, despite a strong pitching performance from Patch, who also had a double. Sapienza and Adam Calvert played well for the Raiders.

Due to work on Adams Field, neither team has been able to play there, but it was reported that Quincy would be able to play there yesterday (Wednesday) when it hosted Silver Lake.

Quincy has played its home games at Upper Merrymount Park and North at Montclair Field.

Quincy will play at Dedham today, will be home to Boston Latin Tuesday at 11 a.m. and will be home to South Boston next Wednesday at 10 a.m.

North will be at Silver Lake today, will host Billerica Tuesday and will be at South Boston next Thursday at 10 a.m.

Quincy PAL Road Race May 17

Softball

Quincy Girls Bow To Plymouth

After winning two in a row following an opening day loss to Falmouth, the Quincy girls' softball team lost to Plymouth, 5-2, Monday to even its record at 2-2.

Last Friday winless North Quincy forced Quincy to go three extra innings before the Quincy girls scored three times for a 7-4 decision.

Kim Marsden doubled home Colleen Gallagher and Jennifer Steen in the 10th inning for the win. Marsden later scored on a Jennifer Walsh single to left.

Jacqui Slattery pitched all the way for Quincy, giving up five hits. Steen had three hits and Gallagher had two.

In their previous game the Quincy girls topped Barnstable, 7-3.

Slattery pitched six-hit ball and struck out six. She also had two hits and Gallagher and Steen each had two and an RBI for Quincy.

The Quincy girls played at Silver Lake yesterday (Wednesday) and will idle until Monday, April 27 when they will be home to Weymouth at Faxon Field.

Track

North Girls Break Even

The North Quincy girls' track team broke even in its first two meets, defeating Plymouth, 78-58,and losing to defending Old Colony League champion Falmouth, 96-40.

Several North girls are currently enjoying top ranking in the league, including Tricia Hughes in the triple jump and 300 hurdles, Katy Deady in the 100 meters and Heather Rendle in the high jump.

Suzanne Lewis and Erin Duggan are doing well in the distance runs, while Amy Wong, Susanne Hamilton and Ilana Cobban are the top sprinters. Regina Murphy looks good in hurdles and is getting good support from Chrissy Herman and Zoe Bohl. Throwers include Trish McNamara, Meghan Barry, Maureen McCarthy, Joanne Curreri and Stacie Minukas.

"We have good senior leadership and a strong junior and sophomore class," said coach Geoff Hennessy, in his fourth year at the helm. "We'll point toward the big meets (league championships, South Shore Principals and states) and work hard with our new people to make sure they are prepared."

Hennessy is optimistic that newcomers Murphy, Curreri, and Minukas will make an impact by the postseason meets, pointing out that overall team balance will be North's strong suit to ensure a winning season.

Other members of the squad are juniors Kerry Evans, Karen Leary, Jenny Marks and Donna Zellen; sophomores Amy Shea, Heather Callahan, Lori Golden, Melanie Gaziano, Kristy Kabilian and Leah Lomond, and freshmen Angela Rizzitano, Laura Blaikie, Erin Skehan, Kristen Polvere, Julie McDonald, Sarah Radell, Julie Wismar, Sheri McLellan, Jen Mullen, Danielle Rinella, Ursula Feurtado and Karen Shea.

In the Plymouth meet North winners were Cobban in the 400 meters (66.9), Lewis in the mile (5:422) and two-mile (12:34); Hughes, 200 hurdles (52.5), Deady, long jump (13-2 3/4), Hughes, triple jump (32-1), McCarthy, discus (82-10), Minukas, javelin (66-0), and the 4X100 relay team of Deady, Wong, Cobban and Hamilton (54.9).

Placing second were Wong, 100 meters; Hamilton, 200 meters; Duggan, mile; Murphy, 100 hurdles and long jump; Rendle, high jump; Wong, triple jump; Curreri, javelin; and McNamara, shot put.

Taking third places were Deady, 100 meters; Kabilian, two-mile; Barry, shot put; and McNamara, discus.

In the Falmouth meet the winners were Deady, 100 meters (13.4, current league leader); Murphy, 100 hurdles (17.3); Hughes, 300 hurdles (51.0, league leader) and triple jump (35-4, league leader); and Rendle, high jump (4-10, league leader).

Placing second were Leary, 800 meters; Lewis, mile; McNamara, discus; and the 4X400 relay team, whose time of 4:29.3 was the fastest losing time ever in the league and the fastest by a North team in six years.

Third place finishers were Cobban, 400 meters; Duggan, two-mile; Murphy, long jump; and Barry, shot put.

The North girls will host Taunton Monday, April 27.

Compete In National Tournament

Quincy Bantam A's End Year Ranked Third In Country

Quincy Bantam A hockey team skated to a 3-2 record in the National Championship Tournament held recently in the Philadelphia, Penn. area, finishing the season ranked third in the country.

Quincy was the only Bantam team from Massachusetts to compete in the double elimination tournament. The locals defeated St. Paul, Minn., undefeated Phoenix, Ariz., and Haverford, Penn. The team's only two losses came at the hands of the eventual winners, Edgewood, R.I., and first runner-up St. Louis, Missouri.

In the first game, Quincy lost of Edgewood, 8-5. Edgewood came from behind with four third-period goals.

Scoring for Quincy were A.J. Carthas, Brendan O'Brien, Dennis Pateras, David Pacino and Doug Nolan. Assists went to Jay Evans, David Cooper, Scott MacPherson, Bill Coughlin and Nolan.

Quincy won its second game, 7-6, over St. Paul, Minn. Goal scorers were Eric Zimmerman, Coughlin, O'Brien with two and Andrew Vermette had a hat trick. Assisting were Nolan (4), Zimmerman (2), Cooper (2), and Pacino. Marc Glennon played strong in goal for Quincy's first win.

In its third game, Quincy beat previously undefeated Phoenix, Ariz., 4-1. Vermette and O'Brien scored twice and assists went to Nolan (3), Cooper, Carthas and MacPherson. Mike Manganaro played very strong in Quincy's second win.

In the fourth game, Quincy downed Haverford, Penn., 4-3, to earn a spot in the national semifinals. Goal Marc Glennon posted his second victory of the tournament. Scoring for Quincy were Pateras (2), Coughlin and MacPherson. Nolan, Evans, Zimmerman and Pacino assisted.

In the semifinal game, Quincy lost a heartbreaker to St. Louis, 3-2, in overtime. Both teams played extremely well in a close checking contest. Both goalies played outstanding with Quincy's Manganaro making key saves.

St. Louis scored the winning goal during a Quincy power play when a deflected shot caught the far post and slide in. Pateras and Cooper scored for Quincy with Vermette, Nolan and MacPherson assisting.

Also seeing action was John Healy who will be returning to the team next year along with Carthas and O'Brien.

A trip to the national championships was a tremendous experience for the boys and making it to the semifinals is a great accomplishment. Quincy was ranked number three in the country after the tournament ended. Edgewood won the tournament with a 4-1 win over St. Louis.

There are about 2000 Bantam teams registered in the U.S. for players age 14 and 15 years old. Teams from Alaska, Michigan, New York and Ohio also competed in the tournament.

The Quincy Bantam team traveled to the tournament held earlier this month by chartered bus. The national championships were played in a town called King of Prussia, Penn.

Besides competing in the 10-team tournament, Quincy's Bantams also visited several historical sites, including the Liberty Bell, Independence Hall, Betsy Ross House and the U.S. Mint. The mint, which celebrated its 200th anniversary April 2, had a special ceremony while the team was there. Players and coaches received souvenir cons and watched while coins were made.

The team held fundraisers to help defray the cost of the trip.

Montclair, Snug Harbor Advance In Senior Division

In the end it was Montclair capturing the bragging rights to the halls of North Quincy High School, where most players from both teams attend, by slowly pulling away to a 56-48 victory.

Squantum's Lee Giordano had 20 points to lead all scorers. He was offset by Montclair's Liam Higgins with 16. Brian Rafferty and Pat Bryan each had 15 to seal the Montclair win.

Dean Zoia, the Montclair coach, also praised the playmaking of Mike MacDougall.

Coaches Ted Stevenson, Jr. and Mike Curtin teamed up for a game plan which kept upset-minded Squantum within striking distance until the last two minutes.

Dave Reinhart played an outstanding two-way game and scored 13 points, Mike Linnane had six, Mark Swirbalus five and Sean Skehan two.

Three Snug Harbor players were in double figures including Ed Kenney with 16, Brian Fitzgerald with 15 and Sam Brown with 11. Joe Manton led the team in assists and scored seven points. Eric Kenney had six and Tom Clark two.

Atlantic coach George Dunn tried a variety of combinations but still couldn't slow down Snug Harbor. Sean Warren was high scorer with 11, Tim Hannon scored eight of his 10 in the second half. Steve Rayne tallied six, Jeff Jones four, Matt Doyle three and guards Mark Sinclair and Matt Shields two each. Adam DeBoer was the leading rebounder.

Atlantic, Point-Webster Win Middle School Semifinals

Point-Webster defeated Beechwood Knoll, 57-50, and Atlantic dumped Montclair, 55-44, in the semifinals of the Quincy Recreation Department Middle School Basketball Tournament.

Matt Beston of Beechwood tossed in a tournament-high 35 points but Point held on. Jeff Feiner had 24, Jeff Russell 18 and Dave Gunther nine for the winners.

Beechwood coach Mike McManus used a variety of defenses to offset a lack of height and got clutch baskets from Anthony Chella who netted seven points. Jimmy Finn, Geoff Meade and Dave Klingenstein each had one basket. Joe Linskey made five steals.

Point coach Janice Sullivan was pleased with the wire-to-wire hustle of Joe Mariano and teammate Todd Sullivan who had seven points including some critical baskets.

In the other semifinal game Joe Mulvey's 17-man Atlantic squad topped Montclair led by Mike Doyle's 21 points. Chris Erler and Tom Coughlin netted 12 each in the win. Tim Chinko, Chuck O'Brien and Matt Quinn scored two each and Billy Manning scored four points and led a strong man-to-man defense.

Montclair was led by Corey Chaggaris with 11 and Eric Wirtz with 10. Strong rebounding from Shawn Donovan helped Montclair stay close. Coach Dean Zoia also got contributions from Mike Barry, who scored seven of his nine points in the second half, Brian Ross with three and Steve Ridge and Dan Calnan with two each.

Adams Finishes First In Executive League

The Quincy Executive Hockey League concluded its regular season with Adams Sports finishing in first place.

John Yaxter was the league's high scorer for first liners and Scip Manganaro was high scorer for the second liners. Mark Cincotta of Adams Sports was the top goalie.

John Ryan had a hat trick to lead Fowler House over Beacon Sports, 6-3. Gary Connell had two goals and Joey Mullen one. Bob Boyle, Dennis Bertoni and Manganaro scored for Beacon.

Mark Boultier scored the winning goal at 8:23 of sudden death overtime to give Grumpy's a 2-1 decision over Flibotte Auto Sales. Ralph Gibbs scored the other Grumpy's goal with Marty Tolson assisting. Mike O'Connell assisted on the winning goal. Doug McLean scored for Flibotte with Paul Connolly assisting.

'First Family Day' Fundraiser May 17

"First Family Day," a fund raising event to benefit First Night of Quincy, will be held Sunday, May 17 from 1 to 5 p.m. at Faxon Field (Southern Artery and Coddington St.).

The day will feature kiddie rides, moon walk, games and prizes, cotton candy, popcorn and more.

"We hope to have hot dogs and soda," said City Councillor Michael Cheney, chairman of Quincy's First Night Committee. "We're planning an old-fashioned Family Day."

Proceeds will go towards expenses for setting up Quincy's first "First Night" New Year's Eve celebration.

Floating Prison Ships Could Be Built At Shipyard

A State commission to study the idea of floating prisons has been proposed and State Rep. Ron Mariano said the prison ships could be built at the Quincy shipyard.

"The commission would be unpaid and would review the potential of building these prison ships at the Quincy shipyard," Mariano said. "The construction of these ships would provide hundreds of jobs to new and former shipbuilders in the area."

New York presently has four prison ships successfully operating in non-residential dock areas with a fifth ship under construction, Mariano said.

State Rep. Gregory Sullivan of Norwood, who co-sponsored the amendment for the commission with Mariano, has done a study which indicates that the economic advantages of building these facilities in Massachusetts is substantial.

"The money spent in building these ships will generate 2.5 times that amount to the local economy," Sullivan said.

"It is important to keep projects like this within our own state so that we can reap the financial benefits for our own local economy," Mariano said.

Plans To Retire As City Clerk

Gillis To Run For County Commission

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

The ever changing local political landscape received another jolt Tuesday when City Clerk John Gillis announced his candidacy for Norfolk County Commissioner.

JOHN GILLIS

Gillis, 66, one of the longest serving city clerks in Quincy and presently among the top three in seniority in the state, said he plans to step down as clerk next May whether or not he wins a seat on the commission this fall.

"My time has really come. Joe Shea is really well organized and he'd do a great job as city clerk," Gillis told the Sun Tuesday.

Shea, who became assistant city clerk in March, 1991, would be a main contender for the clerk's job if Gillis retires next May.

A former Quincy firefighter and state auditor, Gillis, who will turn 67 on May 16, became an assistant city clerk in 1956. After serving two years in that post, he was appointed city clerk in 1958, succeeding the late Alan Cole.

Gillis said his more than 36 years of experience in state and municipal government, including the last 34 as clerk, would be an asset on the Norfolk County Commission.

"I've been around government all my life. I know the finances. I know

$500,000 Project Outlined At QCBPA Meeting

City To Extend Downtown Sidewalk, Lighting Program

Mayor James Sheets and Public Works Commissioner David Colton discussed the city's plan to extend the historical lighting and sidewalk project in Quincy Center at a Quincy Center Business and Professional Association membership meeting Wednesday morning.

According to Sheets, the $500,000 project entails placing new sidewalks with brick accent and the colonial-style light fixtures south on Hancock St. from Granite St. to School St.

Approximately 50 new historical lighting posts, similar to the lights erected last year in the northern section of Quincy Square, will be installed. The fixtures, which will replace the aluminum cobra-style lights, will also be placed on both sides of Granite St. to the Parkingway and possibly around the Thomas Crane Public Library, the mayor noted.

To date, 17 lights have been sold at $2,500 each. Sheets said he will begin marketing the lights soon.

The traffic improvements involve the Hancock St., Granite St., Chestnut St. and Maple St. intersections.

To improve the traffic flow in this area, Sheets said the southern end of Granite St. near Hancock St. will be widened by reducing the sidewalk five feet. The work will require some small trees along the sidewalk to be relocated.

The change will allow smoother right hand turns onto Hancock St., the mayor said. Some MBTA buses currently run over over the curb while making the turn, he added.

In addition, the temporary right hand turn ban from the Ross Parking Garage to Granite St. will become permanent, the mayor said. The concrete yellow slabs which prevent motorists from turning right onto Granite St from the Parkingway now will be replaced by an island.

Sheets said no final decision has been made on whether a traffic signal on Chestnut St. at Hancock and Granite Sts. will return. The light was removed last year and replaced with a stop sign.

The mayor said he wanted to discuss the sidewalk construction and lighting program with downtown merchants and businessmen before work begins in the summer. "One of the reasons we're meeting with the QCBPA is to let them know what our plans are up to this point so that we can get input from them.

"We want to hear from them before we finalize anything."

The project is slated to begin in the late summer after the QCBPA's annual "Sidewalk Sale Days" are held in July. All lights should be up and shining by the late fall, the mayor said.

The city and Mass Electric have an agreement which allows the city to use the conduits already in place. The old cobra-head aluminum lights will be replaced with the black, colonial-looking light.

A few conduits may have to be moved. The mayor said Mass Electric has agreed to move the conduits if necessary.

Non-Alcoholic Beer No-No For Minors

The City of Quincy wants to put an end to the sale of non-alcoholic beer to persons under age 21.

The City Council was expected to pass an ordinance Tuesday night calling for a $200 fine for stores that sell the beverage to children.

Mayor James Sheets proposed the ordinance, drafted by City Solicitor Stephen McGrath, after Police Chief Francis Mullen told the License Board last week that parents were complaining about children buying the product.

Sheets said the state prohibits selling non-alcoholic beer to persons under age 21 in package stores but not in convenience stores.

"This ordinance is meant to plug the gap in the law. The law is silent on selling non-alcoholic beer to minors in convenience stores. Right now, anyone can buy non-alcoholic beer in a convenience store. Anyone," Sheets said.

The mayor said he is concerned that the product, which can contain as much as .5 percent alcohol, can give small children a "high."

"The non-alcoholic beer tastes like real beer. It's brewed like regular beer. It has alcohol in it. It's just a lesser volume," Sheets said.

City Councillors indicated they would approve the ordinance.

New Police Unit Arrests Seven On Weekend

By STEVE KAVANAGH

The Quincy Police Department's new anti-crime unit made seven arrests during its first weekend of operation. The unit was created to reduce crime in the areas surrounding the city's four MBTA stations--particularly Quincy Center.

Police Chief Francis Mullen said he is confident the unit will have a positive impact but stressed that eliminating crime around the MBTA stations won't be easy.

"It's a long road and we have to be patient," Mullen said.

The chief said that the rainy weather over the weekend probably curtailed criminal activity in the target areas.

Two individuals were arrested for breaking and entering into a motor vehicle, two others were arrested for being minors in possession of alcohol, two others were arrested on outstanding warrants, and another individual was placed in protective custody for violating the open container law.

Mullen also said a group of minors were arrested for drinking at Presidents Golf Course Saturday night. The arrests were an "offshoot" of the unit's work, he said.

The anti-crime unit is comprised of a sergeant and six patrolmen. Mullen formed the unit at the request of Mayor James Sheets who is adamant about curtailing crime around the train stations.

"They are getting a handle on who's who. If it's the same characters out there then we are gonna know," Mullen said. He said members of the unit have started by talking with area merchants.

Dorothy Shea State Senate Candidate

Dorothy M. Shea of Quincy announces she is a Democratic candidate for State Senate in the Norfolk Senatorial District which comprises Quincy, Braintree, Avon and Holbrook.

Shea, 27, is employed as an in-house sales representative for Mass. Business Associates. She is also a former legislative aide in the senate. If elected, she said her experience as an aide would help her serve her constituents.

"It has been my privilege and to your advantage that I have worked in the State House of Boston. When I worked there, it was exciting to be a part of government being processed and having seen the results, of hard work.

"For four years I worked and volunteered in the Senate and became friends of many senators, and influential people whom I look forward to working with them again. With my experience of communication, where history is being made, I know I can help more than anyone else for my constituents and to reason with respect for which you will be proud of me," Shea said.

Growing up in Quincy, Shea attended the Merrymount School and Central Junior High School and the Sacred Heart High School in Weymouth Landing. She then attended Quincy Junior College studying health and science, including psychology.

Shea then enrolled at

DOROTHY SHEA

Suffolk University, graduating in 1988 with a bachelor of science degree in business management. While attending Suffolk full-time, she worked as a waitress at the Quincy Neighborhood Club and as a legislative aide.

As an aide, she was responsible for assisting senators and their staff in the conduct of everyday legislative duties and worked with constituents. She did research on upcoming bills and their standing and worked on various fundraising events.

After graduation, she was employed by the Internal Revenue Service in Boston, and completed an intensive training program.

In her present position as an in-house sales representative for Mass. Business Associates, Shea supports, produces and maintains structure with sales representatives.

"I know I thrive on working with people, for the people and live by the rules for which I am looking forward to representing you, the people of Avon, Braintree, Holbrook and Quincy. I have been brought up through generations of great pride knowing it is our duty to vote, with the freedom of choice, our vote does make a difference.

"I promise you, I will do everything that I can do to the best of my ability to serve your community, but I can only do this with your help, which is you vote. Take the time out as an American citizen to do your duty and get out and vote, you'll feel better for doing it. Now you can say you have an interest in voting because you personally know Dorothy Shea," she said.

Shea lives with her family at 110 Furnace Brook Parkway. She is the daughter of Thomas and Dorothy Shea. She has two sisters, Kathianne and Maureen, and three brothers, Tommy, Gerard and Joseph, and belongs to Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, Quincy.

Shea is a member of the Merrymount Association, Girl Scouts. She has also volunteered her time for senior citizens and as a candy striper at Quincy Hospital.

Shea, who calls herself a "non-politician," says she can "make a difference" if elected state senator. "With your help, I can make a difference as I'm tired of sitting back and I know I have the qualifications to serve my constituents if you have confidence in me.

"As a non-politician I know I can make a difference in Avon, Braintree, Holbrook and Quincy."

Recycling Committee To Meet May 4

The City Council Disposal and Recycling Committee will meet Monday, May 4 at 6:45 p.m. in the Council Chambers.

According to Recycling Committee Chairman and Ward 3 Councillor Larry Chretien, the purpose of the meeting is to discuss with Public Works Commissioner David Colton plans for putting out the proposal for new contracts for trash collection, disposal, recycling, leaf composting and perhaps household hazardous waste.

"Given the enormous fiscal and environmental importance of the R.F.P. (request for proposal), Commissioner Colton and I would like to have the council express any concerns that it might have," Chretien said.

In addition, some member of the Recycling Committee will attend to offer comments on the issue from their perspective.

School Committee, City Council To Meet Monday

Joint Convention To Fill Collins' School Post

A joint convention of the City Council and School Committee will convene Monday, April 27 at 6:30 p.m. in the Council Chambers of City Hall to appoint a successor to School Committeewoman Mary Collins who resigned last week because of health concerns.

Collins, 49, stepped down from her school committee post on the advice of her physician. She was the committee's senior member, serving 15 years.

MARY COLLINS

Collins Resignation Statement Page 5

As a parent activist, Collins first won a seat on the School Committee in 1978. She was re-elected four times. She was elected vice-chairperson for a third time in January.

In 1988, Collins became the first woman elected as a Norfolk County commissioner. She said will complete her four-year term as commissioner but will not seek re-election in the fall.

Collins's announcement shocked the local political community. Almost immediately would-be successors began lining up, including the three school committee candidates who failed to win a seat in last fall's city election.

Retired math teacher Margaret "Peg" King, parent activist JoAnn Bragg and former School Committeewoman Mary "Jane" Powers indicated they would like to replace Collins. King, Bragg and Powers finished fourth, fifth and sixth respectively in the six-candidate field last November.

Incumbent Stephen Durkin was re-elected and Dan Raymondi and Linda Stice also won school committee seats.

Collins was re-elected to a four-year term on the School Committee in 1989. The successor would fill Collins's unexpired term which runs through the end of 1993.

Sheets, who also serves as school committee chairman, will not be a part of the joint convention because of a conflict. As mayor, Sheets is on a leave of absence from his former post as a Quincy College faculty instructor. The school committee votes on his leave.

"The person who is chosen (to replace Collins) will vote on my leave," the mayor said. "I see that as a conflict and the (state) Ethics Commission has ruled in my favor."

The convention will be made up of 15 representatives, nine city councillors and six school committee members.

Traditionally, the first runner-up in the most recent school committee race has received the appointment when a vacancy occurs. However, that is not an official city policy.

Councillor Patricia Toland attempted to submit a home-rule petition to the Legislature that would have simplified the process of renaming a replacement to a vacated seat. Toland's proposal called for appointing the next highest vote-getter in the most recent election. Her petition was filed too late for passage.

Because there is not a set replacement policy, anyone can be nominated for the post at the convention. "The process is open-ended," Sheets said.

The mayor said the school committee will name a new vice chairman after the Collins' vacancy is filled.

Neighbors Oppose Propane Tank

By STEVE KAVANAGH

Neighbors of Curry Hardware, 370 Copeland St., aired concerns regarding a proposal to store 1,000 gallons of propane outside the store.

The License Board voted to continue the hearing until Fire Department officials can further review the plan and the site.

Bob Curry, owner of the hardware store, said he wants to sell propane which is used by consumers primarily for gas grills. Curry said he is looking for ways to compete with the nearby Home Depot store which is being built on Willard Street.

Curry applied for a permit to store 1,000 gallons of the fuel but said he actually wants a 500-gallon storage tank.

Robert and Anne Cannon of 363 Copeland St. and Frank and Minerva DelMonico of 359 Copeland St. spoke in opposition to the propane tank. Both couples live across the street from the store.

Robert Cannon read from a report written by the National Fire Protection Association describing propane fires.

"It's quite a volatile substance," Cannon said.

Cannon read a description of a fire caused by the explosion of a 500-gallon propane tank which hurled hot, metal fragments as far as 600 feet away which ignited roof and grass fires.

Cannon estimated that he lives no more than 300 feet from Curry's store.

"We are concerned about an accident," he said.

Minerva DelMonico told the board a propane storage tank at the site would make her afraid of an accidental explosion.

"It's very scary. We love the Curry's but...."

"I don't want anything unsafe," Curry said. He added that his son and other employees work at the store and he would not jeopardize their safety.

ALCOHOL: KID'S NO. 1 HEALTH PROBLEM

Per capita consumption of alcohol has been going down for years in America, except among youths. According to the surgeon general, underage drinking is the single greatest threat to the health and lives of our children. As many as eight million of the country's 20.7 kids in grades seven through 12 drink alcoholic beverages every week, with 454,000 of them going on weekly binges of five or more drinks at a time. The leading cause of death among teens is traffic accidents in which drivers were intoxicated. Beyond that, alcohol abuse figures prominently in incidents of suicide, murder, rape and family violence. School officials from junior high through college say alcohol accounts for a large percentage of academic problems, including dropping out.

P.S. The legal drinking age throughout the United States is 21.

It is time for us all to realize that teenage abuse of alcohol can be just as great a problem as the abuse of illegal drugs. More Political Surprises

Election Year '92 seems to be just chock full of surprises.

First, Brian Donnelly's announcement he will not seek re-election. That opened the political floodgates with candidates scrambling all over the place.

DONNELLY

HAROLD

Paul Harold kept them scrambling by announcing he would run for Donnelly's Congressional seat. And Michael Morrissey kept it going by announcing his candidacy for Harold's senate seat. And that opened up Morrissey's state representative seat.

Mary Collins, in another surprise, last week resigned from the Quincy School Committee for health reasons and also announced she would not seek re-election as Norfolk County Commissioner.

COLLINS

And then, in another surprise — a big one on the local political front — City Clerk John Gillis this week became a candidate for Collins' County Commission seat.

GILLIS

Others who were giving consideration to running for that seat included City Councillor Michael Cheney and Atty. Kevin Burke who ran for the Ward 5 City Council seat in 1987.

Cheney's and Burke's interest was indicated before Gillis stepped into the ring. Burke reportedly will now back Gillis.

Gillis' decision to run for County Commissioner took City Hall, where he has been a fixture for 35 years, by complete surprise and triggered speculation about the City Clerk's job.

The rightful heir is Assistant City Clerk Joseph Shea, who is a well organized individual and has done a good job since succeeding Tom Burke last year. (Burke, incidentally, will be Gillis' campaign manager.in his run for County Commissioner).

SHEA

If Gillis wins and steps down as City Clerk and Shea moves up, who would get the assistant clerk's job?

Names being mentioned as possibilities: City Councillor Pat Toland, Mike Cheney (although he would probably be more interested in the clerk's job), former Councillor Jack Lydon.

There are bound to be more.

The scramble is also on for Collins' School Committee seat.

The School Committee and City Council will convene Monday in a joint session to fill the vacancy.

Right now that is the way it is done but it is not the best way. The problem with that process is that someone who has never run for School Committee or shown any interest in it, could wind up in the seat because of political cronyism.

It has happened in the past.

The fair way would be to have the vacancy filled by the runner-up in the most recent School Committee race.

Unfortunately, Councillor Pat Toland's proposal that the vacancy go to the runner-up has yet to become a reality.

Margaret (Peggy) King, a retired Quincy math teacher was the runner-up in last year's election. There is strong sentiment — and rightfully so — that she be named to succeed Collins if she wants the post. She is now in Florida where she spent the winter.

KING

JoAnn Bragg and former School Committee member Mary Jane Powers, who finished fifth and sixth respectively last year are interested. So, probably, is Sean Barry, who finished just a few votes behind Powers in the preliminary election runoff.

Let's hope that the School Committee and City Council Monday night eliminate from consideration anyone who has not run for the office.

Collins' resignation also raises another interesting question: who will succeed her as vice chairman of the School Committee?

The early betting is on Dan Raymondi, who was top vote-getter in both the preliminary and final School Committee elections last year.

RAYMONDI

YOU CAN SCRATCH John Keenan as a candidate for the First Norfolk state representative seat. Keenan, who was considered a likely candidate, instead is on the campaign team of City Solicitor Steve McGrath in his bid for the State Senate seat.

MOVEMENT ON THE fund-raising front:

A campaign kick-off breakfast for Congressional candidate Paul Harold, is set for Sunday, May 3, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.m at the Bryan VFW Post, Broad St, Quincy. Tickets are $10 per person.

STEVE McGRATH will launch his bid for the state senate at a campaign kickoff Thursday, April 30 from 7 to 10 p.m. at Morrisette Legion Post. Tickets are $10 per person, $15 per couple.

THEY ARE WELL known names on the Quincy political front but Michael Morrissey and Steve McGrath may need to get better acquainted with Braintree voters as they campaign for the state senate.seat Paul Harold is vacating to run for Congress.

MORRISSEY

McGRATH

Harold told Morrissey and McGrath that he was at Braintree town hall recently and someone said to him they liked that young senate candidate from Quincy.

"Which one?", Harold asked.

"Steve Morrissey," the Braintreeite replied.

Presidents' Walk Saturday

Mayor James Sheets and Senator Paul Harold will join the Quincy Tourism Association on its inaugural Presidents' Walk which will step off from the United First Parish Church, Quincy Square, Saturday at 1 p.m.

The tour will include 14 of Quincy's historic sites en route to the National Historic Site on Adams St. Along the way, volunteers will give brief historic accounts of each location.

Rain date will be Sunday, April 26 at 1 p.m.

Text Of Collins Resignation

"On the advice of my physician, I am today (April 16) resigning my seat on the Quincy School Committee. I will complete my term as Norfolk County Commissioner, but I will not file papers for re-election to that position.

"I have enjoyed my four years on the Norfolk County Commission working with administrators and the commissioners to insure the efficient operation of county government. I am particularly pleased that charter reform which I campaigned for and supported will be on the ballot in November.

"In my 15 years on the school committee, I have taken great pride in my service to the citizens of Quincy and especially to the children who will make the future of this city bright. The Quincy public schools is comprised of administrators and staff members who are intelligent and hard-working dedicated to providing a superior education for our students. We are fortunate too to have parents who care deeply about their children's education and make their concerns known to school committee members and school personnel. It has been a great source of pleasure to me to have worked with all of these people to create and maintain a first rate school system in Quincy.

"I know that I have a reputation for sometimes making unpopular decisions and for being a vocal minority on the school committee for issues which I feel strongly about. My religion, my education and my family have encouraged me to follow my conscience, and I hope that those who elected and re-elected me are as pleased as I am that I have done that.

"Quincy College has been an important part of the educational community and we are all proud of its successes. However, it saddens me that a continuous pattern of arbitrary actions has affected the lives and livelihood of faculty and students. I have tried to look into the situation at the college because of the calls I have received from teachers and students, some of whom have been forced out of jobs or out of classes.

"The continuing morale problems at the college reveal the human toll which such behavior always exacts. I have been disappointed that others have not viewed the situation as warranting immediate action. I can only hope that the school committee will realize that the behavior of the college leadership has severely damaged those who teach and learn there and that they will take steps to improve conditions.

"I have enjoyed my long tenure on the school committee and of course I will miss it. Maybe I won't miss the length of the meetings or disputes over the direction of the Committee, but I will miss the opportunity to have a say in the education of our children and the friendships I have made with a number of School Committee members over the years. I know that I will enjoy watching from the sidelines as a citizen and encouraging others to participate in this exciting and demanding process."

We Need A Commitment To Our Public Schools

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

As both a taxpayer and parent of a school-age child, I believe in the value of good public education. I have always had an interest and commitment to the existence of quality public education whether it was as a political activist in Boston or now in Quincy as a parent concerned about his daughter's educational future.

Recently, the question of school overcrowding in certain Quincy neighborhoods has made the headlines. In the past two decades, the City of Quincy had experienced a decrease in school-age children and decided to unload underused school facilities into the condominium market. That was then, but today, in the last decade of the century, Quincy's public schools are busting at the seams in many cases with overcrowded schools, make-shift classrooms and questionable education as a side effect.

There has been talk of taking back a couple of former school buildings now leased out to tenants such as the Standish and Beechwood Knoll schools in the northern end of the city. Former schools, now condos, are gone forever thanks to the apparently short-sighted leaders of yesterday. Does Quincy need to build another school in South Quincy or West Quincy? Can existing schools be expanded to take care of the growing student population? These are questions parents want answered. These are questions that the school committee and City Hall must face up to and address. Problems need to be addressed now during this current school year.

If the City of Quincy is to have a future as a hub for the South Shore, it surely will need a school system second to none. The children are our future. If parents leave town in search of better school systems for their children, Quincy's future will be its past. We don't need rhetoric. We don't need soundbites. We do need a commitment to constantly improving Quincy's public schools.

Burgin Sets Tax Rate At $33.40

Mayor Thomas S. Burgin announced a $33.40 tax rate for 1937, a reduction of 20 cents due largely to a $200,000 City Council slash in the budget and an increase in state aid of nearly $100,000.

The total valuation of the city was also reduced from $124.1 million to $122.6 million.

Most of that reduction was caused by a new state law which removed the assessment of manufacturing machinery from the local assessors and placed it in the hands of state tax officials.

Everest Expedition Presentation At Bethany Congregational Church

Bethany Congregational Church in Quincy will sponsor a Slide Show and Lecture by Rick Wilcox, "Everest-Journey To the Top of the World" Sunday, May 17 at 2 p.m. at the Cove Auditorium on the campus of Eastern Nazarene College, Wendell Ave., Wollaston.

Wilcox, leader of the 1991 New England Everest Expedition, will relive the adventure of a lifetime, from the expedition's conception six years ago, through the selection of the team and the struggles of raising funds to the final steps onto the rook of the world. His eight-man expedition was the first American Everest Expedition to be organized from the Eastern USA.

In what has gone down in history as one of the most difficult seasons on record, Wilcox and three other team members including Mark Richey of Boston, Barry Rugo of Jamaica Plain and Yves LaForest, the first Quebec resident to ever climb the mountain, reached the summit on May 15, 1991. They climbed Everest from the Nepal side following the classic South Ridge Route.

Members of the expedition who were not successful in reaching the summit included Mark Chauvin of Bartlett, N.H., Dr. Mike Sinclair of Allentown, Penn., Gary Scott of Boulder, Colo., and Dr. Dick St. Onge of West Newton.

Tickets are $8 in advance and $10 at the door. Advance tickets may be purchased by sending a check and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Bethany Congregational Church, 18 Spear St., Quincy, MA 02169. For more information call the church office at 479-7300.

Summerfest Concerts In 10th Year

The Quincy South Shore Cultural Commission will sponsor the Summerfest Concert Program for the 10th consecutive year during the months of July and August.

Nine free concerts are scheduled for Wednesday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m. The commission is a private non-profit corporation established in December 1976.

The free concerts were initially started in the summer of 1983 at City Hall and later relocated in 1985 following the completion of the city-owned Ruth Gordon Amphitheatre at Merrymount Park.

This year's program will feature a special 10th anniversary ad book which will highlight the 10-year history of the program and recognize the many people and groups who have contributed to its success in the last decade.

The concerts are largely funded by individual and group contributions with supportive services from the City of Quincy.

Some performances are sponsored by businesses and local organizations. The program is run by volunteers under the direction of former Mayor Joseph LaRaia, president and founder.

'Christmas On Parade' Theme For 1992 Parade

"Christmas On Parade" has been selected as the theme of this year's Quincy Christmas Festival Parade.

The theme was submitted by Anna MacKinnon, 80 Prospect Ave., Wollaston. The festival selected MacKinnon's theme suggestion from approximately 250 entries.

Committee Float Chairperson Frances Flynn said the "Christmas On Parade" theme offers float builders diversification, flexibility and imagination in building a float to comply with the theme.

Entries were received from throughout the Quincy-South Shore area, including as far as Whitman, Plymouth and Hanson.

Now that the parade theme is known, festival committee members will soon notify organizations interested in building a float. Parade float entry forms will be mailed shortly.

Flynn urges all organizations and businesses planning to participate in the parade to return the completed entry forms as soon as possible. In past years, the committee has had to form a float waiting list. Although the committee has increased the number of floats allowed, a waiting list was still necessary.

The total amount of prize money awarded to winning floats will increase $1,500 this year, from $2,000 to $3,500.

The grand prize winner will receive $1,500; other cash prizes will be $750 for second; $500 for third; and $250 each for fourth and fifth place. The prize money applies to club and organization float categories.

Last year, $1,000 was awarded to first; $500 for second; $300 for third; and $200 for fourth.

North Team Places Second In Computer Competition

North Quincy High School placed second in the Northeast region finals of the seventh annual Compu-Tourney recently.

The day-long computer competition was held at 15 locations across the country including the Northeast region at Hewlett Packard in Burlington.

Despite being a late entry into the competition with little time for preparation the North Quincy team of Tim Johnson, John Aliberti and Kevin Price earned their school more than $3,000 worth of computer software and hardware, including a laser-jet printer.

Sheets Named Local Hero By Lung Association

Mayor James Sheets has been named a local hero by the Norfolk County-Newton Lung Association.

He will be honored for his efforts to protect the environment at a reception at the Pillar House in Newton on May 6. The Pillar House was one of the first restaurants in the country to offer totally smoke-free dining.

His emphasis on promoting a "Cleaner, Greener Quincy," which involves the participation of many volunteers this spring, was singled out for special mention, along with the success of Quincy Evergreen.

Sheets was honored for his efforts to preserve open space, increase tree plantings, encourage residents to adopt traffic islands and beautify them with trees and plants.

The local hero program of the Lung Association honors people who are committed to protecting the environment and whose efforts promote lung health.

Nominations for local heroes are encouraged and can be sent to the Norfolk County-Newton Lung Association, "The Healthy Lung People," at 25 Spring St., Walpole, MA 02081.

12 Residents On BU Dean's List

Boston University lists 12 Quincy residents on its Dean's List.

They are: Shuk H. Cheng, Sui H. Choi, Linda R. D'Amore, Amy E. Davis, William A. Ferrara, Julie A. Flaherty, Kathryn K. Keyes, Allesandra N. Lanza, Eva M. Shea, Jacob C. Sutton, Huy T. Thai, and Kwong-Kit Wong.

HALF A DOZEN WAYS TO EARN AN EARLY RETIREMENT.

1. Eat high-fat, high-cholesterol foods.
2. Smoke.
3. Ignore your high blood pressure.
4. Heavily salt everything you eat.
5. Put on extra weight.
6. Stop exercising regularly.

Follow these steps and you could retire from work, and from life, sooner than you planned.

We Can Hook You Up To A Clean, Natural Gas Heating System With Just Two Connections.

Call 1-800-852-5900 and one of your local plumbers/heating contractors listed below.

All it takes is two phone calls. And if you already have gas service to your home, you only need to make one call to a local contractor. That's it.

And you'll have an efficient, clean, natural gas heating system that comes with a number of important advantages. Like the fact that gas prices tend to stay steady year after year. With fewer moving parts, there's less maintenance, too. And unlike other fossil fuels, natural gas is piped directly into your home so there are no storage or delivery problems, either.

Get our Home Heating Service Plan. Free.

Switch to a gas heating system before October 31, 1992 and we'll give you a Boston Gas Home Heating Service Plan for 3 full years. Free. And you'll have an even greater measure of dependability with your equipment.

So if you're thinking about a new heating system or want more information about our programs, give us a call. And we'll connect you with natural gas directly.

The Co-operative Bank Selected For Middle Class Mortgage Program

The Co-operative Bank has been selected as one of the leading lenders for State Treasurer Joseph Malone's "Middle Class American Dream" Mortgage Program.

The innovative program uses state pension fund money to provide mortgages for qualified Massachusetts families earning as much as $68,000 a year.

Loans are not restricted to first time buyers and there are no purchase price limits. Home ownership is made more affordable with more lenient underwriting standards, reduced points, and lower down payment requirements. The properties can be single family homes, condominiums or two to four unit, owner-occupied dwellings. Eligible properties must be located in Massachusetts.

With the "American Dream" Program, the down payment requirement can be as little as 5 percent of the value of the property. Borrowers that are State Pension Fund contributors need only have 3 percent of the purchase price as a down payment from their own funds. The remaining 2 percent can be a gift or from other sources.

The Co-operative Bank enhances Treasurer Malone's program by offering other financing incentives to borrowers such as reduced attorney fees and no credit or appraisal fee for first time buyers.

The IRS also has toll-free telephone numbers for assistance. Call 1-800-829-1040 for taxpayer information; 1-800-829 FORM for forms and publications; and 1-800-829-4477 for refund information.

Two Residents On Boston Police Force Cited For Service

Two Boston Police Officers from Quincy were recognized for valorous and meritorious service at a recent serviced held at Police Headquarters.

Officers Alan D. Whiffen and Thomas D. Bowes each received a letter of commendation from Commissioner Francis M. (Mickey) Roache. Whiffen, 55, is a 22-year veteran of the force. Bowes, 32, joined the department in 1983.

Whiffen was cited for his actions which led to the arrest of an armed and dangerous criminal last year.

On Nov. 14, 1991, Whiffen and Officer Robert C. Brown responded to the Store 24 on First Ave. in Charlestown on a report of an armed robbery. The victim provided the officers with a fairly good description of the suspect. They also were able to review the store's video tape which had recorded the incident.

Officers Whiffen and Brown were searching the area when they observed a man possibly matching the suspect's description, although it had appeared that he had taken steps to alter his appearance. The officers conducted a threshold inquiry and asked the suspect if he would accompany them back to the store. The suspect agreed to go and was positively identified by the clerk at Store 24. The suspect was placed under arrest.

On Nov. 18, 1991, Officer Bowes, along with Officers Frederick Fontaine and Michael Stewart responded to a call on a report of a man with a gun.

On arrival they observed the suspect seated in the rear of a motor vehicle holding what appeared to be a handgun. The suspect was holding at gunpoint four members of his estranged girlfriend's family. He had threatened to shoot the family members unless his girlfriend came out of the car to speak to him.

Upon seeing the officers, the victims in the car started screaming and in the confusion made good their escape from the car. After the victims were safe an uninjured, Officers Bowes, Fontaine and Steward disarmed and arrested the suspect without injury to themselves or innocent bystanders.

The suspect had in his possession a fully loaded semi-automatic handgun, airline tickets and passports for himself and his estranged girlfriend. This indicated that he had planned to forcibly abduct her and flee the country.

Bowes swift intervention in a grave situation prevent a kidnapping and possibly serious injury to family members, Roache said.

Quincy DPW, BFI Co-Sponsoring Elementary School Poster Contest

In observance of National Public Works Week, the Quincy Public Works Department and Browning-Ferris Industries (BFI) are co-sponsoring a poster contest for elementary school students.

Entries will be displayed at an Open House Thursday, May 21, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Quincy DPW, 55 Sea St. Poster entries should measure 20 by 30 inches and depict an aspect of public works operation.

There will be three divisions: kindergarten through grade two; grades three through five; and grades six through eight. First, second, and third place recognition awards (nine in all) will be presented for each division by Mayor James Sheets during the Open House.

Each first place winner will receive a commemorative plaque, $50 savings bond and tee shirt. Each second and third place winner will receive a tee shirt and certificate of award.

Poster themes should show some aspect of public works activity, such as snow plowing, recycling, repairing streets, street signage; sewer, water, drainage service; street lighting and related activities.

Entries must be received by the Quincy DPW administration offices by Tuesday, May 12 at 3 p.m.

Entries should be sent to Michael C. Wheelwright, program manager, Department of Public Works, 55 Sea St., Quincy, MA 02169, (617) 376-1901.

Don't Waste That Waste ...

... Put It To Use For A Healthier Yard

Massachusetts law now prohibits leaving grass cuttings, leaves and other yard waste for garbage collection. To help homeowners make the most of these useable and useful natural resources, the City of Quincy and Quincy College are pleased to present, free of charge, the following:

QUINCY NEIGHBORHOOD HOUSING Services has moved into a new spacious second-floor office at 300 Newport Ave., North Quincy. The 1500 square-foot office, offered rent-free by The Co-operative Bank, will enable Quincy NHS to service homeowners in the Montclair, Wollaston, Atlantic and Houghs Neck neighborhoods.

The Co-operative Bank Donates Office Space

Quincy NHS Expands, Opens New Office In N.Q.

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

For nearly 11 years Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services has been helping people in Southwest Quincy and Quincy Point realize "There's No Place Like Home."

Now, with the help of The Co-operative Bank, Quincy NHS will be able to help residents in the northern segment of the city with their housing needs.

QNHS recently moved into a new 1500 square-foot office on the second floor of 300 Newport Ave., in space donated by The Co-operative Bank. With their new office, Quincy NHS will be lend their assistance and services to home owners in Wollaston, Montclair, Atlantic and Houghs Neck.

A non-profit, independent organization formed in 1981, Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services is a partnership of business, residents and the city of Quincy dedicated to neighborhood revitalization. The primary means used by the agency to improve the neighborhood is low interest home improvement and rehabilitation loans.

Since its inception 11 years ago, the service agency has provided more than $2 million in improvement loans to more than 200 Quincy homeowners ineligible for conventional financing.

Only $2,800 has been lost to bad loans. "Our repayment record has been excellent," QNHS Executive Director Normand Grenier said. "It's been as good, if not better, than the banks."

Loans average six percent, and range from zero to 10 percent. "We have more zero percent loans than 10 percent loans," Grenier said.

In addition, QNHS four-person staff has also inspected more than 750 units of housing and provided renovation advice, cost estimates and construction assistance

Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services was formed after a city-wide survey of housing conditions in several neighborhoods in 1980. Southwest Quincy and Quincy Point were selected as the first and second service areas for NHS involvement. In the fall of 1981, Quincy NHS was incorporated and moved into its first home at 266 Water St., in the Brewer's Corner of Southwest Quincy.

During its five-year stay in Southwest Quincy, QNHS established a solid reputation for bringing needed investment and improvements to the neighborhood. By 1984, more than $1.2 million was put to work in the community; almost $1 million rehabilitating homes, over $330,000 repairing store fronts, and another $300,000 of city funds on public projects including tree planting, street repairs and park improvements.

In 1985, QNHS relocated its office to Quincy Point Congregational Church, 444 Washington St., Quincy Point. The Ward 4 Neighborhood Association, formerly known as the Southwest Community Relations Committee, was created, sponsored, and staffed by NHS to assist residents with neighborhood improvements and maintenance in NHS's absence.

After assisting Quincy Point residents for five and a half years, Quincy NHS announced it would expand its service areas to include Houghs Neck, Atlantic, and the Wollaston and Montclair neighborhoods.

Because of its expansion plans, QNHS needed another office in its new target area.

David Bradbury, chairman and CEO of The Co-operative Bank, said the bank was more than willing to offer space rent-free to QNHS. The Co-Operative Bank has a history of providing financial assistance to Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services. From that perspective, Bradbury touts the organization as a successful and effective public-private partnership.

As a member of QNHS board, Bradbury also realized Quincy NHS would need a new office but didn't have the fiscal resources to rent one on their own.

By offering the second floor at 300 Newport Ave. rent-free, QNHS can now expand its services.

"It's part of our commitment to the city of Quincy to help people obtain affordable housing," Bradbury said. "The saying 'get more bang for the buck' certainly applies to Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services. They provide many important services to Quincy residents with such a small staff."

Quincy NHS is staffed by four workers: Grenier; Donna Ackerman, administrative assistant; Butch Barberi, construction specialist; and Janice Tucker, secretary.

The organization also has a five-member board of directors; three private representatives from local financial institutions; 10 neighborhood representatives; and two city representatives.

The office of Norfolk County Sheriff Clifford Marshall also helped QNHS with their new home. Several inmates from the Norfolk County Correctional Center in Dedham painted the new office and built a few wooden storage cabinets, saving the organization several hundred dollars in renovation costs.

The new office officially opened April 16 at a ribbon cutting ceremony attended by several dozen city officials, housing advocates, business leaders and residents.

Mayor James Sheets, who cut the ribbon officially opening the new office, praised QNHS as a shining example of what public-private partnerships can accomplish.

Nancy Gustafson Quincy Hospital Employee Of Month

Nancy Gustafson of Wollaston, a 19-year employee at Quincy Hospital, has been the hospital's Employee of the Month for March.

Gustafson began working nights as a nurse assistant at the hospital in 1973 and later worked in the delivery room. For the past 12 years, she has worked in the central processing department as a central processing aide.

NANCY GUSTAFSON

Gustafson, a graduate of Quincy High School, is responsible for the sterilization of all equipment in the hospital. All the specialty trays and thurcomody carts are brought to the decontamination room and put through the washer sterilizer.

She has seen many changes in central processing, including the transition from washing equipment by hand to a washer streamed sterilizer. Gustafson said she feels most satisfied working behind the scenes because it's a crucial part of quality patient care.

"I cannot stress enough how proud I was of Nancy when in Lillian Watts, R.N., absence I was covering central processing and we were having our state department of public health's review," said Catherine Beniers, R.N. "I chose Nancy to give a walking tour to the surveyor. She not only explained the every day routine of the department, but offered an explanation for all of the tasks performed.

"She is truly an asset to Quincy Hospital," Beniers added.

47 NQHS Students Complete Leadership Training Program

Forty-seven North Quincy High School students recently completed a Leadership Training Program sponsored by the District Attorney's office.

The training session, conducted by Pamela Ellis and Sandra Pimental, was hosted by North's Alliance Against Racism council, under the leadership of advisor and faculty member Maria D'Arcangelo. Students from the school's Asian-American Club and the Jefferson also participated.

The North Quincy High School Student Alliance is a direct offshoot of the District Attorney's Children of War Program. This year, the group attended the regional conference at the University of Massachusetts, Boston, and completed several service projects within the community.

Last year, D'Arcangelo was presented the Human Rights Coalition Award sponsored by State District Attorney Scott Harshbarger's office.

Labor Seminars At Quincy College

The Sullivan Labor-Management Center at Quincy College is sponsoring two spring seminars. Classes will meet from 7 to 9 p.m. at Saville Hall, Room 202, and are open to the general public.

Beginning Wednesday, the college will offer an introduction to the "ABC's of Labor-Management Negotiations" for five weeks, meeting on Wednesdays. Nancy Peace, a professional arbitrator, will use role playing, case studies, and guest speakers to examine negotiating techniques.

On Thursday, May 14, Nobuyuki Kondo, president of the Japanese Business Association of New England, will discuss the differences between the Japanese and the American systems of management and labor relations.

College President O. Clayton Johnson said the seminars should be of particular interest to union members and managers. There is a fee of $25 for the negotiations seminar and the Japanese/American System seminar is free.

Local Realtors Lobby For Change In Lead Paint Law

Twenty-five members of the Quincy and South Shore Board of Realtors recently participated in the sixth annual "Margaret C. Carlson Day on Beacon Hill" activities sponsored by the Massachusetts Association of Realtors (MAR).

The local realtors met with Senator Paul Harold and Reps. Michael Morrisey and Stephen Tobin to discuss their concerns regarding the Commonwealth's existing lead paint law and other critical issues important to the real estate industry.

The Quincy and South Shore Board of Realtors' members voiced their support for H. 2270, as amended, a bill which proposes several changes to the current lead law, including:

The elimination of the strict liability provisions of the law in favor of common law proof of negligence as the norm, the adoption of a new public policy which supports lead containment and encapsulation as a method of abatement rather than a policy of removal only, and an increase in economic incentives for property owners through additional tax credits and new allowances for encapsulation and window replacement.

Chartered in 1940, the Quincy and South Shore Board of Realtors serves the communities of Braintree, Weymouth, Quincy and Hull. The term "realtor" is registered as the exclusive trademark of members of the National Association of Realtors who subscribe to a strict Code of Ethics.

$244,937 In Wiring

There were 113 wire permits issued in March for an estimated cost of wiring of $244,937, according to Wire Inspector Thomas Purpura.

There were 39 Certificates of Approval issued to Massachusetts Electric Company and permit fees totaled $2,891.50.

Total inspections was 326, number of defects was 52 with 51 reinspections.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Just think what your house or office would be like if you never cleaned them! Just imagine what your refrigerator or your mail box would be like if you never emptied them!

Well, your mind is no different .. it, too, needs to be emptied and cleaned as well ... Everyday we tend to accumulate all kinds of unwholesome, unhealthy thoughts and impressions. They can pile up in our heads and cause a lot of resentment, guilt or fear that is completely unnecessary.

Someone once said; "Everyday give your mind a good shampoo." One might ask how do you give yourself a mental shampoo? Practice 'emptying out your mind' ... Let go of those unhealthy, unwholesome, mean, jealous, resentful thoughts and replace them with good, wholesome, clean thoughts.

Yes, we can change ourselves by changing our thoughts. We are what we think. It is just as easy to think positively than to think negatively. Think positively. You might be surprised what happens! It is truly amazing what thoughts can do to us.

Russian Musicians To Visit First Church Of Squantum

A group of Russian musicians will visit the First Church of Squantum Wednesday, April 29 to present a "Siberian Music Festival" at 8 p.m. in the church sanctuary.

The 30 visitors include a liturgical choir, a solo guitarist, a solo pianist and a group that calls itself the "Blue Grass Boys" because they specialize in American country music. The concert is free although a collection will be taken to help the musicians with their costs.

The visitors are sponsored by "Sharing a New Song" (SANS), a Duxbury-based choral/musical exchanged group, and the Musical Society of Omsk, Siberia.

On Easter morning, members and friends of the First Church of Squantum gathered at the church for an Easter Sunrise service. The service was originally scheduled for Moswetusett Hummock but the inclement weather prevented using that location. Following the service, the worshippers went downstairs to the fellowship hall to have an Easter breakfast.

Scripture readers were Tom Klock and Patti Langevin. The pastor of the church, the Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, preached on the subject, "Ecstatic Joy."

The choir also sang. Greeters were Ellen, Andrew and Lori Ogilvie. Ushers were Ann Wallin and Roberta Sheehan. The fellowship hour after the service was hosted by Barbara Sorenson and Hazel Mayne.

This Sunday the service will begin at 10:30 a.m. after Sunday School at 9:30 a.m. The public is welcome to attend.

QCA To Discuss Quincy Quality Of Life Issues

The Quincy Citizens Association was scheduled to discuss several issues affecting Quincy's quality of life at a meeting Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center, Hunt St., North Quincy.

Among the questions and issues were law enforcement; the methadone distribution van located in the Court House parking lot; should Quincy sell city-owned land, such as the Braintree dam; and improving Downtown Quincy and other sections of the city.

In addition, QCA members were invited to express their views on issues in Quincy public schools, such as how to curb guns, violence and continual absences; as well as extending the number of classroom hours.

Suggestions, comments and ideas expressed by members at the April 22 meeting will be forwarded to city officials.

Blood Drive May 26 At Knights Of Columbus

Quincy Red Hot, North Trying To Get Back On Track

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Quincy baseball team, after a slow start, has been red hot of late and, behind phenomenal pitching, won three of its last four games to even its record at 3-3.

The Presidents hoped to keep rolling Tuesday when they hosted Boston Latin. They were home to South Boston yesterday (Wednesday), will host Dedham Friday at 10 a.m., will be at Weymouth Monday and will play at Taunton next Wednesday.

After being walloped by Falmouth and Barnstable, things began to turn around for Quincy when Steve Loud pitched a three-hitter in blanking North Quincy, 3-0.

He struck out seven and walked only one and also helped his own cause with a single and double, two RBI and two runs scored.

Then, last Thursday, sophomore Tommy Malvesti stepped into the breach and, in his first varsity start, proceeded to hurl a three-hitter in a 5-0 decision over Dedham.

Malvesti stuck out nine and walked four.

Dewey Holmes led the attack with two hits and two RBI and Noel DiBona had a home run and scored two runs.

"Things began to turn around with the North Quincy win," said coach Bob Sylvia. "We have been getting great pitching and we have begun to hit. Steve Loud was superb in his last two starts, Mike Malvesti did a fine job against Plymouth and young Tommy was outstanding against Dedham. If we continue to get this kind of pitching and keep hitting, we should win our share of games the rest of the way."

The Malvestis are the sons of Quincy Hall of Famer Tom Malvesti and the grandsons of Hall of Famer Nick Malvesti.

Meanwhile, things continue to go badly for North Quincy, which last week fell to 1-6 with losses to defending Old Colony League champion Taunton and Silver Lake.

Leo Donovan's Raiders continue in a hitting slump and scored only three runs in their last four games.

Following a 1-0 win over South Boston, North fell to Taunton, 8-1, and last Thursday the Raiders had only two hits as they lost to Silver Lake, 10-1.

"We just aren't hitting and our pitching, which hadn't been too bad, fell apart in the last two games," said Donovan. "I'm hoping our pitching and hitting will improve and that we can win some games the rest of the way."

North hoped to get back in the win column today (Thursday) at South Boston at 10 a.m. It will host Bridgewater-Raynham Monday and will be home to Weymouth next Wednesday.

Julie Killion Closes With N.E. Diving Title

Julie Killion, former North Quincy High all-scholastic, rounded out her collegiate diving career at Springfield College on a high note, winning the New England title in the Div. I and II New England diving championships at Northeastern University.

She was also selected as an All-American.

Julie finished first on the 1-meter board out of a strong field of 39. This, after strong performances in her three previous years, was her first N.E. crown.

She was a close third on the 3-meter board and three of her teammates joined her to finish among the top eight. After the meet Killion was voted Co-Diver of the Meet along with Allison White of UMass. by the N.E. diving coaches.

Killion also received the Charles Batterman Award which is given to the senior diver who has accumulated the most points throughout her four years of competing in the N.E. Championship Meet.

Killion, the top diver on a team of six, led the way as four of the Springfield divers represented New England at the NCAA Division II championships at the University of North Dakota.

She was Springfield's highest finisher, placing sixth on 3-meter and ninth on 1-meter, earning her All-American status.

JULIE KILLION

She was a state finalist each of her four years and received a memorial scholarship for being the "best athlete" in Quincy.

Her diving talent, refined by coaches such as her high school coach, Bill Walker, and John Walker of Harvard, had an immediate impact on the Springfield program.

She promptly set records and qualified for the nationals. She was voted Freshman Athlete of the Year at the college. Throughout her four-year career she was named Athlete of the Year several times and she holds all five varsity records.

"Julie was determined to go out in style," said Peter Avdoulos, Springfield's diving coach of seven years (he was voted Coach of the Year this season).

"She's a hard worker, tough competitor and, best of all, she's the most consistent diver I have ever coached.

"She was always counted on for points in close meets and she always welcomed any challenge. She almost never blew a dive in a meet and that consistency is what it takes to win. Julie has set the standards at Springfield and now it's up to her able successors to chase them.

"She is one of the biggest reasons why Springfield diving has become such a powerhouse. I'll miss her, I admire her perseverance and I know she will excel in all of her future endeavors," he said.

Killion hopes to coach after graduation and she hopes it will be in the Quincy area.

Quincy, North Players Shine On College Front

Scott Dunn, former North southpaw, is off to a flying start for Suffolk University, pitching shutouts in his first two starts.

He blanked Stonehill, 7-0, and Framingham State, 9-0.

Gary Rawdon, former North hurler, and Tom Balzano, one of the best catchers in the area while at Quincy, are playing for Massasoit Community College, which had a 15-3 record as of last week. Rawdon, in his first college start, pitched Massasoit to a 5-1 win over Southern Michigan, striking out nine and walking only two. Rawdon and Balzano were standouts for Morrisette Legion's Zone 6 Champions.

Erik DeBoer, who had an outstanding career at North Quincy and for Morrisette, has pitched well in relief for Bridgewater State College (19-2). He transferred to BSC from the University of Connecticut.

Former Quincy outfielder and captain of the Bentley College team Ed Flavin is off to a fast start, batting .467 with 14 hits in 30 at bats. He leads the Falcons in runs batted in with 10 and has scored eight runs. The four-year starter also has three doubles, a triple and a home run.

The former President is rapidly climbing on Bentley's career lists with his .340 lifetime average tied for second in the college's history. He also ranks fifth in career hits (122), sixth in doubles (25) and runs scored (78) and eighth in total bases (172) and stolen bases (33), with the career records all within his reach.

Fennessy Co-Captain At B.C. High

Matthew Fennessy of Quincy was recently elected co-captain of next year's Boston College High basketball team, along with Keith Driscoll of Wellesley.

Fennessy has played at B.C. High for the past three years. He was a guard on the past season's varsity which finished at 17-5 and was the Catholic Conference champion under coach Brian Buckley of Quincy.

Other Quincy players returning next season are Jay Schnabel, Jason Fennessy, Pat Bryan and Dan Donovan.

Ralph Fraser Pitcher For ENC Baseball Team

The son of Stanley and Daisy Fraser of Lisbon Falls, Maine, Fraser is a 1988 graduate of Brunswick High School in Maine. A senior youth ministry major, he has been involved in the A Cappella Choir and Men's Ensemble.

Squantum Wins Elementary School Basketball Jamboree

The Quincy Recreation Department's annual Basketball Jamboree and Clinic recently attracted more than 90 boys and girls, age eight through the fifth grade to a day of games and instruction at the North Quincy High School gym.

The Jamboree Cup was won by Squantum to conclude the day's activities.

The event marks the conclusion of the 25-week Winter Recreation Program conducted by the Quincy Recreation Department in nine school gymnasiums in all neighborhoods of the city.

Recreation Director Barry J. Welch introduced Brian Buckley, head basketball coach at Boston College High School who instructed participants on various fundamentals that each player could practice on their own at home or a neighborhood playground. Buckley's lecture was "well-suited to the age and skill of those players who are eager to improve their game," Welch said.

After the clinic players from the various recreation programs played a series of mini games coached by recreation leaders from each location. In opening round action Squantum began its run for the Jamboree Cup by defeating Montclair, 13-10. Ray Sartre was the top scorer with six points, Matt Wheaton had four and Pat Dolbeare two for Squantum.

For Montclair Steve Powell had seven, while John Hurley had the other basket. Colleen MacDougal and Mike Mulvey played excellent defense. Chris Wilson led the team in assists.

Atherton Hough edged Atlantic/Parker, 8-6. Atherton Hough's Neila Foster had four while Nicky Disaceo, and Patricia O'Neil each had two. Atlantic's Mike Mulvey matched Foster with four and Chris Cummings had two. Dean Zoia, Jr. was top rebounder and Matt Nelson played well on defense for the Joe Mulvey-coached team.

Snug Harbor moved out to defeat Beechwood Knoll behind Alphie Monte's day-high 14 points. Dan Kelly had three while Mark Markham, Jacob Shield, Jim Muchbach and Bob Johnson all had one basket. The 15-man Beechwood team had trouble getting started despite strong games from Matt O'Malley, Stephen Reddy, Terrance Peers and Matt Joyce.

Beechwood opened its second-round game by defeating Atlantic, 7-6. David Buckley had four, Peers one free throw and Reddy one two-point basket. Atlantic was paced by Phil McGillicuddy, Cummings and Chris Powers who all contributed one basket.

Squantum defeated Atherton 19-8 to win their second straight. Sartre had six, Wheaton eight, and Dolbeare three. Joe MacRitchie led Squantum in assists. Foster with six again topped the scorers for the Nicki Manton/Christine Ross-coached Atherton Hough team. Colleen Nichol had one basket while sister Cailten was the leading rebounder. Rob Morris also displayed outstanding defense.

Snug Harbor defeated Montclair, 16-3, to advance to the cup round. Montes had four, Kelly six, Muchbach four, and Moar two for Coach Mike Norton. Montclair's coach Dean Zoia Sr. watched all three points come from John Hurley while Tom Fernandez and Adrian Oplusti had several long-range shots roll off the rim.

In the championship round, Snug Harbor drew a bye and Squantum defeated Beechwood, 19-6. Randy Feethan led Squantum with eight, Sartre had five, Wheaton four and Dolbeare two. Chris Liccardi had four for Beechwood and Reddy two for the Mike McManus-coached team.

The Jamboree Championship game was 15-14 on a three-point play with less than 15 seconds to play. Coach Mike Curtin got a great effort from Bob Johnson, while Sartre scored six in the first half and two in the second period. Wheaton had six and Tim McAdams one. Snug Harbor coach Mike Norton saw his team come from behind on the strength of timely substitutions and Kelly with eight and Montes with six second-half points.

Every participant in the Jamboree was presented with a poster of the Boston Celtics' "Big Three," Larry Bird, Robert Parish and Kevin McHale, at the conclusion of play. Bill Loughnane Boy's Basketball Coach Of Year

Bill Loughnane, a Quincy resident and head coach at South Boston High School, has been named Division 1 Coach of the Year on the 1992 Boston Globe All-Scholastic boys' basketball team.

Loughnane directed South Boston to the top of the Boston Globe Top 20 poll. compiling a 23-2 overall record and the state Division 1 championship. All all-city selection in his playing days at Boston Tech, Loughnane was also a second-team all-New England choice collegiately at Northeastern. He has coached at South Boston for six years.

"I was fortunate to have a good bunch of kids who were willing to work hard," he said.

The Boston Globe All-Scholastic Awards Program honors high school athletes in Eastern Massachusetts who have demonstrated exceptional talent in a particular sport.

There are a total of 24 boys' and girls' All-Scholastic teams. The Boston Globe began the All-Scholastic concept in 1901 with the first All-Scholastic football team.

McLoughlin Earns Letter At Rochester

Peter McLoughlin of Quincy, a Boston College High graduate, has earned his first varsity letter for the men's basketball team at the University of Rochester.

McLoughlin was a sophomore guard for coach Mike Neer's Yellowjackets, who were one of the nation's best Division III teams during the past season. They had a 28-3 record.

Rochester reached the NCAA Division III National Championship Game for the second time in three seasons. It lost to Calvin College, 62-49, in the final game.

McLoughlin played in 13 games in his first season of varsity play

He was an all-star in both basketball and baseball at B.C. High and was the point guard in basketball and a pitcher-outfielder in baseball. As a senior he averaged 20 points a game and earned all-Conference honors in basketball, was all-Eastern Mass. and all-State and was named to the all-Academic basketball team.

During his junior year the basketball team finished 15-6 and won the Catholic Conference title. The baseball team won titles in his junior and senior years.

Gillis Candidate For County Commissioner

the charter commission in the county and I'd like to be a part of making sure the commission realigns the county offices. I know the people and I know the county."

Two incumbent commissioners, James Collins of Milton and Mary Collins of Quincy, will not seek re-election this fall, leaving two seats open. Gillis said he thought about retiring as city clerk "but not real hard" until after Mary Collins announced she would not seek re-election.

Gillis's announcement is just the latest political domino to fall since Cong. Brian Donnelly announced last month he would not seek re-election this fall. Although an unusually high number of local legislative seats are opening up, Gillis said he has no interest in running for state senate or state representative.

"With the charter commission, I think I'd be more help to the county than I would be to state government," he said.

His campaign for county commissioner would be Gillis's third attempt at public office. He was an unsuccessful candidate for Quincy councillor-at-large in 1951 and 1955.

Gillis has named long-time friend and former assistant city clerk Thomas Burke his campaign manager.

Gillis said he has mixed emotions about retirement. "I like the city clerk's job. The job has been good to me and I think I have been good to the job.

"I tried my best and I hope I haven't hurt anyone. People respect you as a city clerk. It's one of the better jobs."

If elected to the $20,000 a year post, Gillis said he would bring compassion to the commission. "One thing you need in government is compassion because people need help. I've always tried to abide by that principal."

As city clerk, Gillis earns $49,000 a year and serves as chairman of the Quincy Board of Registrars and License Board and clerk of the City Council. The clerk is also a member of the Woodward School Board of Managers.

If Gillis retires next May, the City Council would vote on his successor.

City ordinance mandates that the city clerk be a resident of Quincy.

A lifelong Quincy resident, Gillis is a 1943 graduate of Quincy High School. He also attended Thayer Academy and Bentley College and graduated from Northeastern University with a bachelor of science degree in business administration.

A fixture in Quincy's government and political scene for 36 years, Gillis is serious about his bid for commissioner. Over the weekend, he collected 1300 signatures on his nomination papers. He plans to collect another 700. A candidate needs 1000 certified signatures to be on the county commission ballot.

Kolson Wants Sludge Co-Generation Plant To Use Natural Gas

By STEVE KAVANAGH

Ward 1 City Councillor Peter Kolson wants a proposed co-generation plant at the MWRA sludge treatment facility in Quincy Point to use natural gas and not oil to protect nearby residents from pollution.

Kolson was expected to introduce a resolve at Tuesday's City Council meeting asking the Department of Public Utilities to guarantee the MWRA a commercial rate from the gas company.

The MWRA plans to build the co-generation plant at the treatment facility to supplement its power supply.

"Evidently, when they built the plant the power source to run the plant was insufficient," Kolson said.

Kolson is concerned that if oil is used as the primary fuel for the plant that residents of Ward's 1 and 2 will be subject to acid rain and black soot.

"There is no way we can allow a co-generation plant run on oil," Kolson said. First of all, it will affect the health and welfare of the people in the area. Secondly, it's a pocketbook issue."

Michael Thayer of the MWRA said the agency wants to run the plant with natural gas.

"We are trying to do the best by our ratepayers," he said.

Thayer said that in order for the MWRA to get an "interruptable rate" from the gas company it would need the capability to burn oil.

An interruptable rate is a discount rate given by the utility provided the customer will switch to an alternative energy source (oil) if gas supplies become low. This sometimes happens during extended cold periods.

"We would like to go 330 days on gas and 35 on oil," Thayer.

Kolson said any pollution caused by using oil for a month would be negligible but wants assurance that the MWRA won't switch to oil or extend the number of days it would burn oil as time goes on.

Kolson noted that great strides have been made environmentally in the area with cooperation from Proctor & Gamble.

"It's silly to go backwards," he said.

Kolson said that, along with Ward 2 City Councillor Ted DeCristofaro, State Sen. Paul Harold, Health Commissioner Jane Gallahue and Lillian Austin of the Citizen Advisory Committee, he has worked to eliminate odors from the plant and powders which sometimes settled in nearby neighborhoods.

Kolson said the Proctor & Gamble has been extremely cooperative in making changes to create a cleaner environment.

"Absolutely," said Ward 2 City Councillor Ted DeCristofaro. "There is no reason that places other than liquor stores should be dispensing it," he said.

The issue surfaced during a recent meeting of the police department's Drug Awareness Education Resistance program. The parent of a St. Joseph's School student told police that children had purchased non-alcoholic beer at a Quincy Point convenience store.

"I hope to get down there (the store) to speak to the manager," DeCristofaro said.

"I'm concerned that it's a first step towards alcohol abuse," said Ward 3 City Councillor Larry Chretien.

"The use of alcohol should be guided by the law and family," he said. "If a parent wants to buy it (non-alcoholic beer) for their child that's okay."

City Councillors Thomas Fabrizio (Ward 4), Peter Kolson (Ward 1) and Bruce Ayers (Ward 6), also said they would support the ordinance.

"The product itself is good. Adults are turning to it as an alternative (to alcohol)," Chretien said.

If approved, the ordinance could go into effect immediately.

Sheets said he would attach an emergency preamble onto the ordinance. The preamble would allow the council to vote on the ordinance Tuesday, without advertisement.

Montclair Deli Expansion Approved

The Montclair Deli will soon feature seating for its patrons and offer an expanded menu.

The License Board voted to approve the deli's request with some restrictions. The business, owned by Peter and Joyce Delgardo, will expand into the vacant space next door at 218-220 West Squantum St.

The deli will also begin selling ice cream, frozen yogurt and espresso.

The restrictions imposed were suggested by a group of neighbors, led by Jeff Graeber of 157 Holbrook Road, and included making ice cream an "incidental" item, non-permanent seating, no addition of cooked meats which could create odors in the garbage, and no increase in business hours for the time being.

Another neighbor, Roger Lyons of 211 West Squantum St., told the License Board that the issues of deliveries, parking and esthetics have been ignored by the owner of the property, John Blatharas, who runs the dry cleaning business at the site.

Building Inspector Matt Mulvey told Lyons that he and Health Commissioner Jane Gallahue will meet soon with Blatharas to discuss those issues.

Board members noted that the Delgardo's run a good operation and have never been cited for a license violation.

Neighbors Oppose Propane Storage Tank

Curry also told the board that Fire Chief Thomas Gorman had told him his proposal is safe.

He added that he has checked with other company's with propane tanks and that they reported no problems. Gorman did not attend the hearing.

"The problem is not on my end of it," Curry said. He estimated that about 2,000 West Quincy residents have smaller 20-pound tanks used for barbecue grills. The tanks hold nearly five gallons of the gas.

Curry said most propane fires are caused by the homeowner tanks because of faulty valves, leaking hoses, etc. and that accidents from properly monitored tanks are very rare.

Police Unit Arrests 7

"The unit will be dealing with ongoing problems," he said.

Mullen also said MBTA police are cooperating with his department.

The chief added that the creation of the unit is timely with the good weather coming.

"There is more activity at this time of year. It's a good time to start (the unit)," he said.

3 Residents On Johnson & Whales Dean's List

Three Quincy residents have been named to the dean's list for the winter trimester at Johnson and Wales University in Providence, R.I.

They are:

Donna Delorey, 66 Phipps St., hotel-restaurant management major; Maureen Hodge, 469 Sea St., hotel-restaurant management major; and Michael Jacobs, 383 Adams St., culinary arts major.

MWRA To Study Use Of Shipyard Office

Reps. Michael Morrissey, Stephen Tobin and Ronald Mariano (D-Quincy) announce they are successful in their efforts to require the Massachusetts Water Resource Authority (MWRA) conduct a utilization study of the former General Dynamics building at the Quincy Shipyard.

The amendment was introduced into the FY1992 supplemental budget by Morrissey who said, "The vacant General Dynamics building is an unused asset that the MWRA continues to ignore. With water and sewer rates on the rise once again, the MWRA must do anything and everything possible to reduce its spending.

"I can find no reason why the MWRA feels they must lease office space in the Charlestown Navy Yard when they own a functional office building."

Morrissey's amendment directs the MWRA to examine the following areas: the current cost of their existing office space, the cost of rehabilitation and renovation of the former General Dynamics executive office, a timetable or schedule for planning, engineering, construction and/or rehabilitation of the office space in Quincy.

"I don't think it's asking too much to have the MWRA conduct an economic analysis to determine the long-term costs of both sites. The rate payers live within budget limits; they expect the same from their government," Morrissey said.

Through this action the Quincy delegation hopes continuing efforts will force the MWRA to move their executive offices or fix the General Dynamics building to help to reduce water and sewer rates.

The Quincy delegation has been one of the leading critics of the MWRA demanding fiscal accountability.

"We will continue the fight," stressed Mariano.

SSARC Plans Demonstration On Housing Alternatives

The South Shore Association for Retarded Citizens has received a federal grant from the Department of Health and Human Services to conduct a national demonstration project on housing alternatives, entitled "A Home of One's Own."

The program will enable 25 mentally retarded or developmentally disabled adults to determine their housing desires, and acquire the housing alternative of their choice. Many may decide to become homeowners.

SSARC will help them identify and acquire the services they may need to live permanently and securely in their own homes.

HHS has awarded South Shore ARC $96,248 in 1991-92, and is expected to award $100,000 in each of the next two years. The total budget of the three-year program will exceed $500,000, with South Shore ARC seeking private funding to match the federal monies. Financing packages will increase the total.

SSARC is currently accepting applications from mentally retarded and developmentally disabled persons and their families who want to participate in the program. A committee of individuals broadly representative of the community will select the 25 individuals to be involved.

The decision process is free of limiting criteria: financial ability, degree of disability, current funding under government programs and other such factors will not be considered in making the selection of participants.

To be eligible, individuals must be developmentally disabled or retarded, must be at least 22 years old by the end of 1994, and must (or his/her parents must) reside in southeastern Massachusetts.

Mailing address for SSARC is 371 River St., P.O. Box 58, North Weymouth, MA 02191. Telephone number is 335-3023.

Faced Key Issues

First 100 Days Active For Raymondi, Stice

By STEVE KAVANAGH

New School Committee members Linda Stice and Dan Raymondi have been in office just over three months but they, and their colleagues, have already tackled some big issues.

The two new members were interviewed last week exactly 100 days since being sworn-in Jan. 7.

Stice and Raymondi have been active thus far and have helped push several key issues including creation of a Lincoln School sub-committee, a new tardy-absent policy, and policies to combat violence and weapons in schools.

The School Committee also approved next year's budget last week following two long budget review hearings.

"I think we have sent a message that we are a committee that wants to resolve problems," Raymondi said.

Next week the committee will begin another important task -- selecting a new superintendent.

Acting Superintendent Eugene Creedon is likely to be a leading candidate for the job. Stice and Raymondi both said they would prefer to hire someone from within the Quincy school system.

The fate of the Lincoln School could have far reaching effects. The sub-committee and the School Committee have already recommended that the building be torn down. Stice and Raymondi said they would like to see a new school building on the site.

"That part of the city has had so many schools close... we need to do something for those people," Stice said.

"There is a public commitment from the School Committee to address overcrowding particularly at the Lincoln-Hancock and Bernazzani schools," she said.

"The plan I'd like to see is to utilize the site (Lincoln School) to take pressure off of Lincoln-Hancock and to some degree Bernazzani," Raymondi said.

Stice said another solution would be to add on to the two schools. She said that could work at Bernazzani but Lincoln-Hancock is too big.

Raymondi said that the fact Quincy is considering building a new school proves that the city is committed to quality education.

DANIEL RAYMONDI
School Committee

LINDA STICE
School Committee

"In tough economic times in 1992, we (Quincy) are one of the only towns or cities thinking about constructing. I think that says something about Quincy," he said.

"A key factor in us deciding to build a new school is that we have an acting superintendent who has been in the school system for over 30 years. He is absolutely committed to a long term solution for overcrowding," Stice said.

Raymondi said the School Committee has no plans at this time to utilize the Beechwood Knoll or Myles Standish schools which the city still owns. Beechwood Knoll is being used for a community center and Myles Standish is leased by the Quincy Elks Club.

Both Stice and Raymondi agree that the tougher policy dealing with truancy and excessive tardiness and absence will help eliminate disciplinary problems at the high schools including students bringing weapons to class.

"Teachers will tell you that there is a change of attitude" at the schools since the policy was adopted, Raymondi said.

"How seriously students take school sets a climate," Stice said.

"There are some schools outside Quincy which you don't feel safe in. We need a climate where staff and students feel secure," she said.

"Kids need structure and I believe many of them want it. Without it you have chaos," Raymondi said.

"The best thing we can do for students is give them a tough, challenging four years," Stice said. "Allowing an easy curriculum and lax rules is a real disservice because the real world is a tough place to be."

A policy was recently adopted to combat trespassing in Quincy schools. The policy gives the city the power to punish outsiders causing trouble in Quincy schools.

The high schools have also added an additional security guard and walkie-talkies at both North Quincy and Quincy. In addition the School Committee has followed through on its policy to expel students for carrying weapons.

Overall, Stice said she was pleased with the budget the School Committee approved for next year.

"We didn't cut any staff positions and we kept funding for extracurricular activities. But we do not have the money to pay for a middle school foreign language program... that's the biggest disappointment," she said.

"We were able to put an additional teacher at Lincoln-Hancock for the next school year," she added.

Raymondi said he was pleased by the way the School Committee handled the budget process.

"We had two marathon sessions and reviewed the budget page-by-page, item-by-item. It was very educational," he said.

"Even though we have to stay within the budget total the mayor has provided us we were able to move money around within the budget," Raymondi said.

He also wants the School Committee to meet after each fiscal quarter to review accountability and spending "to find any shortcomings or plusses."

Up $6.2 Million Over Last Year

Sheets Submits $124.8M Budget

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

A FY93 budget totaling $124,878,100 and reflecting no layoffs or reductions in services will be submitted to the City Council Monday, May 4 by Mayor James Sheets.

The spending plan, which would go into effect July 1, represents an increase of $6,209,082 or five percent over FY92's final budget of $118,669,018. Sheets and City Auditor Robert Foy said nearly all of the increased funding, $6,040,387, is earmarked for increases to fixed costs, including the city's water and sewer assessment from the MWRA.

Foy said Quincy's water and sewer assessment will cost the city $12,261,277 next year, an increase of $2,459,936. The city's retirement pension, another fixed line item, climbed $1,093,993.

In addition, Foy said the city's bonded debt rose $386,457, mainly because of a $1 million bond for school improvements and water main projects. The money also represents the charge to refinance the North Quincy High School construction loan.

Foy said the city had to budget $200,000 for a city-wide property re-evaluation which is done every three years.

Sheets said he is satisfied with this year's budget process and the spending package he is sending to the council for approval. "I'm satisfied with the fact that from a revenue point of view, we've bottomed out. Obviously, your fixed costs force your budget up unless you are forced to make big cuts and that doesn't occur unless your revenue stream diminishes.

"The budget process wasn't as difficult this year as last year because we didn't have layoffs. It's good to see a stabilization occurring. We simply have to wait and see what happens."

The FY93 budget is predicated on the state level funding local aid. Sheets said he has not received any indication that local aid will be cut.

If adopted in its present form by the council, the FY93 budget would mark the first year the city has avoided layoffs since Sheets took office in January, 1990. "This is the first time there has not been a reduction is the work force or in the number of positions. No jobs have been lost through attrition," Sheets said.

The mayor said the no-layoff, no-reduction in services budget is a result of stable city finances. Essentially all of the budgets, including the police, fire and schools, have either stayed the same, or gone up or down slightly.

"The budgets remain pretty much as they were last year. The fiscal

34 Candidates File Papers For Seven State, County Offices

One of the biggest election years in modern history is shaping up locally and across Norfolk County as 34 candidates filed for seven state and county offices in Quincy City Hall Tuesday.

With Cong. Brian Donnelly retiring and Sen. Paul Harold and State Rep. Michael Morrissey making bids for higher political office, several state and county offices have opened up for the first time in more than a decade. The heavy volume of candidates and the unusually high number of open and contested seats could make 1992 a watershed year in Quincy, reshaping the political landscape for years to come.

"It'll be a banner year," said Assistant City Clerk Joseph Shea Tuesday. "We're awash in a sea of papers," he said as he and other election workers time stamped and certified nomination papers in his office. By the time the 5 p.m. filing deadline passed Tuesday, Shea had certified 650 nomination papers representing more than 18,000 signatures.

Besides Donnelly's open congressional seat, there are two open County Commissioner seats, as well as open seats for the Governor's Council in the Fourth Norfolk District, state senate in Norfolk County and state representative in the First Norfolk District.

Norfolk County Commissioners James Collins and Mary Collins are not seeking re-election. Peter Eleey, a member of the Governor's Council, is also stepping down.

Harold is giving up his senate seat to run for Congress. Morrissey is leaving his state representative seat to run for the senate seat.

In addition, there were be contested races for Norfolk County sheriff and state representative in the Third Norfolk District. Only incumbent State Rep. Steve Tobin, who represents the Second Norfolk District, has a clear, uncontested path to Repair Contract For Shipyard

Sen. Paul Harold announces that the Martha'a Vineyard Steamship Authority will be dry-docking the MS Eagle at the Quincy Shipyard, Monday, May 4, for routine repairs on the propeller and the bow thrusts.

"I have been working with the Authority for the past year to try to get them to sign a long-term contract with the shipyard for the repair and maintenance for their six-vessel fleet," Harold said.

"If we are able to secure a blanket contract between the shipyard and the Authority it could be worth an estimated $1 million.

Our long-range goal is to have any new vessels built by the Authority built at the Quincy Shipyard.

The Quincy Shipyard is operating under a partnership with AK Engineering and Local 5 of the Ship Builders Union.

King Comes 1,500 Miles To Win School Seat

By STEVE KAVANAGH

The newest member of the Quincy School Committee took the long road to earn her seat.

Margaret "Peggy" King drove 1,500 miles in three days to put herself in nomination for the job at Monday's Joint Convention of the School Committee and City Council.

King was elected on the first ballot receiving 10 of 14 votes and will replace Mary Collins who retired two weeks ago. She was runner-up in last fall's School Committee election in which she placed fourth behind Dan Raymondi, Steve Durkin and Linda Stice.

PEGGY KING

"I am absolutely thrilled," King, of 49 Avalon Ave., said after being sworn in by assistant City Clerk Joseph Shea. "I just want to tell you all how worthwhile it was to travel three days for this," she said.

"I have to change gears now. When I lost the election last fall I had to go back to my other life (retirement in Florida)," said the former teacher.

King has a winter home in St. Petersburg. She was in Florida when she learned about the unexpected retirement of

No Golfing On City Parks, Playgrounds

Director of Parks Ray Cattaneo reminds residents that playing golf at Quincy parks and playgrounds is against the law.

"Not only are golfers destroying the turf in these parks but it also becomes a dangerous situation for persons who are utilizing the facilities that a severe injury could be caused if someone is struck by a golf ball," Cattaneo said.

There are many driving ranges and putting greens in the South Shore area for golfer to practice at without risking injury to children or others and damaging public and private property, Cattaneo said.

He also said the Quincy Police have been notified of the situation and that violaters are subject to prosecution.

Stephen Colman State Representative Candidate

Quincy Atty. Stephen J. Colman announces his candidacy for state representative in the First Norfolk District.

"The two most important issues (facing the state) are the creation of jobs and the reform of education," Colman told a group of supporters, family and friends gathered outside Quincy City Hall Monday. He addressed the runaway costs associated with the cleanup of Boston Harbor as mandated by the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority, and said, "local aid cuts have threatened the fiscal stability of municipal government and its ability to provide essential services.

"One needs tunnel vision to believe that the full responsibility for cleaning up Boston Harbor should rest solely with MWRA ratepayers," Colman said. "We pay federal taxes for major public works projects elsewhere in the country and we pay state taxes for major public works projects elsewhere in Massachusetts. Why then are a small percentage of the state's cities and towns funding this massive public works project through municipal water and sewer fees?" he asked.

If elected, Colman said he would "work aggressively with fellow legislators in the MWRA district to bring additional state and federal resources to the harbor cleanup to alleviate the burden on MWRA ratepayers."

It is most important, Colman said, for the state to put people to work. "The Weld administration's failure to recognize this is beyond belief," he said, pointing to the administration's decision to use some $200 million in gas tax revenues to balance this year's budget instead of putting people to work repairing roads, bridges and sidewalks. He criticized the administration's plans to do it again this year in order to balance this year's budget.

"When nearly three out of every ten construction workers in Quincy is out of work," Colman said, "spending these revenues on road repairs and putting men and women to work is the only logical thing to do. More importantly, that's what the increase in the gas tax was intended to do."

Colman also pointed to the need for the administration and legislature to continue to work together to reform education. "Education is a tool that can solve many of the problems that we face in society today. Today's school children are the future business and political leaders of tomorrow. I agree with the saying that a society is only as strong as the minds of its citizens."

Colman, 31, a lifelong Quincy resident, is one of a number of candidates running for the seat being vacated by State Rep. Michael Morrissey who is running for state senate.

Colman said his "five years of involvement in the legislative process" as a staff director on two House committees and legislative aide to Morrissey has given him the experience and "first-hand" knowledge to get things done on Beacon Hill. He left the State House to work in a private law practice, then, briefly, as assistant attorney general, before starting his own law practice last year.

This is his first run for public office.

Beaches, Parks Target Areas

1500 Expected To Join City-Wide Cleanup Saturday

By MICHAEL WHALEN

An estimated 1,500 volunteers, including residents, church and service organizations, school P.T.O.'s, business groups and others will participate in Saturday's third annual Cleaner-Greener Quincy campaign.

Mayor James Sheets, who instituted the Cleaner-Greener program three years ago, urges all citizens to help clean and preserve Quincy's beaches, parks and other areas.

"The City of Quincy has some great treasures in its parks and beaches, and under our fiscal restraints it is difficult to maintain these treasures the way they should be maintained," said Sheets. "The volunteer support of the community is essential to help maintain and protect these treasures.

"I urge everyone, both young and old, to join us on Saturday in having some fun and making Quincy cleaner and greener."

More than 90 organizations, including school PTO's, churches, service and veterans' groups, and businesses have been invited and are expected to pitch in. It is believed that up to 1,500 individuals will participate, which is even more than the 1,000-plus volunteers that helped in each of the campaign's first two years.

The cleanup will begin at 9 a.m. at six different sites throughout the city: Ward 1-Adams Shore Library; Ward 2-Fore River Club House; Ward 3-Wollaston School; Ward 4-Lincoln-Hancock School; Ward 5-Beechwood Community Life Center; Ward 6-North Quincy High School. (Rain date is Saturday, May 9).

Each of the six ward councillors, or an appointed designee, will act as captain of his cleanup team. About 30 sets of gloves, rakes, shovels, brooms and bags, as well as a dump truck and front-end loader, will be made available to each group. (However, volunteers are encouraged to bring their own materials so there will be enough to go around).

In addition, there will be a foreman, truck driver and loader operator joining each team.

Department of Public Works Program Manager Michael Wheelwright said the DPW is confident this year's cleanup will go just as smoothly as the previous two.

"We're encouraged," said Wheelwright. "We expect another successful operation this year and hope to build on the success of last year."

In each of the six wards there are target areas or, as Wheelwright called them, "high visibility spots" that will receive priority treatment.

These include Post Island, Rock Island, Mound Street Beach, Avalon Beach and the Germantown Circle in Ward 1; Faxon Park, Town Brook, Whiton Park and Bower Road in Ward 2; Andrews Playground, Hobart Street Bog, Granite Avenue, and the Whitwell Street playground (across from Quincy Hospital) in Ward 3; Mullin Avenue, Granite Railroad, Lincoln-Hancock School, and all medians in the sidewalks in Ward 4; Butler's Pond, Sailor's Home Pond, Rice Road Marsh, and Central Middle School in Ward 5; and Nickerson Beach, Squaw Rock, Bellevue Road and Shepherd Street in Ward 6.

However, Wheelwright stressed these are not the only areas that will be attended to during the cleanup.

After working from 9 a.m. to noon, the volunteers will, as in years past, join together at 1 p.m. for a cookout at Pageant Field on Southern Artery.

"We ran out of food last year, it was so popular," said Wheelwright. "Lots of trips to Stop & Shop were made for extra hot dogs and hamburgers."

Wheelwright said all involved with the program appreciate the various service clubs, ROTC members, church groups, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, businesses and residents who have made the first two Cleaner-Greener Quincy campaigns such a success.

"It's worked very smoothly up until now," he said. "We hope that everybody this year will give their good effort until noon and then we'll all go and celebrate at one o'clock."

No Tuition Raise At Quincy College

"We have just submitted our third consecutive annual budget plan that does not raise tuition and fees," he said. After becoming financially independent, tuition and fees have increased less than 15 percent on average since 1984.

Quincy College is the only public college in America that receives no state, county, city, or federal fiscal support for operation, Johnson said. Quincy College now enrolls over 3,500 students day and evening at two campuses and several other sites.

Quincy Partnership Seeks Veterans Memorial Flags

The Quincy Partnership Inc., is asking families of deceased veterans to loan their Veterans Memorial Flags to the Partnership for use during the annual Flag Day Parade.

A Memorial Flag is given to the family of a veteran by the Veterans Administration to be displayed on the casket during the funeral. These are the flags that will be prominently displayed along the parade route. Each flag will have a banner attached that will bear the name of that veteran.

"We fell this is a special way to honor our flag as well as the veteran who fought to protect and preserve it," said Ed Keohane, president of the Quincy Partnership.

"We want Quincy to lead the way in showing how much we appreciate the courage and sacrifices which have been made by all of our veterans through the years," he said.

The parade will be held Friday, June 12 at 7 p.m. The parade will begin in Quincy Square and continue south on Hancock Street past Veterans Memorial Stadium to Pageant Field, off Southern Artery.

The Pearl Harbor Flag will be raised at 8 p.m. at Pageant Field. A band concert and fireworks display will follow.

This year's parade will be larger than last year, Keohane said, and it is expected the memorial flags will be flown the entire length of the parade route.

Those wishing to loan their flag for display may deliver it to the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Wollaston. Or call 773-3551. All flags will be returned to the donors after the parade.

HAZARDS AT THE HEALTH STORE

Words like "natural" and "herbal" can spell disaster for your health if the products they appear on are taken improperly. One over-the-counter pill called L-tryptophan, advertised as a remedy for insomnia and depression, caused at least 19 deaths and painful side effects in countless users before it was pulled from pharmacy and health food shelves. To protect yourself, remember that herbs and other nonregulated remedies can be as potent as any prescription medicines. Never use herbal remedies for long periods without breaks, and don't mix them with prescription drugs. Be especially wary of giving herbal preparations to children. Consult a doctor about severe or persistent symptoms.

P.S. If you have allergies, be especially careful with herbs. Many can trigger allergic reactions.

Ask your physician before embarking on any extended course of herbal treatments. If you would like to learn more about this topic, or about how you can modify your lifestyle to help ward off heart disease, call COMPREHENSIVE CARDIAC CARE at 472-2550. Get Rid Of Palsy-Walsy Politics

The ending turned out the way it should have but the beginning is still something of a political horror script and should be changed.

KING

Margaret (Peggy) King was elected Monday night at a joint session of the School Committee and City Council to fill the near two-year unexpired term of Mary Collins who resigned because of health problems.

King was the runner-up in last fall's School Committee race, placing fourth behind winners Dan Raymondi, Steve Durkin and Linda Stice.

She got 10 of the 14 votes cast Monday night to fill the vacancy with JoAnn Bragg and Sean Barry each receiving two.

Bragg placed fifth in last fall's final election. Barry finished just a few votes shy of a nomination in last fall's preliminary election.

All three have a deep interest in Quincy's public school system. Bragg or Barry would have made a good choice.

But, King, as runner-up, deserved to be named to fill the Collins seat vacancy. And in the future, vacancies should also go to the runner-up.

This present process leaves the door open to palsy-walsy politics, cronyism and gives political opportunists a chance to slip in and grab off an open seat just because they could have enough friends involved in the voting.

TOLAND

Last year, Councillor Patricia Toland proposed that in the event of such vacancies, they be filled automatically by the runner-up in the most recent election. Somehow it got lost in the shuffle.

Here's hoping Toland resurrects the proposal and this time it goes all the way to reality.

We were fortunate this time that the present procedure worked out the right way. But what about in the future?

The vacancy should be filled by the runner-up. Toland's proposal would make that automatic and take the political playing games out of the picture once and for all.

THERE'S A LOT of movement on for the assistant city clerk's job which is expected to open up next May.

City Clerk John Gillis plans to step down then whether or not he wins his bid for a Norfolk County Commission seat this year. And present Assistant Clerk Joseph Shea is expected to move up to succeed him.

Names being speculated as interested in succeeding Shea as asistant clerk include:

City Councillor Patricia Toland, Steve Doherty, clerk in the Norfolk County Registry of Deeds office, Mike McFarland of Barry's Deli, John Comer, Jr., son of John (Jake) Comer, Quincy Housing Authority executive director and Mary Collins, who recently resigned from the School Committee.

QUINCY COLLEGE

Consistent with the provisions of Chapter 71, Section 38N of the General Laws, the Quincy School Committee will hold a public hearing at 7:30 P.M. on Wednesday, May 13, 1992 in the Boardroom of Saville Hall, Quincy College at 24 Saville Avenue for the purpose of discussing the FY 92/93 Quincy College budget. All interested persons shall be given an opportunity to be heard.

SENATOR EDWARD KENNEDY, speaking at a South Shore Chamber of Commerce luncheon meeting the other day, was asked about Texas billionaire H. Ross Perot as a third party Presidential candidate.

KENNEDY

Kennedy noted that third party candidates have not won in the past and cited John Anderson the more recent and Theodore Roosevelt before him as examples.

But, he added, the "mood in the country today is different and they (past third party candidates) didn't have a hundred million dollars to spend."

He said he believes in the long run, voters will go back to the two major party candidates.

If Perot does run, he said, he thinks he will affect George Bush more than Bill Clinton.

ON A PERSONAL note, Kennedy told the Chamber audience he is looking forward to his marriage to Victoria Reggie whose family and the Kennedy's have been long-time friends and political allies.

He smiled as he recalled how Reggie and he decided not to make a public announcement of their engagement until sometime after they had told their own children.

After doing so, Kennedy got a telephone call from the Washington Post saying they understood he and Reggie were engaged to be married. Kennedy said he would have no comment on it at that time and then asked where the Post had heard it.

"Schoolyard talk," he was told.

Curious, Kennedy and Reggie asked the children if they had said anything. All said no except Reggie's six year old daughter who confessed: "I only told one person. He wouldn't tell anyone because he stutters."

Stutter or not, he told two other school chums — whose parents happen to work for the Washington Post.

(Nothing like reliable news sources.)

KENNEDY, who seemed rested, relaxed and in good physical shape and enjoying himself at the luncheon, confided he is often asked how he gets along with Arnold Schwarzenegger, who is married to Maria Shriver and is a staunch Republican.

Kennedy's stock answer:

"We get along very well — especially when he is holding me upside down by the heels."

NUTLEY

"I've decided to devote this year to my family," he says. "Early next year I'll take a look at the city political scene — city council at-large or mayor."

MILESTONE: George Burke, attorney, former city councillor and Norfolk District attorney, has a brand new title: Gramps.

George and wife Sandy are grandparents for the first time, compliments of their daughter Jeanne Marie and husband Bill Hanlon.

The new arrival, Kathleen Marie, arrived at Quincy Hospital April 21 and weighed in at 8 pounds, 3 ounces.

Congratulations!

In 1783 it took Thomas Jefferson five days to travel by public transportation from Philadelphia to Baltimore.

Special Public Works Week Events

The Quincy Department of Public Works will celebrate National Public Works Week Monday, May 18 through Friday, May 23 with several local events.

This year's theme is "Quality of Life Through Public Works."

The first event will be held Tuesday, May 19 at 7 p.m. at City Hall, when the DPW will present its first Public Works Award to a not-for-profit group in recognition of a completed public project.

A dedication ceremony will be held Wednesday, May 20 at noon at the Post Island Marsh at 90 Post Island Rd. The dedication of the tidegate in connection with the restoration of a former nine-acre salt flat will be sponsored by the city of Quincy, Mass Coastal Zone Management and Mass Bays Environmental Trust.

The final event will be an open house held Thursday, May 21 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Department of Public Works.

Various events include displays of equipment; recycling in action; graphic display of recent and proposed projects; elementary and middle school poster contest; and service awards for DPW employees.

Refreshments will be served.

Expanding Recycling Program Also Makes Good Fiscal Sense

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The City of Quincy has a vital opportunity during the next few months to make decisions that will provide tremendous economic and environmental benefits to all Quincy residents.

During the next few months the Department of Public Works is fine tuning a request for proposal (RFP) that will enhance the city's trash collection and recycling programs. BFI currently is under contract with the City of Quincy to collect municipal waste and the recyclable goods that we place in the blue bins each week.

By incorporating provisions in the new RFP, that are both environmentally sound and fiscally prudent, sound economics and environmental protection can go hand-in-hand.

In the next few weeks, the Quincy Recycling Committee will be providing the City Council with recommendations to expand the city's curbside recycling program to include magazines, cardboard, plastics not currently collected under the existing program, and various metals (i.e. aluminum, tin, iron). Many Quincy residents support such provisions, but the city continues to pay $81 per ton to ship recyclable items to regional landfills. By expanding the recycling program to include additional items, the city will ship less wastes to regional landfills and save scarce tax dollars. In turn, the burden on regional landfills will be lessened by putting recyclable items to good use.

The Quincy Recycling Committee also supports the collection and recycling of white paper and aluminum cans from municipal buildings and public schools. Quincy public school teachers and administrators can attest to the enthusiasm and keen interest students have for recycling and other environmental issues. Some public schools have incorporated recycling into their curriculum. Doesn't it make sense from a practical standpoint to practice what you preach? Recycling white paper and aluminum cans in the Quincy public school system will not only teach our children the importance of an environmental ethic, but the tremendous volume of white paper and cans that would be recycled from both public schools and municipal buildings could potentially save thousands of tax dollars annually.

Everyone is in agreement that recycling makes sound environmental sense, but perhaps just as importantly, it makes for good fiscal policy. I hope Quincy residents will join the Quincy Recycling Committee to share our support for these recommendations with Mayor Sheets and members of the City Council.

Quincy Republicans Send Message To Gov. Weld

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

(The following letter has been sent to Gov. William Weld. It represents the vote of the Quincy Republican City Committee cast on April 17).

Dear Sir:

At our April 10 organization meeting, the Quincy Republican City Committee voted unanimously to condemn legislation proposed by you which removes local oversight from hazardous waste facilities.

Our particular concern is the Clean Harbors facility in Braintree, which is close to the Quincy line. It is our belief that the health, and very possibly the lives, of the residents of the Fore River Basin area are being sacrificed on the altar of corporate profit.

As Republicans, we hold that government at the local level is best suited to looking after the needs of our communities. An understaffed state agency is poorly equipped to protect our safety. By vote of the Committee, I have been authorized to communicate out views to you.

Quincy Girl Scouts Celebrate Earth Day With Poster Contest, Area Cleanup

The 13th annual Quincy Girl Scout Earth Day Celebration will involve a poster contest and area cleanup which are being sponsored by The Quincy Sun and Quincy Girl Scouts and their leaders.

Earth Day is observed annually on April 22.

All Girl Scout troops and/or individual scouts are choosing a section of the city or their neighborhood to clean up as one of their gifts of service to the city.

All girls, Daisies through Seniors, are invited to submit a poster which will be judged at the Quincy Sun office.

Winning posters from each level will be on display in the Quincy Sun office windows and the winners' photographs will be in an upcoming issue of The Quincy Sun.

Tax Rate $50.80 Down $3 From 1952 Record High

N. Gorham Nickerson, chairman of the board of assessors, announced a $50.80 tax rate for 1953, down $3 from the all-time high of $53.80 in 1952.

April 30-May 6
39 Years Ago

City Manager William J. Deegan Jr., said he had asked State Tax Commissioner Henry F. Long to approve a rate of $49.80 but the request was refused.

"I consider it crass interference on the home rule of a community," said Deegan, "crass interference with their right to determine their own economic welfare."

Deegan said Long would not give the city credit for the anticipated receipt of $150,000 in excise taxes that were not collected because Long's office sent the bills out too late in the year.

GRANITE CUTTERS STRIKE

Some 300 Quincy granite cutters from 20 cutting yards went out on strike in support of their demands for a 10-cent hourly wage hike to $2.10 an hour. Management was offering a nickel.

Elmer Fagerlund, president of the Quincy Granite Manufacturers Association, and Costanzo Pagnano, president of the Granite Cutters International Union, said stalling negotiations would resume in a day or so.

PARKING PROBLEM

Welcome Wagon officials informed the Quincy Chamber of Commerce they were being told by newcomers to the city that the lack of adequate parking had discouraged shopping in the downtown area.

"I used to shop in Quincy but now I shop in Boston," said Mrs. Samuel Sandler of 279 West Squantum St. "I became disgusted with the parking situation. When it becomes easier to park in Quincy, I'll start shopping there again."

Rita's Spinach Delight

While shopping in the supermarket for our Easter dinner, my friends Leo and Mary DePolo said they missed my recipes for the last couple of weeks. I explained that sometimes there just isn't anything new to try and this the lapse. But today, I hope they, as well as some of you, will enjoy the following spinach recipe from our daughter Rita. You may use fresh or frozen spinach or both together as long as it amounts to 20 ounces.

RITA'S SPINACH DELIGHT

Two 10 oz packages frozen chopped spinach (or fresh equivalent)
1 medium onion (chopped)
2 cloves of garlic (chopped)
1 Tbsp. butter or margerine
3 eggs well beaten
3/4 cup milk
2/3 cup shredded cheese
salt and pepper to taste

TOPPING

3/4 cup bread crumbs
2 Tbsps butter or margerine
1/4 cup shredded cheese (any favorite)

Cook the spinach and squeeze out the water and then chop if using fresh. Set aside. Saute the garlic, butter and onion together. Set aside. In a bowl, beat the eggs, add the milk, salt and pepper and the 2/3 cups of shredded cheese. Add the spinach and blend everything together. Place in a greased casserole dish and bake in a 350 degree oven for 20 minutes. Remove from the oven and top it with the melted butter, bread crumbs and the quarter cup of shredded cheese. Bake for another 15 minutes. If you want a browner top, broil for a few minutes. Let cool for 5 or 10 minutes and then cut in squares.

Our Policy On Engagement Photographs And Wedding Announcements

The Quincy Sun will continue to publish photographs with engagement announcements as it always has.

The Sun will also continue to use in wedding announcements the names of all members of the wedding party including maid or matron of honor, best man, parents, bridesmaids, ushers, flower girls and ringbearers, etc.

We invite engaged couples to submit their photos with their announcements and when submitting their wedding photo to include a complete listing of the wedding party.

Black and white photos are preferred. The Sun can convert most color photos to black and white for publication but the photo loses some clarity in the process.

We suggest that when you have your engagement photo taken, you request the studio to send a copy to The Sun with the reminder that The Sun is continuing its policy of publishing engagement photos.

And, as in the past, there is no charge.

QAHDC Purchases Six-Unit Apartment Building In Wollaston

SIX-UNIT BUILDING at the corner of Berlin and Wayland St., Wollaston, was recently purchased by the Quincy Affordable Housing Development Corporation from the First Baptist Church in Wollaston. QAHDC officials say they will continue to rent the building at below market rents to low income and elderly tenants.

The Quincy Affordable Housing Development Corporation (QAHDC) recently purchased a six-unit building on the corner of Berlin and Wayland St. in Wollaston.

The two-story structure, formerly owned by the First Baptist Church in Wollaston, has been rented at below market rents to low income and elderly tenants for many years. In 1991, the church decided to sell the property. Because the church was concerned about the fate of their tenants, church members contacted the Development Corporation about purchasing the property.

"We were immediately interested when we found out the ages and incomes of the tenants," said Robert Quinn, president of the Quincy Affordable Housing Development Corporation. "We were afraid that a private owner would raise the rents and displace the tenants."

The Quincy Affordable Housing Development Corporation put together a financing package so that it could purchase the property and keep the rents affordable. Of the $220,000 purchase price, $100,000 was supplied by the City of Quincy in Community Development Block Grant funds; the remaining $120,000 was provided by Quincy Savings Bank through a below market rate loan, making the project feasible.

Quincy Savings Bank is active in local housing initiatives. Charles Simpson, the bank's president, is a member of the Quincy Housing Partnership.

The property has six one-bedroom units and is located within walking distance of the Wollaston Market and the Wollaston MBTA station. The building was recently resided with white vinyl siding.

Due to Quincy Savings Bank's commitment to affordable housing, QAHDC was able to make improvements to the property while keeping the rents affordable. Among other things, the QAHDC refinished floors; replaced old wallpaper with new paint; laid out new linoleum in some kitchen areas; and installed new exterior lights.

The Development Corporation also plans to landscape the grounds this spring.

The building is fully occupied. Of the six tenants, three are long-time residents while three are new residents. "The church had been maintaining a very economical rate and we want to maintain those rates with the three tenants who have lived in the building as well for the three new tenants," Quinn said.

City officials welcomed QAHDC's acquisition of the property and commitment to preserving below market rents to low income and elderly tenants. Those attending a recent dedication ceremony were Mayor James Sheets; Rosemary Wahlberg, executive director of Quincy Community Action and a member of the Quincy Affordable Housing Development Corporation; Charles Simpson, president of Quincy Savings Bank and a member of the Quincy Housing Partnership and Quincy Community Action; Robert Quinn, president of the Quincy Affordable Housing Development Corporation; Ed Nelson, vice president of the Quincy Affordable Housing Development Corporation; and City Council President Charles Phelan.

Phelan, who delivered newspapers to the apartment building when he was younger, said, "I think it's good (the building) is being put into affordable housing so that it will keep the senior citizens here. I think it's been put to very good use and it will fit in well with the neighborhood setting."

The Quincy Affordable Housing Development Corporation is a small non-profit agency located in Quincy. It began in 1987 when concerned members of the community come together to work on the creation and preservation of affordable housing in the city.

Its first project was the conversion of an old colonial house into eight single room occupancy units located near St. John's Church on Phipps St. in Quincy.

Harold Campaign Kickoff Breakfast Sunday

The Paul D. Harold for Congress Committee is holding a campaign kick-off breakfast Sunday, May 3 from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the George F. Bryan VFW Post, 24 Broad St.

Harold, state senator for Quincy, Braintree, Holbrook and Avon, will officially announce his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for the seat in the U.S. House of Representatives being vacated by Rep. Brian Donnelly.

"My service in the State Senate has given me a unique perspective on how the state and federal governments must work hand-in-hand to adequately meet the needs of the people in the district," Harold said recently.

"Having lived in the district all my life, I understand the concerns of my constituents. It is a natural progression for me to pursue the Congressional office since I believe that the ultimate solutions to many of the issues I've worked on lie in Washington."

Tickets for the breakfast are $10 and may be purchased at the door. For advance tickets or further information call Mike Linnane at 770-0166.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Silence is a talent as greatly to be cherished as that other asset - the gift of speech.

Someone once said that it ain't a bad plan to keep still occasionally even when you know what you are talking about.

Listening may be passive and active. Passive listening is wondering when the other person will finish; one stares around the room, looks at his watch, and shuffles papers on the desk ... Active listening is putting oneself in the place of another, as a mother suffers and rejoices with a child. Maeterlinck once described a friend as "one in whose presence you can keep silence."

A good listener not only refuses to interrupt but also leaves time at the end of the recounting for a little reflection. Quick responses are not often good counsel. Silence is the generator of the best of thoughts. Speech is of time; silence is of eternity ...

Your reaction and comment either in person, by phone or letter is ALWAYS welcome, on this or any other thought you read here ..

Tony Cordone Memorial Broadcast on WUMB Sunday

The late Tony Cordone, long-time host of two programs, will be honored by radio station WUMB Sunday, May 3 at 4 p.m.

Cordone hosted the "As Young As You Feel" and "Do You Remember?" programs at WUMB-FM (91.9 FM).

Betty Mower will broadcast some of his favorite music, present recorded tributes from station colleagues and highlight events in his life.

Cordone, who lived in Weymouth and grew up in Quincy, died in March.

He began working at WUMB-FM in 1982 at the station's inception and hosted a big band music program twice a week. He also hosted and produced the 10-minute information feature "Do You Remember?," focusing on days gone by.

WUMB-FM plans to air his pre-recorded "Do You Remember?" features Sundays at 4:30 p.m. during the noon to 5 p.m. "As Young As You Feel" program.

Realtors Offering Free Mammography Screenings

The Quincy and South Shore Board of Realtors, Inc., in conjunction with the Massachusetts Association of Realtors (MAR), will hold a free mammography screening program for women May 9-16 at the Milton Hospital, Milton, and Bay State Health Care, Weymouth.

Known as the "Adopt-a-Woman" program, the community service project is being coordinated by a MAR Task Force as a means of promoting increased awareness among women of the value of mammograms, breast self-examination, and physician examinations in the early detection of breast cancer.

The number of mammograms to be offered locally will be limited; as a result, participants will be scheduled for exams on a first-come, first-serve basis.

In addition, interested women must meet the program's pre-established screening criteria and sign a medical release consent form in order to be eligible for the free mammography screening. Women aged 35 and older who wish to have their eligibility for the "Adopt-a-Woman" program validated for the Milton Hospital should call Lorraine Troup Walsh at 843-2914 or Marilyn Hanabury at 773-5242 any time through April 24.

Bay State Health Care is accepting calls directly at 331-9105 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. to have their eligibility validated.

It is expected that more than 500 women statewide will receive free mammograms as a result of the MAR project. The entire cost of the mammography screening program is being supported locally by the membership of the Quincy and South Shore Board of Realtors, Inc., office sponsorships and individuals.

Free Blood Pressure Screening Friday

The Stop & Shop Supermarket Company is offering a free blood pressure screening, Friday, May 1 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Super Stop & Shop, 141 Newport Ave.

The screening tests will be conducted by Medical Personnel Pool. No appointment is necessary.

Quincy Shelled By Weymouth, 12-7

By TOM SULLIVAN

After winning two out of three games last week for five wins in seven games, the Quincy baseball team played its poorest game of the year Monday and lost to Weymouth, 12-7, evening its record at 5-5.

The Presidents hoped to return to the win column yesterday (Wednesday) when they played at Taunton. They will be home to Bridgewater-Raynham Friday and will host Falmouth Monday, both games at 3:30 at Adams Field.

Quincy hopped off to a 3-0 lead in the first inning at Weymouth, but the Wildcats erupted for eight runs in the second inning and the Presidents never could catch up.

Steve Loud, who had pitched three excellent games in a row, including a no-hitter and a three-hitter, was pounded in the second inning. Dewey Holmes, Tommy Malvesti and Mike Malvesti pitched well in relief.

Weymouth's big gun was Greg Beston, grandson of Quincy High Football Hall of Fame member Harold "Turk" Beston. Beston had a home run, single and walk.

Last Friday Quincy edged Dedham, 6-5, with Tommy Malvesti getting his second win, both over Dedham, and Pat Gallagher pitching three innings of strong relief.

Earlier in the week the Presidents dropped a 3-2 squeaker to South Boston, despite another strong pitching effort by Loud. Tommy Malvesti had two hits. Southie pitcher Kevin Spitz had 10 strikeouts and had three hits.

In their previous game the Presidents exploded in the fifth inning and walloped Boston Latin, 10-2. Quincy trailed, 2-1, after four innings.

Holmes came on in relief of Mike Malvesti and got the win, pitching one-hit ball for three innings. Quincy pounded out 17 hits.

DiBona went 3-for-3 with a walk, three runs scored and two stolen bases, sophomore second baseman Steve Miller had three hits including a triple, two runs scored and two RBI. Loud had two hits and two RBI.

ED KELLY, 59, warms up with the javelin for the Quincy Senior Olympics, May 11-16.

WARREN KIRKLAND practices with the shot put in preparation for the Senior Olympics.

Senior Olympics Deadline Extended To Friday

The annual Senior Olympics will be held May 11-16 for adults age 55 and older. Deadline for registration has been extended until Friday, May 1 at 5:30 p.m.

The event is sponsored by the City of Quincy and the Beechwood Community Life Center. To register call 471-5712.

Fee is $10 and includes t-shirt, week of competition, certificate of participation, Olympic-style medals, Awards Ceremony, torch lighting ceremony and refreshments for Saturday event participants.

An additional $6 fee is required for golf. Other events include mile walk, softball, bowling, bocce, pool, swimming, three-mile walk, horseshoes, volleyball, basketball, mile run, half-mile run, shot put, javelin, softball throw, long jump.

North Bows To B-R

After turning in its best effort of the season in an easy win over South Boston last week, the North Quincy baseball team played another fine game Monday but lost a 5-3 decision to Bridgewater-Raynham, dropping its record to 2-8.

The Raiders hosted Weymouth yesterday (Wednesday), will be at Barnstable Friday and will play at Plymouth next Wednesday.

Bridgewater-Raynham scored twice in the final inning to beat North Monday, spoiling another fine pitching performance by Sean Donovan.

Donovan has received little support from his mates and, despite several excellent performances, has yet to win a game.

The Raiders were held to three hits, singles by Pat Shea, Dave Reinhart and Scott Kohler.

Last Thursday North put everything together for the first time and pounded South Boston, 13-3. Mike Patch pitched a five-hitter for his second win, both over South Boston. He struck out eight.

Kohler had three hits and three RBI, Reinhart three hits and a RBI and Mark Kelleher two hits and three RBI.

"This was the first time we put pitching and hitting together," said North coach Leo Donovan.

Earlier in the week Donovan pitched another strong game but lost to Billerica, 6-4.

Adam Calvert went 3-for-4 including a double and Shea went 2-for-3.

Softball

Quincy Girls Upset Weymouth, 8-7

Quincy girls' softball coach Bud Mosher stocked his lineup with freshmen and sophomores starting their first games and the team overcame a 7-2 deficit to upset Weymouth, 8-7, Monday, evening its record at 3-3.

The Quincy girls played Taunton yesterday (Wednesday), will be at Bridgewater-Raynham Friday and will play at Falmouth Monday.

Danielle Perry, a sophomore, pitched a six-hitter and walked only one.

Sue McCole, batting .409, went 4-for-4 for Quincy and five girls, making their first starts, had seven of Quincy's 13 hits.

Perry had two hits, Kim Donofrio was 2-for-2, Jen Sullivan, a freshman, had two hits and Laurie Farrell had one.

"Jen didn't know until about an hour before the game she would be starting her first game and she came through like a veteran," said Mosher. "These young girls did a tremendous job for us."

Men's League Opens

The Quincy Men's Softball League got under way last week with action in three divisions.

In Division A Deco-Double G is off to a fast start and, after upsetting defending champion Luke's Lounge, ran over the Washington Tap A team, 28-3. Bobby Haggerty has been red hot, batting .890 during the two games.

Mr. C's Place edged Granite Rail, 5-4, in the opener for both teams with Mark Tobin pitching seven-hit ball. The winners ended the game with a sharp, 6-3-2, double play. Mike Cochrane hit a home run.

In Division B, Fowler House opened with a 10-2 win over Layden's Pub. Gary Brait had two triples and made a fine diving catch and a an excellent catch of a sinking line drive to end the game.

Lefty pitcher Jim Buhl allowed just two unearned runs for Fowler House and Robbie Burns had two hits.

Defending playoff champion Washington Tap defeated Kelly's In The Square, 11-6, with Mike Ash going 3-for-4 with a three-run homer and Sean Gately going 3-for-3 with a triple and home run.

Chip Marchi had two hits and Joe Godfrey, Al Freeman, Mike Burnes and Lou Moccia one each. John Kiley and Dave Nagle played strong defense.

In Division C, Dimitri's Pub started out with an 8-4 victory over Continental Cable, as coach Darin Zemp filled in several defensive holes with his new team and it played well.

Fabulous Tan slugged division champion Commonwealth Vending, 18-9, as general manager Guy Bogano made some off-season acquisitions and put together a solid two-way team.

QPIC Auction Raises $4,000 For Collins Park Preservation

The Quincy Park Improvement Committee (QPIC) recently held a benefit auction, raising more than $4,000 for the preservation of the Collins-Rest-A-While Park.

The park benefits residents from throughout the city because of its central location on Southern Artery across from Veterans' Stadium. The playground equipment now featured at the Collins-Rest-A-While has endured 20 winters and needs replacing.

In May 1991, a group of concerned Quincy residents formed QPIC, and dedicated themselves to improving the park for Quincy's children. According to Committee Chairwoman Michelle Lydon, director of Lydon Funeral Home, "Our success to date represents the tremendous efforts of a number of dedicated individuals coming together for a common cause. We're trying to create something very positive for Quincy's children."

More than 150 attendees gathered for the QPIC auction at the Quincy American Legion Post on Mechanic St., bidding on items donated by Quincy businesses and residents.

Among the items auctioned off were autographed Red Sox baseballs; breakfast at the Beale St. Diner every Sunday for a year; a one-week use of a condo in Orlando donated by Councillor Pat Toland. A 19-inch color TV donated by Dr. Frederick Heller, Dr. Charles DiCecca and Dr. Eliott Schiffman claimed the top bid of $300.

The group's plans call for a new play equipment system with crawl tunnels, arch bridges, slides, swings and 16 additional activity centers, all interconnected and handicapped accessible. A second similar system provides lower heights, especially designed for children under six years old.

In less than a year, QPIC has raised more than half of its $60,000 goal. The city, with the help of the Mayor James Sheets' office and City Council, donated $15,000 to the effort.

For more information or to make a donation to the preservation of the Collins-Rest-A-While Park, contact QPIC Chair Michelle Lydon at 472-7423.

Morrisette Legion Post Baseball Tryouts

Prospective Buyers For Quincy Center T Restaurant

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Two prospective buyers went before the License Board Tuesday hoping to start a new restaurant at what is currently The Orient Express, a Chinese restaurant at the Quincy Center MBTA station.

John Kotsiopoulos of Needham and Nicholas Tsoukalis of Norwood said they are willing to spend up to $130,000 to renovate the property, which is owned by the MBTA.

"We want to put in a new ceiling, new floors, new everything," they said. The two men, who already own a pizzeria in Stoughton and a donut shop in Mattapan, did not go into specifics about what they would do with the property, although they did mention possibly selling coffee and donuts.

However, the board members decided that they wanted to learn more about the pair's plans for the property, as well as the Stoughton and Mattapan properties.

The matter was continued until next week.

Three weeks ago a potential buyer, George Tsolirides, withdrew his application for a Common Victualer license after the board approved his application for a coffee and sandwich shop with the condition that no seating be allowed. Tsolirides wanted an 18-seat operation at the Orient Express site.

The restaurant has had other problems in recent days. It has been tagged as a "hangout" for drug dealers and other "undesirables" by police, and was also recently cited for more than 10 health and building code violations.

Attorney Robert Fleming of Quincy, who represents the Grace Eng, the restaurant's current owner, lashed out two weeks ago at the License Board and news media for making the restaurant's problems public and also blamed the MBTA for its current state. Fleming said the publicity was hurting his client's business.

Health Commisioner Jane Gallahue, however, assured Fleming that Eng was not being singled out and said it is standard procedure for the License Board to inspect an establishment prior to approving a license transfer.

Woodward School Science Fair Winners

The Woodward School announces the winners in its annual Science Fair. More than 20 members of the local scientific community served as judges.

Awards for the top three projects in each class (grades 6-10) and a grand prize winner from the middle school and upper school were presented.

Guest speaker was Jane Dunham Aghajanian of Quincy, a biologist with Genetics Institute in Cambridge. She shared some of her experiences in pioneer research in genetics, microbiology and immunology.

Shannon O'Toole of Quincy was the grand prize winner in the Upper School for her project "Passive Smoking Plays an Active Role in Your Health."

Robin Custeau of Quincy was the grand prize winner in the Lower School for her project "Video Games, Fun or Fatal? - How Video Games Affect Your Behavior."

There were two divisions in the Upper School, Introduction to Physical Science and Biology.

In the Physical Science category Leah Campanale placed first for "Archimedes Principle - Will It Float?"

Corinne Lofchie placed second with "Bubbles: Pop, Popin' Away" and Lyndsay Reynolds was third with "Harmonics - What Makes It Sound Good?"

Eryne Flanagan received Honorable Mention for "Optical Illusions - Do You See What I See?"

In the Biology category Jessica Denis won first place with "The Heart - What You Should Know About It."

Jaime Fraioli was second with "Growing Up in the World of AIDS" and Nicole DiGuisto earned third place for "The Effects of Alcohol on the Liver: Live-er-Die?"

Melissa Micelli received Honorable Mention for "To Teeth of Not to Teeth? - That is the Question."

In the Lower School awards were given for the top three projects in each class.

Michelle Custeau placed second with "Push or Pull? - A Study of Magnets and Propulsion" and Jennifer Guiney earned third place for "Experienced Paper - Recycling Paper."

Mary Kerr received Honorable Mention for "Precipitation - The Wacky Wide World of Weather."

In Grade 7, Caitlin Doyle won first place with "Where Does Your Garbage Go? - Land Fills."

Eleanor Holt earned second for "To Bleed or Not to Bleed? - Hemophilia" and Christine Barrieau placed third for "The Wind Beneath Their Wings - The Story of Flight."

Honorable Mention went to both Jade Kwong for "The Movement of Life - Muscles" and Jennifer Duane for "How Do You Taste? - How the Taste Buds Work."

In Grade 8, Patricia Arnold was the first place winner with "Hurricanes."

Faith Raimondi placed second with "Red Hot Volcanoes" and Meredith Massarelli earned third place for "Erosion on New England Shores."

Katie Morrill earned Honorable Mention for "Salt Water Marshes."

Project winners are eligible to compete in the Regional Fair in May.

Quincy Police To Honor Three At Retirement Party May 14

Three former Quincy police officers who served a combined 109 years on the force will be honored at the Quincy Police Department's 12th annual Retirement Party Thursday, May 14 at the Morrisette Post, Miller St., West Quincy.

Captain Paul Nestor (36 years of service); Sgt. Denis P. Cronin (36 years) and Det. Robert O. Bird (37 years) will be recognized for their years of service to the department and the community.

Social hour will start at 6:30 p.m. followed by dinner at 7:30 p.m.

Admission is $20 per person.

Those unable to attend may sign up as a "booster" for $10. Names will be printed on a souvenir program.

Quincy Community Action Home Buying Workshops Begin May 2

Quincy Community Action Programs, an MHFA approved first time homebuying counselling agency, will begin a series of four workshops Tuesday, May 5.

Other workshop dates are May 19, June 2 and June 16. All workshops will be held in the Quincy City Hall annex second floor conference room from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

Registration is limited. To register, send a $15 check made out to Quincy Community Action Programs, 1509 Hancock St., Quincy, MA 02169 Attn: Nancy Callahan.

Callahan, the housing director for Quincy Community Action, said each workshop will focus on different aspects of the homebuying process; from locating the property to making an offer to types of financing. .

Workshops will be small in number so that individual issues can be addressed. The $15 cost per person covers the expense for xeroxed materials.

Quincy Civil Air Squadron Receives Award

The Outstanding Squadron of the Year Award went to the Quincy Composite Squadron, Civil Air Patrol, during the recent Massachusetts Wing Conference in Sturbridge.

Competing with 18 other squadrons in the state, the Quincy unit was cited for its participation in local and statewide activities during the past 12 months.

Cadet Staff Sgt. Mary R. Gogan of Quincy won the essay contest, which was open to 561 cadets in Massachusetts. Gogan wrote a 950-word paper on emergency management and preparation to handle disasters after interviewing Anthony Siciliano, Quincy's deputy director for emergency management.

She has been a member of Civil Air Patrol for five years and has attended four CAP summer encampments at Otis Air Force Base on Cape Cod. Gogan has also completed leadership and non-commissioned officer schools.

The squadron was further honored by the naming of Capt. Leo F. Davis, Quincy's deputy commander for cadets, as the Senior Member of Distinction for Massachusetts Wing.

Davis, a graduate of Quincy schools and currently of Dorchester, works as a security guard in Boston. He has been a member of Civil Air Patrol several years.

He has been responsible for recruiting several new members and for supervising cadet training and activities.

Further information about Civil Air Patrol and the Quincy Composite Squadron is available by calling the squadron commander, Capt. William G. Sullivan, at 848-6698 or by attending a Friday night meeting. Meetings begin at 6:30 p.m. at the Quincy Public Works Building, 55 Sea St., rear entrance.

Central Middle School Wins Regional Math League Competition

Eighth grade students at Central Middle School have completed the fifth and last round in the Continental Mathematics League for the school year 1991-92.

Central competes in the Pythagorean Division. The country is divided into seven regions with over 200 schools entered in the competition. New England is in Region I and Central Middle School is the top regional winner--first in this section of the country. Central outscored Boston Latin School, Hingham Junior High, Maimonides School, Roxbury Latin School and Weston Middle School.

Jed Donnelly completed all five rounds with perfect scores. Only seven other students attained this score and were designated as National Student Leaders with perfect scores. The other students attend schools in California, Florida and Alabama.

Other high scorers this year include Kristin Fluhr, Melissa Greene, Jimmy Lee, Vincent Leung, Jason Liu and Michael O'Brien.

Central ranks sixth in the nation. Eighth graders enter the competition as they use their mathematical skills with the tests which are organized and presented on five separate occasions. They are prepared by the Continental Math League in Hauppauge, New York.

Enthusiasm in this competition generates interest in performance as students are encouraged in grades 6 and 7 as well to do their best with materials prepared for national testing.

Jed Donnelly plans to attend Quincy High School in September. He has maintained a High Honors standing throughout his enrollment in grades 6-8 at Central Middle School.

34 Candidates File For Seven State, County Offices

re-election.

The following is a list of candidates for state and county office who filed in Quincy City Hall before Tuesday's deadline. The list of candidates for district offices may be incomplete since candidates could have filed in other towns in the district.

The Governor's Council race attracted the most candidates in Quincy as 10 filed in City Hall. They are:

Republicans: Kenneth J. Fortini of Duxbury.

Unenrolled: Thomas J. Corkery, 37 Island Ave., Quincy; John Horgan of Braintree; and Joan Diver, 95 East Squantum St., Quincy.

Among the candidates who filed in other towns are Kevin Donovan of Abington, Josephine Howland of Boston and Christopher Iannella of Jamaica Plain.

In the race for Norfolk County sheriff, Incumbent Democrat Clifford Marshall of Quincy filed re-election papers. He is being challenged by Republicans Paul Kelly of Millis, an employee of the Norfolk County Sheriff's Department, and Harvard University government student Paul Katsirubas of Braintree.

Another Republican, Morton Silver of Stoughton, filed 29 signatures in Quincy. One thousand signatures are needed to get on the ballot in a county office, including sheriff.

Seven candidates filed papers for Norfolk county commissioner in Quincy. They are:

Democrats: Quincy City Clerk John Gillis, 23 Richard St.; former Weymouth selectman John Youngclaus; Peter Collins of Milton; William A. Jensen, 44 Kidder St., Quincy, a former mayoral candidate; and William P. O'Donnell of Norwood. Councillor Michael Cheney and Kevin Burke both took papers out but did not file.

Unenrolled: Jim Geary of Avon filed.

Other candidates who filed for county commissioner outside Quincy include Paul Seaman of Walpole, Edwin Little of Sharon, and Darren McAuliffe of Braintree.

Four candidates, all Democrats, filed for state senate in Quincy. They are:

Three Republicans took papers out in Quincy but did not return them before the deadline: Stephen J. Pappas, 166 Granite St., Quincy; David Smith, 25 Muirhead St., Quincy; and Brian A. Kelley, 18 Calvin Rd., Quincy.

No enrolled candidates filed for state senate.

The local contest fielding the most candidates is the race to succeed Morrissey as state representative in the First Norfolk District. Seven candidates from all three major parties will campaign for the seat.

They are:

Unenrolled: Patrick Conroy, 272 Billings St., Quincy.

In the Third Norfolk District, Incumbent State Rep. Ronald Marino, a Democrat, will be challenged by Democrat George Miller, 120 Sumner St., Quincy.

Weymouth Democrat and former state rep candidate Jack McGlone took out papers but did not return them.

The actual field of candidates could change over the next few weeks since the last day to withdraw from a race (and thus remove a name from the ballot) is June 3.

The next important date on the political calender is Tuesday, May 3, the last day for candidates to file for Congress.

The state primary will be held Tuesday, Sept. 15. The final election will be held Tuesday, Nov. 3.

Collins. She made the long drive back to Quincy arriving just a few hours before Monday's Joint Convention.

She was selected from a pool of seven candidates who each briefly introduced themselves and explained why they should be considered.

Before the vote King ended speculation about her commitment to the job by saying she would give up her winters in Florida while on the School Committee.

"I can't imagine anything more important to sacrifice for than education," she said.

King said she would work to provide a strong program for non-college bound students particularly at the Center for Technical Education.

JoAnn Bragg received two votes. She finished fifth, right behind King, in the fall primary and election and has remained active in school matters. She is the president of the Citywide Parents Council.

Sean Barry, who finished in seventh place in the primary election last September and did not qualify for the final election, also received two votes. He told the Convention that the field should be wide open and not restricted to the runner-up candidate.

"There are too many obstacles for young people who want to be involved (in government)," Barry, 27, said.

Former School Committee member Mary Jane Powers, former candidate Michael Jovanovic and teacher Ron McCarthy also nominated themselves. However, during their addresses to the Joint Convention they each implied that King was deserving of the job.

Powers asked the Convention to "consider the will of the voters."

McCarthy said he plans on running for School Committee in 1993.

Susan Campbell, a former teacher and parent of a first grader, said she would emphasize excellence in math and science, AIDS education and self assessment of the school system. She, too, indicated she may be a future candidate.

Campbell said she works for a children's center in an infection control capacity.

"We have to help prevent our children from dying," she said.

King goes right from the frying pan into the fire. The School Committee met last night (Wednesday) and began discussions on a superintendent search.

Other issues facing King and the School Committee include school overcrowding and budget constraints.

"I've always said the superintendent should be someone from inside the school system who is committed to the community," she said.

She said the overcrowding problem is a long-term issue which needs to be dealt with carefully. "It's been building for some time," she said.

"I know what goes on in the schools," King said. She was a math teacher at North Quincy High School and head of the Math Department at Quincy High School.

"I know (acting superintendent) Gene Creedon very well and we'll work well together. I think it's a good School Committee. I would like to have the School Committee and City Council work together better," King said.

"I have worked with her (King) on many issues over the years," Creedon said. "She will be an energetic, hard-working, absolutely dedicated member. I look forward to drawing on her experience and I'm thrilled she'll be an advocate for the Center for Technical Education."

School Committee members Frank Santoro, Ron Mariano and Stice voted for their new colleague.

"I think she'll be a real asset. She brings experience and she has been active in educational issues for as long as I can remember," Mariano said.

"She'll be aggressively promoting the good things we do in the schools... Which we can all take a lesson from," he said.

"I think she'll do a good job and be an effective and dedicated member," said School Committeeman Steve Durkin who voted for Bragg.

"In my initial discussions with Peg King I was not so sure she wanted to come back from Florida," Durkin said. "JoAnn Bragg also received strong and wide support in the election and she remained involved."

Durkin said when he learned King would give up her Florida winters last week he had already committed to Bragg. He said he was prepared to vote for King on the second ballot.

Ward 4 City Councillor Thomas Fabrizio also voted for Bragg.

Raymondi and Ward 5 City Councillor Charles Phelan voted for Barry.

Collins said she was "very pleased" by the selection of King as her replacement.

"I think the proper process is for the seat to go to the runner-up... in fairness," she said.

Collins also said her retirement does not signal the end of her involvement in school issues.

"I'll still be around. I'll come to the meetings," she said. "It's been a large part of my life. I intend to return some day," said Collins. She retired last week on the advice of her physician.

Prior to the vote, Toland, told the Joint Convention that there has been a precedent in recent years to elect the fourth place finisher (runner-up).

Since the late 1970's there have been four previous instances of a Joint Convention appointing a replacement member to the School Committee, Toland said. Frank Anselmo replaced Frank McCauley, John Sullivan replaced Toland, Robert Jarnis replaced Christopher Kennedy and most recently Margaret Nigro replaced Anselmo.

Toland said the present system of replacing a School Committee member should be changed. She said she will ask several members of the School Committee and City Council to meet with Mayor James Sheets "to come up with a consensus that will make everyone happy."

Dial 376-CARE For Quincy Hospital Physician Referrals

Quincy Hospital has implemented "The DoctorLine," a full-time, computerized physician referral service to assist those in the community seeking a new physician or a referral to a physician in a particular speciality.

The phone number for the free service is 376-CARE (CARE). It operates from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. The service does not require a touch-tone phone.

William Hare, the referral coordinator, accepts vital information from the caller such as name, address, type of physician needed and languages spoken, to name a few. After all the information has been entered, the computer will generate the names and addresses of several doctors who meet the requirements of the caller. Additionally, the coordinator can make an appointment for the caller. The system automatically sends a letter to confirm a referral or appointment.

"I'm very excited about the potential for this service," Hospital Director Ellen Zane said. "I feel that this is another wonderful opportunity for the hospital to expand its array of community outreach programs and further raise the level of personal service to those using Quincy Hospital."

YMCA Youth Olympic Day May 17

The South Shore YMCA, Community Services Division, celebrating its 100th birthday, will hold Youth Olympic Day Sunday, May 17 from noon to 5 p.m. for all children age four to 6th grade at Pageant Field in Merrymount.

Events include the 50-yard dash, softball throw, frisbee throw, half-mile run, water race, football kick, long jump, and an obstacle course.

Special activities are planned for four and five year olds.

Trophies will be presented and all children will receive participant ribbons. Cost is $3 per child in advance or $5 per child walk in registration (same day). Registration may be by mail or in person at the YMCA. First 100 registrants will receive a free T-shirt.

For more information, call Mark Free at 479-8500, ext. 104.

Stephen Morad In 'Who's Who Among Students'

Multibank May Merge Three Banks

Multibank Financial Corporation announces it is developing plans to merge its three eastern Massachusetts banks later this year.

The three banks are South Shore Bank in Norfolk County, Durfee Attleboro Bank in Bristol County and the Falmouth National Bank in Barnstable County. The merger would be subject to board approval as well as regulatory approval.

Plans call for the new bank to be headquartered in Quincy, with regional centers to be maintained in Fall River and Falmouth.

With assets of nearly $1.5 billion, the new bank will rank eighth in size among commercial banks in Massachusetts. The bank will serve the state's eastern region through 46 banking offices.

Forrest R. Cook, Jr., president of South South Bank, is expected to be named president and chief executive officer of the bank.

Multibank expects to gain operating efficiencies and reduce costs as a result of the planned merger. Some consolidation of functions will occur. Customer service will be uninterrupted as the merger proceeds.

Multibank Financial Corp. is a registered bank holding company with five Massachusetts banks. The company's stock is traded on the over-the-counter market and is listed and quoted through the NASDAQ National Market System (NMS) under the symbol MLTF.

Free Home Buyers Seminar Tonight

ERA Central Real Estate and Omega Financial, Inc., will hold a free home buyers seminar tonight (Thursday) from 7 to 9 p.m. at Barry's In The Square, 1237 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

The seminar will cover such topics as role of the realtor, mortgage programs, home insurance, purchase and sale agreements and home inspection services. It is not limited to first-time home buyers.

"We hope to untangle the confusion about the complications involved in buying a home, and make the process as smooth as possible," said John Sullivan, vice president of Randolph-based Omega Financial, Inc., a mortgage broker and lender. "In today's real estate market, there are many value-priced properties, and this seminar will give buyers sound practical advice."

Other speakers will include Quincy Atty. Thomas Williams, Realtor Vin Moscardelli of Quincy-based ERA Central; Pat Rizzo of Braintree-based Tiger Home Inspection; and Bob Hoffman of Hoffman Insurance Services, Wellesley.

picture has stabilized and it will probably continue to bottom out this year and I expect next year will be better financially for the city," Sheets said.

The line items for the two biggest municipal budgets are $10,659,989 for police and $9,662,814 for fire. Compared to FY 92, the police budget represents an increase of $231,504. The fire budget reflects an increase of $237,708.

The fire budget includes funding for a study of the department. Sheets said the study will examine the city's delivery of fire services. The police budget includes money for increases in clothing allowances.

The school budget, which was recently adopted by the school committee, is $36,806,772 next year. The school spending package increased $2,209,415 over last year. Of that increase, $1,900,000 was due to teachers salaries which were deferred in FY 92, Foy said.

Sheets said the school, police, and fire budgets may receive additional appropriations during FY 93 if money is available. "It's possible that there will be additional appropriations in the three major budgets. We just have to see how things develop financially."

The mayor credited the city's quarterly property tax billing system and recycling program as two cost-saving factors. The city has saved $500,000 in short-term interest payments because real estate bills are going out four times a year. Another $1 million has been saved the last two years through recycling.

For the fourth straight year, there will be no capital outlay budget. The last time the city had a capital outlay budget was FY 89 when former Mayor Francis X. McCauley was in office.

"There should be a capital outlay budget but if you have one you're going to have a reduction in personnel and we're not going to do that," Sheets said.

The FY93 budget calls for only one major consolidation. Sheets said Traffic Control will be placed under the Department of Public Works, ultimately saving between $30,000 and $40,000 next year. The mayor said the move will make the traffic control more efficient.

Sheets said it is too early to know how much of a surplus the city will have once the books close on FY92 on June 30. He estimated the free cash account has between $300,000 and $400,000 on Tuesday.

The council will have 45 days to approve the budget once councillors receive it. Councillors can only cut, not add, to the budget.

Boston Police Promote Six Quincy Residents

Six men from Quincy were recently promoted, three to captain and three to sergeant, by the Boston Police Department.

Ronald Conway, Thomas Crowley and John Ferguson, all of Quincy, were recently promoted to the rank of Boston Police Captain.

Police Commissioner Francis Roache swore in the three Quincy men along with 19 other captains.

"You have attained a major milestone in your careers, and in the long and proud history of America's oldest and finest police department. In your new roles you will be responsible for providing leadership into the next century.

Conway, 52, who joined the department in 1964, will be assigned to Area C (South Boston and Dorchester).

Crowley, 52, who joined the department in 1968, will be assigned to Area C (South Boston).

Ferguson, 47, who joined the department in 1970, will be assigned to Area B (Roxbury and Mattapan).

Daniel Dovidio, Paul Flaherty and Stephen Meade were promoted to the rank of sergeant.

"You are the future of the Boston Police Department," Roache said. Dovidio, 56, was promoted from the rank of detective. He is a 22-year veteran.

Flaherty, 45, was also promoted from the rank of detective and is a 22-year veteran.

Meade, 33, was promoted from the rank of patrol officer and is a 13-year veteran of the police force.

To Alleviate Crowding At Lincoln-Hancock

New School Urged At Lincoln Site

By STEVE KAVANAGH

Members of the Lincoln School Task Force brought their case for a new school to the City Council Monday night.

Plans are underway to demolish the 100-year old Southwest Quincy School but a decision has not been made on what to do with the site.

The Task Force told the City Council it wants a new school built to alleviate crowding at the nearby Lincoln-Hancock School.

"Parents are concerned that if we tear the building down no school will be rebuilt there," said School Committee member and Task Force chairman Dan Raymondi.

"These are children - not cattle. We have to stop pushing them around," said Susan Wilson, parent representative from Lincoln-Hancock School.

Enrollment at the school is currently 635. When the school was opened in the mid-1970's it was designed for 425 students with the first floor of the building being used for community programs. Using the first floor as classroom space increases the "optimum" enrollment to 500, a school official said.

Raymondi said the Lincoln-Hancock School was built as a community center. "We want to ease the overcrowding and allow the civic groups back there."

Wilson said it is not fair to children to move them from school to school each year and that something permanent should be done to eliminate overcrowding. She said the greater number of students in the lower grades at Lincoln-Hancock will make the problem worse in the coming years.

"No more band-aid solutions!" she said. "We need classrooms."

"What we all want is stabilization in the schools. There has been a great deal of disruption," said Councillor-at-Large Patricia Toland.

Raymondi said it has been estimated that a new school would cost about $1 million. He said the actual cost to the city could be

Recycling Committee Asks Program Expansion

The Quincy Recycling Committee wants to expand the curbside collection program and include the city's schools and municipal buildings in recycling efforts.

Recycling Committee members and residents have made suggestions for the program and made a presentation to the City Council Monday night.

One recommendation is to expand the collections to include magazines, other plastics, cardboard and metals such as tin, iron and aluminum.

JoAnn Bragg said that pupils and teachers in Quincy schools are eager to participate in recycling. The committee has proposed that the schools begin a paper and aluminum can recycling project.

The committee also wants all municipal buildings to recycle paper and aluminum cans.

Another recommendation is to create incentives for the proper disposal of household hazardous waste

Quincy's recycling contract with Browning-Ferris Industries expires in August and the city's trash collection contract with BFI is up on Dec. 31. The trash disposal contract will be up for bid.

"We are trying to encourage private sector competition. That is best for the city," said committee chairman Larry Chretien, Ward 3 City Councillor.

The city currently pays BFI $81 a ton for trash disposal. Since Quincy signed its contract with BFI the price per ton has dropped and Quincy officials say they hope to get a better rate resulting in less cost to residents for trash disposal.

The committee has also proposed that one-half of one percent of the city's annual savings from the recycling program go towards advertising and promotional activities for recycling.

"We've got to get more people involved," said committee member Arthur Tucker of Madison Avenue.

Other committee members who spoke were Joan Pierce, Larry Oullette, John Norton, DPW Commissioner David Colton and Michael Wheelwright of the DPW who manages Quincy's recycling program.

10 Candidates File For Donnelly Seat

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Ten candidates have filed signatures at the Quincy City Clerk's office for the 11th Congressional District seat being vacated by Brian Donnelly.

Assistant City Clerk Joseph Shea said that eight Democrats and two Republicans had filed in Quincy by Tuesday's deadline.

If all are certified by the Secretary of State's office then both a Republican and Democratic primary will be held in September.

Democrats who filed in Quincy include Secretary of State Michael Connolly of Boston, Norfolk County District Attorney William Delahunt of Quincy, State Sen. Paul Harold of Quincy, Thomas Healey of Brockton, Eleanor LeCain of Boston, Thomas Menino of Boston, John Shields of Brockton and Boston City Councillor Charles Yancy.

Republicans filing in Quincy were Penny Reid of Whitman and Robert Stone of Whitman.

Presently, the 11th Congressional District stretches from Neponset and Hyde Park to the north, Abington and Whitman to the south and Randolph and Avon to the west.

Specifically, the district comprises the city of Quincy and the towns of Avon, Braintree, Holbrook, Milton, Randolph and Weymouth and Norfolk County; the city of Brockton and the towns of Abington, East Bridgewater, Rockland, West Bridgewater and Whitman in Plymouth County; and Wards 15, 16, 17 and 18 in the City of Boston in Suffolk County.

The district lines may be redrawn, depending on the outcome of a court case. The state is trying to keep its 11 seats in Congress. The federal government, which believes Massachusetts should lose a seat because of a drop in population, wants to pare the number of seats down to 10.

Toland Wants Better Way To Fill School Vacancies

City Councillor-at-Large Patricia Toland wants to change the way vacancies on the School Committee are filled. But not all of her colleagues agree.

Toland asked the Council to support a resolve requesting that Mayor James Sheets establish a committee of two City Councillors and two School Committee members to review the replacement process and introduce options.

But several Councillors said they see nothing wrong with the way things are now. Under the city charter a Joint Convention of the Council and School Committee vote for a replacement. A majority vote is required.

Margaret "Peggy" King was elected two weeks ago to fill the School Committee seat of Mary Collins who retired because of health reasons. It was the fifth Joint Convention in recent memory.

"I think all of us would like to resolve it (the process) one way or another," Toland said. Last year she proposed that the runner up in the most recent election automatically be named to fill a vacancy.

"There was hesitation on adopting my last proposal and I agree we need to refine it," Toland said.

Other Councillors felt the present system works just fine.

Clean-Up Rids City Of Debris By Tons

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The third annual Cleaner-Greener Quincy campaign was a "smooth operation" as three to four tons of debris was removed over the weekend from the city's beaches, parks and neighborhoods, city officials said.

Approximately 500 volunteers participated in Saturday's cleanup, which began from six different ward sites throughout the city. Department of Public Works Program Manager Michael Wheelwright said although the turnout was lower than expected, this year's campaign was still more successful than the first two.

"We definitely picked up more material this year with less volunteers," said Wheelwright. "It was a smooth operation. We probably got about a third more (total debris) than last year, although it's hard to compare exact figures."

Wheelwright said part of the reason for the increase in debris collected was "flotsam and jetsam" that was left on the city's beaches from Hurricane Bob and the other unnamed storm that took place last fall.

"Debris collected in the beachfront areas in Squantum, Houghs Neck and Germantown probably made the overall number go up," said Wheelwright.

He also noted, however, that the lower number of volunteers this year was due to "several new groups" of residents who "elected to do their own thing" during this year's campaign.

"There were several concurrent things that were going on that weren't part of our schedule, and that's fine,"said Wheelwright.

Executive Secretary Thomas Koch agreed.

"There were more people doing more neighborhood programs," said Koch. "The spirit of Cleaner-Greener has really spread out to all sections of the city so that a lot of people are really doing their own thing, and that's great. As long as we're all cleaning debris, that's all that really matters.

"It was a very successful day, and we look forward to more projects during the year related to Cleaner-Greener."

Koch said the cookout held after the cleanup at Pageant Field was also a success.

"It was a lot of fun," said Koch. "We got a good cross-section of people from various parts of the city that came down for a hot dog or a hamburger."

Wheelwright agreed.

"It's chance for everybody to sit down with a snack and soft drink and talk to people," he said. "It's a good feeling."

Wheelwright said he hoped that T-shirts and banners could be given out at next year's cookout so the volunteers would have "something to bring home with them." He added that meetings in preparation for next year's Cleaner-Greener Quincy campaign would begin early next winter.

Fire Chief Supports 500 Gallon Propane Tank At Hardware Store

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The License Board continued discussion Tuesday on whether to grant Curry Hardware, 370 Copeland St., a permit to store 500 gallons of propane outside the store.

The matter had been postponed for two weeks so fire officials could further review the request. Several neighbors had spoken against the request at the board's April 21 meeting because they feared such a propane tank would endanger residents living in the area.

At Tuesday's meeting, however, Fire Chief Thomas Gorman spoke in favor of the proposal.

"It's a safe operation," said Gorman. "It's just as safe, if not safer, than a gasoline station. I see no problem with it."

One of the neighbors who attended the April 21 meeting, Robert Cannon of 363 Copeland St., expressed further concern that a propane tank could pose a danger to the surrounding area.

"I've heard they don't allow those tanks to be taken through the (traffic) tunnels in Boston," said Cannon. "Right there, that says to me that they're dangerous." Cannon said he also knew of certain cities and towns that do not allow the tanks.

Gorman, however, said the tanks only pose a danger if they are not handled correctly.

"Propane is a dangerous product when handled improperly," said Gorman. "If handled properly, it can be a good neighbor. I think it's a convenience that's needed in the city."

Gorman added that the tanks are not allowed in traffic tunnels because there would be "no way to get to them" if they did happen to explode in one of the tunnels.

Police Chief Francis Mullen voiced confidence in Gorman's judgement.

"As the police chief, my concern is safety," said Mullen. "If Chief Gorman considers it safe, I have to abide by his decision and respect his opinion."

However, when Gorman made a motion to grant the request, two other board members spoke against it.

Health Commissioner Jane Gallahue said "I would not like to see it in such a congested place. I respect Chief Gorman, but that's my opinion."

Building Inspector Matthew Mulvey agreed.

"I feel the same way," he said. Mulvey also expressed concern that a "Pandora's Box" could be opened in the city if this one request were granted, because it would be then be difficult to deny similar requests.

Bob Curry, owner of the hardware store, said that his proposed propane tank was not the actual problem facing the board.

"The problem is not the kind of facility I want," he said. "The problem is the 20-pound tanks (used by homeowners for barbeques) that are used in these 'swap' deals. It's not the storage facility."

Curry noted that Atlas Hardware in North Quincy has been known to give customers full 20-pound tanks in a "swap" for empty ones. Businesses engaging in this practice must receive a permit from the fire department to do so, but do not have to appear before the License Board for permission.

Upon learning of the "swap" process, Mulvey said he would like more time to look further into the matter.

"I want to check to see that this is being done," said Mulvey. "If so, it's more dangerous then anything you (Curry) would be doing, and I might change my thinking about your request."

The process of "swapping" is considered to be something of a risk since the tanks can sometimes get damaged or rusty when used more than once.

Upon Mulvey's request, Gorman withdrew his motion and the hearing was continued until next week.

Harold Announces Candidacy For Congress

Sen. Paul Harold officially announced his candidacy for the U.S. representative seat in the 11th Congressional District being vacated by Cong. Brian Donnelly at a campaign kick-off Sunday held at the George F. Bryan Post.

Harold is giving up his Senate seat which he has held since 1979 to run for Congress. He is the first candidate to officially announce his campaign for the Congressional seat.

"Running for Congress is more than a career advancement, it is an advancement of the issues that I have been working on at the State House for the past 14 years," Harold said.

Declaring his candidacy, Harold addressed several key regional issues, including the MWRA, economic opportunities, transportation projects and substance abuse laws.

"As a member of the Senate who helped establish the MWRA is 1985, I have since targeted their rate increases and excessive spending for reform. Now I want to go to Washington to finish the job by forcing the federal government to get back into the water and sewer business," he said.

"When the Quincy shipyard was closed, I played a key role in insuring that the heavy, industrial shipbuilding capacity of the yard was protected. I helped set up the framework to establish an employee owned yard to revive shipbuilding on the South Shore. As congressman, I will that effort and make sure that the federal government develops a comprehensive, national industrial policy to protect our manufacturing base and encourage the formation of new, manufacturing jobs.

"As an active member of the legislature's Transportation Committee, I was an early advocate of the restoration of the commuter trains to the South Shore. I secured funding for the construction of a new Neponset River train bridge. As congressman I will oversee the completion of this project and push for an accelerated schedule for this vital transportation link to Brockton and the South Shore.

"During my tenure as the chairman of the

Toland Wants Better Way To Fill School Vacancies

"We showed last week what we did (election of King) was the fairest way," said Ward 2 Councillor Ted DeCristofaro.

"What we saw two weeks ago was democracy in action," said Councillor-at-Large Tim Cahill. "It's a tough decision but that's what we're elected to do."

"There was tremendous pressure and some stretched friendships," said Councillor-at-Large Mike Cheney of the lobbying for votes for the vacant seat. "People have trusted us to make wise decisions and we've borne that out every time."

Toland agreed that the system has worked out "four out of five times" but politics got in the way when the Joint Convention was deadlocked between Margaret Nigro and Frank Anselmo to fill the late Christopher Kennedy's seat a few years ago.

"It has worked out, however, I still have a stinging memory of two years ago. The public was not proud of the way we performed. It was embarrassing," Toland said.

"I think it deserves to be looked at," said Ward 5 Councillor Charles Phelan, who co-sponsored the resolve with Toland. "I feel strongly that a change in the charter would go a long way towards taking the politics out (of the process)," he said.

"The only way to take the politics out of it is to vote for the runner-up," DeCristofaro said.

The Council voted to refer the matter to Sheets.

DROPOUTS AT HIGH AIDS RISK

High School dropouts from poor neighborhoods are contracting the AIDS virus at an alarming rate. A recent federal study found that 16 to 20-year-old members of the Job Corps program were infected with the HIV virus, which causes AIDS, at a rate ten times that of applicants for the US military, who must be high school graduates. The study also pointed out that the virus was transmitted mainly through heterosexual sex, not via intravenous drug users or homosexuals. The Centers for Disease Control has called for an intensive effort to change the behavior of adolescents, particularly dropouts, to head off even more dramatic infection rates as these youths reach adulthood.

P.S. In the U.S. today, an average of three out of every 1,000 people is infected with the HIV virus.

Many health care professionals are not advocating more extensive programs of AIDS education in the schools, in order to better prevent the tragedy of adolescent AIDS from occurring. What Billy Said About Paul

No one would ever say that State Senator Paul Harold and Senate President William Bulger are Beacon Hill buddies.

The pair have had their share of differences and if Bulger has a Senate clubhouse, Harold certainly doesn't have a membership card.

HAROLD

BULGER

So, when Harold gets an unexpected boost from Bulger — especially as he launches his campaign for Congress — it has to be ranked up there in the Political Surprise Dept.

It happened at the recent Massasoit Campers Association reception honoring Harold as the recipient of this year's James R. McIntyre Good Scout Award.

Bulger wasn't there himself but a Senate citation and a letter from him were.

Herb Fontaine, former WJDA news editor, and a member of the Massasoit committee, had contacted Bulger's office to inform him of the reception for Harold and to invite him. Or, maybe send his good wishes.

Well, good wishes, they were.

The letter, read to those attending actually got a round of applause.

The letter said:

"Thank you for your splendid public service to the Massachusetts Senate, to your own constituency and to the Commonwealth. All of us who have served with you are in your debt.

"Your shining integrity and inspirational dedication have reflected most favorably upon all of us who have been in the public service with you.

"On a personal note, I am grateful to you for so much effort which you have extended for the legislative causes which both of us pursued.

"It is ironic that the many, many areas of agreement are hardly noted whereas a single point of disagreement is guaranteed to create large public attention. It is distortive as well as ironic.

"I regard you always as a friend and I will remain an admirer as you pursue opportunities to provide greater service in a new capacity.

"It is only because I am in Washington this evening that I am not present among your friends."

The letter was signed "Bill Bulger."

Harold agreed with Bulger that usually only their disagreements on issues make news while their agreements don't.

Harold will keep the letter as a career memento.

Someone suggested it might make a nice campaign memento. ❑

STEVE DURKIN appears to have the votes for the School Committee vice-chairmanship. He'll succeed Mary Collins who recently resigned from the School Committee because of health reasons.

DURKIN

Dan Raymondi who was considered a strong contender for the job, says he isn't interested in the vice-chairmanship — at this time.

FORMER School Committeeman Charles Sweeny seconds our comments here last week regarding the filling of School Committee vacancies.

SWEENY

He agrees that the vacancy should be automatically filled by the runner-up in the most recent election.

"The present process in which the School Committee and City Council meet in joint session to make the selection opens the door to buddy-buddy politics," he says.

"Everything came out right this time, with the selection of Peggy King (who was runner-up) to fill the vacancy," he says. "But it doesn't always and may not in the future."

He says he hopes Councillor Patricia Toland will refile her home rule petition to make the runner-up the automatic choice in the future.

"This is the right way and the fair way of doing it," he says. ❑

MIKE MORRISSEY launches his campaign for state senate Wednesday, May 13 at a 7 to 10 p.m. reception at the Quincy Sons of Italy Social Center, Quarry St.

MIKE BELLOTTI will kickoff his campaign for the First Norfolk District state representative seat Thursday, May 14, 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. at Kelly's In The Square. Donation at the door is $10.

BELLOTTI

Incidentally, Bellotti would like you to know that he doesn't wear $1,000 suits as reported elsewhere.

"My entire wardrobe didn't cost that much," he says.

For the record, he says, he has seven suits — five hand-me downs from his father, former Atty. Gen. Frank Bellotti, and two he picked up at Filene's Basement.

The lapels, he notes, are still in style. ❑

ORDERED: May 4, 1992

Be it Ordained by the City Council of the City of Quincy as follows: That the Revised Ordinances of the City of Quincy, 1976, as amended, be further amended as follows:

In Chapter 12. Traffic Commission. Article VI.

Section 93A and 94 are deleted and replaced with the following:

Section 93A - Traffic Engineer

The Mayor shall annually appoint on the First Monday of February, a Traffic Engineer who shall be an individual, experienced in traffic engineering including traffic and signal design. He shall be a Registered Professional Engineer in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts or shall be capable of becoming registered in the Commonwealth within six months of appointment.

The Traffic Engineer shall under the direction of the Commissioner of Public Works, participate in the management of the Public Works and Transportation Department.

The Traffic Engineer shall report directly to the Mayor and City Council as requested, and may make recommendations for the relief of traffic and parking problems and all other matters under his jurisdiction. He shall assist the various City departments as necessary.

Section 93B - Transportation Division of the Public Works Department

Transportation Division shall be responsible for the construction, maintenance and operation of traffic control signals; school zone signals; regulatory, warning and directional traffic signs; crosswalk and lane pavement markings; parking meters; and public offstreet parking. The Division shall be jointly responsible with the Police Department for the enforcement of parking ordinances.

The Division shall cause to be erected and maintained such signals, signs, marking, and other devices for the control of traffic and parking in accordance with ordinances adopted by the Quincy City Council and with the laws and regulations of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Section 94 - Duties of the Traffic Engineer, Off-Street Parking

The Traffic Engineer is hereby authorized to establish rules and regulations for the safe and efficient use of the City's off-street parking areas, including the Ross Garage, the John Hancock Lot, and the Vane Street Parking Lot. Such rules and regulations shall include hours of operation; designation of traffic patterns; designation of parking spaces and the use thereof; and similar matters. Time limits and fee rates shall be set by City Council Ordinance under Section 79.

Mr., Mrs. Michael Cocce Parents Of Son

Michael and Gina (Guiliano) Cocce of Rocky Hill, Conn., are parents of a son, Philip James, born April 8.

Grandparents are James and Joyce Cocce of Wollaston and Philip and Joyce Guiliano of Newington, Conn.

Our Policy On Engagement Photographs And Wedding Announcements

The Quincy Sun will continue to publish photographs with engagement announcements as it always has.

The Sun will also continue to use in wedding announcements the names of all members of the wedding party including maid or matron of honor, best man, parents, bridesmaids, ushers, flower girls and ringbearers, etc.

We invite engaged couples to submit their photos with their announcements and when submitting their wedding photo to include a complete listing of the wedding party.

Black and white photos are preferred. The Sun can convert most color photos to black and white for publication but the photo loses some clarity in the process.

We suggest that when you have your engagement photo taken, you request the studio to send a copy to The Sun with the reminder that The Sun is continuing its policy of publishing engagement photos.

The Sun also publishes articles and photos of wedding anniversaries beginning with the 25th anniversary.

And, as in the past, there is no charge.

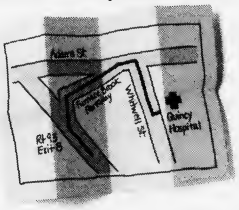
In Case Of Emergency, Follow These Simple Directions.

In a serious emergency, such as a heart attack or stroke, the directions are easy. Call 911.

But what about all those emergencies that don't require an ambulance call?

The cuts, sprains, and broken bones that take us all by surprise. In those cases, the directions are just as simple. Head to the Emergency Room at Quincy Hospital.

Whether you're facing a life and death situation or just temporary discomfort, whether you're taken here by ambulance or walk in on your own, our new Emergency Room can handle any crisis. Fact is, it's been totally redesigned so that it's four times larger than it used to be.



Our Emergency Room has space for its own specialized services. There's an E.R. Radiology suite so you don't have to wait to use the main hospital x-ray department. As well as specially equipped suites for orthopedics, gynecology, and even ear, nose and throat. This way, you get diagnosed and treated as quickly and as thoroughly as possible.

As vital as these facilities are, however, the most important part of any emergency room is the staff. Dr. Dugan Mahoney, formerly at Mass. General Hospital and now our Chief of Emergency Services, has assembled an exceptional staff including physicians specifically trained in emergency medicine, nurses with certification in emergency care, and physician assistants.

So next time an emergency strikes, remember these simple directions. Take Adams Street to Whitwell and go straight to Quincy Hospital.

Cultured Stones Make An Elegant Bath Affordable

How would you like to have a bathroom that will make a splash with family and friends without breaking your budget?

Create your own home spa with fixtures and accessories featuring the classic looks of marble, onyx and granite for far less than the cost of the original materials.

Home designers are more and more often choosing vanity tops, tubs, shower stalls, wall paneling, accessories and, yes, even toilets made from cultured marble, onyx and granite.

Not only do they look like marble, onyx and granite at less cost than the original materials, they have additional advantages:

•Durability: High strength, resistance to chipping, staining and fire.

•Design versatility: Each piece is individually cast, so fixtures can be molded in almost any shape. Unique color rendition is also possible in marbleized pigmentation or solid tones.

•Ease of cleaning: A soft sponge and mild detergent or soap and water is all that is needed for routine maintenance. Vanity bowls can be molded in one integral unit to eliminate soap scum and other undesirables from accumulating in crevices.

SPRING HOME IMPROVEMENT

Design gaining prominence in planning decks

Americans continually are becoming more design conscious. You can see it on the cover of every magazine at the checkout and in every department store across the land. No aspect of our lives escapes the critical eye of design, not our linens or our china—not even our decks.

"We're not just putting a square deck on the back of the house anymore," says John Cashmore, program manager for Weyerhaeuser LifeWood pressure-treated outdoor lumber and millwork.

"Today, deck add-ons are following the architectural styling of the house. We're paying attention to how the deck works as a component of the entire landscape."

Decks have become an extension of the living space. They work with the interior of the home to create more dining, lounging or entertaining space. They carry the interior decorating theme outside, and fit into the architectural design of the house itself.

"People are getting away from just putting down the deck and adding a railing so people won't fall off the deck," says Juta Ristsoo, home building and architecture editor for Country Living magazine.

"They're taking into consideration what style of handrail should be used for the style of the house, for example, and other ways to integrate the deck style into the architecture of the house."

Five or ten years ago, a simple deck with square balusters supporting 2x4 railings might have ended up on a colonial house. According to Ristsoo, that's no longer the case.

"Homeowners are thinking of decks much as they thought of porches years ago—as an architectural extension of the house. Porches, which used to be our outdoor living space, always were an integral part of the way the house looked since they generally were designed as part of the house before construction," says Ristsoo.

MULTIPLE LEVELS can help a deck better fit a home's design and the natural terrain. Outdoor rooms also can be created on the deck for cooking, dining and sunbathing, says Weyerhaeuser's John Cashmore. (Photo courtesy of Woman's Day magazine. Photographer: Keith Scott Morton.)

"Today, decks have become the outdoor living space and people are beginning to see the need to design the deck as part of the house."

This increased consciousness of design does not, however, require the added expense of hiring talented craftsmen to create custom spindles and posts as "period pieces" for your deck.

Manufacturers like Weyerhaeuser LifeWood have produced an extensive line of outdoor millwork products from pressure-treated lumber. Spindles match newel posts and handrails, and lattice panels have custom design.

And not only can you create that "designed look," the millwork products also are designed to fit quickly and easily together via notches and grooves.

Even though creative decks don't cost a lot more, they do require a new outlook during the design stages. It might be termed "exterior design."

"Homeowners should plan their decks and landscaping just as carefully as they would an addition to their house," says architect Melanie Taylor, president and designer for Special Places, New Haven, Conn. Special Places is a mail order catalog of plans for unique houses and wooden garden structures.

"They should think of their landscaping area as one or more outdoor rooms, taking into consideration how they'll want to use that space and how they can create an intimate environment there. There should be space for plants and outdoor furniture, space for entertaining, dining, or whatever other activities the family enjoys," says Taylor.

In the end, this increased focus on design may mean Americans will spend more time out on the deck enjoying spring flowers and summer sunsets. All in all, it doesn't sound like a bad trend.

For more information on the new millwork products now available and for tips on building with pressure-treated lumber, call 1-800-548-5767. SH905679

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

D. Scott Deware

MOTHERS ... HOW TO KEEP THEM RUNNING SMOOTHLY

Perhaps mothers should come with a maintenance agreement which provides for a complete overhaul every five years, three kids, or 300,000 miles, whichever comes first. Here are some points to be included:

FUEL: While most mothers will run indefinitely on hot coffee, pizza and hamburgers, an occasional gourmet meal for two in elegant surroundings will add immeasurably to increased efficiency. MOTOR: A mother's motor is probably one of the most dependable anywhere. Any mother can start and reach top speed from a prone position at a single cry from her child. To keep that motor at peak efficiency, regular breaks are recommended. A leisurely bath and nap about every 1,000 miles, a baby sitter every 10,000 miles will do wonders. BATTERY: Batteries should be recharged regularly. Roses, candy or other thoughtful and unexpected gifts often do the trick. CHASSIS: A mother operates best when her chassis is properly maintained. Her wardrobe, hairdo and makeup should be changed as needed. TUNEUPS: Mothers need regular tune-ups. Compliments are both the cheapest and most appreciated ...

By following these simple instructions, the average mother would last a lifetime providing love and caring to those needing her most ...

Sabatino DiRamio, 82

Tailor, Construction Worker

A funeral Mass for Sabatino DiRamio, 82, of Quincy, was celebrated May 2 at St. John's Church.

Mr. DiRamio died April 29 at Quincy Hospital after a brief illness.

A native of Brezza, Italy, where he worked as a tailor and barber, he came to America in 1938. He lived in Boston before moving to Quincy 10 years ago.

He was a World War II veteran of the Italian Army.

He worked as a tailor and barber in America for a time, and then became a construction worker. He most recently worked as a maintenance worker for Carney Hospital in Dorchester for five years.

He is survived by his wife, Virginia (Forcucci) DiRamio; two sons, Victor DiRamio of Florida and Americo DiRamio of Ashland; a daughter, Marie Sandonato of Quincy; a brother, Joseph DiRamio of Pennsylvania; 15 grandchildren, five great-grandchildren and many sisters, nieces and nephews.

Burial was in Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

Funeral arrangements were by the Lydon-Russell Funeral Home, 644 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Francis L. Guerriero, 71

Retired Business Manager

A funeral Mass for Francis L. Guerriero, 71, of Quincy, a retired business manager for Massachusetts Mental Health Care, was celebrated Monday at Sacred Heart Church.

Mr. Guerriero died April 30 at home after a long illness.

Born in Boston, he formerly worked for the U.S. Postal Service in South Boston.

An Army veteran of World War II, he was graduated from Command and General Staff Army War College during his military career.

He was a retired colonel of the Massachusetts National Guard.

He is survived by his wife, Josephine (Sheehan) Guerriero; four sons, Richard F. Guerriero of Weymouth, Joseph M. Guerriero of Braintree, Robert T. Guerriero and Michael J. Guerriero, both of Quincy; a sister, Julia M. Scannell of Boston; and 11 grandchildren.

Burial was in St. Michael's Cemetery, Roslindale.

Funeral arrangements were by the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Donations may be made to Hospice of the South Shore or Sacred Heart Church Memorial Fund.

Loretta R. Serene, 87

Member of Womens' Clubs

A funeral Mass for Loretta R. (Gallagher) Serene, 87, of Quincy, a member of the St. Ann's Women's Club and Wollaston Garden Club, was celebrated Wednesday in St. Ann's Church.

Mrs. Serene died May 1 in Seminole, Fla., after a brief illness.

Born in Crafton, Pa., she lived in Quincy 55 years.

Wife of the late Paul C. Serene, she is survived by a son, Paul C. Serene of Ashland; two daughters, Maria Taylor-Marchand of Easton and Delores Casa of St. Petersburg, Fla.; five grandchildren and a great-grandchild. She was the mother of the late Robert L. Serene.

Burial was in Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

Funeral arrangements were by the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Johan Suurhans, 77

Managed Auto Body Shop

A funeral service for Johan Suurhans, 77, of Quincy, former manager of the auto body shop at South Shore Buick in Quincy, was held Tuesday at the Hamel, Wickens and Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St., Quincy.

Mr. Suurhans died at home May 1.

He worked 30 years for South Shore Buick before retiring in 1982. He started as a repairman and rose to the position of manager.

A native of Estonia, he spent his younger years on a family farm and later was a seaman in the Merchant Marine. In 1939, he came to the United States and became a citizen.

He served in the Army Air Corps Sea Rescue Service during World War II.

He is survived by his wife, Lena Suurhans; a son, John Suurhans of Norwell; a daughter, Eileen Grover of Granby, Conn.; two grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Burial was in Pine Hill Cemetery.

A Tradition of Trust For Over 70 Years.

Just before World War I, Sweeney Funeral Homes' first location was established in a small storefront on the corner of Hancock and School streets. Dennis S. Sweeney, the homes' first funeral director is remembered as a rather tall man, who had a beautiful, yet somber voice. Dressed in his characteristic top hat and tails, his singing was requested at funeral processions for over 30 years.

When he died in 1948, he entrusted the continuation of the family-owned tradition of instinctive and genuine concern for the city's bereaved families to his nephew, M. Joseph Sweeney.

Since 1917, Sweeney Funeral Homes have always meant the finest, most traditional service that Quincy has to offer. But we've also changed with the needs of the times, whatever they were. As early as 1940, we began offering pre-planning as a way for wise Quincy residents to plan their future.

Today, with funeral costs one of the top five major expenses for most families, pre-arrangements make better sense than ever before. Call Dennis Sweeney, our third-generation funeral director, at (617) 773-2728. Our family has been helping South Shore residents with difficult decisions for over 70 years. For those times when the darkness lingers

With the loss of a loved one through death, it is helpful to be able to share the feelings and emotions which we all experience.

For most of us, there are family members, clergy, and friends who are ready to listen in a caring way.

Yet, there are those who find it helpful to share their grief with someone outside their immediate circle of support.

Because of our continuing commitment to the families we serve, Keohane Funeral Service is pleased to announce that Dr. Sherry Johnson has joined our staff as a Grief Counselor. Her educational background, professional experience and understanding manner can be particularly helpful.

We are the first funeral home in New England to offer the service of a Grief Counselor.

A Few Words on FUNERAL SERVICE

Why Prepare A Will?

If you own anything, you need a will!

You save your loved ones added grief and often your estate can suffer the results of your property not being passed on as you'd have wished.

Everyone should have a will!

First off, please see a lawyer. Most estate planning is not that great and you can ask the lawyer for a rough cost estimate. But do it soon.

You'll find this act will bring you to pre-planning your funeral too!

North Edges Plymouth

By TOM SULLIVAN

The North Quincy baseball team finally won its first Old Colony League game Monday when it edged Plymouth, 2-1.

The Red Raiders improved to 3-10, their other two wins being over South Boston.

They played at Falmouth yesterday (Wednesday), will meet Quincy today (Thursday) at 3:30 at Adams Field and will host Taunton next Wednesday at 3:30 at Adams.

Southpaw Sean Donovan, who had pitched consistently well but had nothing to show for it, notched his first win against Plymouth. He hurled a three-hitter and struck out eight.

Pat Shea gave Donovan all the support he needed with a triple and single.

"It is nice to finally get a league win and to see Sean get a win," said coach Leo Donovan. "He pitched some fine games but poor support hurt him. Today we played excellent defense."

Last Friday North lost to Barnstable, 10-2, and earlier in the week the Raiders lost a 3-1 decision to Weymouth despite another fine pitching performance by Mike Patch.

Quincy Hard Times

Quincy, which had won five out of seven games after losing its first two, has fallen on hard times.

The Presidents bowed to Falmouth Monday, 3-1, for its fourth loss in a row, dropping its record to 5-8.

The Presidents hosted Barnstable yesterday (Wednesday), will face North Quincy today (Thursday) at Adams Field, will be at Plymouth Monday and at Silver Lake next Wednesday.

After three losses by wide margins, Quincy played a fine game Monday but passed balls and errors proved fatal.

Mike Malvesti pitched his best game of the year, allowing only three hits, and Quincy also was held to three.

"Things had gone badly for us in the past few games but this was an excellent game and Mike deserved better," coach Bob Sylvia said. "Two passed balls and an error accounted for Falmouth's runs."

Last Friday Quincy lost to Bridgewater-Raynham, 10-2, and its previous game with Taunton was a nightmare as it lost, 19-1. Steve Loud continued his solid hitting with two hits, the lone bright spot for the Presidents.

Track

North A Strong Third In Xaverian Meet

The North Quincy boys' track team made an excellent showing in the Xaverian freshmen-sophomore meet, finishing third with 59 points behind Brockton and Whitman-Hanson.

In the freshman group the 4x100 relay team of Shawn Nee, Glenn Peterson, Mac Ngutter and Omar Hernandez won in a meet record time of 49 seconds flat.

Hernandez was third in the 200 meters, Nee fourth in the 100 yards, Ngutter fourth in the long jump and fifth in the 200 meters, Nee fifth in the long jump and Toby Odom sixth in the 100.

In the sophomore division Eric Torvi won the two-mile and Justin Dilks won the shot put.

Jeremy Gott was second in the 800 meters and triple jump.

Mike Duffy was third in the high jump, Kevin Ross fourth in the shot, Shawn Piccuzzi fifth in the mile, Jason Carson fifth in the two-mile, Ben McCarthy fifth in the discuss and the 4x400 relay team of Duffy, Torvi, Martin Shields and Gott was sixth.

Silver Lake Too Much For North Girls

The North Quincy girls' track team was no match for Silver Lake's powerhouse and dropped a 91-45 Old Colony League decision.

North's Tricia Hughes broke two school records as she won the 300 meter hurdles in 48.2 and the triple jump at 36-1/2.

North's other winners were Suzanne Lewis in the mile, Heather Rendle in the high jump and Stacie Minukas in the javelin (80' 8").

Placing second were Amy Wong, 1000 meters; Ilana Cobban, 400 meters; Wong, triple jump; Joanne Curreri, discus; and Maureen McCarthy, javelin.

Taking third places were Katy Deady, 100 meters; Susanne Hamilton, 200 meters; Kristy Kabilian, two-mile; and Trish McNamara, discus.

In the Falmouth Girls Invitational, Hughes won the triple jump in the junior-senior division at 35' 9 3/4" and Lewis won the two-mile in 11:54.1.

Rendle was second in the high jump, Regina Murphy fourth in the 100 hurdles, Wong fifth in the triple jump and Hughes fifth in the 300 hurdles.

Second Half Run Carries Point Past Atlantic, 72-42

Point-Webster captured the Quincy Recreation Department basketball tournament middle school championship with a convincing 72-42 win over Atlantic.

Chris Erler scored eight of his 10 points in the first half as Atlantic jumped out to an early lead. Mike Doyle had six points for Atlantic which led 28-24 at the half.

Jeff Russell keyed the second-half run for Point with 16 of his 22 points. Jeff Feiner was a force on the offensive boards and scored 14 of his 18 points inside the paint. Dave Gunther opened up the inside with 16 points from the outside.

Point coach Janice Sullivan made the most of her halftime adjustments. Brad Smith and Todd Sullivan had four points each and helped shut down Atlantic's scoring. Joe Mariano scored eight points and Joey Donahue led the team in assists.

Tom Coughlin led Atlantic with 16 points. Coach Joe Mulvey had the largest squad in the tournament and used a variety of combinations to try to stop Point's second-half run. Steve Leber, Tim Semchenko, Pete Donnelly and John Heim all played well. Chuck O'Brien had two points for Atlantic which also got good efforts from Billy Manning, Kevin Sullivan, Matt Kane, Mark Lawn and Chris Ritchie.

Recreation Director Barry Welch, Park and Recreation Chairman Bryant Carter, and Commissioners Tom Mullaney and Howard Crowley presented trophies to Point-Webster and finalist awards to Atlantic. All middle school participants also received a "Big Three" poster compliments of the Red Auerbach Foundation and Scitex Corporation.

Jeff MacDonald Earns Trinity Hockey Award

Jeff MacDonald, a senior at Trinity College, Hartford, Ct., recently received the Gold Award for ice hockey.

The award is presented to athletes who have earned four varsity letters in one sport. MacDonald scored ten goals and had six assists in 24 games this past season and led the team with four power play goals.

He totaled 18 goals and 17 assists in 65 games during his career with the Bantams.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jeff MacDonald of Marshfield and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Robinson of Quincy and Mrs. Betty MacDonald of Carver.

New School Urged At Lincoln Site

much lower. Raymondi said the city may qualify for 66 percent reimbursement from the state and that the Ward 4 Civic Association has pledged $200,000 towards a new school at the site.

An alternate plan to ease overcrowding at Lincoln-Hancock and Bernazzani schools by building modular classrooms would cost between $350,000 and $500,000 and is non-reimbursable, Raymondi said.

Acting Superintendent of Schools Eugene Creedon said he is working on projecting enrollment data for the next three to five years. He said projections beyond that have not been accurate in the past.

"We'll also do an analysis of all the space we have system-wide," Creedon said.

Creedon said one option if a new Lincoln School were to be built would be to open the new school for an early childhood program, kindergarten and first grade. Bernazzani and Lincoln-Hancock would house grades 2-5.

"The area needs a school. The West Quincy community is growing," said City Councillor-at-Large Tim Cahill. "And they've lost the Willard and Gridley Bryant schools."

Cahill suggested that the School Committee look at the possibility of reopening the Beechwood Knoll School in Wollaston and shifting students to alleviate the overcrowding at Lincoln-Hancock and Bernazzani.

"The School Committee has not excluded any piece of property. We have to look at the entire school system," Creedon said.

"The Beechwood Community Center is utilized by city residents from all wards," said Charles Phelan, Ward 5 Councillor, where the building is located.

"I realize it's school property but... to open Beechwood Knoll would require major capital expenditures," he said.

Raymondi said another option for the Lincoln School site would be to sell the property for use as house lots. He said proceeds should be earmarked for a school at another site.

"House lots would feed the problem. It would bring more kids into the neighborhood and we don't have the classroom space for them," Wilson said.

The city recently approved $54,000 to demolish the Lincoln School. The building has deteriorated significantly and in February a half ton of bricks fell from the top of the building to the playground.

Increased enrollment has contributed to the overcrowding of schools. In the early 1980's a number of Quincy elementary schools were closed due to declining enrollment and budget tightening following the implementation of Proposition 2 1/2.

The Myles Standish, Quincy, Mass. Fields, Wollaston, Beechwood Knoll, Pollard, Cranch, Willard, Gridley Bryant, Nathaniel Hunting and Adams schools were all closed. The Wollaston School was later reopened.

Alternatives To Violence Lecture At First Parish

The League of Women Voters of Quincy will sponsor the third annual Mary Gossard Lecture Tuesday, May 12 at 7:30 p.m. at the First Parish Church, 1306 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

The lectures, focusing on issues in education, are made possible through a bequest left to the League by Mary Gossard, a charter member of the Quincy League. Her husband, Dr. Paul Gossard, was superintendent of the Quincy Public Schools from 1944 to 1963. Together they were well-known for their lifelong commitment to education.

The League is proud to present as its guest speaker Dr. Deborah Prothrow-Stith, who will discuss "Alternatives to Violence." Dr. Prothrow-Stith is an alumna of Spelman College and Harvard Medical School. She is currently Assistant

DEBORAH PROTHROW-STITH

Dean of Governmental and Community Programs at Harvard University's School of Public Health. Author of the first violence prevention curriculum for schools, she is also author of a new book entitled "Deadly Consequences," the first book to present a public health perspective on violence to a mass audience.

The League's goal in sponsoring the lecture is to encourage the community to examine the causes of school violence and to develop measures to prevent its outbreak. A panel of school and community people with backgrounds in dealing with this issue will react to the lecture and comment on some methods to solve the problem. Panelists are:

•Eugene Creedon, acting superintendent of Quincy Public Schools;

•Rev. Dr. Eugene Langevin, pastor of the First Church Congregational in Squantum and founder and director of "The Way Up;"

Moderator will be Ruth Paven, attorney and league member.

2 Parking Lots Approved For Tall Ships Traffic

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The License Board granted Tuesday two requests for parking lots that will help alleviate anticipated traffic problems during the week the Tall Ships will arrive in Boston Harbor.

The first request, made by Walter Hannon of the Boston Harbor Marina Co., 333 Victory Rd., was for a permit to park cars on lots 24, 33, and 35 during the period of July 11-16. Hannon said he expected to be able to accommodate approximately 2,000 parked cars at those lots.

The other request, made by Evelyn Malvarosa at Dickinson, 542 East Squantum St. was for permission to operate a parking lot during the same period. Malvarosa said 151 cars would be parked at the lot.

Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers spoke in favor of the requests.

"I spoke with both parties on this matter," said Ayers. "I am in favor as long as they meet Conservation Commission requirements and are supervised."

Board Chairman John Gillis also supported the requests, saying "this is good for the city."

Both requests were granted subject to Conservation Commission approval.

Council Budget Hearings Start May 11

City Council Finance Committee chairman Patricia Toland has announced the schedule for budget hearings on Mayor James Sheets proposed $124.8 million budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

The Council will meet Monday, May 11 at 7:45 p.m., Wednesday, May 13 at 7 p.m., Wednesday, May 27 at 7 p.m. and (if necessary) Monday, June 8 at 7 p.m.

Budgets to be reviewed May 11 include, Clerk, Elections, License Board, Assessor, Treasurer-Collector, Purchasing-Parking, Law Dept., Data Processing, Rent Grievance, Zoning Board of Appeals, Planning, Veteran's Services, Library, Cemetery, Parks, Recreation, Auditor, Building Inspector, Weights and Measures, Wire Inspector, and Department of Public Works Administration.

On May 13 the Council will review the Fire Dept., Traffic Control, Health Dept., Personnel, and Miscellaneous budgets.

Budgets reviewed May 27 will include the Police, Education, City Council and Mayor's Office.

President's Walk Saturday

Mayor James Sheets and Sen. Paul Harold will join the Quincy Tourism Association on its inaugural President's Walk, Saturday, May 9 at 1 p.m. beginning at the United First Parish Church, 1306 Hancock St.

The public is invited to join the tour which will visit 14 Quincy historic sites ending at the Adams National Historic Site on Adams Street. Volunteers will give a brief historic accounts of each location.

For further information call the QTA at 847-0929 or 1-800-564-1551.

L.A. Race Riots Sermon Topic At Squantum First Church

The violence against Rodney King in Los Angeles and the subsequent race riots were the underlying subject of the worship service at the First Church of Squantum Sunday.

Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor offered special prayers for this country, for all of those who were hurt or were helping to contain the violence and for "law enforcement officials across this land who, by and large, do their work without undue force, for they now unfairly bear the blame for what a few have done."

The service concluded with an observance of the Lord's Supper which included a prayer in which the member of the congregation confessed their own racist attitudes and prejudices and asked God's help to change society so that events such as those that had taken place in Los Angeles would not happen again.

Scripture readers were Tom Williamson and Dore Klock. In observance of Children's Sunday in the church, the Junior Choir sang and the pastor spoke to the children on the subject, "When You Are Afraid."

Dr. Langevin also announced that the church had raised $600 to give to the visiting Russian chorale on the previous Wednesday night. The group was here under the sponsorship of the Duxbury-based "Sharing a New Song."

The Chancel Choir and the congregation sang accompanied by organist Mary Ruth Scott and pianist Janet Williamson.

Greeters were Kim and Krista Olsen. Ushers were Paul Ruckus and Roberta Sheehan. The fellowship hour after the service was hosted by Mary Donnelly and Cynthia Stanton.

Mother's Day will be observed Sunday at the service beginning at 10:30 a.m. Sunday School is at 9:30 a.m. The final day of Sunday School this year will be Sunday, May 17. Visitors are welcome.

PRAYER TO THE BLESSED VIRGIN
(Never Known to Fail)

Oh most beautiful flower of Mt. Carmel, Fruitful vine, splendor of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, Assist me in my necessity. Oh Star of the Sea, help me and show me herein you are my mother. Oh, Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth! I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart to succor me in this necessity. There are none that can withstand your power. Oh, show me herein you are my mother. Oh Mary conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to thee (3x) Holy Mother, I place this cause in your hands (3x) Holy Spirit, you who solve all problems, light roads so that I can attain my goal. You who gave me divine gift to forgive and forget all evil against me and that in all instances in my life you are with me. I want in this short prayer to thank you for all things as you confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you in eternal glory. Thank you for your mercy toward me and mine. The person must say this prayer 3 consecutive days. After 3 days the request will be granted. This prayer must be published after the favor is granted.

ST. JUDE:
O Holy St. Jude, Apostle and Martyr, great in virtue and rich in miracles, near kinsman of Jesus Christ, faithful intercessor of all who invoke your special patronage in time of need, to you I have recourse from the depths of my heart and humbly beg to whom God has given such great power, to come to my assistance, help me in my present and urgent petition. In return, I promise to make your name known and cause you to be invoked. Say 3 Our Fathers, 3 Hail Marys and Glories. Publication must be promised. St. Jude pray for us and all who invoke your aid. Amen. This Novena has never been known to fail. I have had my request granted. (This Novena to be said on 9 consecutive days). P.E.M. 5/7

Committee on Criminal Justice I have authored some of the toughest drug trafficking and drunk driving laws in the nation. Yet the solutions to these and a wide range of crimes that plague our communities require the coordinated effort and resources of federal law enforcement officials. Crime is the number one issue in Massachusetts, let me finish the work that I've begun here to insure that the priorities of Massachusetts are the priorities of the nation.

"Add to these my work and involvement in housing, education and veteran's issues and you have a state senator uniquely qualified to represent this district," he said.

"I want to continue this life's work in Congress--but in the same manner that I have worked and struggled for 17 years in elected office. Independence and integrity have been the hallmarks of my public service--qualities that are vitally needed now in Congress.

"Other candidates will talk about the independence and change that they will bring to the job of congressman, but I am the only one in this race with a record of independence, independence couple with genuine achievement," Harold told an estimated 700 supporters.

Some observers said Harold's kick-off attracted one of the biggest crowds for a political function at the Bryan Post ever.

Harold said he will not follow the advice of former House Speaker Sam Rayburn who once said to freshman congressmen, 'you have to go along to get along.'

"Those days are over. The people of this district want a congressman who will stand up for their interests, not the special interests. The people of this nation demand a change from business as usual."

If elected, Harold said he would help formulate a national agenda for the 21st century. "I want to be that congressman," he added.

Elected in 1978, Harold is in his seventh term as state senator representing the Norfolk Senatorial District which comprises Quincy, Braintree, Holbrook and Avon. He has been the chairman of the Committee on Criminal Justice for the past eight years. Previously, he served as the chairman of the Committee on Local Affairs for four years.

Harold, an attorney and former Quincy city councillor, is on the Board of Directors of the Greater Boston Council Boys Scouts of America, the Salvation Army Advisory Board, and the Boston Center for International Visitors.

Born in Dorchester, Harold graduated from Sacred Heart High School in Weymouth, the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, and Suffolk University Law School. He received a Masters degree in public administration from the Kennedy School of Government at Harvard University.

Needs 10,000 Signatures To Appear On State Ballot

Perot Petition Drive Here On Saturday

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

The H. Ross. Perot for President petition drive will roll into Quincy Saturday as a number of local Perot supporters collect signatures for the undeclared presidential candidate outside Quincy City Hall from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Perot, a Texas billionaire who is gaining wide-spread support across party lines, has said he will run for president as an Independent if supporters collect enough signatures so that his name can appear on ballots in all 50 states. As of Monday, Perot had qualified for the Utah, Tennessee and Texas elections.

Lovie Elam, coordinator for the Perot petition drive in the 11th Congressional district, said Tuesday that she is confident the candidate will garner the necessary signatures to appear on the Massachusetts ballot in November.

In Massachusetts, about 1000 volunteers have already collected at least 18,000 signatures, she said Monday evening. Perot needs 10,000 signatures to appear on the Bay State ballot.

H. ROSS PEROT

Nomination papers must be filed and certified at the local level by July 28. The state then must certify the signatures by Aug. 25.

Elam said Saturday's petition drive is designed to collect as many signatures as possible. Besides Quincy, supporters will conduct petition drives at most city and town halls throughout the state. Other petition drives have been held the past several weeks at shopping malls and outside polling precincts during town elections.

Of all the towns in the 11th district, Elam said Quincy has had the most response. As of Monday, she said about 1500 signatures have been collected from the district, a good portion of them from "The City of Presidents."

Explaining the good response in Quincy, Elam, a resident of Milton, said she believes it is a combination of voter disenchantment with the two other major political candidates, President Bush and Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton and the city's strong Democratic tradition.

"There is a strong Democratic stronghold in Quincy and (the voters) are very disenchanted with

Reports 'Slightly Dramatic'

QEA Head Would Support Strike As 'Final Resort'

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Quincy Education Association President Thomas Walsh said Tuesday that reports of a statewide strike by Massachusetts teachers are "slightly dramatic," but added that he would support such an action as a final resort to help save the state's public schools.

It was reported in Monday's Boston Globe and other media sources that public school teachers are threatening a statewide strike and other action to protest deteriorating buildings, textbook shortages, crowded classes and failed promises for more money in school budgets.

Walsh, however, said he heard of no such action while attending the annual Massachusetts Teachers Association meeting in Boston over the weekend.

"I would say that what I've heard in the news was slightly dramatic," said Walsh. "I was at the meeting, and I cannot recall the word 'strike' actually being used. All we did was make a motion that would allow the association president (Rosanne Bacon) to move the education reform package along."

Walsh confirmed that, as reported, teachers in attendance took a vote of no confidence in Gov. William Weld as part of their resentment over the lack of a long-promised education reform bill.

"It seems like the governor is not willing to commit himself, and that's very frustrating," said Walsh, who added that the teachers authorized the association president to "take whatever action

Ayers Wants Additional Police Patrols In Ward 6

Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers recently met with Police Chief Francis Mullen to express his concerns over recent incidents that have taken place in the ward.

With warmer weather approaching, Ayers urged Mullen to increase police patrols in Squantum and North Quincy to help alleviate any future occurrences. Ayers also requested that the juvenile officers look into the teenage related incidents.

Ayers and Mullen will work together on a special force to help clean up the targeted area in which they are having trouble.

Wollaston Business Assn. Spring Cleanup Sunday

In conjunction with the Quincy "Cleaner, Greener" effort, the Wollaston Business Association will hold its annual spring cleanup Sunday, May 17 from noon to 3 p.m.

Volunteers should meet at the Wollaston Market parking lot and bring rakes and shovels. The city will supply garbage bags.

Free t-shirts will be distributed on a first-come, first serve basis.

After the cleanup, there will be a cookout for volunteers at the Wollaston Market parking lot.

Volunteers are needed. For more information, call Lynne Houghton at 479-2600.

Nease Library Dedication May 24

The Nease Library, opened in January, will be dedicated Sunday, May 24 at Eastern Nazarene College.

Speaker for the service will be Stephen W. Nease, commissioner of Education for the International Church of the Nazarene. Dr. Nease is a former Quincy resident and president of Eastern Nazarene College.

The public is invited to the dedication service beginning at 3 p.m. on the campus lawn.

Merrymount Students, Parents Beautifying School Grounds

Merrymount School parents and Mrs. Anne Lyons' fifth grade students have become partners in an effort to win the $500 grand prize in a contest sponsored by BFI in celebration of "National Public Works Week."

Merrymount's entry in the contest includes beautifying the front of the school by raking and planting flowers, bushes and trees. The school's insignia, a sailboat, will take shape by using plants and greens in the center of a new school lawn. A new flag pole, donated by Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson, will be placed directly behind the insignia.

In keeping with the spirit of Quincy's Cleaner, Greener campaign, Quincy's Department of Public Works provided the school with landscaping supplies. In addition, the Landfall Marine Center in Hingham donated pilings and rope to complete the "dock' motif.

Mrs. Lyons' fifth grade students became involved in the beautification project as part of their participation in the Civic Achievement Award program sponsored by Burger King of America and the U.S. Congress.

The program's goal is to create a generation of informed and involved citizens. Students take part in a learning project, a research project, and community service project.

The students decided that participating in the "National Public Works Week" contest would be suitable for their community service project and serve as a memory of their days at Merrymount Elementary School

No Council Cuts In First 15 Department Budgets

By STEVE KAVANAGH

The City Council Finance Committee gave preliminary approval to more than $6.5 million of the mayor's recommended $124.8 million budget for fiscal year 1993 without cutting a cent.

The Committee reveiwed 15 city department budgets which were similar to last years' budgets.

However, the Councillors have not yet reviewed the four departments with the biggest budgets--school, police, fire and public works.

The Committee meets again Wednesday, May 13 at 7 p.m. at City Hall and will review the Fire Department's $9.7 million budget. The next meeting will be Wednesday, May 27 at 7 p.m. and will include $36.8 million school budget, $10.7 million police budget and the DPW's $23.9 million budget which includes sewer-water-drain, snow & ice, street lighting, special fuels, engineering, sanitary landfill, rubbish collection and the city's water and sewer assessment.

The Finance Committee did put a hold on the $635,128 Assessor's budget, the Public Works & Transportation $2.1 million budget, the $3.1 million water-sewer-drain budget and a part of the building inspector's $432,185 budget.

The Committee began to review the DPW budgets late in the evening and decided to continue at its next budget review hearing.

However, Councillor-at-Large Michael Cheney asked that the DPW budgets be held until DPW Commissioner David Colton could provide a better explanation for some of the budget items.

"It is unreasonable to expect the City Council to act on a budget when we don't know what the figures represent," Cheney said.

The Assessor's budget will be reviewed again on May 27. City Councillors were upset that the city has hired the same company that did the 1990 revaluation for 1993. Some councillors were also wary of a $50,000 appropriation to pay for workshops and mailings to homeowners to explain the revaluation process to them.

"That amount of money is equal to two salaries. I would like to see a written plan," said Ward 3 Councillor Larry Chretien. He said he cannot support the appropriation otherwise.

Councillors Ted DeCristofaro, Cheney, Peter Kolson, Charles Phelan and Chretien were skeptical of hiring back the same company, Real Estate Research Consultants of Danvers, to do the 1993 revaluation.

The company missed a valuable piece of property in Quincy Point in 1990 and the city was deluged with requests for abatements as many property owners felt that their homes were over-valued by the company.

"People were absolutely outraged last time," Cheney said.

"I don't want them back," Kolson said.

Chretien asked James Papile of the Assessor's Department what assurances the city has that the company won't make the same mistakes again.

Papile said that the company is now familiar with the city and recent economic conditions will result in less abatement requests.

"Every time we go through a revaluation in an upward market you have traumatic changes," Papile said. "In a down market we probably won't go through it again."

Papile estimated that after the 1990 revaluation there were more than 1,000 abatement requests and about 20 percent were adjusted.

"I don't know if the company was to blame as much to the times," said Councillor-at-Large Tim Cahill referring to the unusual fluctuations in property values at the time of the last revaluation.

The Finance Committee gave its approval to the following budgets:

Quincy's First Night will be a family celebration of the arts on New Year's Eve in Quincy Center.

Medically Speaking

by Michael M. Bakerman, M.D., F.A.C.C.

A MOVING EXPERIENCE

Some people get it, some people don't. So is motion sickness "all in the head?" In fact, the two causes of motion sickness are both in the head, although that doesn't mean they are purely imaginary. The nausea and vomiting that some people experience when moving can be triggered by a physical upset in the inner ear's delicate balance mechanism. When fluid in certain parts of the inner moves, it touches small hairs that relay nerve impulses to the brain, resulting in the symptoms of motion sickness. For chronic sufferers, the second cause of the disorder is the fear of becoming ill, which can itself upset the stomach enough to bring on an attack.

P.S. Most drugs that are effective against motion sickness work best when taken in advance of moving.

Many motion sickness sufferers are now finding relief through the anti-nausea "patch". If you would like to learn what you can do to stay healthy and ward off the dangers of heart attacks, feel free to call COMPREHENSIVE CARDIAC CARE at 472-2550. If necessary, we will refer you to another medical professional. Office hours are by appointment at 101 Adams St., Suite 24, in Quincy. I am affiliated with Quincy Hospital and South Shore Hospitals.

Gillis, Burke Reunited

City Clerk John Gillis' decision to run for Norfolk County Commissioner has reunited him with his long-time friend and sidekick, Tommy Burke.

GILLIS

Burke has come out of retirement to serve as Gillis' campaign manager as the latter makes his first bid for a county-wide office.

BURKE

Burke stepped down a year ago as assistant city clerk. He had been a city hall fixture for 31 years as Gillis' right arm.

The pair have been friends for nearly a half-century and political allies since the early 1950s.

They used to head each other's campaigns when they were young Democrats trying to win office in Republican dominated Quincy. It was like banging their heads against a Quincy granite wall.

Burke ran three times for state representative with Gillis his campaign manager. Gillis ran twice for the City Council with Burke his campaign manager.

Burke owned an old Oldsmobile back then and had it painted white. When he ran, they painted "Burke, State Representative" in bright red all over the car.

When Gillis ran, the red was whitened out and "Gillis for City Council" was painted in green.

"Those were low budget campaigns," Burke recalls. "A couple hundred bucks was all we spent—and all we had to spend."

Gillis and Burke didn't win any of those elections. But things were a lot different then. Young Democrats didn't have much of a chance in a GOP stronghold.

Republicans Amelio Della Chiesa, Thomas Burgin, Charles Hedges, David McIntosh, Edna Austin were among the local political powers.

"There were so few Democrats around," Gillis recalls, "they used to joke that Democrats could hold a rally in a telephone booth."

Gillis and Burke were sort of political pioneers running for offices that Republicans had firmly held for years and, it seemed back then, forever would.

But another young Democrat by the name of John F. Kennedy came back from the war and ran for Congress and things quickly changed. He launched Democrat registration drives that numerically turned the political tables.

KENNEDY

Now Quincy is strongly Democratic and so is Norfolk County. There are more Democrats here in Quincy than Republicans and unenrolled (former Independents) combined.

Being a Democrat today has its advantages like being a Republican did back when Gillis and Burke were running for state representative and city council.

And, they are finding another political plus.

As they stump through the county, they are bumping into many former Quincy residents who knew them in the good days and are volunteering to help them in the communities where they now live.

Gillis is opening a campaign headquarters in the Kelly's In The Square building.

Campaign manager Burke thinks candidate Gillis has a good chance to be a winner this time.

"He knows government and as a former auditor for the state he understands finances," says Burke.

"And I don't think he has an enemy in the world. He could have been mayor if he wanted to."

Even without the old Oldsmobile, Burke says: "I really think he has a good shot at it."

SHEETS

MAYOR JAMES SHEETS will be honored at his alma mater, Eastern Nazarene College. He will receive the Degree of Doctor of Laws at the 10:30 a.m. commencement exercises Monday, May 25.

KENNEY

PETER KENNEY, who was executive secretary to former Mayor Frank McCauley is back on the local political front as a member of Paul Harold's Congressional campaign team. The pair have been friends since they were young Boy Scouts.

Harold, incidentally, will officially open his Quincy campaign headquarters at 1661 Hancock St. (corner School St.) with 7 to 9 p.m. ceremonies Tuesday, May 19.

This location has been a good luck charm for a number of candidates in the past including Congressman Brian Donnelly and Mayor McCauley.

COLMAN

STEVE COLMAN kicks off his campaign for state representative in the First Norfolk District at a reception Wednesday, May 20, 6 to 10 p.m. at Amelia's at Marina Bay. Tickets are $15 and will be available at the door.

Colman served as an aide to Michael Morrissey who is giving up the seat to run for state senate.

WALSH

AND, Susan Lydon Walsh, who is also a candidate for the First Norfolk District state representative seat, will kick off her campaign Sunday at a 2 to 5 p.m. reception at her home, 36 Surfside Lane, Squantum. Tickets are $10 per person.

Quincy 2000 Bill May Become Law By End Of Month

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

The Quincy 2000 bill, a home-rule petition which would create a local public-private development corporation, cleared a legislative committee last week and could be signed into law by the end of the month.

The petition, sent to the legislature by Mayor James Sheets and the City Council, received a favorable report from the Committee on Commerce and Labor at the State House. The bill is being sponsored by Quincy's legislative delegation, Sen. Paul Harold and State Reps. Michael Morrissey, Steve Tobin and Ron Mariano.

If signed into law, the petition would create a special private non-profit corporation comprised of government, private sector businesses, public and private sector interest groups and members of the public. It would oversee development and revitalization in Quincy Center, North Quincy and Wollaston, as well as other areas deemed by the corporation.

"This is another necessary tool to revitalize our commercial areas and it will help funnel private monies for the redevelopment of our commercial areas," Harold said Tuesday.

The bill will be sent to the House and Senate for a vote soon. Sheets said Gov. Bill Weld may sign it by the end of the month. Harold said he hopes the bill gets to the governors desk before the FY 93 budget process gets underway, usually the first week of June.

After the petition becomes law, the partnership will likely hold its first organizational meeting the second week of June. At that time, the partnership will create an interim chairman and certain subcommittees, including a by-law committee.

The partnership will then meet at the end of June. The by-laws will be approved and the nine-member board of directors chosen.

Next, the partnership will meet to discuss the hiring of a full-time executive director/planner and a full-time marketing specialist. The two positions would be nominated by the Board of Directors and elected to the board by the general membership.

The two employees will open an office in Quincy Center, the mayor said.

According to a Quincy 2000 outline released from the mayor, the partnership's immediate objectives include marketing existing retail and commercial space; providing financial assistance to small businesses already located in the city; developing a facade program for storefronts, windows and signs in the downtown and other commercial areas; and providing technical assistance in understanding and following the local regulatory and government processes for new businesses choosing to locate in Quincy.

Membership to the partnership is open to the business community and organizations which have general public interest commitment as well as interested individuals. Entry would be based on a fee structure, from $5,000 for banks and large corporations to $250 for small businesses.

Membership fee revenue would be used to hire the executive director and marketer. Another $300,000 would be contributed annually from the city's CDBG funds.

As of Tuesday, Sheets said he had commitments from six large corporations to be part of Quincy 2000. He expects more to be on board by the time the first meeting is held.

"By the time we have our organizational meeting, I expect to have between 10 and 15 major first level ($5,000 each) players all from Quincy in place and probably have membership fees approaching $100,000.

"The response has just been tremendous. I'd like to raise $125,000 to $150,000 the first year to cover the salaries of the two full-time employees and expenses."

Sheets declined to release the names of any business already committed to join the partnership until the petition becomes law.

He said any business interested in becoming a part of Quincy 2000 can call him at the Mayor's Office, 376-1990.

necessary" to help the state's public schools. He stressed that although such strikes have occurred in other states, he would not like to see a repeat of such action in Massachusetts.

"I would hope that a strike would not happen here," he said. "It certainly would be a last resort (if it did). If everything else tries and everything else fails, however, I would support it."

Walsh added that Quincy schools have been fortunate in the sense that they have not suffered as badly as many others have in recent days.

"At least a dozen to two dozen communities are being hurt really badly," said Walsh. "We haven't been hurt anywhere near as badly as some.

"We're not in the upper tier of schools in the state right now, but we are fortunate that we're somewhere in the middle."

How Would Conservatives Feel Switching Places With Rodney King?

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

There are, apparently, none so blind as those who would not see. Once again the conservative response to the acquittal of four white Los Angeles police officers and the subsequent events that transpired on the streets of South Central Los Angeles is to attach ideological blinders and adopt a strategy of mass denial. Look at the destruction but not the root causes. Blame victims for their poverty and hopelessness. Blame victims for their anger and rage.

Conservative commentators hurl the blame at the failed social policies of the sixties. What a cop out. It's always easier to blame the past. Blame it on Lyndon Johnson. Blame it on anyone you want but don't look in a mirror, right? What started the recent rioting on the streets of L.A. on Wednesday, April 29, 1992? Was it the failure of the Great Society?

Or was it the perceived breakdown of the criminal justice system coupled with the chronic inattention of federal, state and local government to heed the warnings issued on March 1, 1968 by the Kerner Commission charged with uncovering the "whys" of Watts (1965) and Newark and Detroit (1967).

The Kerner Report stated, "Our nation is moving toward two societies, one black, one white--separate and unequal. Discrimination and segregation have long permeated much of American life; they now threaten the future of every American."

Last week (May 3) former U.S. Sen. Fred Harris (D-Oklahoma), a member of that national commission 24 years ago warned, "There's a lot more hopelessness than we saw some 20 years ago. For those left behind in the central cities, things are much tougher now than then."

I often wonder how conservatives would feel if they could switch places with Rodney King. I wonder how they would feel if they were left behind in place like South Central Los Angeles. Just keep blaming the victims for their anger and despair. Deny any root causes and offer no real solutions.

South Shore Family Counseling Spring Fling Gala Tonight

The South Shore office of Family Counseling and Guidance Centers will hold its 20th annual Spring Fling Gala tonight (Thursday) at 6:30 p.m. at the Lantana in Randolph.

The gala is the agency's major fundraiser, and will honor the founding board members of the Braintree office. Edna Gilmore, a Quincy resident, is one of the founding members of Family Counseling's South Shore Board of Directors.

The evening will include a silent auction and cocktail hour, followed by dinner and a live auction. Auction items range from Red Sox tickets to weekend get-aways.

Proceeds from the event will be used to subsidize care for patients who cannot afford full fees.

Tickets are available at $75 per person or $150 per couple from Carla Bennett at 617-482-4355.

Family Counseling and Guidance Centers, Inc., is a private, nonprofit outpatient mental health clinic which offers comprehensive psychotherapy and alcoholism services to individuals, couples and families.

For more information, contact Audrey Klebanow at 617-239-5410.

AMONG THOSE ATTENDING the Quincy partnership's recent fundraiser at the Adams National Historic Site were Frances Desaulniers of Hingham, formerly of Quincy and Mary Cleary and John Cleary of Quincy. Approximately $7,000 was raised for the partnership's "Sign Quincy" project.

Angela Cristiani On Dante Society Board Of Governors

Angela J. Cristiani of Quincy was recently elected to a two-year term on the Board of Governors of the Dante Alighieri Society of Massachusetts.

The society is dedicated to the diffusion of the Italian language and culture and the promotion of a consciousness of Italian heritage among Italian Americans. It is the first Italian Center of Culture in Massachusetts.

The Dante is used by guest lecturers, speakers and artists from Italy, and from various colleges and institutions to present selected programs like Cine-Forum, contemporary and classical music, opera, theater and prose. Events, such as the Ballo di Carnevale, Ballo Beatrice and the Fiesta di Natale are sponsored by the Dante to promote a consciousness of the influence which those of Italian ancestry have made and are making to civilization for the advancement of American ideals.

Cristiani, who will serve on the Cultural Committee, had previously been a member of the Board of Governors from 1987 to 1989. He is school guidance counselor at Fontbonne Academy in Milton.

She also assists in the development of the dance program at Joan's Olympic Gym in Braintree.

Our Policy On Engagement Photographs And Wedding Announcements

The Quincy Sun will continue to publish photographs with engagement announcements as it always has.

The Sun will also continue to use in wedding announcements the names of all members of the wedding party including maid or matron of honor, best man, parents, bridesmaids, ushers, flower girls and ringbearers, etc.

We invite engaged couples to submit their photos with their announcements and when submitting their wedding photo to include a complete listing of the wedding party.

Black and white photos are preferred. The Sun can convert most color photos to black and white for publication but the photo loses some clarity in the process.

We suggest that when you have your engagement photo taken, you request the studio to send a copy to The Sun with the reminder that The Sun is continuing its policy of publishing engagement photos.

The Sun also publishes articles and photos of wedding anniversaries beginning with the 25th anniversary.

And, as in the past, there is no charge.

Snug Harbor School Art Students Featured In White House Exhibit

Snug Harbor Community School in Quincy is one of 13 schools statewide featured in a new Very Special Arts Massachusetts (VSAM0 art exhibit.

The historic, juried art exhibit by students from the 13 schools is part of a yearlong celebration commemorating the 200th anniversary of the White House. VSAM, along with the White House Historical Association and Very Special Arts, is commemorating the anniversary.

More than 80 students, who entered art exhibit entries last fall, will be honored an opening reception and event at the John F. Kennedy Library and Museum June 2 from 5 to 9 p.m. The event will include special guests,

Mrs. Nancy Bush Ellis and Mrs. Jean Kennedy Smith (founder of Very Special Arts), who will present presidential certificates and awards to students involved in the project.

Teachers and parents were also involved in the special exhibit themed "Life in the White House." The exhibit consists of two-dimensional artwork, including painting, drawing and collage, by students in grades 4-9 and becomes part of the Library's permanent collection.

The Snug Harbor Community School, assisted by teacher Lori Cahill, submitted 11 entries for the exhibit, the second highest number among the 13 schools.

Susan Gallagher Candidate For State Representative

In her announcement, Gallagher, 33, who unsuccessfully campaigned for city councillor at-large in 1989 and state representative in 1990, claimed other candidates have entered the race "because they see an open seat. This is simply political opportunism.

"The problems that exist now existed two years ago. If these people had the answers they should have been running then, but they were nowhere to be found. I saw the problems then, and I had the courage to run at that time," she said.

Among her chief areas of concerns, Gallagher lists job retaining programs, bringing new business to Quincy, more local aid for education, criminal justice system reform, and more effective programs to deal with drug abuse.

Regarding taxes, she said, "The increase in property taxes coupled with the exorbitant sewer user fees forced on us by the MWRA are an intolerable burden on the people of this area. We must have tax relief, and I will fight to bring it about, along with promoting programs to make home ownership more affordable for more people.

"Our wetlands are being gobbled up, our bridges and roads are in deplorable condition, and the threat of our health and safety from the toxic waste of Clean Harbors looms over us. We need a fighting representative, a homeowner, a mother, who will carry this crusade to the halls of power to Beacon Hill," Gallagher said.

Continuing, she said, "We need to elect a representative prepared to battle the power structure of either political party when the people are being mistreated, not another insider who puts his career first and is always willing to go along to get along.

"I will be that kind of independent, fighting representative with your help and support," she added.

Gallagher, a realtor with Prudential Delaney of Wollaston, is the wife of William Gallagher and the mother of Billy, Todd, Michelle and Meghan Gallagher. A native of South Boston, she is a graduate of Milton High School and received an associate degree in criminal justice from Bunker Hill Community College in 1980.

She is enrolled in the Class of 1993 at Suffolk University majoring in sociology and law. She has received two government internships in public policy.

A community activist, Gallagher is a long-time member of the Wollaston Park Association, the Quincy Citizens Association and the Beacon Hill Institute for Public Policy Research.

She has served on the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women and the Board of Directors of St. Chrysostom's Preschool.

She is a lifetime member of Alpha Phi Sigma National Honor Society for criminal justice and Alpha Kappa Delta National Honor Society for sociology. In 1990, she received an award as one of One Hundred Women Making History in Politics.

She is a former Ward 5 Republican chairman and currently serves as chairman of the Republican City Committee.

5 Honored At Quincy Law Day Ceremonies

Five individuals and one local program were recognized for their contributions to the Quincy District Court and the justice system at the district court's recent Law Day ceremonies.

The Hon. James R. Lawton, first justice Plymouth Probate Court, received the James R. McIntyre Award. The award, named in memory of the late mayor-state senator, is given to a public official for service to government and the law.

Quincy Atty. Paul A.M. Hunt, Esq., was presented the Alfred P. Malaney Award by Lewis C. Eisenberg, president of the Quincy Bar Association. The award is present to an outstanding lawyer or judge.

Hunt, a U.S. Marine Corps veteran of World War II, is a graduate of Harvard College and Harvard Law School. He began practicing law in 1953 and served as an assistant U.S. attorney from 1961 to 1966.

He conducted the first successful prosecution for federal-aid highway fraud in the U.S. and was special liaison between U.S. attorney and local law enforcement agencies. Hunt received two unprecedented commendations from the FBI for "aggressive and expeditious handling of cases, the substantial number of convictions and constant willingness to. . . give legal advice or authorizations on a moment's notice."

Weymouth Police Officers Thomas M. Farrell and Scott K. Harrington accepted the Robert P. Dana Distinguished Service Award for Law Enforcement. Farrell and Harrington, who were off-duty, gave medical treatment to a motorist who was involved in an accident in December until an ambulance arrived at the scene.

Two special citations were also presented.

Jim M. McGill, assistant director of Father Bill's Place, received the Quincy Court Jason Feldman Outstanding Citizen Award.

The Quincy Court Outstanding Program Award went to Survival Emergency Youth Shelter. The award was accepted by Kenneth Tarabelli and Mary Jo Maher.

Awards were to presented to students from area high schools for their winning essays on "What Can Be Done to Eliminated the Increased Violence in High Schools" in the Dennis F. Ryan Essay Contest.

Recipients are Kelley Cronin, Ann Mai Pham and Roxanna Sam, Quincy High School; Ann La Fauci, Woodward School for Girls; and Jeffrey Drew, Braintree High School.

In his Law Day Address, Acting U.S. Attorney A. John Pappalardo said "The challenge of the 1990s is to employ law enforcement and social resources at the same place and time."

Propane Tank Hearing Continued To May 19

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The License Board has once again postponed a request from Curry Hardware, 370 Copeland St., for a permit to store 500 gallons of propane outside the store.

The matter, which was continued from the board's May 5 meeting, will be brought before the board again next week after residents hold a neighborhood meeting to discuss their concerns about the proposed facility.

Ward 4 Councillor Thomas Fabrizio addressed the matter at Tuesday's meeting.

"I've given this a lot of thougnt," said Fabrizio. "It's a health and safety issue, and the question is whether or not those with technical experience in this field can assure the people who live in the area that there is no danger. Not just an opinion, but a definite answer that, yes, it is safe."

Fire Chief Thomas Gorman went on record at the May 5 meeting as saying such a facility would pose no harm to the community, calling it a "safe operation." Atty. Richard Barry, who represents the hardware store and its owner, Bob Curry, tried Tuesday to further reassure concerned residents that the propane tank would cause no safety problems.

"Factually, this is a routine installation," said Barry. "A 500-pound tank is residential size." He added that a similar facility was recently installed in Weymouth.

Barry also noted that a 500-pound tank would cause less of a threat to the community than the 20-pound propane cannisters which are used as "transfers" at certain businesses. Customers exchange the empty cannisters in return for full ones, which is considered to be somewhat more dangerous because used cannisters can become damaged or rusty.

"This installation is far more desirable than the transfers," said Barry.

Building Inspector Matthew Mulvey, who had requested that the May 5 meeting be continued until this week, agreed.

"I've looked into this matter, and my feeling is that the 500-gallon tank is more preferable than the 20-pound containers," said Mulvey. If the License Board were to ultimately refuse Curry's request, he could simply obtain a permit from the fire department to possess the smaller containers at his store. Such action does not require License Board approval.

Despite assurances from Gorman and Barry, however, several residents are still wary of having a propane tank in their neighborhood. Noreen O'Toole of 13 Mullin Ave. expressed these concerns before the board.

"We as a community have stringently assessed this request," said O'Toole. "We aren't here to eliminate a business opportunity." O'Toole listed among the neighbors' concerns establishment of precedent, traffic generation, the physical nature of the expressway ramp that abuts the site, the location of the proposed site itself, and the composition of the propane gas to be stored within the tank.

Curry and Barry both admitted they should probably have discussed the matter more in depth with area residents before Tuesday and agreed that a neighborhood meeting should be held.

Marshall Collects Over 5,000 Signatures For Re-Election Campaign

Norfolk County Sheriff Clifford Marshall has collected more than 5000 certified signatures from supporters in 27 towns and the city of Quincy endorsing his re-election campaign.

Only 1000 signatures are required to file for candidacy to the Office of Sheriff. Marshall, a Democrat, is expected to submit his certified signatures to the Secretary of State's office by the end of the month.

Marshall, who was first elected sheriff in 1974, recently opened the new Norfolk County Sheriff's Office and Correctional Center, located between the north and south bound lanes of Route 128 (I95) in Dedham. Aware of the burgeoning jail population and its potential threat to public safety, Marshall secured the unique site for the new correctional facility in 1982. The facility is the first of its kind sited on a median of a major interstate highway, employs state-of-the-art security and a new concept in jail management called direct supervision.

Several incarceration alternatives and community awareness programs were developed by Marshall, including the Electronic Incarceration Program (EIP) in 1987 and the Braintree Alternative Center (BAC) in 1985. The BAC, where the inmate Community Service and Work Release Programs are housed, was accredited in January, 1992, by the American Correctional Association.

The ACA award is the highest honor correctional facilities can receive based on operational merit. The state Department of Public Health certified the BAC's Substance Abuse Program in 1991 and Braintree selectmen extended the BAC's existence in the town until 1993.

Marshall also developed the Drug and Alcohol Awareness Program for youths and their parents, child fingerprinting and identification, and the Explorer Post 850, the adult extension group of the Boy Scouts of America.

Marshall is the state director of the National Sheriff's Association, past president of the Massachusetts Sheriff's Association, a member of the American Correctional and American Jail Associations and the Criminal History Systems Board. He is the founder of both the Quincy Ward 2 Civic Association and the Honorary Deputy Sheriff's Association in Norfolk County.

A Marine Corps veteran and member of several fraternal organizations including the Knights of Columbus #2259, Sons of Italy #1295, and the Elks BPOE #943, Marshall and his wife Louise reside in Quincy. They have four sons: Clifford III, Michael, Paul and Christopher.

D. Scott Deware

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

"Laugh a little now and then ... it brightens life a lot ... You can see the brighter side ... Just as well as not ... Don't go mournfully around ... Gloomy and forlorn ... Try to make your fellow men ... Glad you were born." ...

Author Unknown

Laughter is a language everybody understands in most circumstances. It is a healthy outlet and especially when you can laugh at yourself. Laughter is in fact a sixth sense. Look around you. Surely you can find something to laugh at. It is an excellent tonic to relieve jitters, nervousness and memories of past agonies. Even in troublesome times, many situations can be kept under control with a smile or a good laugh. Without a lighthearted break from life's disquietudes, we would never fully appreciate a problem solved or a difficulty dismissed. Don't ever doubt that humor, a smile or a good laugh can often bring hope where there is hopelessness.

It can lighten the load and stop the sting of personal problems that come to us all. Actually, and there is no doubt about it, he who laughs ... lasts.

SPRING HOME IMPROVEMENT

How To Spruce Up Your Kitchen And Bath

After the go-go years of the 1980s, many Americans have opted for a kinder, gentler lifestyle. The move away from the excesses of the past places a special emphasis on the home as the prime gathering spot for family and friends.

This new attention isn't cheap. According to the National Kitchen & Bath Association, the average cost of totally renovating a kitchen and bathroom, the two most popular rooms to redecorate, is $17,615 and $9,087 respectively. Many homeowners now bypass costly major remodeling projects by doing small scale, low cost home improvements themselves.

Do-it-yourself "accessorizing" can be done for as little as $700 to $1,200. The right accessories can change the room's appearance and style in minutes. Another benefit is these relatively small investments can pay big dividends in the future. Keep in mind that any remodeling done automatically increases the house's value. So while you're making a cozier "nest", you're also increasing its value with minimal investment.

At The Forefront: Faucets

The first step when accessorizing your kitchen and bath is to choose a theme. Once you decide on either a traditional, country or contemporary look, choosing coordinating accessories is easy.

The faucet should be the first item selected. Besides being the focal point of kitchen and bath hardware, faucets add sparkle and dimension to a room.

Cook In Style

In the kitchen, consider functionality as well as aesthetics. Today's busy consumer needs a faucet that complements his hectic lifestyle. A pull-out spray spout can wash fruits and vegetables or water plants while high-arc faucets can easily and quickly fill pots and pans and rinse dishes.

Once you've chosen a kitchen faucet, go to town on other accessories as well. Quick and easy decorative flourishes include colorful ceramics, potted herbs, brightly patterned dish towels and showy dishware. Hang racks for cookware and large utensils. Wall grids over the sink save space and keep within reach such essentials as pot scrubbers, dish washing liquid and paper towels Place framed panes of stained glass over your windows to catch the light and brighten the room.

Sponge painting adds depth and texture while wallpapering in bright, bold patterns makes a dashing fashion statement. Track lighting gives the room a contemporary feel.

The Bath: From Ho-Hum To Wow!

Out-dated faucets in your bath can put a damper on your design scheme. So, as in the kitchen, the first step in your bathroom renovation should be to replace the faucet. Peerless's Decorator Series offers do-it-yourselfers a smoothly rounded spout that complements a variety of decorating tastes.

Use colorful pottery to hold potpourri, bath oil beads and other toiletries. Flea market finds like antique glass bottles, figurines and Victorian botanical prints make the room homey. Scented candles and dimmer light switches add romance.

Rev. Bedros Baharian To Celebrate 50th Year Of Ordination

REV. BEDROS BAHARIAN

Rev. Bedros Baharian, pastor emeritus, will celebrate the 50th anniversary of his ordination Sunday at the 10 a.m. worship service at Quincy Point Congregational Church.

A reception for Rev. Baharian, his wife, Jane, and family will follow the service. Friends are invited to both the service and the reception.

Rev. Baharian will deliver the morning sermon titled "A Guide To Live By." He will be assisted by the pastors of the church, the Revs. Fred and Carol Atwood-Lyon. Acolytes will be Chris Sherriff and Michele Thornhill, and the cross bearer will be Matt Hourin, all members of the 1992 Confirmation class.

Guests who will speak to the congregation include: Charles Harper, associate conference minister, Massachusetts Conference of the United Church of Christ; Bonnie Baharian, daughter-in-law; Roy Baharian, brother; Rev. Peter Corea, pastor of Houghs Neck Congregational Church, Quincy; William N. Neil, church moderator; Walter Hannon, former Quincy mayor and planning director; Paul Baharian, son, and executive director of 1000 Southern Artery Senior Citizens Center, Inc.; and the Revs. Fred and Carol Atwood-Lyon.

Raised in Worcester, Rev. Baharian attended the Oxford State School, the Sever Street Preparatory School and Classical High School. He received a bachelor's degree in history and a master's degree in international relations in 1938 from Clark University. He completed his studies in preparation for the ordained ministry at Andover Newton Theological School. He was ordained in his home church, Old South Church, on May 24, 1942.

Completing his first fulltime position with the Larger Parish of Hadwen Park Church and Bethany Church in Worcester, Rev. Baharian began his ministry at Quincy Point Congregational Church in December, 1943. He served the church for 34 years and the city for many more. He retired from ministry in December, 1977.

After World War II, Rev. Baharian led the church in membership growth to more than 1,000 While pastoring the Quincy Point Church, he served as executive secretary of the Quincy Council of Churches for six years.

With Rev. Baharian's leadership, and the support of local church leaders, the church voted to relocate its former building at the corner of Washington and South Sts. in Quincy Point, moving it to its present location in 1950.

In addition to his pastoral duties, Rev. Baharian chaired the Quincy Planning Board for 17 years and was development director for four years, generating more than $200,000,000 worth of development into the city. He also served as chairman of the Advisory Board of South Shore Bank, chairman of the bank's Salary and Incentive Committee and vice-chairman of the Shareholders Committee.

In his retirement, Rev. Baharian has served as a member of the Mediplex Board of Directors. He is currently a director of Casa De Las Campanas in San Diego and Chairman of the Teacher's Assistance Life Care Center, Villa Gardens, Pasadena. California.

the presidential candidates. People are just fed up and they want a change. Perot has integrity. They want an option, to Clinton in particular."

Elam said Perot's grass-roots campaign is appealing to people in all political parties, from longtime political activists to election novices. "The response has been astounding. People are very enthusiastic," she said.

It appears Perot has more than enough signatures to get on the Massachusetts ballot. Still, Elam said supporters are aiming "to get as many signatures as we can" on Saturday. Some signatures may not qualify while other voters are bound to sign more than one nomination paper.

"I'm sure that we'll have more than enough."

Any registered voter in Massachusetts is eligible to sign a nomination paper for Perot.

Elam, who is in contact with Perot's national headquarters in Texas, said she is confident the Lone Star State native will appear on all 50 states. "From what I see on the news and hear from the Texas people, I'm confident he'll get on every ballot in every state," she said.

Besides Massachusetts, petition drives are reportedly having success in other New England states, including New Hampshire where Perot appears to be on the verge of qualification.

Petition drives in some other states are running into some minor problems, such as time constraints and stringent election laws.

For example, petitioners in New York have a limited time, approximately five weeks, to collect the necessary signatures. In addition, the Empire State's election laws mandate that a certain percentage of signatures be collected in each district.

Furthermore, any voter who cast a ballot in New York's presidential primary last month cannot sign the petition. The primary attracted approximately 25 percent of the registered voters in that state.

"I don't anticipate it will be a major problem," Elam said referring to the New York Perot drive.

Perot, is avoiding the political limelight and press while he drafts his position papers, is expected to announce his candidacy in June or July. One possible date is June 27, the day he celebrates his 62nd birthday.

A graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy, Perot served in the Navy for four years during the mid-1950s. In 1962, he borrowed $1,000 from his wife, Margot (Birmingham) to start a one-man data processing company and named the firm Electronic Data Systems. Today, EDS is a multi-billion dollar corporation, employing more than 70,000.

Honored numerous times for his charitable and civic duties, the Perot family has distributed more than $100 million to these causes.

Elam said she supports Perot because of his charitable endeavors and his integrity.

She pointed out Perot resigned from General Motors Board of Directors in 1986 after disagreements over the quality of GM's autos. Before his resignation, Perot was GM's largest stockholder.

After two EDS employees were taken hostage by the Iranian government in 1979, Perot directed a successful rescue mission composed of EDS employees and led by Colonel Arthur "Bull" Simons. Perot personally went into Iran, and inside the prison where his associates were held.

In addition, Perot has spearheaded drives to combat illegal drugs in Texas. He chaired a War on Drugs Committee which submitted five bills to the state legislature. The bills were signed into law.

"I just think he has done a lot of good things and he has integrity, " Elam said. "There's always going to be problems but if you have integrity, you can deal with them."

Perot's entry into the 1992 presidential sweepstakes could set the stage for a three-way battle with Bush and Clinton. If that happens, and if neither candidate wins the 270 minimum electoral votes Nov. 3, the House of Representatives would elect the next president.

The last time the House elected the president was 1824 when U.S. representatives elected John Quincy Adams over Andrew Jackson and William Crawford, former secretary of the Treasury.

Edges North, Blasts Barnstable

Quincy Back On Track

The Quincy High baseball team, which is experiencing a roller coaster season, is back on the upswing.

The Presidents edged North Quincy, 2-1, in a tight contest and blasted Barnstable, 10-2, last week in Old Colony League action.

Quincy's Steve Loud and North's Mike Patch then matched zero's on the Adams Field scoreboard until the sixth inning.

Loud gave up just three hits while Patch surrendered only five. Both clubs played fine defense.

The win was the second straight for Quincy which outslugged visiting Barnstable the previous day.

Sophomore Tom Malvesti went the distance allowing just two hits for the Presidents. Malvesti was outstanding at the plate too with two hits and two runs scored.

Loud walked twice, singled and scored three runs, Gallagher had two hits and two runs scored and Noel DiBona contributed two hits.

The Presidents have a tough week coming up. Coach Bob Sylvia's squad hosts Weymouth Monday and Taunton Wednesday and is at Bridgewater-Raynham next Thursday. All games at 3:30 p.m.

North Quincy entertains Silver Lake Friday at Adams and is at Bridgewater-Raynham Monday, at Weymouth Wednesday and will host Barnstable next Thursday. All games are at 3:30 p.m.

Triple A

Dodgers Win Two

The Dodgers rolled to two wins last week in Triple A Baseball action defeating the Astros, 18-8, and the Braves, 17-5.

Patrick Dugan got the win and John Parastatides the save as each struck out five batters against the Astros.

Charlie Doherty went 5-for-5 with a double and turned a double play on defense. Matt Allen went 3-for-4 with a double and Zach Winderl also doubled for the Dodgers.

Mark Hawes, Sean Garvey and Chris Wilkie also played well.

Hitting stars for the Astros were Manny Vascilla, John Silverman and Kevin Markham. Silverman, Mike Kenny, Shawn Martines, Vin Chi and Markham had good defensive games.

Against the Braves, Dugan struck out six in three innings for the win and Allen struck out two for the save. The two allowed a total of just three hits.

Dugan was 4-for-4 with 2 RBI and two doubles, Doherty 3-for-3 with 2 RBI a triple and a double, Allen had two hits, including a double, and 3 RBI, and Wilkie and had two hits, including a triple, and 3 RBI. Winderl had a double. Jeff Russo (unassisted double play), Matt Nelson and Pat Foley all had good defensive games.

St. John's Baseball

Matarazzo Dentistry, A.H. Campbell & Sons, Continental Cable and South Quincy Bocce Club each won two games last week in St. John's Baseball League action.

In Farm League play, Dentistry topped Sunshine Fruit, 7-6, as Ian Williams drove in the winning run in the final inning. Jesse Garland had a hit to tie the game and Jonathan Okereke also hit a key single. Paul Pollini was the winning pitcher.

Steve Pizzi hit a three-run homer and Dave McDonwell belted a two-run homer for Sunshine.

Dentistry also blanked Agnitti Insurance, 9-0, behind the pitching of Mike Maloney. Jayme O'Neil, Ryan McCarthy, Tommy Callahan, Mike McLaughlin, Pollini and Maloney each had two hits.

Chris Gorham pitched three shutout innings for Agnitti, Sean Crowley had two hits and Lynn Valentino and Gordon Webber also had hits.

Dentistry also played Spee Dee Oil Change to a 1-1 tie. The game was called after three innings because of cold weather.

Garland homered for Dentistry and Maloney had a single. Brian Shaw tied the game for Spee Dee with a home run and Sean Connolly pitched two good innings.

Spee Dee Oil fell to Campbell & Sons, 9-0, despite good efforts from Kelly Powers, Jeremy Craig, Marc Darios, Brian French and James McQuinn.

Sean Gibbons had a hit and played well in the field for Campbell and Mike Prezioso hit a home run. David Centrella pitched two strong innings and added two hits.

Campbell & Sons also defeated 7-11 Franklin Street, 8-3, as Rene Lumaghini pitched well and had a fine all-around game. First baseman Wayne Larson played well and had two hits and catcher Billy O'Brien also excelled.

7-11 also fell to Agnitti Insurance, 6-2, despite standout games by Mark Dondero, Brett Williams and Brian Keefe.

Agnitti was sparked by home runs from Webber, Gorham and Crowley and Gorham was the winning pitcher.

Reggie's Oil topped DiBona Plumbing, 6-1. Ryan Casey slammed a home run and Matt Alleva, Pat Irwin and Chris Smeglin had solid games for Reggie's.

DiBona Plumbing's run was knocked in by Mike Mormino and David Benn, Amanda Coleman and Craig Keenan also played well.

DiBona was held to one-hit by Sweeney Funeral Services. Nicholas Coneys was the winning pitcher. Tim Pezzulo caught a great game and had two hits, Paul Galligan and Dan Walker each homered, and Jim Sullivan had a hit and played well in the outfield.

For DiBona, Danny Jones had a good game at catcher, Mark Lopez pitched three no-hit innings, and Bill McAudle had the hit.

In Little League action, Continental Cable edged Bolea-Buonfiglio Funeral Home, 4-3, with Frank Meroney the winning pitcher. Jim Bush had a big game for Cable pitching three shutout innings with eight strikeouts. He was also 2-for-2 with two stolen bases. Mark McDonald was 2-for-2 and had 2 RBI.

For Bolea, John Baron pitched three solid innings with six strikeouts, Peter Hogan was 3-for-3 and Matt Kay played good defense.

Cable also dumped BFI, 8-3, with McDonald the winning pitcher allowing no hits in three innings with six strikeouts. Brett Camarli hit a home run, Meroney was 2-for-2 with a home run and 3 RBI.

For BFI, Bobby Harvey played a great game at catcher, Justin Heath had a key hit and Rachel Powers pitched a solid inning.

South Quincy Bocce rolled over President Pharmacy, 23-7. Steve Maze was the winning pitcher and helped himself with a bases loaded triple. Jonathan Gosslin walked four times and scored twice, Mike Centrella was 3-for-4 and scored twice, and Tony Monoco walked three times and scored three runs.

Adam Tiro had two hits and two RBI for President and Billy Hoey walked and had a RBI. Charles Manning played well at catcher.

Bocce blanked Sweeney Brothers, 6-0, as Maze won again and homered. Centrella was 2-for-2 and scored twice, Mike Buckley was 2-for-2 with a double and a triple and also pitched well.

Bill Robinson had a good pitching effort for Sweeney and Judy Bravo played good defense.

Sweeney Brothers rebounded with a 9-2 win over President Pharmacy. Bravo was the winning pitcher, Ryan Ploof pitched well and Robinson hurled two shutout innings with five strikeouts.

For President, Charlie Milione had two hits and a RBI, center fielder Brian Sylvester made a diving catch to end the fourth inning and Chris Todd had a hit.

Atlantic Soccer Field To Be Repaired

The soccer field at Atlantic Middle School will be repaired soon. Last week the City Council approved $6,000 for work on the field by the Parks Department.

"The field is currently unplayable," said Parks Dept. chief Ray Cattaneo.

He also told the Council that the field is used extensively, particularly by the Quincy Youth Soccer League.

"Youth soccer is growing by leaps and bounds. There are more than 1,200 kids playing soccer in Quincy," Cattaneo said.

Snug Harbor Edges Montclair, 53-48

Snug Harbor won the senior division championship of the Quincy Recreation Department basketball tournament with a hard-fought, 53-48, victory over Montclair.

Snug Harbor hung on for the win despite 27 points by Montclair's Liam Higgins. The game was close throughout and the score at halftime was 22-21.

Eric Kenney led Snug Harbor with 14 points and Brian Fitzgerald scored 10 of his 12 in the second half. Snug Harbor used a full-court press to offset the Montclair height advantage.

Sam Brown netted 10 points and Joe Manton had five in the second half.

Pat Bryan scored 10 for Montclair, Shawn Nee had 3 and Jason Picardi, Chris Murray, Nick Mastrogiacomo and Mike MacDougall each netted two points.

MacDougall was the leading rebounder, Keith Lentini played well and Andy Kenney helped start several fast breaks. Montclair was coached by Dean Zoia.

Snug Harbor coach Mike Norton praised the hustle of Sean MacDonald and the floor play of Pete Orseno. Tom Clark contributed several rebounds at key points in the close game. Other members of the winning team were Ed Kenney and Steve Orseno.

Recreation Director Barry Welch, Park and Recreation Chairman Bryant Carter, and Commissioners Tom Mullaney and Howard Crowley presented trophies to Snug Harbor and finalist awards to Montclair.

Youth Soccer Results

No games were scheduled for Mother's Day weekend but the Boys Under 8 divisions made up games which had been postponed earlier in the season.

Mike Roach, Jake Ryder and Pat Ryder played well for Hancock Paint in a game against Lou Bertucci Law Office led by Eric O'Dea, Kevin Patten and Daniel Romano.

Boys under 8 West: Mul's of South Boston got solid games from Bryan Petit, George Phipps and Kevin Sheridan while 7-11 Franklin St. was paced by Pat Lasi, Greg Maton, and Mike McGrath.

L.G. Henley and Barry's Deli squared off with Francis Orlando, Eric Stanton and Steve Summering playing well for Henley and Phil McGillicuddy, Brendan McNeil and John Norton excelling for Barry's.

Adam Smith, Chris Stivaletta and Mike Tetreault stood out for Co-Op Bank and Matt MacNeil, John Mateu and Joe O'Connor were outstanding for Abbey Travel.

There are 18 players on an Australian football team.

STEPHEN LEIGH JEWELERS recently held a ribbon cutting ceremony to mark the opening of its new store at 1415 Hancock St. in Quincy Center. Operation Watersense 'Depot' At City Hall Saturday

In cooperation with the City of Quincy, the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority announces a "Last Chance Depot" will be available to Quincy householders who have not yet participated in the Operation Watersense program.

A free kit of do-it-yourself water conservation materials will be given Saturday, May 16 from 11 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. in the second floor conference room of Quincy City Hall to a representative of any household which was missed by the door-to-door Operation Watersense installation crews.

Quincy residents seeking kits should present proper identification.

The water conservation program was launched by Mayor James Sheets and MWRA officials and other state and city officials last spring. Quincy was the first community to participate.

During the year-long program, more than 18,000 Quincy homes were provided with water-saving fixtures for kitchens and bathrooms. The free fixtures included low-flow showerheads, faucet aerators, and toilet-tank water dams.

Booklets with water conservation tips were also given to each family. Kits available May 16 will contain similar fixtures and literature.

The MWRA's Board of Directors has chosen conservation and protection of local and existing sources as a cost-effective alternative to expensive searches for new water supplies. The MWRA long-range water supply plans also include leak detection and repair of pipes and public education for commercial, industrial and domestic water users.

The completed Operation Watersense program is expected to save about 6.5 million gallons per day of Quabbin-Wachusett water.

License Board

The Quincy Board of License Commissioners took the following action at its meeting Tuesday:

• Reported the withdrawal of a request from The Orient Express, 1185 Hancock St. (John Kotsiopoulos and Nicholas Tsoukalis) for the transfer of their Common Victualer license.

•Postponed for one week a request from the Quincy Park Improvement Committee, 645 Hancock St. (Michelle Lydon) for permission to conduct a Circus to perform on Saturday, July 25 at Marina Bay.

•Granted a request from the Montclair School PTA, 8 Belmont St. (Wendy Moody) for a permit to hold a May Festival Saturday, May 16 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on the school grounds.

•Granted a request from the St. Mary's West Quincy Social Committee (Bob Curry) for a one day liquor license for an Italian Night to be held Saturday, May 16 from 8 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. at St. Mary's Parish Hall.

•Granted a requested from the North Quincy High School Cheerleaders (Elizabeth Ballum) for permission to conduct a Canning Drive on Thursdays, June 11, 18, and 25.

City Census 41% Higher Than Federal

Asian Population Nearly 10,000

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

The recently completed city-wide door-to-door census shows Quincy has at least 9,335 Asian residents, a figure which is 41 percent higher than the federal count taken two years ago.

The 1990 federal census pegged Quincy's Asian population at 5,500. City officials strongly doubted the federal count when it was released, believing the actual number was considerably higher. The door-to-door count, which took six weeks to complete, confirms Quincy has more Asian residents than previously recorded by the federal government.

Assistant City Clerk Joseph Shea, who directed the census drive, said the city's count is more accurate because 15 Asian census takers went door-to-door throughout Quincy. Furthermore, he said he believes the Asian count may be as high as 11,000 since approximately 20 percent of the city's households did not respond to the census.

"I believe our count is more accurate than the federal census because we went into every house and every apartment. It (the Asian count) may be as high as 11,000," Shea said.

The Asian population was counted first because local officials believed the federal census undercounted that segment of Quincy's population two years ago.. The final census figures will be known in five or six weeks, Shea said.

Still, with the Asian count completed and the rest of the city's preliminary census figures in, Shea said he believes Quincy's overall population has fallen from 85,000 to 84,000, in part because of the economy.

"I think the city's population has dipped slightly. There's a lot of vacant apartments in the city because of the economy. We were at 85,000 last year. The one thing that is clear is that we have had an increase in the number of Asians living in Quincy."

Since the mid-1980s, there has been an influx of Asian residents in Quincy, particularly into the northern end of the city. The new census data show that 6,324 or 67 percent of the city's Asian residents live in the North Quincy-Montclair-Atlantic areas. The remaining Asians reside throughout the city.

Shea attributed the high concentration of Asian residents in the northern section of Quincy to the large number of condominiums, apartments, and multi-family homes in the area. He also said many Asians have settled within close proximity of public transportation, particularly the North Quincy MBTA station.

According to the city census, more Asians live in Ward 6, 2,816, than in any other ward. Ward 3 is next with 2, 593. The rest of the Asian population by ward is 1,548 in Ward 5; 992 in Ward 4; 761 in Ward 2 and 625 in Ward 1.

"It's a definite North Quincy tinge," Shea said.

Of the city's 30 precincts, Ward 3 Precinct 3, which is Montclair and Wollaston, has the most Asian residents with 1,088. Streets with a high percentage of Asians in Ward 3 Precinct 3 include West Squantum St., Holbrook Rd., Harriet

Bonding Sought For Rehab Project

City's Sewer Pipes 'In State Of Collapse'

By STEVE KAVANAGH

DPW Commissioner David Colton updated the City Council Monday on the city's sewer rehabilitation and Quincy Bay water pollution abatement projects.

"There is work that needs to be done everywhere," Colton said. "The pipes are in a state of collapse."

The presentation included video footage from a special camera which travels through sanitary sewer pipes and storm drain pipes. The video revealed large cracks and crushed pipes which causes leaking of sewage into the city's storm drains, many of which discharge on Wollaston Beach.

In the near future the City Council will be asked to approve bonding for a five-year capital outlay program which will cost millions of dollars.

Mayor James Sheets is studying how other cities similar to Quincy set up major capital outlay programs, said Tom Koch, Sheets' Executive Secretary.

"The mayor wants a total picture before he starts more bonding," said Auditor Robert Foy.

Colton outlined work that has already been accomplished and what needs to be done including work which should be done immediately.

He said three areas in particular need immediate attention, the Town River Bay interceptor, the Squantum main sewer line and the Camden St.-Lind St. pipe which runs between Houghs Neck and Germantown.

Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson said the Camden St. area needs to be protected because it is an area where fish and lobster lay eggs.

The DPW and the MWRA have teamed up to identify problems. The MWRA has helped with testing for damaged pipes. Colton also said the city has applied and will apply for 50 percent funding assistance from the MWRA for various segments of the rehabilitation work.

Colton said that several hundred feet of pipe have been replaced since the overhaul began last year.

Also, the West Quincy sewer system rehabilitation is nearly complete and Colton reported that the project is on schedule and within its budget.

Colton said the next area of concentration would be the pipes in North and Central Quincy which are contributing to pollution on Wollaston Beach.

"I think people are getting the idea of infrastructure being very important," said Councillor-at-Large Patricia Toland. She also said that much of the city's sewer system is antiquated and some of the pipes have never been replaced since first being installed.

Sheets Proposes Selling Braintree Dam

The matter was referred to the City Council's Land Conveyance Committee Monday night for further discussion.

In order for the mayor to negotiate the sale of the property the Council must first declare the reservoir surplus property.

The Town of Braintree and the South Shore Plaza are potential buyers. The value of the property has been estimated at about $450,000.

500 Gallon Propane Tank Approved

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The License Board Tuesday voted 3-2 to allow Curry Hardware, 370 Copeland St., a permit to store 500 gallons of propane outside the store.

The matter had been continued three times from previous board meetings amid concerns from residents that such a tank would endanger the safety of the neighborhood.

Police Chief Francis Mullen decided at Tuesday's meeting to vote against the proposal, as did Health Commissioner Jane Gallahue, who said she was "still not comfortable" with the idea of a propane tank being installed at the site.

Fire Chief Thomas Gorman, Assistant City Clerk Joseph Shea, and Building Inspector Matthew Mulvey, however, voted in favor. Only a majority vote is needed to grant such a request.

Gorman went on record two weeks ago as saying that he was in favor of the request, calling the propane tank "a safe operation that can be a good neighbor if handled properly." Mulvey also noted at last week's meeting that a 500-gallon tank is safer than the 20-gallon propane tanks that are used as "transfers" at certain businesses (when customers exchange empty propane cannisters for full ones).

It was also pointed out that Bob Curry, owner of the hardware store, could obtain a permit from the fire department to possess the "transfers" at his property without License Board approval.

Atty. Richard Barry, who represents Curry, said Tuesday there was no reason for the board to deny Curry's request.

"This project has been downsized to 500 gallons (Curry's originally request was for 1,000)," said Barry, "and it has the approval of the state fire marshall and Chief Gorman. It's a perfectly situated site, and it's a safe site."

Several area residents, however, remained unconvinced that the propane tank would pose no danger to the community. Noreen O'Toole of 13 Mullin Ave. said a neighborhood meeting held last Friday at City Hall did nothing to change the neighbors' thinking.

"The meeting did not provide us with adequate information," said O'Toole. "It did not seriously address the concerns of the residents."

O'Toole said the five major concerns of those living in the area were establishment of precedent, traffic generation, the physical nature of the expressway ramp that abuts the site, the location of the proposed site itself, and the composition of the propane gas to be stored within the tank.

Gorman told O'Toole that he believed Curry would take all precautions in the usage of the tank and reiterated his statement that propane is only dangerous when handled incorrectly. O'Toole, however, said it was the questions surrounding the propane itself, and not Curry's competence, that concerned the neighbors.

"We're not disputing the reliability of the applicant at all," said O'Toole, who also presented the board with a petition from neighbors opposed to the tank. Other such lists have been given to the board in the past few weeks.

Ward 4 Councillor Thomas Fabrizio, who attended Friday's neighborhood meeting, said he felt the neighbors' concerns should all be addressed but added that Gorman should ultimately have the final say in the matter.

"The only issue here is public safety," said Fabrizio. "If this board cannot give full assurance that this a safe project, then I want them to deny it.

"However, I don't have the technical expertise to assess that (the safety issue). The board must use its expertise to do so, and the only man who can make that decision is the man who the City of Quincy hired to be its fire chief."

Gorman said, however, that certain conditions were to be attached to the approval. Curry was told he must put signs on his property alerting customers to the presence of the propane tank and that he will not be allowed to receive deliveries from propane trucks during rush hour. In addition, the travel area on the property for such trucks is to be cross-hatched and Jersey barriers are to be placed on the downside of the nearby ramp to further insure safety.

Finally, Gorman said that for a six-month trial basis, Curry may only sell the propane to residents for their homes, barbeques, and other needs and not to those with commercial interests.

Two Men Arrested For Drug Trafficking In Sting Operation

A recent "sting operation" in Quincy led to the seizure of $24,000 and a quantity of cocaine as well as the arrests of two men for drug trafficking.

Fabio J. Ocampo, 40, of Brockton, and Luisito Torres, 19, of Dorchester, were arrested and charged with trafficking cocaine, sale of controlled substance near a school, conspiracy to violate controlled substance law, and possession of a Class B substance, cocaine.

The arrests were a result of a on-going investigation by the Quincy Police Department Drug Unit, working in conjunction with the Department of Justice Immigration and Naturalization, and the Norfolk County Sheriff's Department. The "sting operation" was conducted May 14.

The multi-department investigation conducted over the past several months is on-going and further arrests are anticipated, according to Quincy Police Chief Francis Mullen. The Norfolk County Sheriff's Department has taken on an active roll in addressing the drug problems facing not only the City of Quincy but all of Norfolk County.

The Immigration and Naturalization Service has targeted criminal aliens who are involved in violent crimes and narcotics activities. These agencies work in close cooperation with local police departments making equipment, personnel, and expertise available, resulting in many successful operations.

City Census Shows 9,335 Asian Residents

Ave., Belmont St., Safford Rd., Montclair Ave. and Farrington St.

The precinct with the second highest number of Asians is Ward 6 Precinct 1 (North Quincy and Atlantic) with 1,076. Census data show many Asians living on Atlantic St., Billings St., Walker St and Sagamore St. Every address on Bersani Circle is occupied by an Asian family.

Ward 3 Precinct 3 and Ward 6 Precinct 1 border one another near the Neponset River. The two precincts are located on either side of the North Quincy Red Line station.

"The number of multi-family homes and close proximity to the MBTA appears to be a common thread," Shea explained. "Along the T, the Asian population is heavy in Wollaston and in Quincy Center there is a pretty high concentration.

"There are Asian residents living in all parts of the city," he said, adding he estimates 70 percent of that segment of the population lives near Quincy's four MBTA stations.

There are 10 precincts with 350 or more Asian residents. Besides, 3-3 and 6-1, they are 6-2, 6-4, 3-1, 5-5, 3-5, 3-4, 5-2 and 1-2. The last precinct is Germantown.

Figures show the fewest number of Asians living in Squantum and Houghs Neck. Ward 6 Precinct 5 in Squantum has 30 Asian residents and Ward 1 Precinct 4 in Houghs Neck has 51 Asian residents, according to the new data.

It appears Quincy's Asian population comprises between 11 to 13 percent of the city's overall population. With 9,335 Asians in a city of 84,000, the percentage is 11 percent. With 11,000 Asians and a population of 84,000, the percentage is 13 percent. Either percentage makes the Asian block the largest minority in the city.

Besides the high Asian count, Shea said the census shows an increase in two other minority groups. He said more young Hispanic speaking people live in Southwest Quincy and more Irish people reside in North Quincy.

Shea called the door-to-door drive the best Quincy census ever. However, he said he hopes another city-wide census is done next year to get a more accurate account of the city's residents.

"(The census) is not an exact science but we had the best census ever because we went door-to-door and we had Asian workers.

"I hope we can do it again next year. Census taking is like weeding a garden. You've got to keep at it to get more accurate numbers."

City officials use census information in a variety of ways, including compiling voter lists.

Chretien Supports State Education Finance Reform

Ward 3 Councillor Larry Chretien announces he strongly supports the Massachusetts Business Alliance for Education's efforts to reform the way the state finances public education.

The Massachusetts Business Alliance for Education is an organization of representatives from companies which believe state public schools must improve in order to ensure a healthy state economy in the future. The alliance is proposing legislation requiring that at least $5,600 be spent on a "foundation" education for each public student in the state. It also recommends that the state increase its contribution towards education in order to pay for the foundation budget.

Under the alliance plan, Quincy's school budget would increase by 17 percent to about $44.8 million with additional state funding. The city currently spends about $37.6 million annually on education, or $4,800 per student.

"The Business Alliance for Education understands that economic growth depends upon having a well-educated, productive workforce," Chretien said. "This is important for all of us, whether we have children or not because our personal economic circumstances are dependent upon each other.

"If we want our future workers to earn high incomes," Chretien said, "we will have to invest in today's students.. By improving our schools, we can all become economically better off than we are today.

"Quincy is a middle-class community that would greatly benefit from having the state pay a larger proportion of the education tab. Otherwise, we will have to choose between making continued cuts in the budget and increasing the regressive property tax. Neither of those choices is fair."

ANGIOPLASTY: PROS AND CONS

Balloon angioplasty is a nonsurgical procedure to open blocked arteries using a catheter. After the doctor positions the catheter at the site of a blockage, a tiny balloon is inflated to compress fatty deposits and allow blood to pass more freely. Recent studies report that in patients with mild heart disease, angioplasty is more effective than drugs in relieving pain and improving patients' endurance. Angioplasty is also an attractive option because it does not require general anesthesia or opening the chest cavity, and it doesn't entail the risk of side effects of some of the commonly prescribed drug therapies. However, angioplasty is more expensive and carries a greater risk of complications requiring emergency surgery.

P.S. Deciding which treatment is right for any one individual should involve thorough discussions with that person's doctors.

Angioplasty is only one of many exciting new techniques and procedures in the field of cardiology. If you would like to learn more about angioplasty, call COMPREHENSIVE CARDIAC CARE at 472-2550. We focus on treating the patient, rather than the disease. When treating patients, I always try to consider how I would like myself, my wife and children or my parents to be treated by a doctor. Chalk One Up For God

Well, chalk one up for God.

Unlike last year, he's welcome at this year's high schools and Quincy College graduation ceremonies.

The Quincy School Committee has lifted the ban imposed last year on prayers at the ceremonies.

The present School Committee voted 6-1 to restore the prayers, reversing the ban set down on a 4-3 vote last year.

Pardon me while I stand up and applaud. Maybe I'm a little prejudiced when it comes to God but I think that in a country that proclaims "In God We Trust" there shouldn't be a problem having prayers at high school graduations.

The Class of 1992 will get to hear prayers that the Class of 1991 wasn't allowed to hear.

The question still hanging: Will the Class of 1993 and classes following it be allowed to have prayers or be told they cannot?

The U.S. Supreme Court is expected to soon rule on whether prayers at public school graduation ceremonies are unconstitutional.

The issue cropped up in Providence, R.I. last year when a father complained prayers at his daughter's middle school graduation violated separation of church and state.

A federal judge in Rhode Island agreed. And the Circuit Court of Appeals in Boston upheld him.

The Providence School Committee appealed the case to the U.S. Supreme Court which will either uphold or overturn the two verdicts.

A four-member majority of last year's Quincy School Committee, fearing a lawsuit, abided by the two court verdicts.

The four were Steve Durkin, Mary Collins, Margaret Nigro and Mary Jane Powers. Only Durkin remains on the School; Committee and he again this year voted against the prayers.

Durkin, an attorney, said he would not support what he considers "violating the law."

But Dan Raymondi, who is also an attorney proposed that the prayers be restored because of the long tradition.

Voting with him were Mayor James Sheets, who is chairman of the School Committee, Ronald Mariano, Linda Stice, Frank Santoro and the newest member of the School Committee, Margaret King.

This year's School Committee — with the exception of Durkin — apparently feels that unless, or until, the Supreme Court says no, they are going to say yes to prayers.

How the Supreme Court will finally rule, no one knows for sure.

But from a consistency standpoint, it would seem prayers would have a chance of winning.

If they don't win, wouldn't that mean having to remove the reference to God in the Pledge of Allegiance?

And "In God We Trust" from currency and coins?

And wouldn't the next President of the U.S. be prohibited from placing his hand on a Bible or referring to God while taking his oath of office?

And, for that matter, wouldn't the next justice appointed to the Supreme Court be forbidden to use God's name while taking his or her oath?

It could get pretty ridiculous. But it could happen.

Ever get the feeling that a few people demanding their rights have been chipping away at the rights of the rest of us?

If prayers are banned, what's next?

SENATOR PAUL HAROLD is finding it a small world as he campaigns for Congress. Wherever he goes he bumps into a Quincy connection.

HAROLD

In Carver (now part of the 11th Congressional District) Harold ran into Diane Forsythe Skoog, the only woman police chief in Massachusetts. They were classmates at Broad Meadows Junior High School in the early 1960s.

In Whitman was Patti Kenney McCarthy, sister of Peter Kenney, Mayor Frank McCauley's executive secretary. She is director of the Whitman Council on Aging.

Harold also ran across Tom Adams, former teacher at Central Middle School, who is a selectman in Whitman.

In Rockland, Harold met up with another former Quincyite, Dick Post, former member of the old Montclair Men's Club and who is still active in the United First Parish Church.

"There seems to be Quincy people wherever I go," Harold says. "Nothing like seeing familiar faces and hearing familiar names."

Cronin, a Republican, is a former Quincy register of voters.

License Board

The Quincy License Board took the following action at its meeting Tuesday:

•Granted a request from the Quincy Park Improvement Committee, 645 Hancock St. (Michelle Lydon) for a permit to conduct a Circus to perform Saturday, July 25 at Marina Bay.

•Granted separate requests from G.J. Coddington's (George Cook) for one day extension of premises licenses for a Quincy College Graduation Reception Sunday, May 31 from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. and a Wedding Reception Saturday, June 20 from 4 to 10 p.m., both at the Galleria, Presidents Place.

•Granted a request from the Committee to Elect Mike Bellotti (Mike Bellotti) for a one day liquor license to be used at the Fore River Club House Friday, June 26 from 7 p.m. to midnight.

•Granted a request from the Sacred Heart Parish (Thomas Koch) for a one day liquor license for a reception for Rev. Joseph Fagan on his Silver Jubilee as a priest at the Sacred Heart School Auditorium Sunday, June 7 from 3:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.

•Continued for one week a request from Footprints Nightclub, 1515 Hancock St. (John Blythe) for permission to extend their hours of operation, on Fridays and Saturdays only, to 2 p.m.

•Granted a request from the VFW Post #10277, North Quincy (Warren Foster) for a one day liquor license for the installation of officers Saturday, June 6 from 7 to 11 p.m. at the Fenno House (Common Room), 540 Hancock St.

Francis Mullen Keynote Speaker

Memorial Day Parade, Ceremonies Monday

Police Chief Francis Mullen will be the keynote speaker at the city's Memorial Day ceremonies sponsored by the Quincy Veterans Council Monday, May 25.

Mullen, a 36-year veteran of the Quincy police force, served in the Korean Conflict on the U.S.S. Des Moines CA134, Flagship of the 6th Fleet. He became a patrolman in 1956 and was promoted to sergeant in 1965; lieutenant in 1969; and chief in 1990.

Mullen is a past commander and a life member of the Cyril P. Morrisette American Legion Post.

The Memorial Day parade will step off at 10:30 a.m. at School St. and proceed north on Hancock St. to Washington St., Coddington St. and Sea St. to Mount Wollaston Cemetery where memorial services will be held at the World War II podium.

The parade will rest at Quincy Square where wreaths will be placed on the tombs of John Adams and John Quincy Adams. The parade will disband after the services at the cemetery and units will go to their respective posts.

More than two dozen units will march in the parade, including local veterans organizations, color guards and high school bands. In addition, Gold Star Mothers, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, and national, state, county and city officials will march.

Police Chief
FRANCIS MULLEN

After Mullen's address, Adjutant Mary Timcoe will call the roll of Quincy's deceased comrades. Dick Hendry, past commander and chaplain of the Robert I. Nickerson American Legion Post, will lead the gathering in a Memorial Day prayer.

The invocation will be given by Joseph Sullivan, chaplain of the Bryan VFW Post. The benediction will be said by Edwin Boland, chaplain, Morrisette Legion Post.

Chief marshal for the parade will be Anthony Wolowicz, commander of the Quincy Veterans Council. He will be aided by Louis DiMattio, senior vice commander, Quincy Veterans Council.

City Clerk John Gillis, a past commander of the Quincy Veterans Council, will be master of ceremonies. Robert J. LaFleur, past commander, QVC, will be the Officer of the Day; and Gordon Bergstrom, Quincy Veterans Council, will be the assistant officer of the day.

Other parade officials will be Arthur LaFleur, junior vice commander, QVC; Henry P. Bradley, past commander, QVC; Irving Isaacson, past commander, QVC; Edward McAllister, sergeant at arms, QVC; Bryant Carter, past commander, Wollaston American Legion Post; and Joseph Callahan, past commander, QVC.

The Quincy Veterans Council, which represents all Quincy veterans organizations, is sponsoring the parade and ceremonies.

Other Memorial Day observances will be held Sunday and Monday, May 24 and 25. The two-day schedule of events includes:

Sunday

•9:45 a.m. - Quincy American Legion Post will assemble at United First Parish Church to conduct the traditional exercises of the Grand Army of the Republic. They will escort the Sunday School children to the Hancock Cemetery to decorate the graves of veterans.

Monday

•7 a.m. - Bryan Post will hold memorial exercises at the George F. Bryan Square, Franklin and Water Sts., Fr. Tierney Square, George F. Bryan Memorial at Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

•7 a.m. - Wollaston American Legion Post will decorate the graves and hold memorial exercises at the National Sailors Home Cemetery. At 8:30 a.m. a short memorial service will be held in the Wollaston Post Home.

•8 a.m. - Veterans of all wars will assemble at the Morrisette American Legion Post and proceed to Hall Place and conduct G.A.R. Memorial, and a detachment will place a wreath at the Morrisette Memorial at Pine Hill Cemetery. Following the service the line will reform and proceed to the post where the parade will disband.

•8:30 a.m. - Houghs Neck American Legion Post will decorate the graves and hold memorial exercises and decorate O'Hare Square, Adams Shore Memorial, Houghs Neck Memorial and Frederick C. Murphy Memorial and Houghs Neck Memorial Park.

Furnace Brook Golf Club Conversion Opposed

May 21-27
1945
47 Years Ago

Strong opposition developed at a public hearing to a plan that would convert a portion of Furnace Brook Golf Club into a playground for Wollaston youngsters.

John Rooney, spokesman for the club, said such a conversion would "make it impossible for the club to continue operating as it would provide insufficient yardage."

He also cited the danger of whizzing golf balls to children who might be using the proposed playground.

Police Capt. William McIntyre said police were in favor of the move "to keep the kids off the streets and to prevent damage to property by children who have no place to play."

The Rev. John J. Brown, curate of St. Mary's Church, West Quincy, said the city "is about 25 years behind the times" in providing recreation facilities.

POOR TRAFFIC RECORD

Once again the Massachusetts Safety Council rated Quincy as the poorest traffic city in the 50,000-100,000 population range but Capt. William Ferrazzi, traffic chief, called the rating unfair.

"As long as the figures are based on population and not traffic volume this city will remain where it is," he said.

"In this city there is a terrific amount of traffic going to and from the Fore River and Hingham shipyards. No recognizance is made of that by the council."

NEW CITY HALL

The Planning Board, under chairman Walter Schmitz, held hearings on three sites that have been proposed for a new City Hall. They were:

The corner of Coddington and Washington Sts., the old Hardwick estate at Washington, Foster and Chestnut Sts., and the site of the Old South Shore Buick Co. at Adams and Hancock Sts.

RAISES TABLED

An order that would raise the pay of police and fire privates by $200 a year, costing the city an estimated $25,252, was tabled by the City Council.

"It will be a perpetual headache to the Council if it is passed as every other employee in the city will be after a raise," said Councillor Frank N. Orcutt.

Our Policy On Engagement Photographs And Wedding Announcements

The Quincy Sun will continue to publish photographs with engagement announcements as it always has.

The Sun will also continue to use in wedding announcements the names of all members of the wedding party including maid or matron of honor, best man, parents, bridesmaids, ushers, flower girls and ringbearers, etc.

We invite engaged couples to submit their photos with their announcements and when submitting their wedding photo to include a complete listing of the wedding party.

Black and white photos are preferred. The Sun can convert most color photos to black and white for publication but the photo loses some clarity in the process.

We suggest that when you have your engagement photo taken, you request the studio to send a copy to The Sun with the reminder that The Sun is continuing its policy of publishing engagement photos.

The Sun also publishes articles and photos of wedding anniversaries beginning with the 25th anniversary.

And, as in the past, there is no charge.

Chiropractic Update

AVOID BACK PROBLEMS WHILE CATCHING SPRING FEVER

It appears that the worst of the long, cold winter is behind us as the sleds, shovels and ice skates have been replaced by bicycles, rakes and baseball bats. The longer, warmer days not only signal a time of renewal for the plants and animals of our environment, but springtime also beckons each of us to get off the couch, put down the TV clicker, and get outside and do something. Whether it be exercise, recreation or working around the house, there are many examples of springtime activities which can be harmful to your spine if you are not careful. Specific activities which can be troublesome include swinging a golf club or baseball bat, turning over the garden, raking and cleaning up the yard, and lifting fallen tree limbs, bags of manure, limestone or peat moss.

It would be a good idea for each of us, especially those folks who have been relatively inactive during the winter months, to take a few moments to stretch and loosen up our backs before engaging in stressful physical activity.

After warming up, use common sense and start your activity slowly; maintain good posture with your back straight and knees bent whenever possible; and avoid repetitive bending, twisting and lifting. Remember that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, as you enjoy the spring of 1992.

If you have any questions or would like to make an appointment, please call Dr. Mark Jaehnig, a lifelong Quincy resident at Quincy Chiropractic Office, 440 Hancock Street, North Quincy at 773-4400.

Tracy O'Sullivan Member Of U.S. Youth Ensemble

Tracy L. O'Sullivan, 25 Bass St., Quincy, has been accepted for membership in the United States Youth Ensembles, a selective musical organization which will make a three-week concert tour of Europe in June.

The invitation to perform with the U.S. Youth Ensembles was received from Grace V. Reidy, musical director of the ensembles, who is the choral director and department chairman of the Music Education Department at Wachusett Regional High School in Holden.

O'Sullivan, an honor roll student at North Quincy High School, was chosen in recognition of her outstanding musical activity.

TRACY O'SULLIVAN

The ensembles were founded to emphasize the positive aspects of America and the achievements and dedication of outstanding young musicians. The program is designed to enrich and expand the musical and cultural experience of the students and to demonstrate to the world the fine quality of America's youth.

The ensembles will perform seven concerts as well as impromptu performances. They have been featured at Notre Dame Cathedral and Luxembourg Gardens, both in Paris; Santa Maria del Giglio Church in Venice; the Musical Theatre in La Chaux-de-Fonds, Switzerland; the Piazza Fiforma in Lugano, Switzerland; and the Congress Center in Innsbruck, Austria.

O'Sullivan, a junior at NQHS, is the daughter of Carol O'Sullivan.

SPRING HOME IMPROVEMENT

Windows Offer Unlimited Design Possibilities

New styles and shapes, like this dramatic combination from CertainTeed, are popular with design-conscious homeowners.

The most popular remodeling option, replacing windows, is also the most versatile. Replacement windows allow you to change styles and sizes, create new openings, or replace old shapes with dramatic new combinations. Many homeowners have also discovered increased energy savings and better resale value as other major benefits of replacement windows.

Selecting new windows requires the same care you put into choosing furniture, carpeting and wall colors for your home. Vinyl is rapidly becoming the window material of choice because it won't warp or stick, never needs painting, and provides excellent thermal performance. But whatever material you choose, replacement windows give you the opportunity to make dramatic changes in the look of your home, both inside and out.

Imagine The Possibilities

Don't be limited by the windows that came with the house. Let your imagination take over. Create bright, airy spaces for family recreation and entertaining, or cozy, romantic spots for quiet moments. Consider these decorating options:

- Windows let you control the most important decorating element in your home: light. Brighten the kitchen, bath, hall or stairwell with new, or larger, window openings.
- Windows can make rooms bigger without changing their dimensions. Transform a basement family room with a 6-foot glider, or warm up a living room with a new bay or bow window.
- Windows can give home exteriors a surprising facelift. Add design drama with a special window shape above the entrance or modernize an older home's look with added glass.

CertainTeed Corporation, the country's leading manufacturer of vinyl replacement windows, offers a 12-page, full-color brochure which will help you picture the possibilities for new windows in your home. To order Decorating With Light, send a $2 check or money order payable to CertainTeed Corp., Window Division, P.O. Box 860, Valley Forge, PA 19482.

Restrict Water, Not Style, With Water Conservation

Beneath the contemporary one-piece styling, the Fontaine's pressure-assisted system provides clean, efficient flushing action with a touch of the button on top of the tank.

American Standard's ceramic disc valving in the Sottini, Amarilis, Ceramix, Dualux and Reliant collections, is the most technically advanced valving to prevent wasted water through dripping faucets. Shown is the Heritage style from the Amarilis collection.

ATTENTION QUINCY RESIDENTS

HOUSING REHABILITATION GRANTS AND LOANS

The City of Quincy through its Office of Housing Rehabilitation is presently offering grants and various kinds of below-market interest loans for eliminating substandard housing conditions and lead paint problems.

HOUSING REHABILITATION GRANT

Housing rehabilitation and deleading grants of up to $10,000 for single family units and $15,000 per building for multi-family units for homeowners meeting the Federal low income guidelines.

HOUSING REHABILITATION LOANS

Zero (0%) to five (5%) per cent housing rehabilitation loans for homeowners meeting the Federal moderate income guidelines.

DELEADING LOANS

Five (5%) to seven (7%) per cent loans for deleading and related repairs of housing units; there are no income limits and the property does not have to be owner-occupied.

Loans are subject to the City's underwriting standards. Other program requirements and conditions may apply.

It is the policy of the City of Quincy to ensure that each individual shall have equal opportunity in the access to all housing within its boundaries, and to prohibit discrimination in housing on the grounds of race, color, national origin, ancestry, age, religion, marital status, sex, income, or handicap.

Yard Waste Collection Through Friday

Homeowners are reminded that a special curbside collection for yard waste is underway this week through Friday.

Leaves, grass clippings and tree and shrub trimmings should be placed separately from regular trash.

The program will continue the weeks of June 1-5; June 22-26; and July 13-17.

Also, Quincy residents may drop off yard waste at the Public Works Department, 55 Sea St., each Saturday through Oct. 3 from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Proof of residency is required.

Parent Advisory Meeting May 26

The Quincy Chapter 1 Parent Advisory Committee will meet Tuesday, May 26 at 7:30 p.m. at the Lincoln-Hancock School, Water St.

Parents are urged to attend.

Just A Few Of The Latest Things Now Being Delivered At Quincy Hospital.

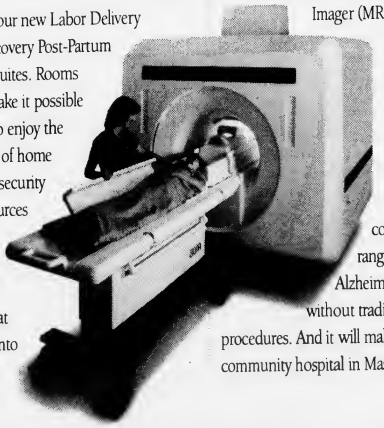
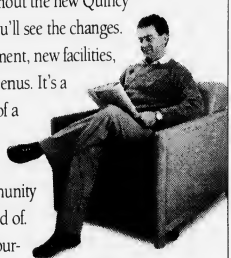
Take, for instance, the furniture and equipment that's been delivered to our new Labor Delivery Recovery Post-Partum (LDRP) suites. Rooms which make it possible for you to enjoy the comforts of home with the security and resources of a hospital. Partner's chairs that convert into sleepers, special birthing beds, even homestyle oak cabinets covering your basic medical supplies, have all been delivered to make your delivery as stress-free and as "unhospital-like" as possible. And that's just on the second floor.



Coming to the first floor this summer, you'll find the newest in diagnostic technology, a Magnetic Resonance Imager (MRI). This equipment, far more advanced than an x-ray or CAT scan, gives doctors an in-depth look at conditions ranging from Alzheimer's to arthritis without traditional invasive procedures. And it will make us the first community hospital in Massachusetts approved for a permanent, full-time MRI on campus.



Throughout the new Quincy Hospital, you'll see the changes. New equipment, new facilities, even new menus. It's a new vision of a community hospital the entire community can be proud of. To see for yourself, or to tour our LDRP suites, just call 773-6100, ext. 4016.

So next time you need to go to a hospital, consider Quincy Hospital. You'll see what's really being delivered here is great healthcare.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

On Memorial Day, Americans will place flowers and small flags on final resting places of those who died to keep this nation free. Everywhere, in solemn ceremonies, other Americans will show their gratitude and honor for those who stood up to be counted when their country needed them.

On this day we repay them in a special way. It is for us at this time each year to instill in every generation, now and yet to come .. a deep appreciation and full understanding of the meaning of why they died. Americans who died at Shiloh and Gettysburg did not die in vain. They bought, with their lives, a united nation and secured equality under the law for everyone. Americans who died "over there" were the price our nation paid to avoid oppression and ruin. Americans who died in faraway land and places like Iwo Jima and the Ardennes ... Inchon and Vietnam ... did not give their lives for nothing. They died to make the world a safer place ... to let people breathe free.

Those of us who are old enough to have experienced war must recognize our continuing responsibilities to our country, not the least of which is that the sacrifices we remember this Memorial Day must be made meaningful to every new generation of Americans. Only by carrying out these continuing responsibilities, can we insure that the sacrifices made by those whom we honor on this special day shall not have been in vain.

Lutheran Church Of Good Shepherd 50th Anniversary Celebration Begins May 31

The Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, Harvard and West Squantum Sts., North Quincy, will begin the celebration of its 50th anniversary with a visit by Bishop Robert Isaksen Sunday, May 31.

Bishop Isaksen, 54, was born and raised in Brooklyn, N.Y. He graduated from Concordia College in Moorhead, Minn., in 1957 and Luther-Northwestern Seminary in St. Paul, Minn., in 1961. Ten years later, he received a master of theology degree from New York Theological Seminary. He has traveled for the Lutheran immigration and refugee services.

The Synodical Bishop presides over the life of the synod, ordains and serves as chief pastor to more than 340 ordained clergy and associates in ministry, and 193 congregations. He oversees the placement of pastors in congregations, preaches, teaches and celebrates the sacraments in the life of the church, and represents Lutherans ecumenically in public and among other Christians.

Bishop Isaksen will lead an open forum at 9 a.m. before joining the worship at 10:30 a.m.

'What Is An American' Sermon At First Parish

Dr. Sheldon W. Bennett, minister, will give the sermon "What It Means to be an American" during the 10:30 a.m. Sunday worship service at United First Parish Church, Unitarian Universalist, in Quincy Center.

The congregation will sing and Music Director Norman Corey will play organ selections.

Before the service, members of the congregation will participate with members of Quincy American Legion Post 95 in Grand Army of the Republic Memorial Exercises at 10 a.m. in the Hancock Cemetery. Members of the Post will attend services at 10:30 a.m. as guests.

Visitors are welcome and are invited to the social hour in the Parish Hall following the service.

The Women's Group and the Men's Group will each meet at noon on Sunday following the social hour.

Historic First Parish, "Church of the Presidents," is located at 1306 Hancock St., Quincy Center. Church School and child care are provided, Brenda Chin director.

Call 773-1290 for information.

'Service Of Remembrance' At Point Congregational

A "Service of Remembrance" will be held at the Quincy Point Congregational Church Sunday at 10 a.m.

The service--borrowing from the German Ceremony of Tottenfest--will include the reading of names of those who have died during the past year, the lighting of memorial candles upon the altar and individual prayers in their memory. The reading of each name will include the ringing of the sanctuary chimes.

The Rev. Fred Atwood-Lyon, pastor, will deliver the morning sermon titled "A Vision of the Heavenly City." Liturgist will be the Rev. Carol Atwood-Lyon, pastor.

Sunday's service will also include the presentation of the 1992 Churchmanship Award to this year's recipients, Christina Mendez and Lee Robbins. A reception for them will be held in the social hall following the service.

Music will be by Dr. Herman Weiss, church organist and choir director. The Chancel Choir and soloist James Hill will sing.

Church School classes are at 10 a.m. Sunday.

Quincy Point Congregational Church is located at Washington St. and Southern Artery. For more information, call 773-6424.

A Few Words on FUNERAL SERVICE
Why Prepare A Will?
If you own anything, you need a will!
You save your loved ones added grief and often your estate can suffer the results of your property not being passed on as you'd have wished.
Everyone should have a will!
First off, please see a lawyer. Most estate planning is not that great and you can ask the lawyer for a rough cost estimate. But do it soon.
You'll find this act will bring you to pre-planning your funeral too!

Traditions Grow With Each Generation.
Back in 1931, Joe Sweeney joined his Uncle Dennis to help renovate the newly acquired funeral home on Elm Street. Originally a cabinetmaker by trade, Joe soon became the second-generation link in a family-owned tradition. One of instinctive and genuine concern for the city's bereaved families.
After the home's renovations were complete, Joe began assisting with services and went on to become a funeral director in 1941. When Dennis Sweeney died in 1948, it was to Joe that he entrusted the continuation of the Sweeney Tradition.
Well-liked in Quincy, M. Joseph Sweeney not only respected the customs of the large Catholic population, but also those of newcomers in the Protestant and Moslem communities. In 1962, he acquired the Elcock Estate, circa 1863, in West Quincy to better serve the residents in that growing area of the city.
Since 1917, Sweeney Funeral Homes have been responding to the needs of South Shore residents — whatever they were. As early as 1940, we began offering pre-planning as a way for wise Quincy residents to plan their future.
Today, with funeral costs one of the top five major expenses for most families, pre-arrangements make better sense than ever before. Call Dennis Sweeney, our third-generation funeral director, at (617) 773-2728 for a free consultation. We've been helping South Shore residents with difficult decisions for over 70 years.

Baseball

Loud Two-Hitter Leads Quincy

Quincy has split its last two games on the baseball diamond. Last week Steve Loud pitched a brilliant, 2-0, shutout over Silver Lake but the Presidents came up short Monday, losing, 8-5, to Weymouth.

Loud helped his own cause by getting two of Quincy's six hits off of hard-luck loser Paul Reggio.

Quincy (8-10) missed a chance to get back to the .500 mark against Weymouth at Adams. Kane had a big game with three hits and Steve Miller drove in two runs for the Presidents.

Quincy hosted Taunton Wednesday at Adams and closes out the season at Bridgewater-Raynham today (Thursday) at 3:30 p.m.

"ON YOUR MARK..." -- Recreation Director Barry Welch gives last minute instructions to senior citizens prior to the start of the one-mile walk race during the Quincy Senior Olympics.

Strong Pitching Boosts North Quincy

Good pitching has carried the North Quincy baseball team to two straight wins including a sparkling, one-hit shutout by Sean Donovan Monday against Bridgewater-Raynham.

Donovan struck out seven and walked just two in blanking B-R, 4-0, in an outstanding performance.

The Red Raiders also beat Silver Lake, 5-3, behind the complete-game effort of Mike Patch.

Catcher Mark Kelleher stroked a two-run double to key a four-run first inning against Bridgewater and North Quincy never looked back.

Kelleher also had two RBI against Silver Lake as did Dave Reinhart. Patch struck out five Laker batters and did not allow an earned run.

Last week the Raiders dropped a 9-3 decision to Old Colony League foe Taunton. Kelleher, Adam Calvert and Serge Belcastro had two hits apiece for North Quincy.

The Red Raiders (5-13) were at Weymouth Wednesday and wrap up the season today (Thursday) at 3:30 p.m. at Adams Field against Barnstable.

Babe Ruth

Granite City, Poland Off To Good Starts

The Babe Ruth League season is underway and Granite City Electric and Poland Springs are off to good starts.

Granite City crushed VFW, 23-4, behind the all-around performance of Jeff Burrell. He pitched four innings of relief and struck out 10 of the 15 batters which he faced. At the plate, Burrell stroked three doubles and a single.

Other Granite City players who had good offensive games were Dan Stone, Bill Dunn, Ryan Ackerman, Matt Beston, Jason Healy and Bob Verney, who blasted a towering home run. Mike Travers and John Breska, both 13-year-olds, had three hits each. Andy Joyce and Ryan Bell played well defensively.

Mike Koski, Dan Donahue and Scott Pyer played well for VFW.

Poland Springs squeaked past Barry's Deli, 3-2, behind the brilliant, three-hit pitching of Mike Kenney who struck out 11.

J.J. Farrell, Mike Gibbons and Joe Renzi each had hits and fine baserunning by Brian Driscoll and Paul Marnikovic led to two runs. Catcher Martin Shields anchored the defense and threw out a base runner trying to steal.

Poland Springs improved to 3-0 with wins over Hough's Neck Legion and Fire Department. Marnikovic struck out 15 in the, 13-8, win over Hough's Neck.

Poland Springs got eight runs in the second inning to break the game open. Gibbons had two double and two RBI. Shields, Driscoll and Adam DeBoer also had two hits and Farrell, Kenney, Marnikovic, Chris Malone and John-Paul DeAngelis also had hits. Ryan Herlihy played well defensively.

Kenney pitched another three-hitter, striking out six, for his second win, 4-1, over Fire Department. Marnikovic paced the attack with two hits and two RBI. Driscoll had a double and Shields added a hit.

Danny Hughes played well at second base and Chris Erler, John Green and Billy Nelson also contributed.

Barry's Deli rebounded for its first win after two close losses by defeating Granite City, 5-3.

Sean Kennerson was the winning pitcher. He struck out six, walked 10 and allowed just four hits. He also singled home a run. Jimmy Goldrick had two hits and Ron McGann, Ken Ledwak and Geoff Meade had key hits. Meade also made two big defensive plays.

Billy Manning, Rob Rose, Steve Finn, Greg Santoro, Tom Bowes, Paul Greely, Greg Conway, Mike Hannon, Sean Tirrell and Rob Kennerson also played well in the field.

Burrell pitched a fine game for Granite City allowing just six hits and striking out six.

Dan Sampson had two hits for GCE and Burrell and Verney had one each. Stone made several fine defensive plays for Granite.

Marisa, Joe Zona Complete Standout Seasons

Marisa and Joe Zona of Quincy recently completed outstanding college hockey seasons.

Marisa was the leading scorer for St. Lawrence University, which won its third straight ECAC Division III women's hockey title.

Her brother Joe had an excellent year for the Lawrenceville, N.Y., school.

He was named to the all-state team and his coach Allen Fitzpatrick said the junior forward was "the most electrifying player on the ice."

Joe scored 35 goals and 34 assists for 69 points, all school records, and he was named the team's MVP.

Both players came up through the Quincy Youth Hockey program.

'Earthtunes' Concert May 22 At Sterling

Sterling Middle School students are learning about the environment through music this week. The "Earthtunes" program with guitarist Barbara Herson features a special performance Friday, May 22 at 10 a.m.

Earlier in the week Herson conducted workshops on Creating Puppets, Musical Instruments and Environmental Lyrics.

The program is co-sponsored by the Quincy Youth Council. Michael D'Amico, director, said the purpose of the program is "to broaden the horizons of Quincy's youth - to teach and educate them about the environment hands on."

The Council hopes to run the program at other Quincy schools.

Herson, who is active in many environmental projects and organizations, provides children with an understanding of their environment and teaches them how they can help improve it.

She has appeared at schools throughout New England and has been featured on WBZ-TV's "Evening Magazine."

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
SUPERIOR COURT
Norfolk, ss.
No. 92-1007

To Arthur J. Melia and Constance M. Melia and to all persons entitled to the benefit of the Soldiers and Sailors Civil Relief Act of 1940 as amended

GREETING:

Hingham Institution for Savings claiming to be the holder of a mortgage covering real property situated in 880-886 Sea Street, Quincy, County of Norfolk, Massachusetts given by Arthur J. Melia and Constance M. Melia to Hingham Institution for Savings dated December 19, 1986 and recorded with Norfolk County Registry District of the Land Court as Doc. No. 509845 on Certificate of Title No. 125305 has filed with said court a bill in equity for authority to foreclose said mortgage in the manner following: by entry to foreclose and by exercise of power of sale set forth in said mortgage.

If you are entitled to the benefits of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act of 1940 as amended, and you object to such foreclosure, you or your attorney should file a written appearance and answer in said court at Dedham on or before June 19, 1992 or you may be forever barred from claiming that such foreclosure is invalid under said act.

Witness, Robert L. Steadman, Esquire, Chief Justice of our Superior Court, the 23rd day of April in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and ninety two.

Oh, Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart to succor me in this necessity. There are none that can withstand your power. Oh, show me herein you are my mother. Oh Mary conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to thee (3x) Holy Mother, I place this cause in your hands (3x) Holy Spirit, you who solve all problems, light roads so that I can attain my goal. You who gave me divine gift to forgive and forget all evil against me and that in all instances in my life you are with me. I want in this short prayer to thank you for all things as you confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you in eternal glory. Thank you for your mercy toward me and mine. The person must say this prayer 3 consecutive days. After 3 days the request will be granted. This prayer must be published after the favor is granted. P.E.M. 5/21

Cemetery Board Wants Structure To Stay

Mayor To Go Ahead With Fountain Move

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Despite an appeal from the Quincy Public Burial Places Board of Managers, Mayor James Sheets said he will go ahead with plans to relocate a 101-year-old granite fountain from Mount Wollaston Cemetery to City Hall Plaza.

Two weeks ago, Sheets announced his plan to replace the 60-ton Constitution Monument with the fountain as part of a public garden project slated to begin this summer. Sheets said the fountain would serve as the centerpiece for the new public garden.

The garden, which would also include new shrubs, flowers and brick walkways, would take on a "simplistic and historic" look, the mayor said. The fountain will fit in that historical theme "perfectly," he said.

After learning about the mayor's plan through news reports, Richard Sweeney, chairman of the cemetery Board of Managers, hand-delivered a letter to Mayor James Sheets May 15 expressing the board's opposition to the proposal.

Sweeney said the board was upset by the proposal for two reasons. First, the board believes the fountain belongs at the entrance to Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

"We feel it belongs in the cemetery as a tribute to the people who have lived and died in Quincy. We are still opposed to it," Sweeney said Tuesday. "We're not happy with this at all."

The seven-member board is responsible for the care, operation and maintenance of the city's seven cemeteries, including Mount Wollaston.

After reading about the mayor's proposal in a local newspaper May 13, Sweeney said he contacted the other six board members to inform them. Every board member was upset by the

Final Decision Expected June 3

Sheets Evaluating Plan To Eliminate School Overcrowding

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Mayor James Sheets said Tuesday that a $1.3 million plan to eliminate overcrowding at two elementary schools "has some very positive things" but he will hold off making a final decision until the June 3rd school committee meeting.

"I'm just now reading the recommendation and I hope to have a decision by the next meeting. There's some very positive things about it," he said Tuesday afternoon.

At last week's school committee meeting, Acting School Supt. Eugene Creedon unveiled a $1.3 million plan to build a South Quincy preschool center and an addition to the Charles A. Bernazzani School to eliminate overcrowding.

Under Creedon's plan, a center for preschool, kindergarten and first grade students would be constructed on the site of the soon-to-be demolished Lincoln School.

The center would serve children who now attend the nearby Lilncoln-Hancock Community School--one of the city's most overcrowded schools. That building would then be used for students in grades 2-5.

In addition, four classrooms and a multi-purpose gymnasium room would be built at the crowded Bernazzani School.

If approved, the building and addition would open by September, 1993.

Sheets met with Creedon last Friday. "I indicated to him that I had some questions regarding personnel and maintenance."

The mayor said he wants the school committee to adopt a specific policy which would be used to solve overcrowding problems. He said he does not support shifting school boundaries as a solution.

"My concern is that we develop a policy that is applicable to elementary schools where overcrowding occurs. I don't believe we should continue to move school boundaries.

"I think we have to find methods of dealing with overcrowding on school sites," the mayor added.

Sheets, who is the chairman of the school committee, did not attend the last committee meeting because he was out of the city on business.

The school committee praised Creedon's proposal but did not vote on it. Committee member Peg King said she wants to explore other solutions to Bernazzani's overcrowding.

Parents and other school committee members urged expedient adoption of Creedon's plan. A proposal to float a $1.3 million bond would need approval from Mayor James Sheets and the City Council.

Creedon estimates that a new building on the Lincoln School site would cost $800,000 for a one-story, partially prefabricated structure. Old furniture would be moved to the school. Teachers who currently teach preschool, kindergarten and first grade would transfer so no new teaching jobs would be created, Creedon said.

The cost of building, furnishing and staffing a new elementary school would be about $8 million, he said.

The addition at the Bernazzani School would cost about $500,000.

The total project would be eligible for state reimbursement of up to $819,000, Creedon said.

Neighbors Complain About Parked Cars

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The Quincy License Board held a hearing Tuesday regarding complaints from neighbors of South Shore Auto Sales, 17 West Howard St.

Residents have claimed that cars belonging to the business have been parked on sidewalks and have blocked streets on Bower Rd. and West Howard St.

The owner of the business, Joseph DeBartolo, said he had been in the hospital for the past two months and that his daughter had been looking after the business for him.

"It won't happen again," he said.

Building Inspector Matthew Mulvey said the board was satisfied with what DeBartolo told them and would take him at his word.

First Chance Head Start Applications

Quincy Community Action Programs, Inc./First Chance Head Start, a federally funded pre-school program, is accepting applications from residents of Quincy, Braintree, Weymouth and Hull for next year's program.

The program is free of charge to 3 to 4 year old children who meet the federal income guidelines. Children with special needs are accepted. Head Start does not discriminate against race, color, creed, sex or national/social origin.

For an application or more information call 848-8142.

Blood Drives

The American Red Cross of Massachusetts Bay will hold two blood drives in Quincy during the month of June.

The first will be held Thursday, June 18 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Shop & Shop, 1385 Hancock St.

The second will be held Monday, June 22 from 1 to 7 p.m. at Quincy Point Congregational Church, 444 Washington St.

Both are open to the public.

George Miller Candidate For State Representative

Atty. George Miller announces his candidacy for state representative in the Third Norfolk District, which includes sections of Weymouth and Quincy.

Miller, a Democrat and lifelong Quincy resident, is an attorney in private practice with a law office in Weymouth.

Conversing with residents of Quincy and Weymouth, Miller said voters are outraged over government tax increases and new fees. In addition, these people fear that they will not be able to make ends meet if these assessments continue to sky-rocket, he said.

"The politicians must understand that the people of this district are sick and tired of having their pockets picked to fund wasteful government spending. Additionally, residents of the Third Norfolk District have told me that they were disappointed that the last election was determined by geography rather than the quality of the candidates.

"I can assure residents of both Quincy and Weymouth that I will represent them completely and effectively without geographical bias," Miller said.

Miller has family ties to both Quincy and Weymouth. He is the son of the late Stanley Miller whose family has resided in Weymouth for nearly 100 years, and the late Beatrice Bythrow Miller whose family has resided in Quincy for more than 100 years.

GEORGE MILLER

"During my conversations with people of the district, they've expressed their anger at the lack of quality candidates and the constant flow of ineffective career politicians, lining up to seek office. Politics never meant to be a career.

"I believe that the concerned citizen is supposed to represent other citizens, free of the political ties which are inevitably developed during a lifelong career in politics. These ties entangle the representative, and the politician winds up representing those who he has become indebted to rather than the people he has been elected to represent, " he said.

Miller said politicians have "failed to protect the people of Weymouth and Quincy from the out of control MWRA and Clean Harbors. These battles should have been won and the fact that they were fought is of no consequence. The taxpayer loses when these battles are lost, not politicians."

If elected, Miller said he would "not be satisfied with just fighting a good fight. I will win or step out of the way so another citizen can give it their best effort."

A graduate of Quincy public schools, Miller received a bachelor of science degree from Suffolk University and his law degree from the New England School of Law. He and his wife, Terese Miller, are the parents of two children, Joshua, age 4, and Justin, age 1.

The Committee to Elect George Miller can be reached at 120 Sumner St., Quincy, MA 02169 or by calling 617-479-7638.

Registrars Investigating 'Missing' Papers

The alleged disappearance of nomination papers apparently filed by Paul Katsirubas, a Republican candidate for Norfolk County Sheriff, in Quincy City Hall is being investigated by the Board of Registrars.

"To the best of our knowledge the alleged missing nomination papers were not filed here. The matter is under investigation by the Board of Registrars," City Clerk John Gillis said Tuesday.

"Furthermore," Gillis said, "no one in this office made any statement to anyone that we had misplaced 10 sheets (approximately 300 names) of nomination papers."

According to Asst. City Clerk Joseph Shea, Katsirubas filed only 25 signature sheets--each one containing about 30 signatures--and not the 35 sheets Katsirubas contends his filed.

Without the disputed signatures, Katsirubas says he has only 943 of the required 1,000 certified signatures to get on the ballot in Norfolk County.

Candidates for sheriff had to submit their papers in April to clerks in the communities in which the petitions were signed. After the clerks certify that the signatures are valid, they are filed with the Secretary of State's Office.

Katsirubas, a Braintree Republican, is among the candidates challenging incumbent Norfolk County Sheriff Clifford Marshall.

Katsirubas claimed Gillis. who is a candidate for Norfolk County commissioner, has a Marshall bumper sticker on his car. Gillis repudiated that accusation.

"There are cars around city Hall with Marshall bumper stickers on them and some with my bumper sticker. But positively, I don't have a Marshall bumper sticker on my car. Someone has the wrong car."

Shooters Club Granted All-Alcoholic License

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Patrons of The Shooters Club Cafe, 1585 Hancock St., will now be able to purchase mixed drinks when they frequent the establishment.

The Quincy License Board voted Tuesday to grant the club a general on premise all alcoholic beverage license after being told that customers have requested that alcoholic beverages other than beer and wine be sold at the club.

"The club has received a number of requests for mixed drinks, particularly in the summer months," said Atty. Carl Johnson, who represents the two owners, James Pansullo and Kevin Ryan.

The board granted the club a beer and wine license last year.

Johnson said that the hours of operation would remain the same and that no physical changes would be made to the club itself.

"The only change would be the nature of the alcohol served," he said.

Police Chief Francis Mullen voiced support of the request.

"We've monitored that area very closely, and I'm very happy with the results," said Mullen.

Building Inspector Matthew Mulvey agreed.

"They run a very good shop out there," he said.

Public School Students Achieving Their Best

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The Quincy Public Schools must be doing something right in education as you look at the diversity and scope of the events which culminate at this time of the school year at all levels--elementary, middle, high schools and college. Students show their prowess in so many different areas--academic subjects, art, drama, community service, athletics, business, vocational, technology, ROTC, nursing, computers, health careers, early childhood educations and criminal justice.

I was privileged to present the Quincy Retired Teachers Scholarships at North Quincy High School in a very impressive ceremony. Because of that, I was able to witness first hand the evidence of the outstanding accomplishment of students in so many areas as scholarships, awards and certificates were presented. The similar listing from Quincy High School and the Center for Technical Education as well as the College Honors bear out the same kinds of accomplishments. The calendar for May of programs at various schools dramatically indicates the wealth of abilities of our students.

Congratulations are much deserved to go to all the students. Thanks so much to the teachers, counselors and administrators for their hard work in helping our students to achieve their best.

SURVIVING CANCER

More and more people are finding that a cancer diagnosis is far from the death sentence it once was. The current survival rate for all cancers five years after diagnosis is 51 percent compared with just 30 percent in the 1940's. For example, 77 percent of women with breast cancer are not alive five years after they are first diagnosed, compared with only 53 percent in the 1940's. Prostate and bladder cancers also now have five-year survival rates in the 70 percent range, as opposed to around 40 percent in the 1940's. One of the most troublesome forms of cancer continues to be lung cancer, however, where the five-year survival rate of four percent in the 1940's has risen to only about 13 percent today.

P.S. Early detection and improved treatments are the keys to today's successes in fighting cancer.

Eating plenty of green and orange vegetables, exercising regularly and quitting smoking today can all help to reduce your risk of getting cancer. If you would like to learn more about this topic, or about how you can modify your lifestyle to help ward off heart disease, call COMPREHENSIVE CARDIAC CARE at 472-2550. Sheets Thinking Third Term

Anyone toying with the idea of running for mayor next year will find a large — both physical and political — obstacle in the way.

The obstacle goes by the name of Jim Sheets.

He's not ready to leave City Hall.

Ask him about his plans for Election Year '93 and he will candidly tell you: "I'll be running for a third term.

SHEETS

Last year, Sheets became only the third mayor in Quincy's history to win a second term unopposed. The other two: Thomas Burgin and Frank McCauley.

But Sheets isn't looking for a free ride to a third term and doesn't expect one.

"Oh, I'm sure I'll be challenged," he says. "But, I like a challenge.

And that's what he likes about being mayor — the everyday challenge of that office.

"I really love it," he says.

He sees Quincy as a city that has positive forward movement despite tough economic times that have some cities at a standstill — if not dead in the water — and others moving backward.

Most observers will credit a good part of that forward movement to Sheets who has a steady hand on the city's helm, thinks positive and refuses to create or get bogged down in controversy.

"We have great potential here in Quincy," he says.

He appears to relish being in a position to help steer the city to that potential.

The revitalization of the Quincy Center business district is one of his major goals. He's hoping to land a major retailer (hopefully a Walmart) to serve as a catalyst for the downtown area.

The Quincy Partnership between the city and the private sector will help make the revitalization a reality, he says.

The restoration of railroad service to the South Shore with a commuter station in Quincy Center would increase property values and make locating in Quincy another good reason for business.

A commuter station, he believes, would also boost tourism. It would allow a partnership with Boston and Plymouth to offer visitors a tourism package to the historic sites in Boston and then by train to Quincy and Plymouth.

There are still acres of land available at the old Quincy Shipyard. Sheets would like to see a joint venture between the city, the MWRA and private enterprise to develop the land for light industry.

Sheets has other things in mind which, he says, will be made known at the proper time.

He estimates that it would take 10 years for the things he visualize to become reality.

Ten years would equal five mayoral terms.

Is he thinking five terms?

"No," he smiles.

A third term though would give him time to get some of the things in place "for whoever follows me," in the mayor's office.

Would he predict who he thinks might be the one to follow him?

"No."

CAHILL

CHENEY

But there are at least two known who would like to follow him: City Councillors Tim Cahill and Mike Cheney.

Which leaves the question: Will either of them be the one to challenge Sheets next year?

THE POLITICAL TEAMS are being put in place.

John Keenan, who ran for the Ward 5 City Council seat in 1987 is overall campaign manager for City Solicitor Steve McGrath in his bid for the vacant state senate seat. Keenan is the brother-in-law of Tom Koch, Mayor James Sheets' executive secretary.

Mike McFarland of Barry's Deli, has been named Quincy coordinator for McGrath.

Meanwhile, Mike Morrissey has tapped William O'Connell of Braintree to head up his campaign for the senate seat. O'Connell, long active in political circles, ran for Democratic State Committeeman.

City Getting Ready For Big 200th Birthday Party

Birthday parties are easy to organize. You know the date, you and the family act as hosts, you invite a few guests, organize some food and entertainment and then enjoy.

Quincy has a 200th birthday July 16 and there are some dedicated, hard working people following the above mentioned formula to throw a party but on a big, big scale.

Let us follow the formula. The hosts are all the residents of Quincy together with the merchants and businesses in the area. Imagine 80,000 residents wearing blue host buttons greeting visitors and guests. Helping to make welcome; to be kind and courteous to our out-of-towners who will be wearing red guest buttons. Is it old-fashioned to appeal to civic pride and good manners? Maybe, but the people of Quincy have pride and are kind and courteous. This is just a great opportunity to display our best attributes.

The buttons carry a reward because host button wearers will be entitled to discounts from over 100 identified "flagship hosts" in Quincy Center, Wollaston and Marina Bay. These discounts will be effective June 16 through July 16. Buttons are $3 each and will soon be on sale. Guest buttons will be distributed free outside of Quincy with programs of events and lists of participating merchants. Discounts will apply July 10-16. Other business sponsors will be recognized in advertising throughout the festive period.

Back to the formula. We have identified the hosts and guests. Now the entertainment and fun. The visitation of the Tall Ships is fortuitous and presents a wonderful background for Quincy's bicentennial. The Columbus 500th year celebration starts with a parade of Tall Ships into Boston. Over 200 at last count. Can you imagine sail ships nearly 400 feet long? The Russian Sedow is 386 feet.

To join in this parade, cruise ships have been organized from Marina Bay and Bay Point. You can see the parade of sail, the fireworks ships at rest July 11-16, a truly wondrous sight which will not be repeated in our lifetimes.

Quincy's bicentennial activities will include the following: Eight performances of Broadway Award-winning "1776," Big Band concert, Sidewalk Festival, cutting of cake ceremony, children's parade, multicultural event. In short, entertainment for all. On the agenda are plans for a circus and a City of Presidents Blues Festival, both of which will attract and entertain many families. Permits and licenses have been applied for and if approved, ticket information will be quickly published.

Mention was made of the enthusiastic, hard-working people who are putting the birthday party together. Only the enthusiastic cooperation of many people has brought the event to this point and before it is complete many more will be involved. Special mention is due to the Office of the Mayor, the Honorable James Sheets; Quincy Tourism Association; Quincy Center Business and Professional Association; Wollaston Business Association; Marina Bay Business Association; South Shore Chamber of Commerce; and Quincy Bicentennial Committee.

For more information about the upcoming events write to: Quincy Tourism Association, 1250 Hancock St., President's Place, Quincy, MA 02169 or call 847-0929.

You are invited to volunteer and participate in the birthday party.

SECONDARY LUNCH

Golden Speaker At QCA Meeting Wednesday

Former State Senator and City Solicitor Bill Golden, leader of the STOP the outfall pipe, discussed his organization's concerns regarding the MWRA project at the Quincy Citizens Association meeting Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center, Hunt St.

If built, the 9.5-mile pipe would carry 450 million gallons of treated sewage daily south to waters off Cape Cod. Golden and STOP (Stop The Outfall Pipe) want the MWRA to delay the project for six months to a year to allow more research on the tunnel's potential effects on marine life.

Quincy's Yesterdays

Lindy's "Honeymoon Visit' Draws Crowd

May 28-June 3
1929
63 Years Ago

An army of reporters descended on Quincy in the wake of reports that honeymooning Col. Charles A. Lindberg and his bride, the former Ann Morrow, were about to land from their 38-foot yacht, Mouette.

Harold T. Dennison, proprietor of Dennison Airport in North Quincy, said that he had received word to have an airplane serviced and ready to take the newlyweds on to the Morrow summer home in Maine.

Everyone was disappointed when the Lindbergs dropped anchor in Provincetown instead.

Other celebrities at the Dennison field for the Memorial Day weekend included three members of the New York Yankees, George Pipgras, Leo Durocher and Robertson, who took the scenic flight over Quincy.

EMBANKMENT IN BAY

The State House of Representatives voted to create a special commission to study the feasibility of improving sanitary conditions in Quincy Bay by constructing an embankment from Squantum to Pemberton Point in Hull.

Rep. Edward J. Sandberg of Quincy told his colleagues of the increasing pollution of the bay since Boston started dumping sewage into the harbor 50 years ago.

"As the metropolitan sewage system has grown conditions have become worse," he said. "The situation now has got to such a stage where relief is imperative."

TENNIS COURTS ACCEPTED

Mayor Thomas J. McGrath accepted the keys to the new tennis courts in Faxon Park from benefactor Henry M. Faxon, who told the assembled junior and senior high school students:

"In the open air and sunshine of the playfield you will have the opportunity of developing a strong body and alert mind—two factors so essential to happiness and success in life."

MEMORIAL DAY RITES

Lt. Gov.. William S. Youngerman, who was with Teddy Roosevelt at San Juan Hill, was the orator of the day at Memorial Day ceremonies in 90-degree heat in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

The six surviving members of the Paul J. Revere Post GAR, led by adjutant James H. Webb, rode in the parade in automobiles.

QUINCY-ISMS

Mayor McGrath was in critical condition in City Hospital following gall bladder surgery ... Quincy Republicans, led by former mayors Russell A. Sears and Perley E. Rice Eventide Home Open House May 31

Residents of the William B. Rice Eventide Home, 215 Adams St., Quincy, will host an Open House Sunday, May 31 from 2 to 4 p.m.

All residents of Quincy, Braintree, Milton and Weymouth and surrounding towns are invited.

The Eventide Home is a non-profit retirement residence for elderly members of the community and has served the area since 1926.

Anyone who would like more information about Eventide, but cannot attend the open house, can call 472-8300.

American Cancer Society 'Jail And Bail' June 9-11

The American Cancer Society will hold its fourth annual "Jail and Bail" fundraiser Tuesday, June 9 through Thursday, June 11 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Presidents Place, 1250 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

All proceeds from the fundraiser go to ACS programs of research, education and service.

There are two types of arrests, prearranged and surprise arrests.

For prearranged arrests, participants agree to be picked up or turn themselves in to the jail site. While behind bars, arrestees call friends, relatives and co-workers to raise their bail for the fight against cancer. Participants are in "jail" for no longer than an hour.

For a surprise arrest, someone can request the arrest of a particular person for a tax deductible donation of $25. A volunteer dressed as a Keystone cop visits the arrestee, serves a warrant and takes the arrestee off to the jail site.

Bail is set, and the arrestee calls friends, relatives, and co-workers to raise the bail. After approximately an hour, the arrestee is released and returned to home/business.

"Jail Birds" are given a telephone at the mock jail site to raise their "bail."

Volunteers are needed to agree to be arrested. Volunteers are also needed to act as Keystone cops, serve as civilian driver and help with computerized billing.

Call the American Cancer Society's South Shore Unit at 617-341-4210 for arrange an arrest or to volunteer time.

The unit serves Braintree, Cohasset, Hingham, Hull, Milton, Norwell, Quincy, Scituate and Weymouth.

Our Policy On Engagement Photographs And Wedding Announcements

The Quincy Sun will continue to publish photographs with engagement announcements as it always has.

The Sun will also continue to use in wedding announcements the names of all members of the wedding party including maid or matron of honor, best man, parents, bridesmaids, ushers, flower girls and ringbearers, etc.

We invite engaged couples to submit their photos with their announcements and when submitting their wedding photo to include a complete listing of the wedding party.

Black and white photos are preferred. The Sun can convert most color photos to black and white for publication but the photo loses some clarity in the process.

We suggest that when you have your engagement photo taken, you request the studio to send a copy to The Sun with the reminder that The Sun is continuing its policy of publishing engagement photos.

The Sun also publishes articles and photos of wedding anniversaries beginning with the 25th anniversary.

And, as in the past, there is no charge.

Prof. Carol Hills Honored By Japan

PROF. CAROL HILLS

Carol L. Hills of Wollaston, an associate professor of public relations at Boston University's College of Communication, received an Imperial Decoration from the Japanese Government Tuesday.

Professor Hills, one of 16 Americans winning an award, was honored for the meritorious service she has provided through the years to promote friendly relations and mutual understanding between the United States and Japan.

She received the Imperial Decoration, Order of the Sacred Treasure, Gold Rays with Rosette, from the Consul General of Japan in Boston. Imperial Decorations have been bestowed by the Emperor of Japan since 1875 as official commendation for service to Japan.

Professor Hills first traveled to Japan in 1972 while serving as special consultant in cross-cultural relations to the Navy's Bureau of Personnel. In 1973 she initiated a four-week summer program at Boston University in American culture and English language training for Japanese university students and teachers. After three years, this program was incorporated into the B.U.'s newly-formed Center for English Language and Orientation Program, which now serves students from all over the world throughout the year.

Over the years, Professor Hills has visited Japan frequently as lecturer and speaker at Kansai University, Japan Corporate Communication Forum and Keizal Koho Centers in Tokyo and Osaka. She has also served as public relations consultant to Nippon Television Network Corporation, Kyoto Community Bank, and Kyoto Keizai Doyokai, a group of corporate presidents concerned with economic and community development.

Professor Hills has also fostered American-Japanese relations through her service on the Board of Directors of the Japan Society of Boston since 1976 and a three-year term as its vice president. The Japan Society, nearly 90 years old, was the first such society in the United States dedicated to improving American understanding of Japan. She has also served on the Board of Directors of the Boston-Kyoto Sister City Foundation and been a member of two of Boston's officiall delegations to Kyoto.

While serving as vice president of the Girl Scouts of the Greater Boston area, Professor Hills worked with the Kyoto Girl Scout Council in the design of a cultural exchange program for the girls of the two cities.

At Boston University, she has hosted visits to the campus for Japanese advertising and public relations executives, served as academic advisor to Japanese undergraduate and graduate students at the College of Communication, as thesis advisor in areas of public relations practice and cross-cultural communication and as advisor to the Japan Club.

A faculty member at the College of Communication since 1949, Professor Hills graduated from Tufts University with a degree in sociology and earned one of the nation's first master's degrees in public relations at Boston University. She has been a consultant to a number of organizations, including the American Cancer Society, General Electric Company, Exxon Company, Civil Service and Rehabilitation Commissions of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and the Departments of Education and Elder Affairs in New Hampshire.

Over 150 Volunteers Honored At Quincy TV Council Dinner

The Quincy Television Council recently hosted its annual Appreciation Dinner, honoring more than 150 community volunteers who provide more than 30 hours of local programming every week to 27,000 subscribers.

BOB GOUGH, right, of Quincy, receives the Quincy Television Council's Volunteer of the Year Award for his involvement in crewing the most local programming productions in 1991. Ed Fiddler, program director for QCTV-3, presents the citation to Gough at the recent Volunteer Appreciation Dinner at the Quincy Neighborhood Club.

A proclamation, from Mayor James Sheets, and read by City Council President Charles Phelan, proclaimed April 28 Continental Cablevision Volunteer Appreciation Day. In his proclamation, Sheets commended all those involved in local programming for their efforts to keep Quincy citizens informed, enlightened and entertained.

Ed Fiddler, QCTV program director, said "Volunteers provide the skill and commitment necessary to produce quality local programming for the residents of Quincy."

Appreciation awards were read by State Reps. Ron Mariano and Michael Morrissey for the Quincy Hospital "Medical Watch" crew and Producer Libbie Payne, for their nomination in the 1991 Massachusetts Television Contest.

John Lyons and Darlene Mendoza received recognition for their first place win in the Hometown USA Video Festival.

Harry Fifield, a 10-year volunteer, received the Senior Camera Operator Award for 1991, while Bob Gough received the Volunteer of the Year Award for Crewing the Most Productions in the 1991 season.

The Young Producers Award, a national award sponsored by the Arts and Entertainment Channel, and Continental Cablevision, was presented to Broad Meadows Middle School Teachers Ron Adams and Donna Willoughby, and students Chad Calabrao, Amy LaPlume, Heather Wakelin and Leah Schofield.

The final honor of the evening went to John Lyons, Herb Fontaine, Bob Gohl, John Noonan, Harry Fifield, Jack Schmock, Maida Moakley and Betty Anastasi for their continued and ongoing support of local programming for 10 years.

STUDENTS AND TEACHERS from Broad Meadows Middle School received the Young Producers Award, from Arts and Entertainment Network, and Continental Cablevision. Students, from left, Amy LaPlume, Leah Schofield, Heather Waklin and Chad Calabrao. Back row, QCTV-3 Program Director Ed Fiddler, teacher Donna Willoughby, Acting School Supt. Eugene Creedon and Teacher Ron Adams.

Harold Opens Quincy Campaign Headquarters

Sen. Paul D. Harold (D-Quincy), a candidate for the Eleventh Congressional District seat being vacated by U.S. Rep. Brian Donnelly, recently opened his Quincy Congressional Campaign Headquarters at 1661 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

The Quincy office is the first of three campaign offices Harold plans to open during the course of the campaign. Additional offices will open in Dorchester and Brockton before the end of June.

More than 100 Harold supporters and well wishers attended the opening, including Quincy City Councillors Peter Kolson, Pat Toland, Council President Chuck Phelan and School Committeeman Steve Durkin. Also on hand were Braintree Selectman Peter Morin, and State Senate candidates Stephen McGrath and Joanne Koval.

"This is the official opening of a headquarters that has been operating for several weeks," Harold said. "We are looking for volunteers with a variety of skills and interests to help out with the campaign."

People wishing to volunteer for the campaign should contact Campaign Manager Jim Boudreau at 471-9200.

Former Ambassador Woodward Speaker

Alumnus Marilyn Johnson, former Ambassador to Togo, will be the graduation speaker Sunday at 2 p.m. at the Woodward School.

This years' graduates include:

Michelle Disher, class president, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Makuski of 175 Rock Island Road.

Kerri Gillen, class vice-president, daughter of Mrs. Patricia Gillen, 5 Bishop Road.

Veronica Mulkern, class treasurer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Mulkern, 408 Belmont St.

Maureen Silverman, National Honor Society president, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Silverman, 168 Elmwood Ave.

Lyndsay Main, Student Government president, daughter of Ms. Bonnie Main, 213 Evans St., Weymouth.

Johnson, a consistent supporter of the Woodward School, also graduated from Radcliffe College in 1944 and completed a long and distinguished career with the United States Information Agency in 1987.

She entered the U.S. Naval Reserve for Women (WAVES) as a midshipman in 1944 and served in Washington as a communications security officer and in Philadelphia as an educational counselor.

MARILYN JOHNSON

After the war she studied at the Institut de Hautes Internationales in Geneva and at the Sorbonne in Paris in 1947-48. In 1952 she received an MA degree from Middlebury College and was awarded an honorary doctorate in 1978.

During the 1950's she taught French at Amherst Regional High School. She taught English at the Lycee de Jeunes Filles in Conakry, Guinea, a former French colony in 1960-61.

She taught English as a foreign language to government officials in Cameroon and Mali from 1962 to 1964 for the USIA. She became a Foreign Service officer in 1964 and served as cultural affairs officer in Mali and Tunisia, then as public affairs officer in Niger until 1971.

Johnson served as deputy assistant director for Information Center Services in Washington from 1971 to 1974. She served as cultural affairs officer in Moscow from 1976 to 1978 until being nominated to be Ambassador to Togo in West Africa.

She served with the Department of State as ambassador until 1981 and returned to Washington to prepare for an assignment with USIA as counselor of embassy for public affairs in Pakistan.

Johnson served as senior inspector in the Office of Inspector General from 1985 until retiring in 1987. In 1988 she was named by the Secretary of State to serve as a member of the Foreign Service Grievance Board and was reappointed in 1990 and 1992.

She currently works as a consultant to the board and also as a field hand at the old family home in Bethlehem, N.H.

General Sullivan Speaker

Over 500 To Graduate From Quincy College Sunday

Quincy College will graduate its largest class ever -- more than 500 students -- at its 33rd Commencement, Sunday at 12:45 p.m. at Veteran's Memorial Stadium.

General Gordon R. Sullivan, a Quincy native, will be the Commencement Speaker. Sullivan was promoted to Army Chief of Staff last year in recognition of his excellent service during Operation Desert Storm. He oversaw the mobilization and supply of the U.S. Army Forces during the war.

Gen. GORDON SULLIVAN

The 54-year-old Sullivan will receive flourishes and a 19-gun salute as well as an Honorary Associate of Arts Degree in Public Service.

Quincy College President O. Clayton Johnson said that this graduation is special for two reasons.

"The size of the graduating class demonstrates the continued growth of the college. In addition, the Commencement Speaker, General Sullivan, honors Quincy and Quincy College by his appearance," Johnson said.

In case of inclement weather the ceremonies will be held at the Center for Technical Education gymnasium which has limited seating.

Graduation Monday For QHS; Tuesday For NQHS At Stadium

Graduation ceremonies will be held at Veteran's Memorial Stadium for Quincy High School, Monday, and North Quincy High School, Tuesday, at 6 p.m.

Raindate for Quincy is Wednesday, June 3. In case of rain, North Quincy will hold its ceremony as scheduled but at the high school auditorium. Changes will be announced on WJDA, 1300 AM.

Jumping Senior Year

QHS Junior Maureen Mellett To Enter Cornell In Fall

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Most high school students learn early they must attend four years before furthering their education at a college or university. Quincy High School junior Maureen Mellett, however, had other ideas.

While her friends go on to complete their senior year at Quincy High, Mellett will begin her college career as a freshman at Cornell University in Ithaca, N.Y. as part of Cornell's Early Enrollment Program.

The honor, she said, is a dream come true.

"It was such a shock when they accepted me," she said. "This is what I've been waiting for my whole life. It's a dream school for me."

Mellett will major in biology as an undergraduate before moving on to graduate school and focusing on her ultimate goal, which is to become a veterinarian.

"They (Cornell) have the best veterinary school in country," said Mellett.

Her idea to make the early jump to college first came from one of her teachers, Charles MacLaughlin. The former head of the science department, MacLaughlin is now director of Quincy High's Heritage Program, which was designed for advanced placement students such as Mellett as well as others that require special attention.

MacLaughlin said Mellett's success is no surprise to him.

"She's a very mature young lady who is ready to go to college," he said. "She's quite a girl."

MAUREEN MELLET

Although he said he works with many academically gifted students, MacLaughlin noted that what sets Mellett apart is her vision of the future.

"She's ahead of it as far as how she views things," said MacLaughlin. "She's trying to fulfill a dream of going to veterinary school."

Mellett was accepted into the Cornell program based on both her current grades and scores she received on her SAT's and Achievements Exams. Although such academic excellence can sometimes be a struggle, Mellett said it all turned out to be worth it.

"That's what makes you feel the best," she said. "That was the biggest thing, that all this hard work actually paid off."

She added that she doesn't feel she'll be missing anything by not attending her senior year at Quincy High.

"It's not going to be that bad as far as my friends are concerned," she said. "I'll be home for all the school vacations, and I will definitely be home in time for the graduation and the prom."

Still, at least one of her teachers is saddened by Quincy High's loss.

"We're sorry to see her go," said MacLaughlin. "But it's in her best interests to do that."

"I feel in my heart I'm ready for college," she said. "And I feel that I've done everything that I can at the school and for the school."

At Quincy High, Mellett has been a member of the National Honor Society, the Student Council, Amnesty International, and the volleyball, basketball and spring track teams. She was also a student representative to the School Committee and has been involved with various volunteer activities pertaining to the outdoors and the veterinary field.

Mellett noted her friends are already planning various weekend visits to Cornell and said she will complete her freshman year at the university in time to participate in commencement ceremonies in June, 1993 with her former classmates at Quincy High.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

SELF-RESPECT ... Two very important words. Much has been written about the importance of having self-respect for one's self.

We especially like the one attributed to Jean Jacques Rousseau: "No one is happy unless he respects himself." Yes, self-respect is a necessary ingredient in leading a happy, successful and satisfactory life. The basis of self-respect is honesty ... above all, honesty with oneself.

When we do work in a halfhearted, listless or slipshod way, we tell ourselves that it's because we don't care about the work, when the truth is, however, that it is ourselves, our own pride, that we don't care about ... Therein lies the danger...

Everyone owes it to oneself, to his or her own self-respect as a person, to do his/her work in such a way that he/she can walk away from its completion with one's head up and pride showing. If one loses one's self-respect, one loses all ...

"Whatever is worth doing at all is worth doing well." -- Lord Chesterfield ...

Baseball

Red Raiders Win Finale

North Quincy finished a frustrating season in positive fashion by rallying for an exciting, 9-8, win over Barnstable.

Pat Shea's fourth hit of the game, a two-out single in the seventh, drove home Jim Sapienza with the winning run. Shea had two RBI and Sapienza also had four hits and a RBI.

Sean Donovan pitched three innings in relief of Dan Duncan to earn the win.

The Red Raider offense was shut down the previous day as Kevin Shaw fired a two-hit shutout leading Weymouth to a 2-0 win. Shaw struck out 14 in a fine pitchers duel with North's Mike Patch. The Red Raider hurler struck out nine.

North Quincy finished the season 6-14 overall and 4-12 in the Old Colony League.

Quincy Blasts Bridgewater

Quincy went out with a bang as junior Duane "Dewey" Holmes cracked two home runs and drove in six runs as the Presidents finished the season with a 10-2 shelling of Bridgewater-Raynham.

Robbie Kane knocked in three runs on a bases-loaded double.

Pitcher Steve Loud pitched a complete game, allowing just three hits and striking out 12.

In its previous game Quincy got beat, 7-3, by Taunton. Pitcher Mike Malvesti allowed just six hits and struck out seven but suffered the loss.

Pitcher Joel Nadeau starred for the Tigers, striking out 13 and helping himself with a three-run homer in the first inning.

The Presidents finish with a 9-11 overall record.

Triple A

Astros On A Roll

The Astros won two games in impressive fashion beating the Twins, 16-3, and the Braves, 25-6, in Triple A baseball action.

Pitcher Manny Vasquez held the Twins scoreless until the last inning and also helped lead the offense. Josh Silverman and Mike Keddy also had good offensive games.

Rick Loughmiller, Kevin Markham and Matt O'Malley also played well.

Joe Barkhouse had two hits for the Twins and Matt O'Connell, Danny Green and Jonathan Lanham played well. John Steinberg pitched for the Twins.

Eric Modrow pitched a good game against the Braves. The Astros were led by the timely hitting of Keddy, Silverman, Vasquez, Brian Correia and Modrow.

Shawn Martinson, Stephen Inferrera and Craig MacDonald also contributed.

Danny Conway, Chris Haidul and Sean Haidul hit and played well for the Braves and Chris Oriola pitched.

The Mets won two games, crushing the Cubs, 22-5, and hanging on against the Athletics, 9-4.

Mike Markham hit three home runs to lead the attack against the Cubs. Brad Croall was the winning pitcher and had a triple, double and single. Mike Mulvey hit a triple, double and two singles, Pat Grogan had a double and two singles and Nick Pepdjonovic had a triple and a double.

Croall pitched the first three innings against the A's, allowing no hits, no runs and striking out nine.

Rich Bonvie had a triple and three RBI, Croall had two doubles and a single, Jason Newhall had a triple and a double and Pepdjonovic also doubled. Bonvie and Pepdjonovic excelled on defense for the Mets.

Junior League

Bregoli Leads Cable; Driscoll Boosts Burgin

Continental Cable and Burgin Platner each had thrilling comeback wins last week in Junior League Baseball action.

Cable got a bases-loaded triple from Chris Bregoli in the bottom of the sixth to catch Beacon Sports, 7-6, and also beat Police, 23-3.

BP won with two outs in the seventh inning as Mark Driscoll doubled home John Barron to top previously unbeaten Kiwanis, 3-2.

Bregoli also pitched a complete game for Cable which overcame a 5-0 deficit in the fifth inning. Mike Powers drove in three runs, Kevin Regan had three hits and Chad Fitzpatrick and Ron Gamel had key contributions for Cable.

Brian Ross allowed just two hits and no runs in four innings of pitching for Beacon. He also had three hits and Billy Walker had two hits and two RBI.

Cable got ten straight hits against Police including two by Regan in the first to give Powers all the runs he needed. Powers had six hits and six RBI, Regan had four hits and four RBI, Kevin Walsh had four hits and two RBI, John Sullivan had three hits including at triple and double, Danny Kinnecom had three hits and two RBI, Mark Miller had three hits and Gamel and Mike Welch had two hits and two RBI each.

Fowler House won its third straight by beating Hyde Park Pub, 7-2.

Pitcher Bill Chase allowed just six hits and Steve Constas homered to key the win.

Constas went 3-for-3 including a three-run homer to spark a 10-4 win over Liberty Lounge. Chase added two hits and Scott Davidson had two. Brian Tobin had a key two-run single with two outs and Bobby Burns played well defensively.

Fowler House had to rally to beat Pip Printing, 9-8.

Larry Taglieri, Davidson and Fran Connell had three hits each. Connell tied the game in the bottom of the seventh with his third hit and Davidson drove in the winning run with a single.

ENC Men's Volleyball Team Third In Nation

The Eastern Nazarene College men's volleyball team was ranked third in the nation among Division II schools in a recent national competition.

The eighth annual Mikasa Men's Volleyball National Club Championships were held in Buffalo, NY.

ENC entered the tournament as the smallest of the 71 competing Division I and II schools. The third place win is a tremendous achievement for this young club, only in its second year of playing intercollegiate volleyball.

The team reached the number two seed position after the first two days of the tournament, defeating New York's Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, American University from the District of Columbia, and Missouri's Webster University.

During the third day of play, ENC lost early to Maryland's Loyola College, but came back with strong wins over Pennsylvania's Alleghany College and New York's Rochester Institute of Technology. They were then defeated in the semi-finals by Pennsylvania's Bucknell University. A tournament record of 11-4 seeded ENC in third place among the 24 Division II schools that competed.

The club is coached by Keith Myers, former coach of the Harvard University men's volleyball team and long-time referee. He has led the ENC men through two highly successful seasons since the club was founded by a group of students in 1990. They ended their first season in the New England Collegiate Volleyball League (NECVL) with a 5-5 record, and improved it this season with a 6-3 record.

During the regular season junior Derek Schmitt and sophomore co-captain Jim Berger were named to the NECVL All-Star Team for their achievements.

Susan Parry Receives U/Mass Boston Student-Athlete Award

Susan Parry, a native of Quincy and a senior at UMass/Boston, was named the recipient of the Athletic Director's Distinguished Student-Athlete Award by the university's athletic department.

The award goes to an individual who has displayed an exemplary academic and athletic career at UMass/Boston. The recipient has completed all of his or her eligibility, was a three or four-year participant in intercollegiate sports and has also been an outstanding overall contributor to the promotion and reputation of UMass/Boston academics and athletics.

A four-year member of the volleyball team, Parry was co-captain for her squad this year. In addition to her achievements on the volleyball court, she was also a three-year member of the women's basketball team. In each sport, she gave her full commitment to the program, the coaches and the players.

Both on and off the court, Parry exhibited her leadership qualities and served as an admirable representative of her sports, athletic department and university.

Parry also displayed her commitment to academics. She juggled a double major in early childhood education and sociology with student teaching--all while competing in volleyball and basketball--to accumulate a 3.24 grade point average. She is aspiring for a career in teaching.

A graduate of Quincy High School, she played four years for both the volleyball and basketball teams at the school. She earned four varsity letters in volleyball while being named the Best Defensive Player as a senior in basketball.

John Dennis To Participate In Quincy Hospital Golf Tourney

WHDH-TV Channel 7 Sports Anchor John Dennis will be among the celebrities participating in the third annual Quincy Hospital Golf and Tennis Tournament June 4 at the Cohasset Golf Club.

The event will benefit the Hospital Charitable Foundation. Physicians, employees and friends of the hospital will play golf or tennis followed by dinner. Funds raised this year support the renovation and refurbishment of the hospital's radiology department.

The tournament is chaired by Quincy Hospital physicians Peter Barrett, M.D., Peter Ambrus, M.D. and George Gales, M.D. Anyone interested in playing or supporting the tournament should contact Diane Gray in the development office at 773-6100 ext. 4016.

Tournament sponsorships are available at different levels: sponsors of $500 or more will receive a sign at one of 18 tees along with one free registration for either golf and dinner or tennis and dinner; associate sponsors of $250 or more receive complimentary dinner and acknowledgement in the tournament program; friends of Quincy Hospital at $75 or more receive acknowledgement in the program.

St. John's Baseball

A.H. Campbell & Sons Paces St. John's League

A.H. Campbell & Sons remained unbeaten (8-0) in St. John's Baseball League play by defeating S. Matarazzo Dentistry, 7-6, and Sunshine Fruit, 6-4.

Dave Centrella pitched well and got the win against Matarazzo while John Moran had a fine game at bat. Ted George played well defensively.

Mike McLaughlin played well and Jayme O'Neal, Mike Malone and Jonathan O'Keroke each homered for Matarazzo.

Brian O'Hanley homered and pitcher Matt Mancuso earned the win for Campbell. Kara Drinkwater and Billy Moran did well at the plate and in the field.

Chris Murphy stood out for Sunshine. Dave Buttomer belted a home run to make the score close and Dan McCaughlin pitched well.

Rizza Gibney Cup Winner At Ponkapoag

The Women's Division of the Ponkapoag Golf Association recently held an Eighteen Hole Tournament for the Gibney Cup.

Stephanie Rizza was the winner with a net of 80. She is the president of the Women's Division.

The Group also held a Nine Hole Tournament. Winners were: Florence Koffman, first, with a net of 41; Edna Tenney and Edna Canter, tied for second, with a net of 46; and Jean Pentz, third, with a net of 47.

William MacDonald NH College Grad

William MacDonald of Quincy was one of more than 900 students who received degrees during New Hampshire College's 60th commencement recently in Manchester.

MacDonald graduated with a bachelor of science degree in business administration.

Mullen Memorial Day Speaker

Remember The 'Debt' Which We Owe Our Deceased War Vets

U.S. citizens have a responsibility to remember our fallen war veterans and to preserve the freedom that they fought for, Quincy Police Chief Francis Mullen said at the city's Memorial Day ceremonies in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

"I speak today to remind you of the debt we owe to those who have lost their lies in the wars in which our nation has engaged, the wars to which our nation called its youth to arms, and which call they answered. You recognize that debt or you would not be here.

"You also recognize the responsibility which that debt places on all of us--to maintain and preserve the freedom for which they gave up their lives. Else their sacrifices would have been in vain, and freedom--which must be present for the cultivation of justice and happiness for all peoples may be ultimately lost," Mullen said in his keynote address.

The city's Memorial Day Parade and ceremonies were sponsored by the Quincy Veterans Council.

Mullen, who served in the Korean Conflict on the U.S.S. Des Moines, told those in attendance that Memorial Day is a day to honor those who died while trying to preserve democracy and freedom.

"Today is not a day we belabor the philosophies or the morals of any of the wars in which the Americans have given their lives. Our country called, they who we honor answered the call, and they died. They died in the cause of freedom and we realize and enjoy the preservation of that precious gift from them and because of them.

"And now, in our lifetime, freedom is coming to millions from whom it was so long denied, and it is the influence of our nation's stand for freedom no only here, but all over the world which has been the major contributing factor of this breakthrough.

"Let not those whose mission in life appears to be find evil even in good, detract from our stand for freedom from this nation's beginning to the present time.

"Let not those who preach that nothing, even freedom, is worth the price paid by those we honor today sway us from our responsibilities. Else we will betray those who only ask us to remember them from time to time, and to maintain that for which they died," Mullen said.

A past commander of the Morrisette American Legion Post, Mullen also reminded those in attendance to never forget the sacrifices given by fallen U.S. servicemen and women.

"Remember that each of those whose lives were taken from them fighting under the flag of the United States, lost their futures--some to marry, some of them to raise families they had left at home, others to become whatever they may wish to be, to work, and to love, and to learn, and to succeed, all as much as they were able and willing to do.

"They lost all this irrevocably--and gave to their countrymen the chance to do any or all of these things in a place where freedom and a system of justice had once more been saved."

As the city's police chief, Mullen said his department "will continue to strive to serve you on the front lines of this city, and attempt to emulate in the performance of our duties the spirit of dedication of those we honor today, those who served on the front lines all over the world from the blood-stained snows of Valley Forge down through our history to the sands of Operation Desert Storm.

"To all of these American men and women, past and present, we, gathered here today say 'thank you. Yes, we remember.'"

As a war veteran and the city's highest ranking law enforcement official, Mullen said he was honored to deliver the keynote address.

"The honor of being your chief speaker today comes to me for two reasons. One, as a veteran of one of the wars in which our country was engaged, and two, as the chief of police, representing all the men and women of the department whose duty is to protect the lives and property of the citizens in the city in which I and my parents were born and raised.

"To speak to you who are gathered here on this Memorial Day, 1992, is a welcome and privileged assignment, personally, on behalf of my family, and, professionally, on behalf of the members of the Quincy Police Department."

Mayor To Go Ahead With Fountain Move

plan, Sweeney said.

Besides the board, Sweeney said he knows other citizens angered by the mayor's plan to move the fountain. He said those people, like the board, believe the fountain should stay in the cemetery.

"(The fountain) is in a great spot near a busy intersection so many people get to see it. A lot of people are opposed to (the mayor's proposal). We believe it's part of the cemetery.

"It just doesn't seem like a good move. It belongs where it is," Sweeney added.

Responding to the letter, Sheets said the fountain, which was a gift of the Quincy Village Improvement Association to the city in 1891, is not cemetery property. Instead, he said it belongs to all Quincy residents and should be situated closer to Quincy's historical heritage.

"That fountain was a gift of the Quincy Village Improvement Association to the city of Quincy. That fountain does not belong to any one department. It belongs to the people of this city," the mayor said Tuesday. "It should be up here with the history of this city."

The mayor said the fountain was formerly located in Quincy Square, probably during the 1930s and 1940s. It was later relocated to the cemetery.

Sweeney also said the board was upset because Sheets did not notify them of his plan for the fountain.

Sheets apologized for not informing the board by writing a letter to the board. The mayor said he did not inform them because he did not know the board was interested in the fountain.

"I sent a letter to them. Had I known the cemetery board of managers considers that fountain, which is outside cemetery walls, theirs, I would have had contacted them and told them what I had intended to do.

"I apologize for that. I assumed that the fountain belonged to the city of Quincy and was under the maintenance of the Department of Public Works. I had no idea the cemetery board of managers was interested in it."

Even if the board had been informed, Sheets said he would have still proposed the move.

"It wouldn't have made any difference. The fountain fits into a historical mode. There's nothing as perfect as that fountain."

INVITATION FOR BID

The Department of Public Works for the City of Quincy, Massachusetts will receive sealed bids for Contract No. 02, Quincy Center Improvement, Phase II until 10:00 AM local time on Thursday, June 25, 1992 at the Office of the Commissioner of Public Works, 55 Sea Street, Quincy, Massachusetts 02169, at which time and place all bids will be publicly opened and read aloud.

The work under this contract consists of selective cold planning approximately 1300 feet of the existing pavement, installation of new pavement, wheelchair ramps, resetting of curbs, sewer, drainage and other utility appurtenances, installation of decorative light poles, reforming of road intersections and curb openings to facilitate drainage and to meet the grades at the existing street and driveway pavement.

All work shall be performed in accordance with the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Department of Public Works, Standard Specifications for Highways and Bridges (1988 edition) and Construction Standards (1977 edition) or the latest revisions thereof, unless specified or directed otherwise.

All work under this Contract shall be completed within 120 calendar days.

A non-refundable deposit of $50.00 in cash or check, payable to the City of Quincy, Massachusetts will be required for each set of Contract Documents.

Bidders requesting Contract Documents by mail shall also include a separate non-refundable check payable to the City of Quincy in the amount of $15.00 per set to cover the costs of shipping and handling.

The Contract Documents may be obtained during the business hours from 8:30 Am to 4:30 PM at the Office of the Commissioner of Public Works, 55 Sea Street, Quincy, MA 02169 on or after June 4,. 1992.

Each bid shall be accompanied by a bid security in the amount of five percent (5%) of the value of the bid in the form described in the Information for Bidders.

The Successful Bidder must furnish a 100 percent (100%) Construction Performance Bond and a 100 percent (100%) Construction Payment Bond with a surety company acceptable to the Owner.

The biddings and award of this Contract shall be in full compliance with Massachusetts General Law, Chapter 30, Section 39M, as last revised.

Bidders attention is called to the requirements as to conditions of employment to be observed and minimum wage rates to be paid under the Contract.

No bidder may withdraw his bid within 60 calendar days after the actual date of opening of this general bid.

This Contract to be awarded as the result of this Advertisement for Bids is to be funded by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), the Mass. Department of Public Works and the City of Quincy.

All prospective bidders must obtain pre-bid qualification certification from the Massachusetts Department of Public Works Contract Regulations Department, 10 Park Plaza, Room 7552, Boston, MA 02116.

Equal Employment Opportunity (EEO), Minority Business Enterprise (MBE) and Women's Business Enterprise (WBE) policies of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and the City of Quincy are applicable to this Contract. The goals for this project are:

1. The Contractor shall maintain on this project a not less than ten percent (10%) ratio of minority employee manhours to total manhours in each job category.

2. A minimum of ten percent (10%) MBE participation and five percent (5%) WBE participation by state-certified MBEs and WBEs. The bidder shall submit completed MBE/WBE forms with the Bid.

Failure to comply with these requirements may be deemed to render a proposal non-responsive. No waiver of any portion of these provisions will be granted.

The City of Quincy has residency requirements for workers which provides for local preference in hiring on City-supported construction projects.

The Owner reserves the right to waive any informality in or to reject any or all Bids if deemed to be in their best interest.

Free Eye Screening For Seniors At Quincy Hospital

Rep. Stephen Tobin announces the Executive Office of Elder Affairs and the Massachusetts Society of Eye Physicans and Surgeons will sponsor a free Eye Health Screening for senior citizens Saturday, May 30 from 9 a.m. to noon at Quincy Hospital.

The two organizations ran a similar screening last November.

Opthalmologists screened over 2,100 participants for glaucoma, cataracts, macular degeneration and other eye diseases common to seniors, as well as vision and blood pressure testing.

"May is Older Americans Month, and this screening will be held in an attempt to provide early warning of potential eye disease to the state's seniors, at no cost to the public," said Tobin.

The May 30 screening will be held for those who did not participate in the screening last November. Those with last names beginning with A-K are asked to attend from 9 to 10 a.m. All others are asked to attend from 10 a.m. to noon.

'Night For The Arts' At Quincy Neighborhood Club

The Charles A. Bernazzani and Francis W. Parker Elementary Schools of Quincy will sponsor and evening social for parents and friends of "The Arts"" Friday, May 29 from 8 p.m. to midnight at the Neighborhood Club of Quincy, 27 Glendale Rd.

The purpose of the event is to augment the funding provided through a grant from the Massachusetts Cultural Council for an Artist in Residence program awarded to the Bernazzani and Parker Schools. Students from both schools will be working with choreographer Nikki Hu and composer Guy Van Duser who will be interpreting an Irish Folktale entitled "The Jackdaws of Kilgarvan" through dance and music.

The evening will feature music by disc jockey Mark Carney, a silent auction, hors d'oeuvres and a cash bar. Tickets are $15 and can be purchased at the door or by calling either the Bernazzani School at 984-8713 or the Parker School at 984-8710.

VOL. 24 No. 37 Thursday, June 4, 1992 30¢

THE DEMOLITION of the Lincoln School, a South Quincy landmark, began earlier this week. Some city and school officials, including Mayor James Sheets and Acting School Supt. Eugene Creedon, want an early childhood education center to be located on the site.

Sheets Backs Early Childhood Center, Modular Classrooms

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

A $1.3 million plan designed to eliminate classroom overcrowding at two Quincy elementary schools by building an early childhood education center in South Quincy and adding modular classrooms to the Charles A. Bernazzani School in West Quincy has the support of Mayor James Sheets.

Sheets was expected to disclose his recommendation at Wednesday's School Committee meeting.

On Tuesday, the mayor told the Sun he would endorse the classroom overcrowding elimination plan proposed by Acting School Supt. Eugene Creedon May 29 provided the cost of the project is partially reimbursed by the state.

"If we are eligible to receive reimbursement from the state, I will act affirmatively on this proposal," Sheets said.

Creedon's plan calls for an early childhood education center to be built on the site of the former Lincoln School on Brooks and Caledonia Aves. in South Quincy. Demolition of the 101-year-old school began this week.

The center would serve children who now attend the nearby Lincoln-Hancock Community School, one of the city's most overcrowded schools. That building would then be used for students in grades 2-5.

The center would house a community meeting room for the South West Quincy Neighborhood Association.

If approved, the building and addition would open by September, 1993.

Sheets said the Creedon plan offers a sound solution to classroom overcrowding at two schools at the lowest cost. "I just think it's a sound way of solving the problem for the fewest dollars."

Sheets also said he supports the plan because it keeps the present school districts intact. "I am committed to solving school overcrowding on site. I am not going to support the moving of boundaries."

Furthermore, the the mayor said he approved the plan because the city

Traffic Concerns Raised Over Stop & Shop Planned 'Super Store'

By STEVE KAVANAGH

The Stop & Shop Company wants to build a new "super store" in Norfolk Downs and close its Newport Avenue supermarket. But traffic congestion could put a roadblock in front of the plan.

If Stop & Shop's plan goes as scheduled the new store could be in operation by next summer. The company is in the process of purchasing the 10-acre Boston Gear Works site.

"We have signed a purchase and sale agreement which is contingent upon public approval," said Stop & Shop spokesman Chris Filardo.

Ward 6 City Councillor Bruce Ayers met with Stop & Shop officials last week to discuss the proposal.

Ayers said the company plans on building a 74,000 sq. foot store with 575 parking spaces. The Newport Avenue store is 47,000 sq. feet with 225 parking spaces.

City officials and neighbors are concerned about traffic around the site. The new location would have possible access from Hayward Street off Hancock Street, Holmes Street off Billings Road, and the unnamed access road off Linden Street between St. Chrysostom's Church and the Whittemore Mills Condominiums.

Ayers said he is concerned about the impact of traffic on those small streets and would like Stop & Shop to study the installation of a connector from Newport Avenue over the MBTA tracks to alleviate traffic.

Stop & Shop will do a traffic study, Ayers said.

City Traffic Engineer Jack Gillen will also do a study. "We'll be checking the Stop & Shop calculations very carefully as well as our own," Gillen said.

Ward 5 Councillor Chuck Phelan also favors a connector from Newport Ave.

He said he is concerned about the impact on streets in his ward including Albion, Buckingham, Cheriton, Linden and Berlin.

"What is it going to do to the traffic here? That would be my concern," said Fr. Richard Murphy, pastor of St. Chrysostom's.

"My concern is that the current store is 47,000 sq. feet and has access from four lanes on Newport Ave. The new store would be 74,000 sq. feet with access from two lanes on Hancock St.," Phelan said.

"My feeling is that it is Stop & Shop's responsibility to show us how it could work. They have to satisfy the neighbors," he said.

"It is also next door to a large condo-complex (Whittemore Mills). Will it be open 24 hours? They (Stop & Shop) have to show us how it is less detrimental than the present site," Phelan said.

Filardo said the reason for the move is "to give us a site for a store that is

Long Island Closed To Tall Ships Viewing

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

It appears no one will be allowed public access to Long Island to watch the Tall Ships next month because of dangerous and hazardous conditions on the 216-acre island.

Years of neglect and coastal storms have made the island too dangerous for public viewing, according to a recommendation made by Boston Public Facilities Director Mary Nee to Boston Mayor Raymond Flynn Monday. Boston owns the island which is accessible by land only through Squantum.

Nee said it would cost $450,000 to just provide security near hazards and to clear poison sumac trees that have overgrown the island. Boston nor Quincy has the money to do that.

Nee issued a strong recommendation urging Boston Mayor Raymond Flynn not to allow any AREA RESIDENTS who hoped to view the Tall Ships like the Juan Sebastian DeElcano, a four-masted topsail schooner, from Long Island in July should find another vantage point. Boston officials will likely prohibit public access to the island because of safety hazards on the island.

New Tide Gates For Wollaston Beach

The City Council approved $58,500 Monday to install new tide gates at Wollaston Beach.

DPW Commissioner David Colton said the tide gate at Sachem Street needs to be replaced to alleviate flooding of nearby homes.

"It's an emergency situation," Colton said.

The money will be transferred from two other DPW projects which were completed under budget.

Ward 5 Councillor Chuck Phelan said the homes in the low-lying area get flooded during most rainstorms when storm drains back up at high tide.

Montclair-Wollaston Neighborhood Meeting Tonight

The Montclair-Wollaston Neighborhood Association will hold its last monthly meeting before its summer recess tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. at the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, corner of Harvard and West Squantum Sts.

Guest speaker will be Ellen Hafer, director of the Manet Community Health Center and a member of the North Quincy Committee on Preventive Health Care. She will discuss plans to establish a preventative health care center facility to service the people of North Quincy and Wollaston.

The association will also plan for issues and topics for its meetings in the fall.

Testing For Instructional Swimming Program June 12

The Quincy Recreation Department will conduct an advanced testing program in preparation for registration for its instructional swimming program at the Lincoln-Hancock Community Pool Friday, June 12 from 5:30 to 8 p.m.

The prerequisite swim test for boating and sailing will also be held at that time.

Registration for classes will be held later this month. Children are registered according to swimming ability. Testing is for persons who are unsure of their child's ability, as well as persons who have not previously enrolled their child in swimming lessons.

Pool lessons are open to Quincy residents over age six who have a current pool participation card issued by the Quincy Recreation Department. Youngsters ages one through five are eligible for Parent and Tot lessons.

The normal recreational swimming schedule will be cancelled during the hours of testing.

City To Celebrate Flag Day With Parade, Fireworks

Quincy will celebrate its 40th annual Flag Day celebration Friday, June 12 with a parade stepping off at 7 p.m. from the intersection of Washington and Coddington Sts. in Quincy Center.

The parade will proceed north along Hancock St. and turn right at the intersection of Hancock St. and Southern Artery. The parade will finish at Pageant Field, 100 Southern Artery.

The event will honor all veterans and youth groups with a special honor this year for Pearl Harbor veterans. The parade will also focus on the 200th anniversary of Quincy's incorporation as an independent municipality.

From 1952 to 1989, the city's Flag Day Parade was sponsored by the Koch Club of Quincy under the director of Club Founder, the late Richard J. Koch Sr.. The Club suspended the parade in 1990, sponsoring a band concert and flag raising in its place.

In 1991, the Quincy

Partnership and City of Quincy revived the Flag Day Parade.

"We have many things going on in the parade again this year," said Ed Keohane, chairman of the Parade Committee. "We are particularly pleased to have Ted Spencer as a parade honoree."

Spencer is a Quincy native who is currently the curator of the Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y. He will address the crowd at flag raising ceremonies at Pageant Field, after the parade.

Other attractions include the Gettysburg Peace Flags, Colonial Town Militias, United States Army National Guard UH-1 Bell Huey troop support helicopter, U.S. Air Force Miniature jet, Pearl Harbor Survivors Association, Waltham Legion Post Band, high school bands and floats.

After the parade, ceremonies at Pageant Field include the flying of the Pearl Harbor Peace Flag, for the first time in the continental United States since the 50th anniversary of the attack on Pearl Harbor last December and a fireworks display.

The fireworks display will begin between 8:45 p.m. and 9 p.m. and will last approximately 20 minutes. People are encouraged to bring their portable radios since WJDA-AM 1300 will simulcast music during the fireworks display.

People are also asked to stay after the fireworks and to help fold the Pearl Harbor Peace Flag. It measures 45 feet by 90 feet and weighs 300 pounds. At least a couple hundred people are needed.

All are invited to attend the parade and ceremonies.

Last year, more than 50,000 spectators attended.

Many local children will be marching as members of the Koch Club, various sports organizations and other youth groups.

"This year's parade looks to be bigger than ever," Keohane said. "We urge everyone to come and enjoy and festivities. There will be something for everyone, young and old alike."

This year's parade is sponsored by the Quincy Partnership, Inc.; the Quincy Bicentennial Committee and veterans organizations.

Parade committee members are Mayor James Sheets, honorary chairman; Ed Keohane, chairman; George White, parade coordinator; Tom Koch, Mike McFarland, Gene Healey, Gini Kurtzman, Bob LaFleur, Jake Comer, Hank Bradley, Fire Chief Thomas Gorman, Police Chief Francis Mullen, Ray Cattaneo, Barry Welch, Bob Campbell, Ed Fiddler, Bill Morrill, Tony Siciliano and Howard McKay.

For more information, contact George White at 786-7000 or Sandra Williams at 471-1120.

City Sets $1 Million Price Tag On Braintree Dam

By STEVE KAVANAGH

The Braintree Dam is for sale and the asking price is $1 million.

The City Council set $1 million as the minimum bid for the 64.56 acre property officialy known as the Quincy Reservoir.

Ward 4 Councillor Thomas Fabrizio, chairman of the council's Land Conveyance Committee said he met recently with Mayor James Sheets and City Solicitor Steve McGrath to discuss a price for the parcel located behind the South Shore Plaza in Braintree.

McGrath told the Council that the Town of Braintree has the right of first refusal but must act within six months from the time the price is set.

The property was recently appraised at a value of $420,000 and Braintree assessed the property at more than $600,000, Fabrizio said. Quincy pays more than $5,000 in taxes each year to Braintree on the reservoir.

If Braintree meets the minimum bid Quincy could still refuse to sell the dam, McGrath said.

Some councillors questioned whether setting the price at $1 million was high enough. Many of the councillors feel that the South Shore Plaza is interested in acquiring Braintree Dam to help its proposed expansion.

"The South Shore Plaza - they need this. It could be worth more than $1 million to them," said Councillor-at-Large Patricia Toland. "It may be worth everything to them."

"Are we selling ourselves short?" asked Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson.

"Setting a minimum bid let's people know what we are looking for. We have to let the market dictate the price. If groups want to get in a bidding war for it fine," said Councillor-at-Large Tim Cahill.

"It has no real value to us," Councillor-at-Large Mike Cheney said. "Are we competing with Braintree plaza? I think our downtown is going in its own direction. The sale will benefit Quincy and Braintree. It's a win-win situation."

McGrath also told the Council that selling the reservoir would relieve the city of liability in the event of accidents there.

"Over the years people have been drowned in the reservoir and the city has been held liable," McGrath said.

Some of the councillors said they would want to put restrictions on the sale.

For example, Cheney said he would like to see restrictions for conservation purposes.

"We have to be protected..." through the Army Corps of Engineers, said Ward 2 Councillor Ted DeCristofaro.

Masonic Lodges Give $927 To Quincy D.A.R.E. Program

The Masonic Lodges of the 26th Masonic District, under the direction of District Deputy Grand Master Arthur Johnson, recently donated $927 to the Quincy Police Department's Drug Abuse Resistance Education (D.A.R.E.) program.

The money was raised by the district through a fundraising dinner and production of the Quincy Center Dinner Theatre's "Best Little Whorehouse in Texas." The check was presented to Quincy Police Chief Francis Mullen.

The lodges from Quincy in the 26th Masonic District are Rural Lodge, Wollaston Lodge and Quincy Lodge. The Masonic bodies of Quincy continue to be active in drug and alcohol abuse awareness and prevention through participating and support of youth orientated programs such as D.A.R.E.

Overall, the lodges have given approximately $5,000 to the D.A.R.E. program since its inception in Quincy several years ago.

South Shore Bank Donates Furniture To Parker School

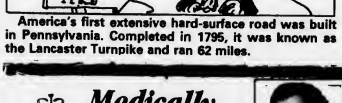
South Shore Bank has donated furniture items to the F.W. Parker School, 148 Billings Rd., Quincy.

Due to several of their branches relocating, South Shore Bank found it has extra or duplicate furniture items. Knowing school budgets are thin, the bank contacted the school to determine whether there was a need for the furniture. As a result, the bank learned the school needed furniture, and subsequently arranged for the donation.

South Shore Bank Training Officer Marcia Goulart took F.W. Parker School Principal Daniel Malvesta and Custodian Frank Soldano on a tour of the bank's warehouse. Among the items chosen by Malvesta and Soldano were tables, bookshelves, a refrigerator, cabinet, steel shelving, vertical file cabinets, chairs, a couch, metal floor ashtrays, two desks and an American flag.

Maintenance crews from South Shore Bank delivered the furniture directly to the school, much to the delight of the children, teachers and staff. "Our relationship with South Shore Bank has been very beneficial over the years, and we are most appreciative," Malvesta said.

"The furniture will mainly be used in teacher and administrative offices at the school, except for the American flag, which will be displayed for all to enjoy. On behalf of the F.W. Parker School staff, I extend my thanks to Forrest Cook and South Shore Bank for their generosity," he added.



America's first extensive hard-surface road was built in Pennsylvania. Completed in 1795, it was known as the Lancaster Turnpike and ran 62 miles.

THE SUN CAN BE HARMFUL TO YOUR HEALTH

News that the earth's ozone layer is thinning and developing holes means that the sun can do a lot worse than turn your skin pink. The sun's ultraviolet B emissions, which the ozone layer helps screen out, now appear to be a culprit in a broad range of health problems. Health care professionals have long cautioned that over exposure to the sun increases the risk of several types of skin cancers and formation of cataracts. In addition, researchers are now finding that ultraviolet B can suppress the body's immune system, perhaps making people more susceptible to disease or aggravating existing health problems. In short, too much sun may cause people to get sicker or stay sicker longer than they ordinarily would.

P.S. Protect against the sun; use sunscreens, wear sunglasses, cover up with clothing and hats, and avoid mid-day exposure.

Since it's important to use sunscreen whenever you spend time in the sun, it's a good idea to check the label of your moisturizer or makeup to insure that it provides adequate protection against UV rays. Why Not The Granite Ball?

Mayor James Sheets and the Cemetery Board have a little feud going over the granite fountain at Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

He wants to move it to City hall Plaza. They want to keep it at the cemetery.

Compromise, anyone?

How about moving the granite ball at the Fore River Rotary to City Hall instead and leave the fountain at the cemetery?

SHEETS

This would peacefully end the feud between the mayor and Cemetery Board Chairman Richard Sweeney and colleagues. Although I risk opening up a feud with my old boyhood chum, Ted DeCristofaro.

SWEENEY

I proposed moving the ball a year ago. That didn't go over too well with DeCristofaro, who is Ward 2 councillor and as protective as a mother hen when it comes to Quincy Point where we both grew up.

DeCRISTOFARO

His reaction then to the idea: "Over my dead body!"

The ball, however, would be the ideal centerpiece for the public garden that Sheets plans for City Hall Plaza.

And, perhaps a lesser night-time vandalism target than the 101-year old fountain that now graces the entrance to Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

The granite fountain was gifted to the city by the Quincy Village Improvement Association in 1891 and, according to Sheets, was located in Quincy Sq. until around the 1930's and 1940's.

The polished granite ball was a gift to the city from the Granite Railway Company and the Faxon family in 1925 to commemorate the 300th anniversary of the settlement of Quincy in 1625.

For many years it was located outside City Hall a few feet from where the Constitution sculpture now is.

The granite ball actually has more historic significance and a direct link to Quincy's famed granite industry than the fountain has.

Years from now, Sheets may be remembered as "Quincy's Green Thumb Mayor," or even "Mayor Clean." His "Cleaner, Greener Quincy" campaign has beautified Hancock St. in Quincy Center from north of Granite St. And will soon be extended south through the downtown business district.

Sheets' idea for a public garden is a good one. The fact that it will replace the 60-ton granite slab Constitution sculpture, makes it even better.

The sculpture allegedly depicts the drafting of the Massachusetts Constitution which served as the model for the U.S. Constitution.

Three of the slabs are supposed to be John Adams, his cousin, Samuel Adams, and James Bowdoin, who drafted the state Constitution here in 1779 in John Adams' law office in the John Quincy Adams' birthplace on Franklin St.

But any resemblance to the Adams cousins and Bowdoin is purely imaginary. And what the slabs mean is a mystery unless you read the nearby explanation. And, then you're not too sure.

The sculpture was unveiled in 1979 during the celebration of the 200th anniversary of the Massachusetts Constitution.

Former Mayor James McIntyre, who was chairman of the Bicentennial Committee that year said of the sculpture while it was still under wraps: "It will be of controversial design."

He was right.

McINYTYRE

So was noted Quincy sculpture Ed Monti, who did the artwork from a design by Jerry Raichler:

"It's a rather new concept," he said. It's sort of like a mystery. You look at it and you have to make up your mind as to what you see in it."

Many residents and tourists who have stood in front of it must have wondered: "What the hell is it?"

Sheets plans to exile the sculpture to Freedom Park. So far there has been no outcry over that. No feuding.

The granite ball would make a beautiful replacement. It really belongs in Quincy Square with all due respect to DeCristofaro and residents of Quincy Point.

When it was moved to the Fore River Rotary years ago, Route 3A was a much more heavily travelled highway than it is now with the Southeast Expressway and Route 3.

Most people who see the ball in Quincy Point are the same people who drive by there daily, going and coming over Fore River Bridge.

And anyone new travelling Route 3A can only get a glimpse of the ball as they come down off the bridge or circle the rotary trying to keep their eye on the road.

In Quincy Square it would be seen by thousands of new visitors each year.

It would be a fitting symbol and tribute to Quincy's granite craftsmen and the city's history — a crown jewel for the new public garden.

And, wouldn't a sculptured model of a battleship or aircraft carrier be fitting for the Fore River Rotary — just a few feet away from where the Massachusetts, the Lexington and hundreds of other mighty Navy ships were built?

Mariano Calls For Tighter MWRA Budgeting

State Rep. Ron Mariano has called for the MWRA to "go back to the drawing board" and devise a new, leaner budget for the upcoming 1993 fiscal year.

Mariano is part of the MWRA caucus, a bi-partisan group of legislators working to fight the spiraling cost of water and sewer rates.

"Each dollar spent at the MWRA translates into an additional cost for taxpayers. Realizing this, the caucus has taken the position that the proposed FY 93 is too costly for ratepayers and should be downsized," Mariano said.

"We will further develop our legislative agenda while working with ratepayer watchdog groups to identify cost saving initiatives the MWRA should implement. This activity has already seen positive results, as public debate over water and sewer rates has heightened. It is through this debate that my goal for some ratepayer relief can be achieved," he added.

American Red Cross South Area Meeting June 17

The annual meeting of the American Red Cross of Massachusetts Bay, South Area, will be held Wednesday, June 17 at 4 p.m. at the Quincy Neighborhood Club, 27 Glendale Rd.

Council members will be elected. Other business may be brought before the meeting.

4 Residents Honored By Milton Hospital

Milton Hospital recently honored four Quincy residents at its annual Volunteer Recognition Tea.

Ruth Kjoss received a pin for 2,000 hours of service rendered over the past year; Helen Johnson, for 1,000 hours; Margaret Leahy, 500 hours; and Theresa Hayes, 100 hours.

MWRA Removing Sludge From Treatment Plant

By MICHAEL WHALEN

A top spokesman for the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority said Tuesday that the 500 cubic yards of sludge pellets dumped on the ground at the new sewage sludge plant in Quincy Point last weekend should be either removed from the premises or at least be off the ground by today (Thursday).

"Between now and the close of business on Thursday, all of the material should at least be off the ground, if not the site," said Eric Buehrens, director of the MWRA's Residuals Management Department.

The material deposited onto the ground at the plant was the result of pellet overheating last Thursday, Friday and Saturday which occurred when moisture in the plant's silos caused pockets of smouldering combustion. After an attempt to cool the material by pumping liquid nitrogen into the silos failed, literally tons of pellets were dumped onto the pavement.

Approximately 180 cubic yards of the material was scheduled to be taken out of the plant Tuesday by rail. Buehrens said other rail transports as well as trucks were "being mobilized" to complete the job by the end of today.

"At this point, we have more than enough transport capacity on site and coming on site to alleviate the problem by Thursday," said Buehrens.

He added that the MWRA hopes to find a quick solution to the overheating problem that will prevent a repeat of the accident.

"We clearly need some contingency plan," he said. "It is our intention to fix the problem at the silos so there will be no more long-term problems."

Mayor James Sheets said earlier this week he would meet daily with MWRA officials, the plant operators and officials from Braintree and Weymouth to review the cleanup and operations at the plant.

Sheets Backs Plan To Solve Classroom Overcrowding

will be eligible for 63 percent reimbursement from the state.

"If we weren't eligible to receive state reimbursement, it would be a larger bond issue and I probably wouldn't have supported it," Sheets said.

The mayor said the project would be the lion share portion of a $2 million bond issue that he will submit to the City Council in approximately six weeks. He figured the project would cost approximately $1.5 million.

An additional $500,000 would be factored into the bond issue for other capital improvements, such as new snow removal trucks for the DPW and police cruisers, Sheets said.

With a $2 million bond issue, Sheets said the city would pay $1.2 million and recoup $800,000 from the state.

Creedon estimated a new building on the Lincoln School site would cost $800,000 for a one-story, partially prefabricated structure. Old furniture would be moved to the school. Teachers who currently teach preschool, kindergarten and first grade would transfer so no new teaching jobs would be created, Creedon said.

The cost of building, furnishing and staffing a new elementary school would be about $8 million, he said.

The addition at the Bernazzani School would cost about $500,000.

Creedon told the Sun Tuesday that he is "pleased and thrilled" by the mayor's support.

"I think this response for the early childhood education center and the Bernazzani School addition are in the best tradition of Quincy public schools. We have tried to respond to neighborhood concerns by keeping the school boundaries intact," Creedon said.

The city council, which will likely vote on the bond issue at a special meeting in August or its first meeting in September, must approve the bond issue for construction to begin.

The school committee, which was expected to take an official vote on the plan Wednesday, has essentially supported Creedon's proposal. Many parents also have publicly expressed support for it.

Long Island Closed To Tall Ships Viewing

public access on the island. She cited a 30-foot-tall sea wall around the northern tip that began buckling this spring, causing granite slabs to fall into a 6-foot-deep sink hole.

Fort Strong, a Civil War-era fortress, is threatening to collapse in places. Asbestos lines the interior.

Furthermore, the northern tip of the island, called Long Island Head, would be restricted from public access because open manholes up to 40 feet deep are scattered throughout the area.

Mayor James Sheets, who negotiated with Flynn to allow Quincy residents access to Long Island for the Tall Ships, said it is highly doubtful the island will be open for anyone.

"I think it's highly unlikely Long Island will be open for any of the public from either Quincy or Boston. The tenor of (Nee's) recommendation does not leave us much hope."

Sheets said he plans to visit the island, perhaps with Flynn, in the next 10 days to inspect the island's conditions. He said he will ask Flynn to promise that no one, including Boston residents, be allowed access to the island for the ships.

"I don't want to find out the first week of July that Boston is allowing 5,000 of its residents to view the ships from Long Island.

"The conditions are probably bad enough so that someone could be seriously hurt or killed. I can see all sorts of bad things happening out there.

"I'll talk with Ray to reach an understanding and to make sure no one uses (the island.)"

With both city budgets strapped and time running out, Quincy and other South Shore residents may want to find other vantage points.

On Saturday, July 11, more than 150 Tall Ships will parade into Boston Harbor as part of the Grand Regatta Columbus '92 Quincentenary, and kick-off a week-long celebration commemorating the 500th anniversary of the discovery of the Americas. Three million people are expected to see the ships during their stay July 11-16.

Donation was $50.

Quincy's Yesterdays

Striking Bus Drivers Reject EMass Offer

June 4-10 1952 40 Years Ago

Striking bus drivers and mechanics, on the 86th day of their strike against the Eastern Mass Street Railway, voted by nearly 3-1 to reject a company offer a 15-cent an hour raise.

The vote came after Norman Brandon, chairman of the union's general conference board, told the membership "If the majority accepts the management offer it will be the end of the union."

The strike involved 1,800 union members, 226 of them in the Quincy Division and inconvenienced some 500,000 riders in 75 communities throughout eastern Massachusetts.

SQUANTUM PARK SOUGHT

City Solicitor Arthur I. Burgess said the possibility of Quincy buying the 14.5-acre Squantum Park from the city of Boston is brighter than at any time in the past.

Completion of the Calf Pasture to Deer Island sewerline, which was expected in about two years, will leave Boston with no use for the property, said Burgess.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE SUES

Vice Chairman A. Wendell Clark, three other members of the School Committee and 13 school employees sued the city seeking the 5 percent wage increase requested by the Committee.

The suit also asked restoration of $30,000 cut from the 1952 school budget.

STRIKE ACTION EXPECTED

Donald Edmonston, president of Shipbuilders Local 5, told members to stand by for possible strike action June 13 in support of their request for a 20-cent hourly wage hike and a union shop.

Turkey Lasagna

Even though it's supposed to be spring, these cool days in between inspire one to try new recipes. My niece Carol gave me this one for turkey lasagne which I tried yesterday and which I share with you today. You'll need three things, a meatloaf mixture; ricotta cheese mixture and tomato sauce.

TURKEY LASAGNE

Meat loaf mixture, either a favorite or the following.
1 1/2 pounds ground turkey
1 egg
1 cup seasoned bread crumbs
salt and pepper to taste
1/4 cup grated parmesan or romano cheese
a little water for mixing
extra herbs such as basil, oregano or a favorite
Mix together and set aside.

Other things needed
2 cups tomato sauce
2 cups shredded cheese (any favorite)

RICCOTA CHEESE MIXTURE
1 Lb ricotta cheese
1/2 cup grated parmesan or romano cheese
1 Tbsp fresh parsley (chopped)
1 egg
1/4 cup seasoned breadcrumbs
Mix together and set aside.

In a slightly greased baking pan, place a layer of the meatloaf mixture. Then the ricotta cheese mixture. Top it off with the rest of the meatloaf mix. Pour tomato sauce over all and the shredded cheese. Bake in a 350 degree oven for 35 to 40 minutes. Serve with rice, pasta, potato or a vegetable such as corn on the cob, which is pretty sweet these days!

1000 Volunteers, Guests Attend Red Cross Recognition

Nearly 1000 volunteers and guests attended the American Red Cross South Area Recognition ceremony recently at the Holiday Inn in Randolph.

Volunteers representing health services, blood services, and disaster services, and many of the south region's 21 communities with honored with special certificates, awards and pins.

Many of the volunteers received pins for years of service, including Helen Shea, chairperson of the Area Council; Elsie Anderson, a 45-year pin; and Pearl Quint, a 35-year pin.

In addition, several special awards were given. The fundraising award was given to Jeremiah J. Dacey, a council member. An exceptional service pin was presented to Charles Peter, health services committee member, and health services instructor.

Office volunteers and blood donor room volunteers were also recognized.

The remainder of the afternoon was shared socializing over hors d'oeuvres and coffee. Frank Dunn provided musical entertainment with his piano.

BLOOD VOLUNTEER and Grey Lady Pearl Quint, left, receives a 35-Year Service Pin from Helen Shea, chairperson of the American Red Cross South Area Council at a recent recognition ceremony.

Our Policy On Engagement Photographs And Wedding Announcements

The Quincy Sun will continue to publish photographs with engagement announcements as it always has.

The Sun will also continue to use in wedding announcements the names of all members of the wedding party including maid or matron of honor, best man, parents, bridesmaids, ushers, flower girls and ringbearers, etc.

We invite engaged couples to submit their photos with their announcements and when submitting their wedding photo to include a complete listing of the wedding party.

Black and white photos are preferred. The Sun can convert most color photos to black and white for publication but the photo loses some clarity in the process.

We suggest that when you have your engagement photo taken, you request the studio to send a copy to The Sun with the reminder that The Sun is continuing its policy of publishing engagement photos.

The Sun also publishes articles and photos of wedding anniversaries beginning with the 25th anniversary.

And, as in the past, there is no charge.

large enough to service the community. The Newport Avenue store has less than adequate parking and shopping space."

The new store may also include a new bakery and an express deli, Filardo said.

She said Stop & Shop officials are looking forward to working with Mayor James Sheets, the City Council and the community. She said the company will be ready to provide more information to the public within four to five weeks.

City Planning Director said Stop & Shop must obtain a variance from the Zoning Board of Appeals. The site is currently zoned industrial not retail.

Filardo said the Newport Avenue site would be renovated and leased to other retailers.

Flag Day Celebration Preview On Ch. 3 Tonight

Quincy Community Television Channel 3 will present a preview on the city's Flag Day Parade celebration tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. on Channel 3.

The 30-minute program will outline the array of events planned for Flag Day in Quincy Friday, June 12. Recreation Director Barry Welch, Thomas Koch, executive secretary to Mayor James Sheets, Fire Chief Thomas Gorman, Quincy Partnership Chairman Edward Keohane and George White, Flag Day celebration coordinator, will discuss all aspects of the events, including the history and tradition, the parade route, the role of the Quincy Partnership and the fireworks display.

Last year, more than 50,000 spectators attended and officials hope this year is even bigger.

QCTV-Channel 3 will provide live coverage of the parade and fireworks display beginning at 7 p.m. Friday, June 12.

Joan Chrusciel is the math department chairperson.

Susan Lydon Walsh Candidate For State Representative

Susan Lydon Walsh, 36 Surfside Ln., Quincy, announces she is a Democratic candidate for state representative in the First Norfolk District.

Lydon Walsh, 37, a travel consultant the last 15 years, is a past member of the Amalgamated Meatcutters Local 592 AFL-CIO. She is also an associate member of the Robert I. Nickerson American Legion Post #382, a member of the Atlantic Neighborhood Association and a member of the Squantum Community Association.

"I am not a politician, I am simply a community activist that will be 100 percent accessible as a new face and independent voice working for you as your state representative," she said.

Lydon Walsh said it is time to better address issues on Beacon Hill such as the implementation of universal health care, protection of our elderly from financial hardship when facing the prospect of long term care, expanding the base of the MWRA to alleviate the burden on local rate payers and working to increase local aid for the City of Quincy.

SUSAN LYDON WALSH

Noting she is the only woman in the Democratic primary, Lydon Walsh said, "I am enthusiastic about the support and encouragement that I have received, from women's groups and the general public, for more women to get involved in public service."

Lydon Walsh is a longtime resident of Squantum. A homeowner and taxpayer, she is the mother of three children: John, 8, Emily 6 and Kathleen, 6, all students at Sacred Heart School in North Quincy.

Parents Anonymous Forms Quincy Chapter

Parents Anonymous of Massachusetts has formed a Quincy chapter which meets on a weekly basis in the evening.

Members are welcome to join at any time, and there are no fees or dues.

At P.A., parents have an opportunity to talk with others who may be having the same problems and fears, and together can learn to deal with tension in a healthier manner.

Barbara Gustin, a parent of three children, will facilitate the group. Gustin has worked with parents on the Parental Stress Line for many years, as well as with individuals in hospital settings.

Interested parents can call the state office toll-free at 1-800-882-1250 for more information.

Joseph Keating Receives Court Employee Award

Joseph Keating of Quincy was recently honored as a recipient of the 1991 Trial Court Employee Excellence Award.

Keating is a court officer at Norfolk Superior Court in Dedham.

He was one of 16 court employees recognized at the fifth annual court employee awards ceremony last month in Brockton. Chief Administrative Justice John E. Fenton Jr. made the presentation.

"Your efforts and contributions at the Norfolk Superior Court have been recognized and appreciated by your peers and co-workers," said Fenton.

Keating was cited for his professionalism in the performance of his daily duties at the court. Superior Court Judge Andrew Gill Meyer called him a "model court officer."

JOSEPH KEATING

A 30-year veteran of the U.S. Navy, Keating served during World War II, Korea and Vietnam aboard the cruiser U.S.S. Boston. Keating started at the court in 1972. A native of Dorchester, he is the youngest of 12 children.

Thomas Deren Promoted To Army Captain

Thomas H. Deren of Wollaston was recently promoted to the rank of captain in the U.S. Army.

A 1986 graduate of Norwich University, Northfield, Vt., he was assigned to Fort Hood, Texas where he served with the 1st Bn. 32nd Armor Regiment of the First Cavalry Division. Deren served in Saudi Arabia from October 1990 to April 1991 during Desert Shield and Desert Storm. After the cease fire he was awarded the Bronze Star Medal for his actions during the war.

Deren is currently attending the Infantry Officer Basic Course at Fort Benning, Ga. Upon completion of the course, he will be stationed in Korea. His wife, Maryann, and daughters, Melissa and Jennifer, will be living in the South Shore while he is deployed overseas.

His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Deren of Wollaston.

Scott Carl Graduates From Aero Technical School

Scott Carl of Quincy has graduated from East Coast Aero Technical School, a division of Wentworth Institute of Technology, a coeducational institute of design, engineering, and technology.

Carl successfully completed the aeronautical maintenance technology course and is now eligible to take the license exam.

Elsie Frank Speaker At Beechwood Life Center

By JOHN NOONAN

Elsie Frank, nationally known champion of elder advocates and staunch supporter of programs for the elderly in Massachusetts, will be the guest speaker Thursday, June 11 at 8 a.m. at Beechwood Community Life Center, 225 Fenno St., Wollaston.

Frank will be speaking at the monthly retirees breakfast held at Beechwood.

Frank is president of the Massachusetts Association of Older Americans and president of the Advisory Council to the Commission on Affairs of the Elderly of Boston. She is also a member of the Citizens Advisory Committee to the Massachusetts Executive Office of Elder Affairs.

She is the mother of Cong. Barney Frank and was awarded an honorary Doctor of Laws degree by the University of Massachusetts Gerontology Center. She serves on the Elder Issues Committee of State Attorney General Scott Harshbarger and the Elderly Task Force of the Jewish Community Relations Committee.

She is a member of the National Advisory Board of Descriptive Video Service which makes television programming accessible to the visually impaired. She writes a newspaper column for the Older American, a publication distributed statewide by the Massachusetts Association of Older Americans.

Frank has received numerous awards for her commitment and involvement in advocacy in behalf of older Americans. She has testified before many state and national legislative committees to request changes in the controversial Social Security Notch Act, to oppose increases in premiums for supplementary health insurance programs for the elderly, to advocate increased funding by both the state and national governments for grants to help the frail and handicapped elders through nutrition and medical transportation programs.

She has fought to increase federal funding for research into many of the diseases which afflict the elderly such as osteoporosis, diabetes, cancer, Alzheimer's, heart and stroke.

Interested seniors may attend the breakfast meeting to hear Frank discuss her staunch advocacy for the elders. A continental breakfast will be available but reservations are requested by calling Mary Centola in advance at Beechwood, 471-5712. Reservations are $2.50 for each senior.

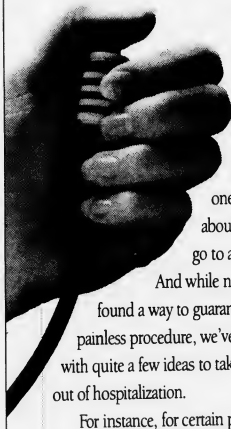
Going To The Hospital Doesn't Have To Be Such A Pain.



"Is it going to hurt?" That's what everyone worries about when they go to a hospital.

And while no one has found a way to guarantee a painless procedure, we've come up with quite a few ideas to take the sting out of hospitalization.

For instance, for certain post-operative recoveries, we offer the most advanced method for dispensing pain medication: Patient Controlled Analgesia (PCA). When something starts to hurt, you press a button and, instead of waiting for a nurse, a computer automatically dispenses the proper, limited dosage of your medication. This way you alleviate pain before it peaks, not after.

Maybe you think having a stranger as a roommate is a pain in the neck. That's why all the patient rooms in our new building are private. And many have spectacular views of the Harbor and Boston.

If you have day treatment such as cataract surgery, an arthroscopic procedure, or a routine biopsy here, you won't have to suffer through a lot of traffic. And if you've been to any of those big downtown hospitals lately, you know what a pain that can be. We have plenty of parking, for guests and patients alike, and it's all free.

So consider Quincy Hospital. And for more information, call 773-6100, ext. 4016.

After all, the less pain you have going to a hospital, the quicker you'll get home.

ATLANTIC MIDDLE SCHOOL sixth graders rehearse with professional dancer/choreographer Nikki Hu for their production of 'The Enchanted Wings: A Tale from China.' The show will be aired Tuesday, June 9 at 6 p.m. on Continental Cable, Ch. 3 in Quincy.

Atlantic, Nikku Hu Performance Of 'The Enchanted Wings' On Ch. 3

Atlantic Middle School's performance of "The Enchanted Wings: A Tale from China" will be aired on Continental Cablevision, Ch. 3 in Quincy Tuesday, June 9 at 6 p.m.

Atlantic sixth graders along with Nikki Hu, professional dancer and choreographer, will interpret the folktale through dance and music.

The story of a young goose girl, who wishes for wings to fly and see the beauty of the land, is narrated in both English and Chinese. The choreography is by Hu, who also performs in the show, and music by internationally known recording artist Guy Van Duser and award winning composer Jeff Nichols.

The production was a collaborative effort from Hu, the sixth grade students, teachers Madeline Clarke and Janet Green, the Wang Center for the Performing Arts, and the Griffin Music Ensemble.

The video is one hour long.

Bernazzani, Parker School Students To Present 'Jackdaws Of Kilgarvan'

"The Jackdaws of Kilgarvan," an Irish folk tale, will be presented by the second, fourth and fifth grades of the Charles A. Bernazzani and F.W. Parker Schools Monday, June 8 at 6 and 8 p.m. at North Quincy High School.

According to the tale, the "Jackdaws of Kilgarvan" could talk, and they were dissatisfied living in the forest because they were friendly birds, wishing to be near people and live in a town.

Choreographer Nikki Hu and composer Guy Van Duser have created a new dance work based on the story. The artists have a history of working in partnerships with the Quincy Public Schools, creating original dance productions with children, often times based on folk tales from around the world.

They chose this Irish tale because it offered many cultural connections to the Quincy community. For this production, the artists are working with more than a 100 elementary school students from the Bernazzani and Parker Schools.

The schools are collaborating on the project because they believe art is an integral part of the learning experience. The teachers, Aliisa DiMartinis, Susan Farrell, Nancy Hebert, Gerry Murphy, Sharon Sallaway and Joan Youngman agree that art and teaching are closely connected.

In their classrooms, they use dance to teach children about geography, history, literature, poetry, drawing and songwriting. Through this process, children become reflective and creative thinkers in all areas of learning.

For more information, call 984-8713 or 984-8710.

The project is funded in part by the Massachusetts Cultural Council. In addition, parents in both school communities are involved in a fundraising effort in support of the arts.

CHOREOGRAPHER NIKKI HU prepares second graders from the Parker School for a performance of an Irish folk tale, "The Jackdaws of Kilgarvan," to be presented in conjunction with children from the Bernazzani School on June 8 at North Quincy High School. For more information, call 984-8710 or 984-8713.

Pentecost Sunday At Bethany

Bethany Congregational Church, Spear and Coddington Sts., Quincy Center, will celebrate Pentecost, the birthday of the Christian Church, and Confirmation at Sunday's 10 a.m. worship service.

The Rev. Roger Ketcham's sermon will be entitled, "A Chip Off The Old Block." Scripture reader will be Eleanor Shattuck.

Sunday marks the conclusion of a three-month Confirmation program using mentors to guide the confirmands. To be welcomed as members of Bethany Church are Jason Swan, Keith Briggs, Eric Leuchte, Erin Lundin, Sharon Capobianchi and Amy Devin. Their respective mentors are: Bob Peoples, Tom Newton, Bill Greene, Lisa Andre, Jean Ann Phinney and Muriel Goudy.

The Chancel Choir directed by Gregory Flynn, organist, will sing. Members of the Board of Deacons serving Communion will be Vivian Miller, Regina Ross, Wendell Cosgrove and James Ross.

Greeters will be Dorothy Mattson and Irene Streiferd. Hosting the fellowship hour in the Allen Parlor following the worship service will be Linda Massey, Bob Peoples and Tammy Vozzella.

Church School classes meet at 10 a.m. in the parish house. The Bible study group will meet Sunday at 8:30 a.m.

Child care is provided for infants and toddlers during the worship service.

'Spirit Is Real' Topic At Community United Methodist

Pentecost and Holy Communion will be celebrated Sunday at the 10 a.m. worship service at Quincy Community United Methodist Church, 40 Beale St., Wollaston.

The Rev. Harry Soper Jr. will have "The Spirit Is Real" as his sermon meditation. Three young men will be confirmed--Jay Emerson, Timothy O'Brien and Jason Little.

Church facilities are handicapped accessible and child care is provided. Greeters will be Annie Ohman and Margaret Troupe. Ushers will be Michael Johnson and Joseph Vallatini as ushers.

Scripture reader will be Paula Mulrey and hostesses at the fellowship hour will be Lanada Conant, Susan Little, Margaret Buckley and Edna Coletti.

At noon, the Sigma Phi will host a luncheon with tickets at $5. Following this a trip to Camp Aldersgate, North Scituate, R.I. for an open house will be held from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Special Mass Highlight Of St. Anthony's Fesitval At St. John's Church

MOST REVEREND ROBERTO GONZALEZ

The Most Rev. Roberto Gonzalez, O.F.M., Auxiliary Bishop of Boston, will be the guest celebrant of a special Mass in honor of St. Anthony of Padua Saturday, June 13 at St. John the Baptist Church.

The Mass will be a highlight of the two-day 17th annual St. Anthony's Festival sponsored by St. John's Parish June 12 and 13 on the church grounds, 44 School St.

Bishop Gonzalez was appointed Titular Bishop of Ursona and Auxiliary Bishop of Boston by Bernard Cardinal Law in 1988. He is in residence and has an office at Pope John XXIII National Seminary in Weston.

Immediately following the Mass a procession will be held from the upper church, along School St., to the church grounds where a statue of St. Anthony of Padua, patron saint of Italians, will be placed on display. Members of St. John's Holy Name Society will serve as statue bearers during the procession.

The gala celebration has become one of the most popular religious, cultural and social events of the spring season in the Quincy-South Shore area.

Festival features include: all types of food specialities, games for children and adults, white elephant table, prizes and awards, bric-abrac, arts and crafts, and music by Mr. Music and Equinox.

Fr. William McCarthy is general chairman assisted by co-chairpersons Rosemarie Martin, Diane Acorn, and an estimated 100 parish volunteers. Admission is free to the general public and proceeds will benefit the parish charitable and building maintenance programs.

For more information call 847-0072.

Pentecost At Covenant Congregational Church

The beginning of the Christian Church, Pentecost, will be celebrated at the 10:45 a.m. worship service Sunday at Convenant Congregational Church, Whitwell and Granite Sts.

Rev. James Lindgren, interim pastor, will preach. The Diaconate will serve Communion.

Richard Smith, minister of music, will direct and accompany the choir in an introit and two anthems. He will also play an organ prelude, offertory and postlude.

Sunday School, with classes for all ages, will begin at 9:30 a.m. During the worship service, an attended nursery is available for children age four and younger. For children up to age 12, there is junior church.

Following the worship service, coffee will be served in the fellowship hall downstairs.

For more information about any of the the church's activities, call the church office at 479-5728.

Tables can be reserved by calling Hazel Mayne at 328-4367.

6 To Be Confirmed At Point Congregational

Six high school sophomores will be confirmed in the Christian faith in celebration of the Day of Pentecost Sunday at Quincy Point Congregational Church.

The Rite of Confirmation and Sacrament of Holy Communion will be administered during the 10 a.m. worship service by the Revs. Fred and Carol Atwood-Lyon, pastors. The church is located at Washington St. and Southern Artery in Quincy and all are invited.

Confirmands include Chris Brokmeier, son of Nancy Flynn Brokmeier and Paul Brokmeier of Duxbury, with Kevin Cameron as his mentor; Matthew Hourin, son of Jerome Hourin and Betty Francis-Nettles of Quincy (Susan Mahan, mentor); Michelle Hunter, daughter of Sandra Barrows of Norfolk and Donald Hunter of Braintree (Helen Patterson, mentor); David Lindblom, son of Carl and Phyllis Lindblom of Quincy (Ann Suzedell, mentor); Christopher Sherriff, son of Glen and Debra Sherriff of Quincy (Susan Mahan, mentor); and Michelle Thornhill, daughter of John and Helen Thornhill of Quincy (Ann Suzedell, mentor).

Other instructors in the 1992 Confirmation program include the pastors and Louise and Bob Moline of Braintree. Members of the Confirmation class have completed an eight month course of study with their mentors and instructors.

The Rev. Fred Atwood-Lyon will deliver a brief sermon-meditation entitled "Be Filled With The Holy Spirit." Following the service, there will be a reception in the social hall to honor the Confirmation class, their parents and mentors. Class photos will also be taken.

For more information about the church, call 773-6424 from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Thursday.

Two Graduates Honored At First Church Of Squantum

Two local graduates, Patti Langevin and Matt Chetwynd, were honored last Sunday by the congregation of the First Church of Squantum, 164 Bellevue Rd.

Mary Ruth Scott and Roberta Sheehan of the Board of Christian Education assisted the pastor in congratulating the pair. Langevin graduated May 30 from the University of Massachusetts at Boston and Chetwynd graduated Tuesday from North Quincy High School.

The Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor, preached on "The Word To Jeremiah." Scripture readers were Tom Klock and Leif Thornton.

The Chancel Choir sang and Dore Klock also sang a solo.

Greeters were Earl Taylor and Roberta Sheehan. Ushers were Joan Hansen and Janet Sumner. The fellowship hour after the service was hosted by Minnie, Patti, Mindi and Marci Langevin.

This Sunday the worship service will begin at 10:30 a.m. Visitors are welcome.

Children's Day At Houghs Neck

Children's Day will be observed Sunday at 9:30 a.m. at Houghs Neck Congregational Church, Manet Ave.

The Early Childhood Group will present the welcome and Michelle Catrambone will read the scripture. Ushers will be David Taylor and Craig Bently. Dr. Peter Corea will deliver the children's sermon.

Gail Freel, representing the Board of Christian Education, will distribute Bibles. Church School Supt. Gloria Brummitt and Assistant Supt. Susan Carr will make the class presentations.

Refreshments will be served after the service. Following the activities, children will leave for a visit to the Museum of Science.

Children's Day marks the beginning of the summer schedule, with one worship service at 9:30 a.m.

The church is equipped for the physically challenged.

Gen. Gordon Sullivan Tells Quincy College Graduates:

'We're Obligated To Make Our Communities Better'

"All of us have an obligation to make our communities better," Gen. Gordon R. Sullivan, U.S. Army Chief of Staff, told 534 graduates at Quincy College's largest commencement exercise Sunday at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Gen. Sullivan, a Quincy native who was promoted to Army Chief of Staff last year in recognition of his excellent service during Operation Desert Storm, stressed service to the nation and community in his address. He said Quincy College is a shining example of service to the Quincy-South Shore area.

"Service to nation. I can't define it. But I see it all around us in this great nation. A great example is right here in Quincy College. Your college has gone out of its way to provide the community with expanding and improving educational opportunities that the future demands.

"The outreach program to work with the National Guard, new facilities, holding the line on tuition, and the visionary Project 2000 which will provide a guaranteed financial jump start to the college education of the fifth grade class from Snug Harbor are but a few examples of how Quincy College is fulfilling its share of the responsibility to serve the community," he said.

Service, Gen. Sullivan said, is a shared responsibility which begins in the community. "I want you to leave here today understanding that service is not someone else's job nor is it your task alone.

"Service is a shared responsibility, it begins in the community, and we cannot abdicate that responsibility without threatening the values that are the foundation of this great nation."

Furthermore, Gen. Sullivan said it is service, as well as resolve, imagination and courage, which has helped make our nation great.

"Our nation is great because Americans like you made it great. It didn't become great overnight. America became great as a result of the consistent effort and service of men and women of character who were willing to stand up proudly and make their local communities a better place. This collective striving built America and produced a synergy that propelled us into a position of world leadership.

"In today's world, the challenge of service for each of you is no less fascinating. In fact it is perhaps even more compelling. There are many that will dwell on the ills of our nation. We are not perfect.

"For all our blemishes, our values, those cherished principles embodied in the Constitution and Bill of Rights, are still a beacon to the world. It should remain so to us as well.

"We must be careful that in a quest for needed improvement that we do not turn our critical commentary into condemnation that weakens our democratic institutions and polarizes opinions."

Although their formal education may be over, Gen. Sullivan told the graduates that "each of you have the responsibility to magnify your talents, to build upon what you have learned so that you may be productive citizens and contribute to moving the community, the nation, and the world ahead in a positive manner. Being a good citizen is not an outdated concept.

"I have great faith in your abilities to succeed and to live up to your share of responsibility for the future. I have seen the drive, enthusiasm, imagination, and the commitment to victory in your comtemporaries.

"I am confident that the sacrifices for and the investment made in you by your families and indeed by yourselves will bear great dividends for America."

The 54-year-old Sullivan received a 19-gun salute as well as an honorary associate of arts degree in public service. Raised in Lakin Square, Gen. Sullivan said he always "enjoys coming home to Quincy, but today is a special privilege and honor."

Legion Baseball

Morrisette Opens

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Morrisette Legion baseball team, defending Zone 6 co-champions, opened its 48th season last night (Wednesday) at Randolph.

Morrisette will host the Northeast Regional Tournament at Adams Field Aug. 19-23. The winner will play in the Legion World Series in late August at Fargo, North Dakota.

Morrisette will play at Weymouth Friday, will host Wollaston Monday at 8 p.m. and will be at Braintree for a 7:30 p.m. game next Wednesday.

Dave Perdios is back for his sixth season as coach and has 13 returning players and five newcomers.

Perdios feels Wollaston, Braintree and Weymouth will be among the teams to beat. The zone schedule has been increased from 16 games to 24 with each team playing the other three times. Other teams in the zone are Holbrook, Canton, Quincy and Milton.

Returning players are catcher Tom Balzano, catcher-first baseman Serge Belcastro, infielders Adam Calvert and Pat Clifford, outfielder Noel DiBona, pitcher Sean Donovan, infielder Robbie Kane, catcher-outfielder Mark Kelliher, pitcher-infielder Mike Malvesti, pitcher Matt O'Toole, pitcher-infielder Mike Patch, pitcher Jay Schnabel and infielder Pat Shea.

Newcomers are outfielder Mark Cahill, outfielder Dave Reinhart, pitcher-outfielder Dan Duncan, all from North Quincy High, pitcher-infielder Tom Malvesti from Quincy High and infielder Chris MacDonald from Abp. Williams.

Tom Malvesti Sr. is back as assistant coach and former manager Ray Cattaneo is back as manager. Also back are athletic officer Frank Osborne and scorer-statistician Richard "Berger" Ryan.

"I think we have more pitching depth and have solid defense and good speed," said Perdios. "The hitting has been lagging in practice but I think it will come around. The whole zone is strong this year."

Triple A

Dugan Shines On Mound For Dodgers

The Dodgers defeated the Tigers, 12-6, in Triple A Baseball League action with 10-year-old Patrick Dugan the winning pitcher with an outstanding effort.

Dugan came on in the second inning, struck out 13 including the side in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings. Loser Tony Swari had six strikeouts.

Dugan also helped his own cause going 3-for-4 with two RBI, including a triple and a double, Matt Nelson went 3-for-3 with three RBI and Charlie Doherty had three RBI. Chris Doherty had a double and an RBI. Mark Hawes, Zachary Winderl, Jeff Russo and Chris Doherty stood out on defense.

For the Tigers Chris Pollars went 3-for-4 including a home run, Pat O'Neil went 3-for-4, Tom Walsh had a triple and two RBI and Colleen Nichols had a double and an RBI. Mark Forster, Pollars, Tony Swari, Stephen Ford, Pat Lyons, Chris Petit and Pat Hanley had strong defensive games.

The Dodgers also topped the Twins, 12-6, with 10-year-old Sean Garvey pitching his first complete game for the win. He allow three hits and struck out 11. Loser Joe Barkhouse struck out seven.

Charlie Doherty had two RBI with a home run, Dugan had a triple and two RBI, Mark Hawes went 4-for-4 with a double, Nelson had two hits and Jeff Russo doubled. Matt Allen, John Parastatides, Garvey, Hawes, Charlie Doherty and Dugan had strong defensive games. For the Twins Barkhouse had a triple and an RBI and Jonathan Healy, Barkhouse, Joe Ardagna, John Sullivan and Owen Nestor played well on defense.

The A's rallied in the bottom of the sixth to edge the Astros, 9-8, with shaky Jamie MacIssac the winning pitcher. He allowed eight hits and struck out six. Matt O'Malley relieved starter Eric Modrow for the Astros after Modrow was injured. The A's collected 12 hits.

Jamie Panagos and Jamie MacIssac had three hits apiece and Panagos stole six bases. Mike Racicot, Dennis Palardy, Sima Junkovic, Mike Biller, Peter Vinnocom and Jason London had hits with Jason London scoring the winning run on a sacrifice fly by Pasqueil Roosa.

Astro center fielder Manny Vasquez had two hits and three stolen bases. Josh Silverman, Shawn Martinson, Eric Modrow, O'Malley, Kevin Markham and Steve Inferrera had a hit each.

Dunn The Ace On Suffolk Pitching Staff

[Special to The Quincy Sun]

He was just a freshman and an unheralded one at that, but Scott Dunn of Quincy, a slim 18-year-old lefthander turned out to be the ace of Suffolk University's 1992 baseball staff.

He finished the season with a perfect 6-0 record and led the Rams staff in innings pitched.

Dunn's pitching helped spur the Suffolk nine to a 21-12 record, the most victories in the school's history and an invitation to the post season Eastern College Athletic Conference's tournament at Wesleyan College in Middletown, Conn.

A former North Quincy High School hurler, Dunn appeared in 10 games for the Rams, started seven of them and had an earned run average of 3.24. He had 23 strikeouts in his 50 innings pitched, surrendering 18 earned runs.

"At one point, he went 23 innings against Framingham State, Stonehill and Salem State and gave up only one run," noted Suffolk Coach Joe Walsh. "Scott beat four Division II schools in Bridgeport, Bryant, Stonehill and Bentley as well as Salem State and Framingham in our own Division III."

Walsh, who has 11 years of head coaching experience of Suffolk and has compiled a record of 162 wins and 126 losses, thinks Dunn will be the stopper of the pitching staff next season.

"He experienced some wildness this season and that might be because he didn't throw that much at North Quincy High," noted Walsh. "He probably has as much impact on our pitching staff as any freshman pitcher I've ever had. He's slim at 5-11 and 160 and I'd like to see him build himself off and become a little stronger. I see him as our stopper next season."

SCOTT DUNN

Dunn's enrollment at Suffolk University really was no surprise. His father, George Dunn, is a former Suffolk athlete and received his bachelor of arts degree in 1967. An officer engineer for the MBTA, Dunn also is junior varsity baseball coach at Catholic Memorial High School.

Coach Walsh loses a number of regulars this season but is optimistic about returning his freshman pitchers. The frosh pitchers went 10-2. Included were two wins by Dennis Luti of Chelsea and John Vaitkevicius of Malden and one by Tom Fiala of West Yarmouth.

And Scott Dunn will keep pitching Legion ball in Quincy and doing relief work in the Park League this summer, further developing the talents he provided for Suffolk University during the Spring of 1992.

22 Inducted Into North Hall Of Fame

By PETE ZOIA

Twenty-two former North Quincy basketball players were inducted into the Hall of Fame at a dinner at Morrisette American Legion Post recently.

School Committeeman Frank Santoro was master of ceremonies. Assisting him at the podium were LaRoy "Curly" Rogers, North's first coach in the 1930's and succeeding coaches Ken Rickson, Bob "Knobby" Nolan, Ed Miller and present assistants Gus DeBoer and Gerald Phelan.

Of the 22 inductees, 12 were present and the other 10 were represented by family members.

The following were inducted:

The late Walter Joly, 1934, was represented by son Walter. The Joly family was well represented with another son, Michael, from San Francisco; brothers Al and David and other relatives Margaret Joly Aristide, Ernest Aristide, Ida and Neil Gallagher and Sybil Joly O'Brien.

Joly was also a football standout and caught a pass that defeated Quincy in the first game between the two schools.

DYNAMIC DUO -- Former North Quincy captains Ged Phelan, left, and Mark Millane were inducted into the North Quincy Basketball Hall of Fame recently.

Arthur "Bat" Nelson, 1934, was a guard with Joly on the Danvers Tournament North team. His coach, Rogers, considered him one of the best playmakers he ever had. He was the other important part in the football win over Quincy on Armistice Day 1933 when he threw the pass that went to Joly for the only score.

Ralph McLeod, 1934, was an outstanding floorman and scorer. He thanked the committee for picking him and said he was proud to play for Rogers.

McLeod was widely known for his baseball prowess and was an outfielder for the old Boston Braves.

Pete Cooke, 1936, was the high scorer and captain of his team and also was captain of the 1936 football team. He is also a member of the North Football Hall of Fame.

Joe Driscoll, 1939, was also a two-sport star. He was captain of the basketball team which made a fine showing in the Tech Tournament. He also was an excellent third baseman.

Dave Burke, 1946, had a distinguished career at North captaining the football, basketball and baseball teams. He played with Larry "Sid" Cedrone, already a member of the Hall of Fame. Burke and Cedrone teamed up in a great win over Brockton.

Norm Nelson, 1948, followed his son, Dave, into the Hall and they are the only father-son duo in the Hall. Norm was a low key player who was an outstanding rebounder. He scored his share of baskets and was outstanding against Waltham in the Tech Tourney.

Cedrone accepted the award for Paul Clem, 1944, who was unable to attend. Cedrone read a letter from Clem stating he was honored to be selected. He played for North in the Tech Tourney and also played at Boston University.

Richard Sullivan, 1948, is an administrator at Cape Cod Community College. At North he was a high scorer and always played at full speed. He was an administrator at Hofstra College in New York before taking over at Cape Cod.

Al Adams, 1956, is principal of Milton High School. He played for the late John Mullarkey on a team that went 16-4 in his senior year. North met Durfee in the Tech. He also played at the University of Maine.

Richie Bryan, 1961, son of the late Walter "Cap" Bryan, had a great senior year and led the Raiders over Quincy. He had a fine basketball and football career and led the Raiders to a win over Quincy on Thanksgiving Day. He was a high scorer in basketball and had the ability to rebound and set up baskets for his teammates.

Gus Andrews, 1961, first made his mark at North and went on to coach Catholic Memorial championship teams. He was known for his shooting ability. Not tall, he was aggressive, fighting for rebounds and scoring his share of points.

John Stevens, 1972, played on North's Greater Boston League champions. Coach Nolan always pitted him against the opponenet's high scorer. He went on to play in Nova Scotia for St. Francis. A full table of his relatives traveled from Nova Scotia to attend the induction.

Gerald Phelan, 1974, was one of four brothers to captain North Quincy teams. Presently junior varsity coach at North, he was a GBL All-Star and Patriot Ledger all-scholastic.

Mark Millane, 1981, North captain and Suburban League All-Star and Patriot Ledger, Boston Globe and Boston Herald All-Scholastic. He played against New York Knicks star Patrick Ewing, outscoring him in five of six games. At Eastern Nazarene College he averaged 26 points a game.

Bob Player, 1950, was represented by his son, Michael, who accepted his dad's award. Player distinguished himself as a scorer and rebounder, always fighting for the ball.

Also not in attendance were Walter Pendergast, 1939, a fine center, represented by his son; Roger Cremins, 1937; Denny Simpson, 1939; Bob Driscoll, 1943; Tom Finneran, 1948; and Walter Frye, 1952.

Junior League

Cable Keeps Undefeated Streak Intact

Continental Cable remained undefeated in the Quincy Junior Baseball League with a 6-5 victory over Kiwanis and a 19-4 romp over the VFW. Cable is 9-0-1 on the season.

Mike Powers of Cable and Kiwanis' Mark Kelly pitched well through four innings with the score tied 2-2. John Sullivan broke the tie in the bottom of the fifth with a home run. Chris Bregoli singled, stole second and scored on an overthrow. Kevin Walsh singled, stole second and scored, but Kiwanis tied it in the top of the sixth as Danny Toland hit a three-run homer. Bregoli relieved Bowers and got out of the inning.

In the bottom of the sixth Jonathan Brillo walked, Chad Fitzpatrick bunted safely and Kevin Regan singled home the winning run.

Cable sent 11 men to the plate in the first inning against VFW. Mike Welch doubled, and Powers, Bregoli, Ron Gamel and Mark Miller all drove in runs. Cable scored five more runs in the second to take control of the game.

Fitzpatrick had two RBI, Bregoli had three hits and three RBI and also hitting well were Billy Davis, Walsh and Sullivan. Rich Rose led VFW with three hits, including a home run.

South Shore Buick defeated the Lions, 4-2, in an errorless game.

Matt Kisiel pitched four shutout innings and had four hits for Buick and Steve Clarke had two hits and pitched two strong innings to close out the game.

Jon Caliri and Mike Sampson had two hits each and T.J. Bell had a bases loaded triple and received the game ball.

Defensively Billy Deshler, Kevin Cellucci, John Gavin and Chris Mannix played well.

For the Lions Mike McEvoy and Matt Kane had two hits each and Patrick Delbere pitched well.

Rotary scored seven runs in the fourth inning and edged VFW, 8-7. Adam Goodrich and Adam Delorey shared the pitching, striking out 12 between them and walking only two. Paul Wise, Billy Connolly, Goodrich, Delorey, Bryan Linskey, Kevin Shaw and Mike McLaughlin paced the attack and Nick Cyr and Mativa Tupe played well. For VFW Richard Rose and Matt Norton paced the offense and Mike Whalen, Paul Hussy and Jeff Glynn played well.

Rotary also topped the Elks, 4-2, with Goodrich and Shaw sharing the pitching, allowing one run apiece. Connolly, Goodrich, Delorey, Cyr, Wise, McLaughlin, Shaw, Bryan Kalic and Cory Awed sparked the attack. Ryan Piccino and Matt McLaughlin pitched well for the Elks and Scott Cooper, Bill Armstrong and Adam Radzevich led the hitting while Joey Miller, Shawn Lynch, T.J. Miller and Billy Miller played fine games.

The standings:

NATIONAL LEAGUE: Keohane's, 7-3-0; Elks, 6-3-1; Colonial Federal, 5-5-0; Police, 5-5-0; S.S. Buick, 4-5-1; Rotary, 3-7-0.

AMERICAN LEAGUE: Cable, 9-0-1; Kiwanis, 8-2-0; Burgin Platner, 4-5-1; Beacon, 3-5-2; Lions, 2-8-0; VFW, 1-9-0.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

It's truly amazing to see the ways that different people age. Some seem to reach the age of about 35, or sometimes 40, and head downhill on a greased bobsled.

Others are still in sports well into their 60's and 70's. Some get gray at 28 and bald by 35, and others (though we can't say that a little well-applied dye isn't the reason) keep a lush head of dark hair until they get gracefully silver at 70 ...

Someone once said: "The best way to tell whether you are getting old is to ask yourself whether your curiosity batteries are running down." Are you curious and eager to learn about new things? Are you interested in meeting people and making new friends? Are you alert to the ideas of others? Do you become enthusiastic about new happenings?

The late Louis Armstrong, one of the greatest jazz musicians this country has ever produced, was once asked how he felt at being over 69. This is what he replied: "My belief and satisfaction is that, as long as a person breathes, they still have a chance to exercise the talents they were born with. There's no such thing as being 'on the way out' as long as you are doing something interesting and good. You are in business as long as you are breathing."

Bernard 'Ben' Turnquist, 84

Rigger At Fore River Shipyard

A funeral service for B. Bernard "Ben" Turnquist, 84, of Quincy, was held May 29 in Faith Lutheran Church.

Mr. Turnquist died May 26 in Quincy Hospital.

He was in a deferred category for the armed services during World War II and instead worked as a rigger at the Fore River Shipyard. He retired from General Dynamics at the shipyard in 1977.

After his retirement he spent his time composing poetry, writing reminiscences and volunteering at hospitals and nursing homes.

He sang with the Wollaston Glee Club, the Swedish Glee Club of Boston, and the choir of Faith Lutheran Church.

Over his lifetime, he wrote thousands of poems and musical numbers and had a number of favorites published in a booklet entitled "Ben's Best." He also published poetry under the name BBT.

Well into his 70s, he spent many hours at nursing homes on the South Shore, entertaining the elderly with poems and songs. A noted orator, he told stories of what the City of Quincy was like during his younger years.

He was a member of Faith Lutheran Church and the Runeberg Literary Organization.

He is survived by his wife, Lillian O. (Olson) Turnquist, and several nieces, nephews, grandnieces and grandnephews.

Burial was in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were by the Hamel, Wickens and Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St.

Donations may be made to Faith Lutheran Church Memorial Fund, 201 Granite St., Quincy, MA 02169.

TO OUR BROTHER TIMMY
June 7, 1965 - June 7, 1992

Today you would have been 27 years. We wish we could be together with you to celebrate your birthday. Since we cannot, we are sending this birthday message to you, with thanks for the many happy years you gave to us while you were here. Even though we can no longer see your smiling face, we have all those happy memories we will never erase.

Timmy, you are always in our thoughts and deep inside our hearts. We miss you so very much.

Love,
Kevin and Terry

Thomas 'Tommy' Gilmartin, 12

NQHS Football Ball Boy Fought Courageous Fight Against Cancer

'TOMMY' GILMARTIN

A funeral Mass for Thomas W. "Tommy" Gilmartin, 12, of Quincy, was celebrated May 30 in Sacred Heart Church.

Tommy died May 27 of a cancerous brain tumor in Children's Hospital, Boston. The disease had been in remission for two years until it recurred in October.

Rev. Cornelius Heery, pastor of Sacred Heart Church, said Tommy's courage was truly remarkable.

"It really was, when you see all he went through, and he just took it all in stride," he said.

When the cancer was first diagnosed in February, 1989, he underwent chemotherapy and radiation. Nine months later he took on ballboy chores for the North Quincy Red Raiders football team, where his brother was a running back.

Tommy became a favorite of the players and coaches and called the coin toss for the 1989 and 1991 Quincy-North Quincy Thanksgiving Day games. His brother, who was named Most Valuable Player in the 1989 game, tied Tommy's hospital bracelet to his uniform belt and inscribed the boy's initials on his elbow pads.

NQHS football coach Ken McPhee and Tommy were friends for five years. McPhee said Tommy was a courageous kid and a positive role model for the entire school.

"He showed more courage than anyone I've ever seen. Despite the pain he went through, anytime you asked him how he was feeling he would say fine. He never once complained.

"He was a positive role model for the older kids. He was an inspiration to everyone. The whole school feels his loss," McPhee said.

During football season, Tommy Gilmartin used to write up a play before every game and give it to McPhee. "If we could use it, we'd use it," the coach said.

Tommy also helped the team in other ways. A familar site on the Red Raiders' sideline, Tommy assisted the team as its ball boy. Last Thanksgiving, he was named an honorary captain for the Quincy-North Quincy game.

In January, Tommy became an honorary inductee into the Quincy-North Quincy Football Hall of Fame.

"Tommy was just a classy kid." McPhee said.

A sixth grader at Atlantic Middle School, Tommy attended classes only a couple of months this year and was then tutored at home. He spent almost one entire school year being tutored at home and did well enough to get promoted to the next grade.

He was proud to be an altar server at Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy, and had a good relationship with the priests.

Heery said he will remember Tommy for his faith, love and his courage. He will also remember Tommy's love for the Lord and how his family and friends, especially at NQHS, were always there to support him.

"He really loved the Lord and one of his great joys was to serve at Sunday Mass," Heery said. "He also loved the North Quincy Red Raiders and had a deep, wonderful relationship with his family, especially his older brother Danny."

Tommy wanted to be a running back like his brother and was a defensive back with the North Quincy Apaches in the Quincy Youth Football League. He started for the Sacred Heart Church League basketball team his father coached and played for the Padres, a Triple A Little League team.

He met Roger Clemens and Wade Boggs at the Red Sox clubhouse and Cam Neely in the Bruins locker room. He also attended a Bruins game with Calgary Flames star and former Olympian Tim Sweeney.

The Make a Wish Foundation sent Tommy and his family to Disney World in February 1990 and they attended Camp Sunshine for cancer patients and their families in Sebago, Maine.

He is survived by his parents, Daniel J. and Donna (Murphy) Gilmartin; his brother, Daniel J. Gilmartin; his sister, Corinne L. Gilmartin; and his grandparents, Thomas J. and Gertrude B. Gilmartin, all of Quincy.

Burial was in Knollwood Memorial Park, Canton.

Donations may be made to the Jimmy Fund, 44 Binney St., Boston, MA 02115.

You are hereby notified pursuant to Mass. R. Civ. P. Rule 72 that the first account(s) of Irwin M. Golden alternate as Trustee (the fiduciary) under the will of said deceased has been presented to said Court for allowance.

If you desire to preserve your right to file an objection to said account(s), you or your attorney must file a written appearance in said Court at Dedham on or before the twenty fourth day of June, 1992, the return day of this citation. You may upon written request by registered or certified mail to the fiduciary, or to the attorney for the fiduciary, obtain without cost a copy of said account(s). If you desire to object to any item of said account(s), you must, in addition to filing a written appearance as aforesaid, file within thirty days after said return day or within such other time as the Court upon motion may order a written statement of each such item together with the grounds for each objection thereto, a copy to be served upon the fiduciary pursuant to Mass. R. Civ. P. Rule 5.

Witness, Robert M. Ford, Esquire, First Justice of said Court at Dedham, this twentieth day of May, 1992.

ORDER NO. 154
ORDERED: May 4, 1992

Be it Ordained by the City Council of the City of Quincy as follows: That the Revised Ordinances of the City of Quincy, 1976, as amended, be further amended as follows:

In Chapter 12. Traffic Commission. Article VI.

Section 93A and 94 are deleted and replaced with the following:

Section 93A - Traffic Engineer

The Mayor shall annually appoint on the First Monday of February, a Traffic Engineer who shall be an individual, experienced in traffic engineering including traffic and signal design. He shall be a Registered Professional Engineer in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts or shall be capable of becoming registered in the Commonwealth within six months of appointment.

The Traffic Engineer shall under the direction of the Commissioner of Public Works, participate in the management of the Public Works and Transportation Department.

The Traffic Engineer shall report directly to the Mayor and City Council as requested, and may make recommendations for the relief of traffic and parking problems and all other matters under his jurisdiction. He shall assist the various City departments as necessary.

Section 93B - Transportation Division of the Public Works Department

Transportation Division shall be responsible for the construction, maintenance and operation of traffic control signals; school zone signals; regulatory, warning and directional traffic signs; crosswalk and lane pavement markings; parking meters; and public offstreet parking. The Division shall be jointly responsible with the Police Department for the enforcement of parking ordinances.

The Division shall cause to be erected and maintained such signals, signs, marking, and other devices for the control of traffic and parking in accordance with ordinances adopted by the Quincy City Council and with the laws and regulations of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Section 94 - Duties of the Traffic Engineer, Off-Street Parking

The Traffic Engineer is hereby authorized to establish rules and regulations for the safe and efficient use of the City's off-street parking areas, including the Ross Garage, the John Hancock Lot, and the Vane Street Parking Lot. Such rules and regulations shall include hours of operation; designation of traffic patterns; designation of parking spaces and the use thereof; and similar matters. Time limits and fee rates shall be set by City Council Ordinance under Section 79.

PRAYER TO THE BLESSED VIRGIN
(Never Known to Fail)

Oh most beautiful flower of Mt. Carmel, Fruitful vine, splendor of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, Assist me in my necessity. Oh Star of the Sea, help me and show me herein you are my mother. Oh, Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth! I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart to succor me in this necessity. There are none that can withstand your power. Oh, show me herein you are my mother. Oh Mary conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to thee (3x) Holy Mother, I place this cause in your hands (3x) Holy Spirit, you who solve all problems, light roads so that I can attain my goal. You who gave me divine gift to forgive and forget all evil against me and that in all instances in my life you are with me. I want in this short prayer to thank you for all things as you confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you in eternal glory. Thank you for your mercy toward me and mine. The person must say this prayer 3 consecutive days. After 3 days the request will be granted. This prayer must be published after the favor is granted.

John Keenan Elected To Beechwood Board

Atty. John F. Keenan has been elected to serve on the governing board at Beechwood Community Life Center in Quincy.

He is currently vice president of the Quincy Citizens Association, board member of the Wollaston Park Association, and attorney member of Quincy's Zoning Board of Appeals.

Keenan's experience serving as chairman of the Mayor's Commission on Handicapped Affairs well equips him to work on Beechwood's Project GAP (Generations As Partners), an intergenerational effort designed to serve elders with special needs and/or mobility impairments.

Car Wash Saturday At Methodist Church

A Car Wash will be held (weather permitting) Saturday, June 6 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Quincy Community United Methodist Church, 40 Beale St., Wollaston.

LINCOLN-HANCOCK SCHOOL fifth grade students recently testified at the State House before the joint Judiciary Committee on a bill they wrote to make June 17 John F. Kennedy Youth Service Day. If approved, the new holiday would replace Bunker Hill Day as a day when students would be encouraged to participate in community service projects. Sen. Paul Harold, front row far left, and Rep. Steve Tobin, right were on hand to greet the students and their teachers, Maureen Duggan and Stephen Cantelli. Students are, first row from left, Jillian Ritchie, Stephen Little, Goretti Ochoa, Jeffrey Russo, Jason Pollini, Jason DeAngelis, Steven Avallon, Meredith Burdick, Christina Smith, Louis Ochoa, Tammi Fiasconaro, Steven DiBenedetto, Patrick Kane, Dana Griffin and Jonathan Auflero. Second row, David Forde, Patrick Crossman, Brad Champagne, Patrick Connolly, Rosemary Marini, Tara Swan, Vera Schepis, Michael Demeo, Laura McEvoy and Dimitrios Stavropolous. Third row, Sara Proto, Brynne Dearle, John Sullivan, Annalee Nurmennini, Ann Blodgett, Andrea Healy, Kimberly Richardson and Anna Martin. Fourth row, Tanisha Cox, Danielle Connell, Christina Louis, John Papadopolous, Charles Manning, Craig Calef and Chanda Voeun.

Cruiser, Destroyer, Sub

Three Ships Sought For Museum At Fore River

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Although the city lost the U.S.S. Lexington, plans are in the works to locate the country's first shipbuilding museum in Quincy.

According to Executive Director Bill MacMullen, the U.S. Naval Shipbuilding Museum Corporation proposes to incorporate the U.S.S. Salem, a Quincy-built "big gun" cruiser, the U.S.S. Sailfish, one of the last diesel-powered submarines, and a Fletcher class destroyer into a living history museum within the Fore River Shipyard as part of the city's overall objective to boost tourism.

Besides acquiring the ships, the city has proposed becoming the new repository for the Massachusetts Military Archives which must be removed from their present location in Natick because of cutbacks in military expenditures. The archives include original documents and artifacts dating back to the Revolutionary War, as well as service records for enlisted personnel from the Civil War through Operation Desert Storm.

MacMullen said the museum would be the first of its kind in the country, a fitting tribute to Quincy's long and proud shipbuilding history.

"Right now, there is no shipbuilding museum in the country. Quincy is the right place for a museum because of its shipbuilding tradition. If you're going to have a shipbuilding museum, this is the place to have it," MacMullen said.

Shipbuilding on the Fore River dates back to the late 17th century. The beginnings of the modern day shipyard at Fore River started with Thomas Watson in 1884 with the founding of the Fore River Engine Company.

During World War I and War II, more than 350 ships of all classes and types were built at the yard. Peak employment came in 1943, when 32,000 people, including 1200 women worked there.

"It was among the foremost shipbuilding establishments in the world," MacMullen said, adding Quincy turned out

On Weapons, Drug Charges

20 Adults, Students Arrested In Undercover Police Investigation

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

An undercover police operation aimed at eliminating drugs, weapons and guns in the city's two public schools has resulted in the arrests of 20 adults and students, including the parents of a Quincy High School student, according to officials familiar with the investigation.

Over the past six months, two Norfolk County deputy sheriffs secretly patrolled Quincy High and North Quincy High posing as enrolled students. The undercover police work directly led to the arrests. Those arrested were charge with carrying guns, robbing a pedestrian and intending to sell marijuana, cocaine and LSD.

The undercover investigators and school officials confiscated 11 knives, three guns and several fake guns. It is against school policy to carry any fake weapon on school property.

City and county law enforcement officials as well as school administrators called the operation a success at a press conference Tuesday morning in the office of Mayor James Sheets.

"I think we had a successful operation. I believe it sent a clear message to Quincy parents and students that we're not going to tolerate that kind of foolishness in Quincy," Sheets said.

Newly appointed School Supt. Eugene Creedon said, "Our major purpose is to commit ourselves to making drug-free schools. We will not close our eyes to any drug activity which may be occurring in our schools."

While attending school, the two undercover Norfolk County deputy sheriffs gathered intelligence on weapons, drugs and gangs.

Among the arrests were a husband and wife. They were charged with selling cocaine after their son, a student at Quincy High School, unwittingly introduced them to an undercover agent.

The investigation was the brainchild of John "Butch" Mahoney, social health coordinator for Quincy public schools. Besides Mahoney, the only officials who knew about the investigation were Police Chief Francis Mullen, District Attorney William Delahunt, Norfolk County Sheriff Clifford Marshall and Creedon.

The deputies were assigned to the Quincy Police Drug Control Unit. Information gathered by the investigators was related to Det. Patrick Glynn who, in turn, notified the other members of the Drug Control Unit and Mahoney in order that the situation could be monitored internally.

"The drug control unit then initiated independent investigators on each of the individuals who were violating our main objectives, i.e. drugs, weapons and gangs. These investigations began to spin-off into solid cases which concluded in the arrests and convictions of several individuals," Mahoney said.

According to Mahoney, all unlawful carrying of firearms arrests were made outside of the schools. No students were arrested or seen in the schools with firearms.

Of the 20 arrests made, only eight were made in the two high schools; five

Officer Listed In Good Condition

Alleged Police Attacker Could Face Life In Prison

A Montclair man charged with the attempted murder of a Quincy police officer after he allegedly assaulted him Sunday was sent to Medfield State Hospital for 20 days psychiatric observation after his arraignment Monday.

The officer, Patrolman Robert Cugini, 57, was listed in good condition Tuesday at Quincy Hospital where is being treated for head and arm injuries. Attempts to reach Cugini, a 20-year veteran of the force, at the hospital were unsuccessful.

Paul Cenga, 34, of 79 Permont St., was charged with assualt and battery on a police officer, two counts of assault and battery by means of a dangerous weapon, and armed assault with intent to murder. If convicted of intent to murder, Cenga faces 20 years to life in prison.

Cenga pleaded not guilty on all counts. The prosecution asked Judge Albert Kramer to admit him for observation. Cenga, who is due back in Quincy District Court for a pretrial conference June 26, may undergo another evaluation.

Cugini was dispatched to 79 Piermont St. Sunday morning on a "loud noise" call and when he first responded, he spoke to the occupant, William Cenga, and he advised him regarding the disturbance, said Police Chief Francis Mullen.

Several hours later, Cugini returned to the address a second time and again advised Cenga about the noise. As the officer was leaving the house, Cenga took the officer off-guard, knocked him to the ground, and proceeded to beat him violently with a rock as he struck the officer's head on the sidewalk, Mullen said.

Several neighbors witnessed or heard the incident and they dialed 911 to report an officer was in trouble. Prior to the police assistance arriving, Paul Wassiege, 71 Piermont St., Keith Oliver, 38 Sherman St., Walter Szczesuil, 295 Elmwood

A SIX-MONTH UNDERCOVER police investigation at Quincy High and North Quincy High resulted in the arrest of 20 adults and students on drug and weapon charges. of those individuals were found in possession of marijuana.

Furthermore, a 12-inch knife, with a three quarter-inch blade, was confiscated from one of three youths from a Boston high school who were trespassing in one of Quincy's high schools. The three youths are members of a Boston gang called the Cavaliers.

"We have concluded that with a few isolated exceptions, there is no connection between those gangs identified in Boston and Quincy youths," Mahoney said.

Sheets said the operation's success was in part due to three recently enacted school committee policies.

First, the appointment of additional security guards led to reduced drug dealing. Second, the posting of signs at both high schools prohibiting trespassing and unauthorized people had an immediate impact on keeping dealers and others out of high school buildings. Third, the passage of a new attendance policy also had a major impact on drug dealing, both undercover officers reported.

At Quincy High, administrators banned the wearing of hats and shirts identifying individuals as members of a gang. That move "had an impact on reducing gang activities in the school," Sheets said.

Wearing any hats at North Quincy High has been prohibited for the last five years, said Principal Peter Chrisom.

Sheets thanked Norfolk County Sheriff Clifford Marshall for providing the deputy sheriff's at the county's expense and Norfolk County DA Bill Delahunt who assisted in the prosecutions.

The mayor thanked Police Chief Francis Mullen and the Quincy Police Department Drug Unit for their assistance.

3 Remain Hospitalized After Boat Collision

Three people remain hospitalized, one in critical condition, following a boating accident Saturday night in Quincy Bay.

Glen Healy of Wollaston is in critical condition at Boston City Hospital, Kenneth Rudinski of North Quincy is in stable condition at University Hospital in Boston, and David MacIsaac of Framingham is in good condition at Carney Hospital, Dorchester.

Two power boats collided between 10:30 and 11 p.m. Saturday about a 1/4 mile off shore near Hangman's Island, according to Quincy Harbormaster Bernie Reisberg.

Police are still investigating the cause of the crash between the 24-foot Maxim, carrying four passengers, and the 21-foot Bayliner carrying three people.

"It was serious enough. But on the brighter side they were lucky the boats didn't explode and lucky no one drowned," said Reisberg.

Four others were treated and released from local hospitals.

James and Patrick McKenna, both of Quincy, were released Monday night from Quincy Hospital. Elizabeth Lenehan of Quincy was treated following the accident at South Shore Hospital, Weymouth.

Geff Theriault of Braintree and Paul Fahey of Boston were the first to arrive at the accident scene in Theriault's boat and assisted the victims until the Coast Guard arrived. Theriault was treated for a cut foot at Carney Hospital.

To Avoid Conflict Of Interest

McGrath Taking Leave Of Absence June 19

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

In a move to avoid a potential conflict of interest with his Senate candidacy, Quincy City Solicitor Stephen J. McGrath announced Tuesday he will take an unpaid leave of absence from his position as chief legal officer for the city effective June 19.

STEPHEN McGRATH

"I have asked Mayor Sheets for, and have received, an unpaid leave of absence effective at the end of business June 19, 1992," McGrath said.

McGrath is one of four Democratic contenders for the state senate seat held by Paul Harold. Harold is vacating the seat to run for Congress.

"I have been working hard during the past few weeks to resolve some important matters, and I believe I can now take a leave of absence without adversely affecting the city's legal interests. I have made it a priority to maintain the integrity and separate interests of the solicitor's office and my own campaign," McGrath said.

"This is the final step in that process."

McGrath said voters are appropriately scrutinizing the conduct of candidates. "The electorate demands the highest standards for political conduct. I am willing to take this leave in order to demonstrate my commitment to those standards we share. By taking this unpaid leave, I eliminate the opportunity for even the slightest appearance of conflict.

"I feel that as this campaign progresses, it would be wrong to continue on the public payroll, while at the same time attempting to promote my candidacy for the senate," he said.

McGrath has prepared his staff for his leave. "I'm convinced I leave the solicitor's office in capable hands. I will make certain that the transition is smooth," he said.

Jim Timmins, an assistant city solicitor, will become acting city solicitor during McGrath's leave. Timmins, who earns $774 per week as an assistant, will receive the solicitor's salary of $971 per week while acting solicitor.

Thomas Koch, executive secretary for Mayor James Sheets, said an interim assistant city solicitor may be hired during McGrath's leave. He said the office is extremely busy and without temporary help, the city would have only two lawyers, Timmins and Jeffrey Brids, the other assistant city solicitor, handling Quincy's legal matters.

Koch said the personnel changes in the law department would not cost the city more money than budgeted for FY93.

In 1989, McGrath, a former Quincy city councillor and council president, was appointed city solicitor by Sheets. The mayor said he supports McGrath's request.

"I support his request for a leave of absence without pay. Certainly, if he comes back as solicitor we will welcome him back. Not a day goes by without us drawing on his expertise."

McGrath announced his candidacy in April for the Norfolk County senate seat which comprises the city of Quincy, and the towns of Braintree, Holbrook and Avon. He practiced law in Holbrook from 1978 to 1991.

Kelly's Pub License Suspended For Two Days

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The Quincy License Board agreed at its meeting Tuesday to suspend the license of Kelly's Pub & Grub, 21-27 Billings Rd., for two consecutive Mondays, July 6 and 13.

The establishment will be closed all day on both days.

The suspension is a result of an incident occurring March 20 when Quincy Police Sgt. Robert Crowley said he observed intoxicated people being served alcohol at the bar. Crowley notified Det. Sgt. Richard Laracy, the city's liquor inspector, who told employees on duty not to serve people who were under the influence of alcohol.

After Laracy left the bar, however, Crowley said he saw one of the barmaids serve four obviously intoxicated male customers. He said he then shut down the bar at approximately 12:40 a.m., 20 minutes before its regular closing time.

Atty. Joseph Phelan of Quincy, representing the establishment and its owner, Peter Kelly, originally filed a notice of appeal with the Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission regarding the board's decision to suspend the bar's license for two days.

Kelly, however, since has decided to withdraw the appeal and accept the two-day suspension.

Farmers' Market Opens Friday

The Quincy Farmers' Market opens its 10th consecutive year Friday at the John Hancock Parking Lot (at Chestnut St. and McGrath Highway).

The Market will run every Friday from 11:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. until Oct. 30. A variety of plants, fruits and vegetables will be offered.

Consumers buy directly from the farmers. The produce is picked the day of the market and it is shipped only a short distance from Norfolk, Plymouth, Bristol and Worcester Counties.

When produce is grown and purchased locally it stimulates the local economy, saves fuel and resources spent on long-distance shipping, and preserves open spaces without using tax dollars.

The farmers accept USDA Food Stamps and Massachusetts Farmers Market Coupons (distributed at WIC offices). The Department of Public Welfare will also distribute Farmers' Market Coupons this summer.

Firemen's Memorial Exercises June 14

The annual Memorial Exercises of the Quincy Firemen's Relief Association will be held Sunday, June 14 at 10:30 a.m. at the Quincy Firemen's Memorial Monument in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Participants at the exercises for Quincy's deceased firefighters will include Fire Chief Thomas Gorman and officers of the Relief Association; President Harold Carroll, Vice President Noel Balducci, Treasurer Harold Shedd and Secretary James McCarthy.

In the event of inclement weather the program will be conducted at the George F. Bryan Post, VFW, 24 Broad St.

TAKE YOUR VITAMINS - VERY CAREFULLY!

We tend to think of vitamins and mineral supplements as harmless nutritional aids. The truth is, such thinking can put our children at risk. The number one cause of death due to drug overdose among children under six is the common iron tablet. The American Association for Poison Control Centers urges everyone to treat all vitamins and minerals with the same care as drugs. In households with youngsters, supplements should be kept locked up. Parents should stress to their children that those fruit-flavored chewables are medicine, NOT candy, and may be taken only as directed by Mom or Dad. Call a poison control center immediately when an overdose is suspected, even if the child seems fine. Serious side effects may not show up for hours.

P.S. Each year, more than 30,000 children under six swallow toxic quantities of vitamin/mineral supplements.

Consult your doctor about the proper dosages of vitamins for your child. If you would like to learn what you can do to stay healthy and ward off the dangers of heart attacks, feel free to call COMPREHENSIVE CARDIAC CARE at 472-2550. If necessary, we will refer you to another medical professional. Office hours are by appointment at 101 Adams St., Suite 24, in Quincy. THE POLLARD SCHOOL, as she will be fondly remembered by former pupils and teachers.

Pollard Won't Be Forgotten

(Henry Bosworth is taking the day off. Every now and then someone asks him to re-run a particular old column. Besides, he says, if television can do re-runs why can't he? This column first appeared Feb. 28, 1985.)

It seemed that whenever one of our five kids reached elementary school age I'd somehow find myself driving by the Pollard School.

"That's where I went to school," I told them, one by one through the years.

I said it with pride. And with a secret wish that their school would come to mean as much to them as the Pollard did to me.

The kids are grown up now — the youngest, a sophomore in college. I haven't driven by the Pollard as often in recent years.

But I did the other day. I wish I hadn't.

A demolition bucket and a bulldozer had turned the Pollard into a rubble of red brick. It was a painful sight.

A terrible way to die. First ravaged by flames from a fire that was set. And then, assaulted by the thump, thump, thump of a heartless bucket that only cared to cave in her walls.

It was bad enough that the Pollard had to be closed. But the fact the building would be used for something else was a comforting thought. At least those of us who went to school there could still drive by and see that familiar ranch style building that held so many fond memories for us.

That was before the fire.

The building is now gone. But the memories are still there. They can't take that away from us.

Whenever I think of the Pollard, I remember the teachers and the kids who were there with me. That's only natural, I guess. But there was something special about them.

Dedicated teachers — the school was full of them. Teachers like Mildred Litchfield, Ruth Abbiatti, Mary DiBartholomeo, Irma Salvucci, Ester Sullivan, Helen O'Connor, Helen Duncan, Beatrice Fitts, Loretta McDonald, Sadie Berman. And, of course, Principal William Morrison and Assistant Principal, Frank Mills.

They were interested in us like we were also their children instead of just their pupils. If pupils needed help, they were there to help even if it meant staying after school to do it.

They kept track of us as we grew up.

Miss Litchfield even kept a list of every pupil she had in every one of her classes for 30 years before her retirement. She could tell you the exact year each of them was in the fourth grade.

There were a lot of poor kids in Quincy Point during the depression. Miss Litchfield would never admit it but there were mornings when she provided breakfast for the hungry ones. And there were times she bought them clothing. Other teachers did a lot of other nice things quietly, too.

It was there at the Pollard and later at Quincy Point Junior High School that we learned to judge people not by their ancestry but by the kind of individual he or she was.

Quincy Point was the great "melting pot" with many children from a wide variety of immigrant families: Italian, Jewish, Scottish, Syrian, Lebanese, Moslem, Irish, English.

We learned to live together. If you liked someone or didn't like someone, it was because of him or her and not because of what country the parents or grandparents came from.

And if there was a wise guy somewhere in the crowd, it was inevitable that one day someone was going to dump a little humility on him.

For me, the Pollard School was where I decided to make journalism a career. Back in those days there was another daily newspaper in Quincy called The Quincy News.

It featured a weekly page or two of contributions written by school children. I got one published when I was in the fifth grade — my first byline.

From that day on I knew what I wanted to do.

If you were lucky enough to go to the Pollard School, you never forgot it.

TV personality Dave Garroway went there for a short time in the 1920's. His father was in the merchant marine and was here waiting for a ship to be completed at the old Fore River Shipyard. They lived on Ruggles St. during their short stay.

Some 30 or so years later I was covering the arrival of Mayflower II at Plymouth for the old Boston Traveler and Garroway was on assignment for NBC.

We got to talking and I said I understood he once lived in Quincy.

"Oh, yes," he replied with a smile, "I lived on Ruggles St. and went to the Pollard School. I loved it there."

Miss Abbiatti, who later became assistant principal of the Pollard and principal of other schools looked sad the other day shortly after the Pollard had been sentenced to death.

"Those were the good times," she said. "We will always have the memories — such good memories."

And, we will.

Whatever kind of building is erected on the site, whenever I look at it I will still see the Pollard School.

The Pollard was more than brick and mortar. It was a wonderful teacher-pupil relationship. It was a warm spirit of community pride.

They can't take that away from us. Not even with a fire, demolition bucket and bulldozer.

Never!

As New Superintendent:

Creedon Looks Forward To Renewal In Schools

By STEVE KAVANAGH

"I'm looking forward to a renewal in the Quincy Public Schools," said Quincy's new Superintendent of Schools Eugene Creedon.

He was appointed Superintendent during last week's School Committee meeting by a unanimous vote. Creedon had been serving as Acting Superintendent of Schools since January when Dr. Robert Ricci resigned.

GENE CREEDON

"I'm extremely honored to be selected as the next Superintendent of Schools, particularly in a school system that has played a significant role in the history of education in this country," he said.

Creedon, 56, has worked in education for the past 27 years. He began as a teacher at Quincy Point Junior High, and was principal at St. Ann's in Wollaston, Parker Elementary in North Quincy and Broad Meadows Middle School. He became supervisor of elementary education five years ago.

"My whole life has been one of love for children," Creedon said.

He said he has tremendous respect for Quincy teachers and is looking forward to working with them.

Creedon said he expects the job to be very challenging.

"I'm not unaware of the many problems facing the school system... including fiscal restraints," he said.

Early Childhood School, Bernazzani Addition Get CCEC Green Light

Just days after the razing of the Lincoln School plans for a new building for younger students has received approval from the City Council Education Committee.

New Superintendent of Schools Eugene Creedon outlined his $1.3 million proposal Monday to build a new early childhood school at the site of the Lincoln School and build an addition on to the Charles Bernazzani Elementary School. The Council approved the plan unanimously.

The goal of the plan is to reduce overcrowding at the Bernazzani and Lincoln-Hancock Schools.

Creedon said the new $800,000 school would house prekindergarten, kindergarten and first graders now enrolled at Lincoln-Hancock. The building will probably include 12 rooms. About 200 students will attend the new school instead of Lincoln-Hancock.

The $500,000 addition at Bernazzani will include four classrooms and a multi-purpose room (gymnasium-auditorium).

"Not only will this address overcrowding. It also lets both facilities become the educational facilities they always should have been," said Ward 4 City Councillor Thomas Fabrizio. The Lincoln and Lincoln-Hancock Schools are both in Ward 4.

Mayor James Sheets, who also favors the plan, is working on a bond proposal which will likely come before the council during a special summer meeting in late July or early August.

The target date for the new school and the addition is September 1993.

"With the overcrowding at these schools now there is not an atmosphere for the highest potential of learning," said Ward 3 Councillor Larry Chretien. Bernazzani School is in Ward 3.

"My impression is that there is overwhelming support for the superintendent's plan," Fabrizio said. "Lincoln School area neighbors are supportive of the plan and the neighborhood school concept."

Fabrizio said that in addition to the need for such a project the timing of it is good for the city financially.

"It's a good time to bond and the city is in good position. There would be minimal cost," he said.

Fabrizio also noted that there is a chance for reimbursement, up to 63 percent, for the project. Another $200,000 may be available to go towards the Lincoln School site if it can also be used as a community center.

The money was put up in the late 1980s by the developer of a condominium complex on Centre Street for a Ward 4 community center.

Creedon said he is excited about the concept of a school for early childhood education.

"The whole focus of the school is on young children," he said. "It helps us do much more in terms of growth and development in terms of entry into formal school."

Burgin Elected, Pledges 'New Deal' In City Politics

June 11-17
1935
57 Years Ago

Thomas S. Burgin, pledging a "new deal" in city politics, soundly defeating acting Mayor Leo E. Mullin in a special election, winning 20 of the 24 voting precincts.

His margin was 15,046 to 10,192, the largest majority ever given a Quincy mayor.

The Burgin celebration in Quincy Square, which was compared to that which followed Quincy High School's 3-0 football win over Brockton in 1925, featured brooms waving from office windows.

The Burgin sweep started immediately with the resignation of City Solicitor Charles R. Young and the firing of Public Works Commissioner Angelo Bizzozero, who was replaced by Ezekiel Sargent.

In one of his last acts in office, Mullin awarded a $288,000 contract for construction of a new wing on North Quincy High School to the A. Piotti Co. of Dorchester.

TEACHERS OATH PROPOSED

Rep. Charles W. Hedges (R-Quincy) took the floor of the State House of Representatives to make a fiery speech in opposition to the proposed teachers oath law.

"This measure is merely an opening wedge to secure the surrender of the rights of citizens," he said. "Next year a bill probably will be introduced to have truck drivers take the oath."

STRIKE VOTE POSTPONED

Members of Local 5 of the Shipbuilding Workers Union voted to pass up a strike deadline and asked negotiators to continue their talks with the Bethlehem Steel Co. about a contract.

Workers were seeking a 15 percent general pay hike, 10 percent more for night work, union recognition, seniority rights and a week's pay or a week's notice on dismissal of employees.

Management "declined to sign any written agreement."

SAUNDERS SUSPENDED

Jeppy Saunders, manager of the Fore River baseball team, was suspended for refusing to replay the ninth inning of a controversial game with the Civics.

City League President John McCue said he was suspended "for committing the greatest offense in baseball law, refusing to field a ball team on orders to do so by the league."

Marie's Kitchen

By MARIE J. D'OLIMPIO

Doris O's Chocolate Cake

Most people love a good chocolate cake and they're not easy to come by. As far as I'm concerned most of them are brown cakes but without the chocolate taste. One of my readers sent me this great recipe for a chocolate cake. Hope you will agree on its chocolatey flavor.

DORIS O'S CHOCOLATE CAKE
2 Tbsps butter
1 cup sugar
1 tsp baking powder
1/2 cup milk
1 cup flour
2 eggs (separated)
a pinch of salt
1 tsp vanilla
1 square chocolate (melted)

Cream butter and sugar. Mix flour, salt and baking powder together. Add egg yolks to butter and sugar. Add the flour mixture alternately with the milk. Add the melted chocolate; the vanilla; and then fold in beaten egg whites. Bake in an i or 9 x 3 baking pan in a 325 degree oven for 35 to 45 minutes. Let stand for a few minutes before removing. Front when cooled.

FROSTING
1 to 2 cups powdered sugar
1 tbsp butter
1 square melted chocolate
strong coffee to spread

Cream butter and sugar, add the coffee (or water) and the chocolate and mix until smooth.

Marie D'Olimpio is the author of "Simply Italian-And then Some," a collection of her own recipes. Copies of the book are available at Previte's Market, Sumner St., Quincy Point, Samoset Pharmacy, Samoset Ave., Merrymount and Winfield Gift Emporium, Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Isabella Fung Accepted To NU Scholars Program

Isabella Fung, a Quincy High School junior, has been accepted to the Northeastern University National Science Foundation Young Scholars Program this summer.

Fung was one of 24 students selected to attend the program. There were 300 students who applied to the program.

Northeastern's College of Engineering sponsors the program, which encourages students who have completed their sophomore or junior year in high school to pursue interests in mathematics, science and engineering.

Students attend classes and presentations on different engineering principles. They also make weekly field trips to government and industrial research facilities where they see engineers at work in a variety of settings.

Our Policy On Engagement Photographs And Wedding Announcements

The Quincy Sun will continue to publish photographs with engagement announcements as it always has.

The Sun will also continue to use in wedding announcements the names of all members of the wedding party including maid or matron of honor, best man, parents, bridesmaids, ushers, flower girls and ringbearers, etc.

We invite engaged couples to submit their photos with their announcements and when submitting their wedding photo to include a complete listing of the wedding party.

Black and white photos are preferred. The Sun can convert most color photos to black and white for publication but the photo loses some clarity in the process.

We suggest that when you have your engagement photo taken, you request the studio to send a copy to The Sun with the reminder that The Sun is continuing its policy of publishing engagement photos.

The Sun also publishes articles and photos of wedding anniversaries beginning with the 25th anniversary.

And, as in the past, there is no charge.

Children's Sunday At United First Parish

United First Parish Unitarian Church, Hancock St., Quincy Square, will hold its annual Children's Sunday service Sunday at 10:30 a.m.

The service will open as Caitlin Sullivan lights the flaming chalice, symbol of Unitarianism.

The program will include a presentation by the Level 1 class of "The Complaint Against the Stomach," an ancient Greek story about cooperation, and an Old Testament rap written by the Level 2 class.

Middle school children who wrote essays on John Winthrop and Anne Hutchison after visiting their memorials in Boston will read their essays and receive awards from the United Quincy Alliance.

Second graders who completed the yearlong "Growing Up Unitarian" project will be recognized in a ceremony led by Rev. Sheldon Bennett and be presented with flaming chalice pins. Lucy Ross, Adam Cook, and Collin Chesley are this year's participants.

Bibles will be presented to children graduating from fifth grade to middle school.

Eighth graders Russell Savela and Marc Adams will usher; Heather Winiewicz and Elaine McKeon will greet.

Mary Vallier, a longtime church member, will present every child with a tomato plant she grew, a favorite church tradition.

All are invited to the service and to the social hour which follows.

Quincy United Methodist To Observe Children's Sunday

Children's Sunday will be observed at the 10 a.m. worship service Sunday at the Quincy Community United Methodist Church, 40 Beale St., Wollaston.

Joanne Smith and Kathy Emerson, co-superintendents of the Sunday School will be in charge of the special program. Church facilities are handicapped accessible and nursery care is provided.

Greeters will be Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gordon and ushers will be Janet McGonigle and Melvia Sears. Scripture reader will be Jay Stearns.

Hostesses at the fellowship hour will be Grace Shields, Millie McHugh, Francis Blair and Janet Shields.

That afternoon at 2 p.m. the senior choir and bellringers will conclude their choral activities with a cookout at the home of music director, Douglas Ulwick and on June 17 will attend an organ concert in Methuen. From June 17-20, the Rev. Harry Soper Jr. and Herbert Williams will represent the church at the United Methodist Annual Conference in Springfield.

Free Car Wash At First Presbyterian

The youth of First Presbyterian Church, 270 Franklin St., South Quincy, will hold a Car Wash Saturday, June 13 from 9 a.m. to noon.

Cars will be washed free of charge. The youth have recruited sponsors who will donate money for each car washed. The money will go toward a youth trip and mission project this summer.

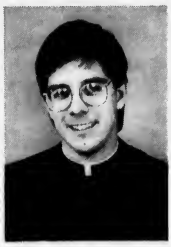
Rev. Robert Blaney To Celebrate First Mass At Our Lady Good Counsel



REV. ROBERT BLANEY

Robert M. Blaney, 35 Samoset Ave., Quincy, will be ordained to the sacred priesthood by his Eminence Bernard Cardinal Law Saturday, June 13 at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross in Boston.

He will then celebrate his first public Mass Sunday, June 14 at 3 p.m. at Our Lady of Good Counsel Parish, 227 Sea St.

Blaney graduated from Quincy High School in 1984 and has been an active member of Our Lady of Good Counsel as an altar server and religious education teacher. The son of Robert and Mary Blaney and the brother of Joseph Blaney, he entered St. John's Seminary in 1984 and was ordained to diaconate in January.

Following the Mass there will be a reception and first blessing in the parish hall.

Rev. Joseph Downey To Celebrate Mass At St. Joseph's Church

St. Joseph's Parish, Quincy Point, will celebrate a Mass for the handicapped, sick and elderly parishioners and former parishioners Saturday, June 20 at noon.

The Mass, which will be celebrated by former pastor Rev. Joseph Downey, will be held in the G.T. Nickerson gymnasium.

Rev. Joseph Roeke will be the guest homilist.

The Sacrament of the Anointing of the Sick will be administered to those attending. Following the Mass a luncheon will be served.

To register call Judy Kahlea at 773-6089 or Eleanor McBride at 472-6628. The Mass is part of the St. Joseph's 75th anniversary celebration of the founding of the parish.

'Church School Sunday' At Point Congregational

Quincy Point Congregational Church will celebrate "Church School Sunday" Sunday at the 10 a.m. worship service.

The service will be led by members of the teaching staff and the children and young people of the church. Sunday's theme will be "We Confess That Jesus Is The Christ."

The church is located at the corner of Washington St. and Southern Artery in Quincy.

Nursery and kindergarten children will sing and the first and second grades will lead the congregation in praying the Lord's Prayer and will also recite Psalm 23.

Third and fourth graders will also sing. Grade Five will recite Psalms 121 and 122 and lead the congregational in a responsive prayer.

The sixth grade class will lead the Invitation to Community, the Call to Worship and the Prayer of Invocation; they have also prepared the Sunday bulletin covers and provided the "Prayer Upon Entering the Sanctuary."

The young people in grades seven through nine will share some of their learnings from Church School. Rev. Fred Atwood-Lyon will lead in the Time with the Children, called "Uh-huh!"

Members of the 1992 Confirmation class will assist by serving as greeters and handing out Sunday bulletins to worshippers as they arrive at the church.

Eric Carlson, chair of the Christian Education Board, will introduce members of the teaching staff who will introduce each student to the congregation, and present Certificates of Promotion. Church School Superintendent Debbie Tait and Church School Secretary Denise Van Schagen will present Attendance Pins for perfect attendance for the first and second year. Shirley Carbonneau, teacher, will present copies of "The Living Bible" to the second grade students; Denise Hunter and Deanna Van Schagen, teachers, will award the "Good News Bible" to students graduating from the sixth grade class.

Geraniums, in memory of Wally and Sadie Sylvester, will be presented to each infant, child and young person attending this service.

A Third Generation Continues Our Traditions.

Quincy has changed a great deal since Sweeney Funeral Home was established in 1917. But, it's nice to know some things will never change. Like the observance of traditional values and customs.

At Sweeney Funeral Homes, older residents are quick to notice the subtle reminders of yesteryear, such as the grey gloves our funeral director still wears. Like the characteristic top hat and tails that our founder, Dennis Sweeney, wore over 30 years ago, they reflect our Tradition. One that has been built on a dignified and instinctive concern for the city's bereaved families for three generations.

Today, our founder's grand-nephew, Dennis S. Sweeney has continued the family's philosophy of maintaining a beautiful, home-like atmosphere.

And like his namesake, who started pre-arrangements in the 1940s, Dennis believes in helping residents to plan for the future. Pre-planning means that this financial decision is not left for a family to decide while they are attempting to cope with a major personal loss. It's a difficult time, a time when family members are least able to make the wisest choice.

Sweeney Funeral Homes has been helping South Shore residents with difficult decisions for over 70 years. Call Dennis Sweeney at (617) 773-2728 for a free consultation. There's no time like the present.

AMONG THE RIDES being featured at the Quincy City Festival at Marina Bay this week through Sunday is the Sea Dragon, one of the newest rides on the Fiesta Shows carnival midway. The 40-ton amusement device carries up to 60 passengers per ride.

Quincy City Festival At Marina Bay

The annual Quincy City Festival opened Tuesday and will continue through Sunday, June 14 at Marina Bay.

Fiesta Shows' carnival features rides, games and food concessions. In addition to all of the old ride favorites, a new Haunted House and several new children's rides have been added.

An international circus from Mexico will highlight the schedule of free shows and attractions. The Garcia family from Mexico will perform "Circo de Espectacular" ("Circus of Thrills") twice nightly and three times on Saturday and Sunday. In addition to a comedy trampoline act, exciting 40' revolving space wheel, and majestic Spanish Web, the motorcycle "Globe of Death" will be the featured attraction.

Making a return visit to the festival is the popular Commerford Petting Zoo. Under a colorful 40' by 80' circus tent, patrons can pet and feed several varieties of exotic animals. Elephant and pony rides are also available.

The "Grab for Cash" free money give-away will be presented throughout carnival. Patrons selected at random will have 30 seconds to grab as much money as they can inside the glass enclosed "money-machine." Contestants can win as much as $300.

Two money-saving ride promotions are planned for Wednesday, June 10 and Sunday, June 14. Patrons purchasing a wristband from 6 to 10 p.m. on Wednesday, can ride unlimited rides until closing. On Sunday, June 14 wristbands will be sold from the noon opening to 5 p.m. and be good for unlimited rides until 6 p.m.

The wristbands will be sold each day for $10, $8 with Quincy City Festival newspaper ad coupons. The discount offer does not include the Fiesta 500 and live animal rides.

The carnival opens each evening at 6 p.m. and noon on Saturday and Sunday. There is an admission charge of $1. Children under six are free. Parking is also free.

Charles Condos, 100

Owned Splendid Team Rooms In Quincy

A funeral service for Charles Condos, 100, of Quincy, was held June 6 in St. Catherine's Greek Orthodox Church.

Mr. Condos died June 3 at the Hellenic Nursing Home in Canton.

He was the former owner and operator of the Alhambra and the Splendid Tea Rooms in Quincy.

He came to the United States at age 17 from the island of Mytlini in what was then part of Turkey and is now controlled by Greece.

After living in several communities, he came to Quincy and went into business with his brother-in-law to-be, Louis Palelis. The two shops they ran in downtown Quincy were popular attractions when the city was home to several movie theaters and was known as "Shopperstown."

Making his own ice cream and candy, he operated in Quincy Square until 1951 when he bought the Wollaston Doughnut Shop on Beale St. He ran that for three years until his son, James Condos of Hingham took it over. He stayed on at the shop part-time until he was 89.

He served briefly in the Army during World War I and was a member of the American Legion in Jamaica Plain.

He lived in Quincy from the early 1920s until moving to a nursing home 10 years ago.

D. Scott Deware

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

It seems a pertinent question to ask these days, "What does the flag mean to you" Is it only a symbol? If so, of what? Our nation's independence? Is it identified only with a ritualistic habit?

What do the colors of red, white and blue mean? Do the number of stars mean only a union of separate states? Do the stars mean anything else? What do the red and white stripes represent? Does the color of red symbolize the blood shed by soldiers to gain independence for us? Does it indicate the valor, zeal and fervency of the American way?

Does the white indicate hope, purity and cleanliness? Does the blue indicate the color of the sky and see which in turn indicates reverence to God? ... It may mean some of these things to some people. But should it not mean, above everything else, a symbol of American Civilization, Enlightenment and Liberty; a reflection of patriotism at its finest?

For those times when the darkness lingers

With the loss of a loved one through death, it is helpful to be able to share the feelings and emotions which we all experience.

For most of us, there are family members, clergy, and friends who are ready to listen in a caring way.

Yet, there are those who find it helpful to share their grief with someone outside their immediate circle of support.

Because of our continuing commitment to the families we serve, Keohane Funeral Service is pleased to announce that Dr. Sherry Johnson has joined our staff as a Grief Counselor. Her educational background, professional experience and understanding manner can be particularly helpful.

We are the first funeral home in New England to offer the service of a Grief Counselor.

Legion Baseball

Wollaston Edges Morrisette, 5-4

By TOM SULLIVAN

Wollaston Legion's baseball team is off to a good start with a 2-0 record and Monday night handed Morrisette (2-1) its first loss, 5-4, at Adams Field.

Wollaston had blanked Milton, 5-0, in its opener, while Morrisette had defeated Weymouth, 9-2, and Randolph, 10-8, in its first two games.

Wollaston played Quincy last night (Wednesday), will host Randolph tonight at 8:30 at Adams Field, will be home to Braintree Saturday night at Adams at 8, will play at Weymouth Monday at 5:45 and will be at Braintree next Thursday at 7:30.

Morrisette played at Braintree last night, will host Canton Sunday night at 8 at Adams, will host Holbrook at Adams Monday night at 8:30 and will be at Milton next Wednesday at 8.

Errors played a big part in the outcome of Monday's Wollaston-Morrisette game, with six of the nine runs being unearned.

Morrisette outhit Wollaston, 7-3, but four walks, two errors and three hit batsmen were fatal to the defending Zone 6 co-champions.

Scott Dunn, who recently finished an unbeaten season at Suffolk University, pitched all the way for Wollaston, giving up seven hits and two earned runs, striking out two and walking four.

Mike Malvesti started for Morrisette and was the loser and younger brother Tom pitched three innings of strong relief.

Wollaston scored a run in the first when Pat Gallagher walked, stole second and scored on an infield error. Morrisette went ahead with two runs in the fourth when Tom Balzano singled, Mark Cahill walked and Dan Duncan doubled.

Wollaston regained the lead in the bottom half on a walk to Bob Fitzpatrick, Duane Holmes' double and a throwing error. Wollaston widened its lead to 5-2 in the fifth when Jeff Craig singled, Harry Rozanitis was hit by a pitch and both scored on a throwing error.

Morrisette came back with two in the sixth on an error, walk, infield hit and another error.

In Wollaston's opening game, Steve Loud, who had an outstanding year for Quincy High with several low-hit games including a no-hitter, hurled a three-hitter against Milton. He struck out nine and had two singles and scored two runs himself.

Gallagher had two hits and two RBI, Mark Swirbalus an RBI single and Craig a single.

Wollaston has a veteran squad with Dunn, pitcher; Loud, pitcher-outfielder; Fitzpatrick, catcher; Holmes, first base; Tom Brenner, catcher; Tony Bianco, outfield; Chris Cunio, second base; Craig, third base; Gallagher, shortstop; John Gangi, catcher; Eric Kane, outfield; Scott Kohler, outfield; Steve Manning, pitcher-infield; Terry Manning, pitcher-outfield, Chris Peck, outfield; Rozanitis, third base; Swirbalus, first base-outfield; and Mark Taylor, pitcher-outfield.

The coaches are Mark Gormley, Steve Buckley, Mike Draccio and Ron DiNardo.

In Morrisette's opening win over Weymouth, the club had 17 hits and Mike Patch pitched six-hit ball, struck out five and didn't walk a man.

Balzano went 4-for-4, Mark Kelleher went 3-for-3, Robbie Kane 2-for-4 with a double, Dave Reinhart 2-for-4, Adam Calvert two doubles, Pat Shea and RBI single, Patch a hit, Serge Belcastro a hit and Mark Cahill a triple.

Morrisette then overcame a 7-0 deficit to defeat Randolph. Randolph scored six runs in the second on a series of bloop hits and added one in the third.

Morrisette came back to score 10 runs on eight hits, three walks and a costly error.

Sean Donovan started for Morrisette and was the winner. He also had a single and a walk and drove in two runs. Shea drove in two with a triple and single, Belcastro three hits including a double, and Balzano had a single and walk.

Mike Malvesti relieved Donovan with two outs in the seventh with the tying runs on base and struck out the final batter for the save.

Awards Presented At QHS Wrestling Team Banquet

A large crowd attended the Quincy High wrestling team awards banquet held recently at Morrisette Legion Post.

Among the invited guests were School Supt. Eugene Creedon, Principal Lloyd Hill, Athletic Director Bill Walker and former coach Carmen Mariano.

Several special awards were presented to the wrestlers.

Ally Sleiman, who won the state championship, was awarded the Joseph Streadwick scholarship. Sleiman will attend Northeast Oklahoma State this fall.

The William Marston scholarship was won by Clint Currie.

Greg Souza, state finalist, was awarded the Michael Doherty Award, given to the hardest worker.

Sophomore Ashley Davis won the Wayne DeShamp Trophy for his work on and off the mat.

Other awards went to Michael Anderson, Gary Collins, Keith Norris and Lisa Ross.

Davis and Mark Nutley were named co-captains of next year's Presidents.

Triple A

Fernald DedicatesWin To Tommy Gilmartin

The Fernald Plumbing Dodgers defeated the Kenny's Lock Cubs, 15-11, dedicating the game to 12-year-old Tommy Gilmartin, who died earlier from cancer.

Tommy's good friend, John Parastatides pitched 4 1/3 innings and struck out 13, including the side in the first inning. Pat Dugan got the save. Losing pitcher Frank McNamara had eight strikeouts.

Parastatides, Mark Hawes, Jim Parastatides and Jim Callahan had multiple-hit games and Callahan drove in two runs. Sean Garvey had a triple and two RBI, Hawes a home run and three RBI, and Pat Foley a double and two RBI. Defensively, with 16 of the 18 outs being strikeouts, the pitchers did it all with only a fly to Matt Allen and a ground to Matt Nelson being the only defensive plays.

For the Cubs Eric France had a double and Chris Burdeau, Jodi Fullerton, Connor Quilty, Greg Walsh, Joseph O'Connell, Dennis Murphy and Frank McNamara played well defensively.

The Papa Gino's Tigers broke open a close game with seven runs in the sixth to defeat the Twins, 11-5.

Winning pitcher Tony Shweiri had six strikeouts. Chris Pollara had two doubles and a single, Pat O'Neil a triple and single and Alex King a home run and triple. Chris Petit had a double. King played well defensively and started two double plays.

For the Twins John Sullivan and Rick Keefe played fine games.

The league's annual all-star game will be played this Saturday night at 7 at Mitchell Field off Southern Artery.

The stars are chosen from all 14 teams in the league. These 12-year-old players were selected because of their talents as ball players. Admission is free.

The Tigers scored seven runs in the final two innings to edge the Yankees, 7-6, with Tony Schweiri the winning pitcher with six strikeouts and Kerry Ginty the loser with five strikeouts.

Steve Ford had a triple and two singles and Alex King a single and double. Defensively Pat O'Neil, Chris Pollara and King were outstanding.

For the Yankees Greg Peck had two doubles and Ginty two singles, while Ginty and Peck played strong defense.

The Dodgers defeated the Athletics, 13-8, for their fourth win in a row, improving their record to 9-4.

Sean Garvey pitched a complete game, giving up six hits, striking out seven and walking six. Losing pitcher Dennis Palardy was roughed up for 16 hits, struck out six and walked three. He pitched well until the fourth when the Dodgers' reserves came in and collected seven hits in a row.

Matt Allen went 2-for-2 including a home run with two RBI and four stolen bases, Charlie Doherty went 3-for-4 including a double and five stolen bases, Garvey went 4-for-4 including a double with two RBI and three stolen bases, John Parastatides went 2-for-3, a homer and double with two RBI, Jeff Russo went 2-for-3 with a home run and two RBI and Chris Doherty had a double.

Defensive stars were Russo, nine-year-old Chris Doherty, Parastatides, Charlie Doherty and Allen.

For the Athletics Joshua Olsen had a home run and double and two RBI and Pasqueil Roosa had a double and two RBI. Jamie MacIssac, Sima Junkovic, Olsen, Dennis Palardy, Jamie Panagos and Brian Stuart had fine defensive games.

Junior Baseball

Burgin Snaps Cable's Win Streak

Burgin Platner ended Continental Cable's unbeaten streak at 10 with a 10-5 decision in Quincy Junior Baseball League action.

Jim Cunio and Mark Driscoll combined to hold Cable to three hits as Burgin jumped out to an early 7-0 lead with Jason Crossman delivering a bases loaded double and Driscoll and Will Tracy having key hits.

Cable came back to within 7-4 when John Sullivan and Mike Powers doubled for the key hits.

Burgin put the game out of reach as Cunio doubled home two runs in the sixth. Cunio had two hits as did Tracy and Driscoll. Jonathan Brillo had an RBI double.

For Burgin Jason Chagnon and Tony Saffier also had hits.

Chris Bregoli pitched Cable to an 11-2 win over South Shore Buick, striking out 10.

Powers led Cable with four hits while Sullivan had four RBI. Other hitting stars included Chad Fitzpatrick with two hits including a triple and three RBI and Mark Millen with two RBI.

Jon Calari had a two-run homer for Buick and Kevin Cellucci, Matt Kisel and Mike Sampson had the other hits.

Burgin Platner edged the Quincy Police, 5-4, with Cunio the winning pitcher.

Crossman had a double and Cunio, Stafier, Joey McRitchie, Jessie Winter and Judson Sherman-Ross all had hits.

Rotary walloped Burgin Platner, 13-4, with Adam Goodrich the winning pitcher.

Billy Connolly, Adam Delorey, Mike McLaughlin, Matt McDonough, T.J. Wilson, Brian Linskey, Brian Kalil and Kevin Shaw led the offensive and Mativa Tupe hit his first home run. Defensively Adam Delorey and Shaw stood out.

For Burgin Platner Billy Tracy, Paul Starzenski, Mark Driscoll, James Cunio, Tony Staffier, Joey MacRitchie, John Barron and Judson Sherman Rose did the hitting and Jason Chagnon and Jason Crossman played well in the field.

Basketball

10 Inducted Into Quincy Hall Of Fame

By PETE ZOIA

The Quincy High School Basketball Alumni Association Hall of Fame added 10 new members at its recent dinner at the Sons of Italy Hall.

Former coach Rick DeCristofaro, a member of the Hall of Fame committee, introduced the new inductees, Rev. Joseph Papile gave the invocation and Guido "Budsie" Pettinelli was master of ceremonies.

The following were inducted into the Hall:

The late Gilbert "Crum" Crofts, 1928, played center and averaged seven points a game, considered high in those days of low scores. He became director of the Quincy YMCA and held the post for many years, moving from the old Y on Washington Street to the present site on Coddington Street. Crofts' widow, Helene, accepted his award.

Glenn Fleisher, 1942, was small as basketball players go but was outstanding as "a player's player." His greatest asset was stealing the ball and racing down the court and scoring. He was also known for his accurate passing to teammates. He was an outstanding football player and starred as a halfback and was a Patriot Ledger all-scholastic and is a member of the Quincy Football Hall of Fame. He was out of state and unable to attend the dinner.

Bob "Bo" Page, 1951, was a member of Quincy's Tech Tourney champions. Bob follows his brother, George, into the Hall of Fame. George was a member of the famed Granite Chips. Bob was known as Quincy's "sixth man" playing under the late Munroe MacLean.

He was instrumental in defeating Somerville in the Tech finals and going to the finals of the New England Tournament. His floor play was excellent, feeding the ball to fellow players for scores.

Wayne Hamilton, 1959, was a Greater Boston League all-star and had a 14-point per game average. He scored 23 points against North Quincy, 29 against Malden and 19 against Everett. A former teacher in Holbrook, he now teaches at his alma mater.

Fran Conroy, 1961, was an immediate starter and played every position. Defensively he was among the best and in his senior year his team went 17-1. He played at Northeastern University and coached at the junior high level. He currently teaches at Atlantic Middle School.

Ken DiBona, 1963, was a GBL all-star and hit double figures in nearly every game he played in. He scored 31 points against Weymouth and 29 against Somerville and was the high scorer in both games with North Quincy. He also was an outstanding free throw shooter.

Ron DiRamio, 1964, averaged 16 points a game in his senior year and was looked upon by teammates as a team leader. One of his best games was against then powerhouse Chelsea, which lost to the Presidents in overtime. He was a GBL all-star and went on to star at Suffolk University.

Ed Daley, 1978, is living in San Diego and was unable to be present. His father accepted his award. Ed was a two-year starter at point guard, always a hustler and unselfish in passing off to others. He never allowed his opponent to score in double figures and was a Patriot Ledger all-scholastic and Suburban League all-star. He played at Brandeis University.

Stan Benson, 1980, was 6' 3" and solidly built, acquiring the nickname of "Bing, Bang Benson." He was a Suburban League all-star in his senior year and one of his thrills was playing against New York Knicks star Patrick Ewing, then a brilliant player at Cambridge Rindge & Latin. He had Ewing figured out and battled him all the way.

Peter Papile, 1982, is one of the many Quincy Pointers to be named to the Hall of Fame. A Patriot Ledger all-scholastic, he was known for his long shot baskets. In two games against Brockton he totaled 41 points and scored 35 against Brookline. He played with pain and averaged 18 points a game his senior year.

Quincy's "Firehouse Five" Hall of Famers of 1962, Bill Nolan, Frank Driscoll, Bill Donovan, Bob Chew and Bob Mina presented a scholarship to Dave Jolley, who this year finished an outstanding career at Quincy. Jolley was the team's high scorer and a Patriot Ledger all-scholastic.

Special awards went to Jakie Wier and Ron Mariano.

Wier has been Quincy's equipment manager for 20 years and received a standing ovation after thanking the coaches for "letting me have lots of fun being with the players." He thanked his mother and father for their direction and support.

Mariano, former teacher and coach and now a member of the Quincy School Committee, said "We need help from grownups to help the kids in the various programs."

Pettinelli was recognized for always finding time to help the youth of Quincy. "Just being here with my many friends is thanks enough," he said. He was the organizer of the Hall of Fame.

Among those in attendance were Bill Delahunt, Mike Morrissey, George Page, Delmo DiBona, Bob Gumpwright, Frank Santoro, Gus DeBoer, Jim Rendle, Andy Pasquale, George O'Rourke, Pete Ramponi, Ralph Graham, Bob Pettinelli, George Burke, Roger Barry, Ray Papile, Ray Papile, Jr., Mario Casale, Bill Draicchio, Dr. Sid Cutler, Dinny DiNardo, Ellie Hughes and principal Lloyd Hill.

Former coaches attending were Marty Finnegan, Rick DeCristofaro, Joe Amorosino and present coach John Franceschini.

HALL OF FAMERS--Inductees and Quincy Basketball Hall of Fame committee members enjoyed the third annual awards dinner. Front, l to r, Stan Benson, Helen Crofts, who accepted the award for the late Gilbert "Crum" Crofts, Peter Papile and Fran Conroy. Standing, l to r, former coach and retiring athletic director Marty Finnegan, Ron DiRamio, Ken DiBona, Guido "Budsie" Pettinelli, Mike Draicchio and Chris Barrett.

St. John's League

Bocce Club Stays On Top

By POMPEO CARDARELLI

The Bocce Club remained in first place in St. John's baseball league with a 7-3 victory over Sweeney Brothers.

Winning pitcher Steve Maze, Mike Centralla and Mike Anilowski all went 2-for-3 and Sara Carson, Centralla and Anilowski all played strong defense.

Sweeney Brothers came back to defeat Bolea-Buonfiglio Funeral Home, 13-6, with Ryan Ploof the winning pitcher. For Sweeney David Forde and Mike Kane each had two hits, two RBI and a run scored, and Frank Sweeney had three stolen bases, including home, and scored two runs.

For Bolea Billy Duke went 3-for-4, John Barron struck out six batters and Joey Martino played strong defense.

Agnitti Insurance edged Sunshine Fruit, 6-5. Gordon Webber's grand slam homer won the game in the fifth inning. Andrew Cantelli and Mike DeBeneetto hit well and Matthew Tupe and Jessica Hogan played strong defense.

For Sunshine John Chevalier had a three-run homer, Candice Fabian scored a run and Dan McLaughlin played well on defense.

In farm league action DiBona Plumbing edged Sweeney Funeral Service, 2-1.

David Benn was the winning pitcher, striking out eight in three innings. Ryan Donnelly won the game with a two-run homer in the fifth inning. Mike Doyle and Anthony Calley played well.

North Girls 7th In Class B Championships

The North Quincy girls' track team made a fine showing in the state Class B championships last weekend at Reading High, scoring 22 points to tie for seventh place.

Suzanne Lewis sparked the North girls, winning the two-mile in 11:30.5.

Heather Rendle was second in the high jump at 5-2 and Tricia Hughes was fourth in the triple jump at 35-11 1/4.

In the Class A boys meet at Bridgewater Quincy's Chris Walker, who had an outstanding season, gave the Presidents 12 points and a tie for 13th place.

Walker placed second in the long jump at 21-9 3/4 and was fourth in the 110 hurdles at 15.0.

Babe Ruth

Poland Winner In Overtime Slugfest

Poland Springs improved its Quincy Babe Ruth League record to 5-2 by defeating Golden Print, 12-11, and Bryan Post VFW, 13-8.

In the Golden Print game the scored was tied 8-8, sending the game into extra innings. Poland Springs scored four runs in the ninth and held off a Golden Print rally. Mike Kenney picked up the win, improving his record to 3-0.

Kenney, J.J. Farrell and Brian Driscoll had two hits each and Mike Gibbons, Adam DeBoer, Marty Shields, Chris Malone, Danny Hughes and Chris Erler had hits.

Paul Marnikovic pitched a two-hitter for six innings against Bryan Post. Marnikovic, Farrell, Shields and Gibbons had two hits apiece and DeBoer, Driscoll, Erler, Joe Renzi and Ryan Herlihy also had hits. Billy Nelson, John-Paul DeAngelis and John Greene also contributed to the win.

Bryan Post defeated Golden Print, 6-1, behind Michael Koski's one-hit pitching. Koski struck out 13.

Catcher Dan Donahue was a defensive standout for Bryan Post and infielders Matt McSweeney, Bob Shaw, Scott Pyer and David Rowell played strong defense.

McSweeney and Patrick Cummings had RBI singles and Donahue also had a hit. Jon Ryan, Bill Graney, Rob Churchill, Mike Eddy, Ken O'Connell and Robbie Callow played well.

Relief pitcher Jeff Russell was effective for Golden Print, scattering three hits overs 6 2/3 innings.

Local 1139's Mike Santoro and Jim Sapienza teamed up to defeat the Sons of Italy, 2-1, in extra innings.

Santoro pitched three-hit ball and struck out 11 for seven innings and gave way to Brendan Welch, who struck out the side in the eighth. Mal Higgins came on in the ninth to nail down the win.

A two-out homer by Sapienza gave Local 1139 the lead in the top of the ninth. Fifteen-year-old Doug Gallagher had scored Local's only other run in the fifth to tie the score at 1-1. Kevin O'Brien played outstanding defense at first base.

Rob Malone pitched impressively for Sons of Italy with a two-hit, eight strikeout performance. Jason Downey relieved after the seventh inning and gave up the winning home run. Downey also scored the only run.

Local 1139 also defeated Granite City Electric, 11-3, to improve to 5-1.

Sapienza pitched a one-hitter and struck out seven and Mike Scheffer led the attack with two doubles. Santoro went 2-for-3 with a double and single, Sapienza went 3-for-4 with a single and two doubles and Doug Gallagher, Higgins, Jason Fontana and Johnny Johnson had hits. Defensively, Welch was a standout.

For Granite City Matt Beston pitched well for three innings before being relieved by Bobby Sampson. Mike Travis also pitched well.

Barry's Deli defeated Houghs Neck, 8-1, with its fourth win in a row after two losses.

Geoff Meade, 13-year-old rookie, was the winning pitcher, scattering five hits and walking four. He had plenty of support, especially by shortstop Ron McGann, who had an unassisted double play. Rob Rose also had an outstanding play. The offense was led by Greg Santoro and McGann with two hits each. Jim Goldrick and Sean Kennerson had a hit apiece. Bruce Stenberg, Mike Hannon, Kenny Ledwak, Greg Conway, Paul Greeley and Billy Manning all played strong defense.

Softball

Laura's One-Hitter Moves Sagamore Into First

The Sagamore Inn moved into a first place tie with Low Value Carpet last week after crushing LVC, 16-0.

Sagamore has won its last four games by a combined score of 60-8.

Ed Laura pitched a one-hitter for his seventh win of the season and addeda a two-run triple in the first inning. Sagamore got nine runs in the first for Laura to work with.

Tom Dormady, Tom Spillane, Joe Grimmaldi, Gary Keaney, Joe Callahan, Ron Payne and Gary McGrath had two hits each and Ed Paige went 4-for-5. Scott Messina was excellent defensively.

Each household will be given a sticker noting its donation.

3 Ships Sought For Museum At Fore River

more vessels during World War I than all the other yards in the country combined.

The museum proposal is gaining sweeping support from city, state and federal officials. They include Mayor James Sheets, Norfolk County Treasurer Robert Hall, AK Engineering, the Shipbuilder's Union, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Massachusetts State Military Archives, Philadelphia Naval Shipyard and the U.S. Sea Systems Command.

"Everyone seems to be enthusiastic," Sheets said. "We think the museum is a very positive, non-industrial, water use. If we don't take charge of preserving our shipbuilding history, we're going to lose it."

In addition, several other key figures have backed the plan. One is MWRA Executive Director Douglas MacDonald. The MWRA owns the shipyard site and MacDonald has informed Sheets that the authority will provide berthing space and land for the museum at a low rate.

A committee from Salem, which was interested in trying to bring the U.S.S. Salem to the "City of Witches," is also supporting the museum. MacMullen said the committee realizes Salem does not have a suitable site for the cruiser. As a result, the committee will give the corporation assistance, including financial help, to bring the Salem to Quincy.

MacMullen said the corporation needs about $2.5 million to get the museum up and running and another $1.5 million to put on the finishing touches. He said the corporation, which is essentially the same corporation which tried to bring the U.S.S. Lexington home to Quincy, can float up to $10 million in bonds for the project.

Already, the corporation has $500,000 in pledges, mainly left over from the Lexington drive.

"If the museum comes to fruition, it will be a private effort through a non-profit development corporation. The city would not be directly creating it. We support it and will help get it started but Quincy will not financially support it," the mayor said.

MacMullen, who is confident the museum could someday attract as many as 350,000 visitors annually, said the museum would be much more than a tourist site. He said the museum would be used to teach shipbuilding engineering and technology using state-of-the-art displays.

For example, the U.S.S. Sailfish would be land based and deteriorated sections of the ship would be removed to allow students to study ship construction.. "By opening the hull and making the segments of the hull visible, a true understanding of how submarines work and are constructed can be shown," MacMullen said.

The U.S.S. Salem would be the "Showboat" of the USNSM exhibit. The vessel would be used for overnight stays for Boy and Girl Scout groups, veterans groups and ship reunions.

As a Heavy Cruiser from the "Big Gun" era, the corporation plans to integrate a computerized audio-visual series of "drills" which would be made up of drills going to general quarters, damage control, docking, etc.

"A member of the museum staff would be present to direct and explain what that procedure would be and why," MacMullen said. "As we have many veterans of the Salem requesting to be a part of this program, we feel it will be very heavily subscribed."

In addition, the corporation wants to integrate a war gaming system on board as part of the "interactive" program. Children and adults could match wits against a computerized version of the "Battleship Game."

Built in Quincy in 1945, the U.S.S. Salem was deployed many times as a flagship during the Peace Cruises of the 1950s. The vessel played a significant role in the rescue and relief effort to Greece after a devastating earthquake in the early 1950s.

Measuring 718 feet long, the Salem is only one of three "big gun" cruisers built. The Salem, U.S.S. Des Moines and U.S.S. Newport News got their nickname because their size and guns resemble those of battleships.

The Salem would be only the second cruiser memorial. The first was the U.S.S. Olympia in Philadelphia.

MacMullen said the museum feature two buildings. One building would be used to house the largest collection of military archives north of Washington, D.C. Artifacts include uniforms, weapons, records, and hardware such as tanks, howitzers, tracked vehicles, and aircraft both fixed wing and helicopter types.

The other building would showcase rotating exhibits from the U.S. Naval Academy, U.S. Navy Museum and the Maritime Museum in San Francisco.

Plans also call for a park with green space, displays with Navy bells from old ships, and a water shuttle service from the museum to the Charlestown Navy Yard, JFK Library and Boston Harbor Islands.

ANOTHER POSSIBLE ATTRACTION at the Fore River shipbuilding museum is a Fletcher Class Destroyer like the U.S.S. Cogswell, a World War II "tin can" which was brought back into service for the Korean War. The U.S. Naval Shipbuilding Museum Corporation hopes a destroyer joins the U.S.S. Salem and the U.S.S. Sailfish, a submarine, at the museum.

MacMullen is also working on securing a destroyer from the Fletcher Class as part of the museum. The five-acre museum site would have enough waterspace to berth three ships.

The U.S.S. Salem is currently berthed at the Philadelphia Naval Yard as part of the reserve fleet. MacMullen, who has visited the ship four times this year, said the vessel is in great shape although the exterior needs a paint job. Built from chromium steel, the Salem is rust-free.

The 160-foot Sailfish is in reserve at Newport News, Va. It is one of two diesel-powered submarines left; the rest are nuclear powered.

Maintenance of the Salem and Sailfish would be handled at the shipyard by AK Engineering. "The museum is uniquely suited to maintain the Sailfish and the Salem because it was a yard used to build U.S. Naval vessels. The machine shops, turning facilities and other resources are still in place, "MacMullen said.

The museum would be located immediately adjacent to the Fore River Bridge Rotary and Route 3A, minimizing the traffic impact on Quincy Point neighborhoods.

The corporation has submitted its application for the Salem and Sailfish. MacMullen said there is no competition for the ships and he expects the Navy's approval within six months.

After the Navy gives the green light, MacMullen said the corporation will concentrate on securing the necessary permits and preparing the site. With 64,000 past and present crewmen of the Salem and Sailfish, an ambitious fundraising drive would then kick in.

With the necessary support and funding, MacMullen is convinced Quincy will be the site of the nation's first shipbuilding museum.

"We could really make this a world-class museum," he said.

Atlantic Students Welcome Around-The-World Sailor

About 100 Atlantic Middle School students were among the large crowd on hand to greet "round-the-world" sailor William Pinckney Tuesday as he concluded his nearly two-year trek in Boston Harbor.

Pinckney, the first African-American sailor to round the world single-handed, was tracked on his journey by Atlantic students and other classrooms around the country. He was sponsored in part by Boston Voyages in Learning.

"The electronic equipment on the boat allowed the students to keep track of his progress, locate his longitude and latitude and see how he was doing," said Atlantic teacher Ed Grogan.

The Atlantic students were guests on board of an MWRA boat which went out to meet Pinckney in Boston Harbor along with a Boston Fire Boat and flotilla and Boston Mayor Ray Flynn.

Pinckney started his trek in August of 1990 in his 47-foot sailboat "The Commitment" and is now on his return trip.

As part of the project the students also met last month with George Morgan of Maine who described his non-stop, solo trip around the world.

One of the goals of the project was to show the students "If you make a commitment to something you can do it," Grogan said.

Pinckney will also visit Atlantic this week.

Alleged Police Attacker Could Face Life In Prison

Ave., and Alfred Brown, 38 Sherman St., all came to assist Cugini.

Angelo Kapetanakos, 216 Newbury Ave., and William Dineen, 91 Taylor St., were driving by in a motor vehicle when they saw Cenga on top of Cugini.

"They immediately joined in to help the neighbors in their efforts to free the officer from Cenga's grip. They were able to drag Officer Cugini to safety, handcuff the suspect, and hold him until the police arrived and placed him under arrest," Mullen said.

Mullen commended the Montclair men who bravely came to Cugini's assistance.

"It is indeed rewarding to me and all of the officers of this department to know that there are citizens who are willing to risk their own safety to help us when we need assistance," Mullen said.

"I thank and command all of the brave citizens for their prompt actions which saved Officer Cugini, and I also appreciate the many neighbors who alerted the police that one of their officers was in trouble.

"I believe that it is through the combined courageous efforts to each and every one of these citizens that a potential tragedy was averted."

Democratic Candidate's Forum June 17 At Marina Bay

The Quincy Democratic Committee is sponsoring a two-hour Candidate's Forum, Wednesday, June 17 at 7 p.m. at the Marina Bay cafeteria, 500 Victory Road.

Democratic Party candidates for state senator and state representative in the First Norfolk District have been invited to field questions from the editorial staffs of The Quincy Sun, Patriot Ledger and Boston Globe South Weekly.

Democratic State Committee Chairman Steve Grossman will host this forum and a representative from the League of Women Voters will be the moderator.

This forum is the first in a series being planned by the Quincy Democratic Committee prior to the September primary. Light refreshments will be provided and all voters are invited.

Deli Hours Extended By Board

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The Quincy License Board Tuesday granted a request from the Montclair Deli, 218 West Squantum St., for permission to extend its weekly hours.

The deli will now be open Monday through Saturday from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Sunday from noon to 6 p.m. Previously the hours were Monday through Saturday from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m., with the deli being closed all day Sunday.

The extension represented something of a compromise. The deli's owners, Peter and Joyce Delgardo, originally requested the hours of Monday through Saturday from 7 to 9 p.m. and Sunday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. However, those hours were not acceptable to area residents.

Roger Lyons of 211 West Squantum St. read a letter to the board from neighbors concerned that heavy traffic, engine fumes and parking problems could cause more problems to the area with extended hours than they do at present.

"This is not conducive to a good neighborhood," said Lyons. "We are being denied the privacy of our own homes. We're talking about my livelihood."

Jeff Graber of the Montclair Neighborhood Association said that while there was "no uniformity" among residents concerning the issue, some felt that the hours requested by the Delgardos might be too much.

"There is a point where this area will be saturated," said Graber. "If they limit their hours, we think that they can still run a good business."

Ward 3 Councillor Lawrence Chretien, in a letter addressed to the board, suggested that perhaps both sides could continue to coexist with a compromise.

Health Commissioner Jane Gallahue agreed.

"A compromise is definitely needed here," she said.

The board then agreed upon the amended hours.

Bicentennial Program Buttons Now Available

(A Report from Quincy Tourism Assn.)

The Bicentennial Program takes another step forward this week when the "host" buttons are distributed to participating merchants.

The $3 cost is a bargain and at the same time a responsibility. Quincy residents are requested to wear their red buttons with pride. When the the festivities start July 10 through 16 they will recognize tourists who will be wearing blue buttons. Quincy hosts then have the opportunity to be even more helpful and pleasant to guests than normal.

The reward for wearing your button is the discounts you will receive from flagship hosts. A flagship decal will be displayed in windows of participating merchants who will offer a variety of "specials" to button wearers. The discount special for hosts starts June 16 and continues through July 18. There is still time for merchants to join the program. At this time, over 60 stores and restaurants are flagship hosts.

Buttons will be available at each merchant and at the Quincy Tourism Office at Presidents Place, Hancock St. Special locations will be set up where buttons and tickets for events will be available..

Quincy Tourism announces further details of the bicentennial entertainment.

The Broadway musical award winner "1776" has six theater night and two dinner theater dates. This is produced by Darling Productions who have entertained us well in the past with excellent casting and production. The Masonic Temple at Hancock St. is well-suited for this show and "1776" is entertainment for the bicentennial.

The other big news is the City of Presidents first annual Blues Festival at Veterans Memorial Stadium Sunday, July 12 from 4 to 10 p.m. Internationally famous Jerry Portnoy has appeared in the past with Eric Clapton, Muddy Waters and The Legendary Blues Band. He and his band The Steam Liners will share the spotlight with James Montgomery and his band, who had played with B.B. King and Bonnie Raitt. Used Blues, The Yardrockers and many more promise a day of entertainment.

The ticket donation is modestly priced to attract all the family: $5 for adults and $1 for children under 12. For more information call Quincy Tourism at 847-0929.

City Targets Late Auto Taxes, Parking Tickets

By STEVE KAVANAGH

Residents who owe auto excise taxes and parking tickets will have to pay up or face non-renewal of their auto registration and driver's license beginning in August.

The City Council approved $15,000 Monday for purchase of computer equipment which will allow the City of Quincy to tap into the Registry of Motor Vehicles system and flag delinquent auto excise taxes.

Treasurer and Collector Dana Childs estimates that at least $2.5 million in unpaid excise taxes can be collected over the next two years. Childs said more than $5 million in unpaid excise taxes are on the books in Quincy.

Parking Clerk Robert Denvir has estimated that at least $50,000 a year will be generated by placing delinquent parking violations at the Registry for non-renewal of license and registration.

Robert Brennan, Data Processing Manager, estimated that it will take about two months to implement the system.

"You don't want to cut services for people who pay their taxes because of people who don't," Childs said.

Delinquents will be notified in advance that their registration and/or license will not be renewed unless payment is made.

Mayor James Sheets said that delinquent excise tax money recovered by the city would be used to offset fixed increases in the fiscal year 1994 budget.

Willard St. Report To Be Implemented

Ward 4 City Councillor Tom Fabrizio announces that a moratorium on variances in the business-zoned area of Willard Street has been reintroduced.

A planning study of the area was recently completed by Vanasse Hangen Brustlin, Inc., a Watertown-based engineering firm.

"We want to work on implementing the recommendations of the report," Fabrizio said.

The major recommendation was for zoning changes.

"That part of Willard Street (Copeland to Steadman) is a hodge-podge of zoning. There are a lot of under-sized lots," Fabrizio said.

"We want to maintain the integrity of the residential area that abuts the business area while ensuring the appropriate development of the commercial areas," Fabrizio said.

Fabrizio said the city and Home Depot (which paid for the VHB study) will work on improving the aesthetics in the area. Fabrizio noted that Willard and Copeland Sts. and Willard and Robertson Sts. are both gateways to the city.

Osco Drugs Seeks Liquor License

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The License Board Tuesday heard requests from Osco Drug of Massachusetts, 120 Granite St., for a transfer of the all alcoholic beverage license at Morton's Liquor Store to Osco Drug on Granite St.

The license is presently held by Hennessey's South Braintree News, Inc, owned by Joseph Hennessey. Hennessey, who owns Morton's Liquor Store, wants to sell Morton's to Osco Drug. In turn, Osco wants to relocate the liquor store inside its drug store.

Fire Chief Thomas Gorman said he would have "no problem" with the requests if Osco General Manager Ronald Cardarelli saw to it that the alcohol was separated from the other parts of the store.

"If the alcohol is separated from the rest of the store with a wall or some similar structure, I see no problem with it," said Gorman. He added that he felt as soon as someone purchased alcohol at the store, they should not be allowed back inside to shop for other items.

"I don't want someone shopping for film with a case of beer in the shopping cart," he said.

Police Chief Francis Mullen and Assistant City Clerk Joseph Shea echoed similar sentiments, as did Health Commissioner Jane Gallahue, who added that the surveillance cameras at the store should be "zeroed in" on the area in question.

Building Inspector Matthias Mulvey, however, said that before he could vote for a license to be granted, he would need to know the exact square footage of the area as well as where the storage for the alcohol would be located.

Because Cardarelli did not yet have this information available, the matter was continued for two weeks.

New Owner For MBTA Station Restaurant

The Orient Express, the Chinese Restaurant located at The Quincy MBTA station on Hancock St., finally has a new beginning.

The License Board Tuesday granted a Common Victualer license to Savvas Iliades of Newton, who will become the new proprietor of the site.

The board's decision ends several months of controversy surrounding the restaurant, which has received press coverage both for being in violation of health and building codes and also for being a "hangout" for what police have called "undesirables" such as drug dealers and other loiterers.

Previous requests for a Common Victualer license regarding the site have been withdrawn.

Iliades, who formerly owned a restaurant in Watertown and a coffee shop in Connecticut, was asked by Fire Chief Thomas Gorman if he thought he could "control that element of clientele" which has caused the restaurant its recent problems.

"I'm going to do my best to control it," said Iliades.

Iliades said he will be setting up a "coffee, donut and light sandwich shop" at the site. He added that he plans to downsize the seating capacity from its current number of 40 to "18 at most."

Stores Asked To Stop Selling New Water Pistols

Ward 2 City Councillor Ted DeCristofaro called on local merchants to stop selling "high-powered" water guns.

"We can't mandate that they not be sold, but we would appreciate it if the businesses do not sell them," DeCristofaro said.

The new water pistols have caused controversy around the country recently. A person was sprayed with bleach by another with one of the guns. DeCristofaro said a car went out of control after the driver was shot in the face with water, resulting in the death of a woman. In Boston, several retailers have voluntarily removed the guns from their shelves.

License Board

The Quincy License Board took the following action at its meeting Tuesday:

•Continued for two weeks a request from Cagney's, 214 Washington St. (Mark DiBona) for a Pinball license.

•Granted a request from Hollywood, Hollywood Restaurant, 1591 Hancock St. (Keith Ash) for permission to serve Mimosa's and Bloody Mary's starting at 11 a.m. on Sundays.

Cahill Lone Dissenter

Council Passes Budget

By STEVE KAVANAGH

Mayor James Sheets budget for fiscal year 1993 was passed virtually intact by the City Council Monday by an 8-1 vote.

"I think the budget is a sound budget. This is the first budget since I became mayor that we did not have to cut jobs," Sheets said.

Councillor-at-Large Tim Cahill cast the lone dissenting vote. Cahill said he feels the budget is "too tight" and the city should not rely on projected local aid from the state.

"I can't totally support it," he said.

"This budget is counting on too many good things happening," Cahill said. "This administration has a policy of spending what we have."

Cahill said that if the state budget shows a deficit then cuts in local aid will likely be made.

"We can't count on local aid being there," he said. "I don't want to look at a Prop. 2 1/2 override."

Although the city has not yet received official confirmation of its local aid share from the state for FY93, Sheets said he expects Quincy to be level funded.

Councillor-at-Large Pat Toland said she supports the mayor's budget.

"But I understand Councillor Cahill's concerns. My heart is in my mouth over the local aid cuts that could come this summer," she said.

Level-funded local aid, several cost-saving measures, and no raises for municipal employees allows for no layoffs while retaining city services, Sheets said.

"A spirit of cooperation" exists in Quincy among union officials, Sheets said.

As a result, "no city employee has to worry about losing their job or losing their health insurance... It's a credit to all the people working together," he said.

"We know we have to raise taxes," Cahill said. "I'm not convinced we're giving better services for those increased dollars."

Cahill said it is difficult for the Council to reorganize departments and make changes in the budget.

"Our hands are very much tied," he said.

"We don't have the power to shape the budget," said Councillor-at-Large Mike Cheney and added that it is not the Council's role to do so.

Cahill said he was disappointed that consolidation of various department functions were not implemented. He asked the Council to "show the mayor we can make tough decisions. We can give him that support on consolidations."

"I certainly believe the consolidation effort should be furthered. It definitely can work," Toland said.

"This is the last year we should tolerate not going forward in the area of consolidation," said Ward 3 Councillor Larry Chretien, a leading proponent of consolidation.

Cahill also said the city should try to reduce its bond debt which is about $5 million this year. He criticized the school department for not making plans for care of their own buildings.

"I didn't see any effort by the School Department to set aside money for capital improvements," he said. "When something breaks, they (School Dept.) come to us to fix it and if we don't vote for it we are labeled 'against' education," Cahill said.

"The main problem is that the schools don't have their own capital maintenance program," he said.

"We have a lot of capital needs," Chretien said. "If you add them all up you have to ask yourself, 'Where are we gonna get the money?' These are good questions Councillor Cahill raises, but I don't think this budget gets in the way of those questions," Chretien said.

Sheets said he is concerned about the low number of patrolmen (135) and firefighters (154) and hopes to be able to replace any retirees in these departments next year.

"This is a major city and we have to provide for the personal safety of our citizens and property protection," Sheets said. "If we have some retirements we'd like to replace them. We're at a level now that we're going to have to replace some retirees. We'll have to wait and see how our revenues come in."

Sheets said he is optimistic that the city's financial situation will continue to improve.

"I think this budget reflects all that we've been doing. I'm confident next year will be even better," he said.

Wife Of Fire Victim Appeals For Blood Donors

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The wife of the man who was injured last week in a fire at his mother's Houghs Neck home is asking for blood donations to help him in his recovery.

Kathleen McDonald of 46 Hughes St. in South Quincy said her husband, Brian, is "going through a ton of blood" during his stay at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston and that any donations made would be greatly appreciated.

"Blood is something he needs a lot more right now than cards or flowers," she said.

McDonald received severe burns in the three-alarm fire that took place Friday, July 12 around 3 a.m. at his mother's home at 14 Sea Ave. He was rescued from the blaze by Duayne Ziegner of Buzzard's Bay, who was visiting at a nearby neighbor's house.

Deputy Fire Chief Joseph Walsh has determined that the fire was caused by the careless disposal of a cigarette.

Mrs. McDonald said Tuesday her husband was listed as being in "stable-critical condition" at the hospital.

"We need as much blood as we can get as soon as possible," she said.

Those interested in donating blood can do so by visiting the blood bank at the hospital.

MORE ABOUT ASPIRIN

Evidence continues to pile up showing that plain old aspirin may be the wonder drug of our time. A decade ago, aspirin seemed to be losing its popularity to acetaminophen and ibuprofen. Now respected studies are pointing out that in addition to reducing fever and soothing aches, aspirin can help prevent heart attacks in men, treat heart attacks when they occur, and reduce the risk of certain types of strokes. It may also prevent death from colon cancer, halt gum disease, hold down high blood pressure in pregnant women, and stave off migraine headaches. Aspirin can have serious side effects, however, including internal bleeding, blurred vision and ringing in the ears. No one should take large amounts of the drug without a doctor's guidance.

P.S. Aspirin is no substitute for a healthy lifestyle of exercise, no smoking, and a low-fat, high-fiber diet.

Always consult with your doctor before embarking on any extensive program of self-medication involving aspirin. If you would like to learn more about this topic, or about how you can help ward off heart disease, call COMPREHENSIVE CARDIAC CARE at 472-2550. We focus on treating the patient, rather than the disease. Office hours are by appointment at 101 Adams St., Suite 24, in Quincy. I am affiliated with Quincy Hospital and South Shore Hospitals.

George Bush A Reader

It was received by a nine-year-old third grader at the Point Webster School named: George Bush.

The First Lady sent the letter to the youngster congratulating him on an outstanding achievement in the home-reading program.

Since September, young George has read 108 library books to his mother as part of the reading program in his class.

His teacher, Mrs. Diane Saltis had written to the White House to tell of the youngsters accomplishment.

In addition to the letter of congratulations, Mrs. Bush also sent young George a family picture of the President, Mrs. Bush and their pet dog, Millie.

Young George is the son of George and Nancy Bush of Lowe St., Quincy Point.

He is an unenrolled (independent) voter and she is a Republican, according to City Hall election department records.

Mrs. Saltis calls young George's reading "very impressive" and praises his mother for being "most supportive."

Does young George think anything special about having the same name as the President of the United States?

He takes it pretty much in stride, says his teacher.

"He's used to it. After all, he had the name before George Bush became President."

QUINCY'S UNCLE SAM recently made the Congressional Record with a tribute from Congressman Joseph Kennedy who said, in part, he "has distinguished himself by his many civic and charitable endeavors."

UNCLE SAM

Kennedy cited among them: promoting volunteerism, helping the Savings Bond Drive, raising funds for the Heroes Welcome Home for the Gulf War veterans, visiting schools, hospitals and nursing homes, raising funds for the U.S. Olympic Team and going to Albertsville, France to support the team "together with many other civic and charitable events too numerous to mention.

ATTY. GEORGE BURKE, former district attorney and city councillor, is beaming with pride these days. Reason: his son, George III, has joined his law firm, Burke, Cunningham & Burke of North Quincy.

BURKE

Young Burke, who is 24, recently graduated from Boston College Law School and is a graduate of Syracuse University.

The other members of the firm are David Cunningham, Kevin Burke, the senior Burke's nephew and Jeffrey LaPointe.

OBSERVATION: Chestnut St. in Quincy Sq. is getting to be a speedway. The traffic lights that were at Hancock-Maple-Chestnut Sts. but are now gone used to slow the traffic down. But now some cars make the turn onto Chestnut St. from Hancock full speed ahead. And they move pretty fast coming from McGrath Highway.

Barbara Sealund DPW 'Employee Of The Year'

Barbara Sealund of Quincy of the Sewer, Water and Drain Department has been named "Employee of the Year in the Department of Public Works" announces Commissioner David Colton.

Sealund, an 11-year DPW employee, works in the Sewer and Water Billing Office.

"Barbara is the heart and soul of the office and a true leader," Colton said.

Sealund was honored during recent National Public Works Week ceremonies. She is a lifelong Quincy resident where she lives with her husband, Robert, and children Robert and Carol.

SYC Members Commended For Boating Accident Help

Ward 6 City Councillor Bruce Ayers presented commendations to five members of the Squantum Yacht Club who assisted the Coast Guard and Quincy Police during a recent boating accident in Quincy Bay.

Tom Feenan, Rich Sheridan, John Koch, Jim Hines and Harry Breen were commended for their actions in rescuing seven persons involved in a high-speed collision between two powerboats near Hangman's Island Saturday night, June 6.

Feenan heard cries for help and called Sheridan, the night steward, at the yacht club. Feenan told Sheridan that "it sounded desperate."

Sheridan called the Coast Guard and sent Koch and Hines, who had just reported for the club's security detail, to check on the accident in the club tender.

Breen assisted Koch and Hines and the Coast Guard in locating the boats with the club's searchlight.

Sheridan was informed by radio of the condition of the accident victims and called 911 for ambulances and EMT's. In the meantime, Breen cleared the docks and assisted the EMT's when they arrived.

Koch and Hines towed one of the boats back to Squantum while the Coast Guard towed the other boat back to the yacht club also.

The quick action of the five club members, the Coast Guard and police, fire and EMT personnel may have saved a life. One of the accident victims, Glen Healy of Wollaston, is still listed in critical condition at Boston City Hospital.

McGrath Reaffirms Stand On Limiting Office Terms

Stephen McGrath, candidate for state senator, has renewed his commitment to term limits for federal and state government officials.

"As I campaign throughout the district, one issue that I'm frequently asked about is my position on term limits," McGrath said. "When I announced my candidacy for state senator, I said that I favor term limits.

"A limitation on terms would help eliminate business as usual on Beacon Hill. It would break the political deadlock, and by eliminating infighting, would motivate elected officials to focus all of their energy on getting things done."

McGrath criticized the state legislature's failure to place the question on the ballot for voters to decide this fall.

"Last week, the state legislature had the chance to meet to vote and place the question on the ballot for voters to decide this fall," McGrath said. "Incredibly, not enough of them showed up to vote. This clearly conflicts with the views of more than 72,000 citizens who signed petitions favoring term limits.

"If elected, I will support term limits and I can be counted on to show up and vote. I will always be there to represent your interests. I'm not interested in becoming a permanent resident of Beacon Hill."

McGrath, a former Quincy city councillor and council president, is a candidate for the state senate district which includes Quincy, Braintree, Holbrook and Avon.

Senator Paul Harold is leaving that senate seat to run for Congress. McGrath, a practicing attorney, is currently Quincy city solicitor. He will take an unpaid leave of absence from the solicitor's office June 19.

North Girls Volleyball Team Car Wash Saturday

The state champion North Quincy girls' volleyball team and Boosters Club will sponsor a car wash this Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at North Quincy High School. Donation is $3.

The car wash is being held to help raise money for the team to compete in a tournament in Buffalo, N.Y., in October against some of the best high school teams in the East.

Ferrazzi Urges Jail For Auto Thieves

June 18-24
1958
34 Years Ago

Quincy Police Chief William Ferrazzi urged mandatory jail sentences and license suspensions for youthful automobile thieves as the best way to curb the "dangerous practice of joy-riding."

Ferrazzi complained that law enforcement officials, the courts and the general public were much too tolerant of teenagers who steal cars just for the fun of it.

"Car theft usually becomes the first step in a criminal career," he said, "I feel we should try another approach to eliminate the germ of this disease."

OLD COLONY SERVICE ENDS

Federal Judge Robert P. Anderson in New Haven, Conn., gave the New Haven Railroad permission to discontinue passenger service on its Old Colony Division on July 8, ending commuter service for 10,000.

"Losses incurred by the New Haven Railroad in operating Old colony passenger service have been in excess of $1 million a year and in 1957 approximately $2 million," said the judge.

"There is no reason to believe they won't continue to lose money."

CITY RAISES ASKED

Petitions were circulated asking 10 percent wage increases for some 1,800 city emplyees, a move that Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa said would cost the city $600,000 or about $4 on the tax rate.

The Job Evaluation Committee, appointed in 1957, had recommended 5 percent wage hikes in January but the Mayor rejected the proposal on grounds the city could not afford the money.

MISTAKEN LANDING

A commercial pilot from Chester, Pa., mistook the runway at the former Squantum Naval Air Station for Logan Airport and landed his twin-engine Cessna there with three passengers.

"I'm embarrassed," said John W. Kandravic.

Barb's Tortellini And Shrimp Toss

It's always a pleasant surprise when I have lunch at Barbara and Chap's home. You just don't get a plain sandwich or plain anything at this friend's place. And so it was when my daughter Nancy and I had lunch there last week.

While we were viewing their beautiful home, Chap was out in his magazine-looking landscaped yard where he had built the most awesome looking fieldstone wall ever. Before I get carried away, the luncheon consisted of crab-bisque, tortellini and shrimp toss, gourmet cucumber sandwiches and a cucumber and lime chiffon. All so delicately flavored and so delicious. And so great for summer!

Today's recipe is for the tortellini-shrimp toss and the cucumber sandwiches.

BARB'S TORTELLINI AND SHRIMP TOSS

1 Lb. cheese tortellini
1 lb fresh jumbo shrimp
2 tsps chopped scallions
1 sprinkle of dill
Salt and pepper to taste
About 1 tbsps each of mayonnaise, miracle whip and sour cream

Cook the tortellini for five minutes after boiling. The last couple of minutes, put the fresh shrimp and cook until they turn pink. Remove, drain and set aside. Then in a large bowl, place the tortellini, shrimp and mix all the rest of the ingredients. Refrigerate until ready to eat. In addition to great taste, the combination is a pretty sight.

CUCUMBER GOURMET SANDWICHES

1 Med. cucumber slices about 1/4 inch (unpeeled)
8 slices bread (any favorite)
Barbara used oatmeal bread
1/2 tsp anchovy paste
1 to 2 Tbsps mayonnaise
3 Tbsps cream cheese
1/4 cup blue cheese dressing
2 Tbsps half and half
A few lettuce leaves

Cut the bread in circles the size of the cucumber slice. On top of that, place the same size piece of lettuce. On top of the lettuce, put some of the cream mixture, then the cucumber and top it off with some more of the mixture. Refrigerate until ready to serve. This recipe makes 16 2-inch sandwiches.

It was pretty difficult getting back to a plain tuna sandwich the next day!

Chiropractic Update

by Mark C. Jaehnig D.C.

CHIROPRACTIC TREATMENT MAY HELP YOUR HEADACHES

Headaches are a very common complaint among people in society today. Experts point to the fast-paced lifestyle of modern industrialized civilization as a prime factor causing headaches as it often leads to high levels of emotional and physical stress, poor dietary habits, and exposure to toxins and allergens in our environment.

In my office I treat patients suffering from many types of headaches, including migraine headaches, sinus-related head pain, and, especially, stress-related or tension headaches. The cause of these headaches can oftentimes be traced to the neck or cervical spine and the related nerves and muscles that are found in this region. There may be a misaligned spinal bone or vertebra in the neck which pinches or presses the nerves, causing increased muscular tension and/or pain in the back of the neck which can radiate up to the back of the head. Patients in my office are pleasantly surprised to learn that their headaches can be relieved the natural, drugless, painless way — with chiropractic treatment.

If you have any questions or would like to make an appointment, please call Dr. Mark Jaehnig, a lifelong Quincy resident, at Quincy Chiropractic Office, 440 Hancock St., North Quincy, 773-4400.

Burger Bash Friday At Marina Bay

Marina Bay will hold its second annual Burger Bash Friday, June 19 from 6 to 10 p.m. under the Ocean Terrace Tents.

A buffet of barbecue chicken, burgers, hot dogs, watermelon and potato salad will be served. Dixieland music will be provided by the Baystate Stompers. There will also be raffles for adults and games and face painters for children.

Tickets are $10.50 for adults, $1.99 for children and may be purchased at the Marina Bay Office or by calling 847-1800.

Harborlights Gala To Benefit Cancer Society

A Harborlights Gala with cabaret entertainers, refreshments and a silent auction will be held Friday, June 19 from 7 to 11 p.m. atop the Marina Bay development in Squantum.

The event is being held to benefit the American Cancer Society.

In a donated penthouse condo with views of Boston Harbor and skyline, cabaret singer Amy Rome, who has been popular in recent months at Raffael's, will be accompanied by pianist Gordon Phillips.

Rome is a Rockland native who five years ago was starring in the pop rock band Blockyard and has come to Raffael's after singing at Boston's Lenox Hotel. She has pleased Raffael's patrons with her renditions of classic cabaret (pop tunes drawing heavily from musical theater). Phillips is known as a pianist with a relaxed, evocative style.

Local singer Bob Anthony will also contribute a few numbers, and organizers are promising the possible presence of a comedian.

The gala is another in the program of events being arranged by the South Shore Unit of the American Cancer Society under the leadership of President Barbara Sullivan of Braintree. A donation of $50 per person is being asked with proceeds going to the Cancer Society, especially in the nine communities served by the South Shore Unit: Quincy, Braintree, Cohasset, Hingham, Hull, Milton, Norwell, Scituate and Weymouth.

For more information or reservations call 341-4210 or 848-2795.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

In going through some notes, I found the following poem by an anonymous writer which I hope all fathers will read

WALK A LITTLE PLAINER, DADDY

Walk a little plainer, Daddy,
Said a little boy so frail
I'm following in your footsteps
And I don't want to fail.
Sometimes your steps are very plain
So walk a little plainer, Daddy
For you are leading me.
I know that once you walked this way
many years ago
And what you did along the way
I'd really like to know.
For sometimes when I am tempted
I don't know what to do
So walk a little plainer, Daddy
For I must follow you.
Someday when I'm grown up
You are like I want to be
Then I will have a little boy'
Who will want to follow me
And I would want to lead him right
And help him to be true
So walk a little plainer, Daddy
For we must follow you

Sandra Dennis, 53

First President Of Woodward Trustees

A funeral service for Sandra (Close) Dennis, 53, of Quincy, was conducted June 12 at the Schlossberg-Solomon Chapel, Canton.

Mrs. Dennis died June 10 after a long bout with cancer.

She was an administrative assistant and first president of the board of trustees for the Woodward School for Girls. She first became interested in the school when she moved to Quincy and enrolled her daughter. She made known her desire to add Latin and physics to the curriculum and suggested that a board of trustees be established to help with finances and make decisions on course additions and changes.

The school had a board of overseers with a more limited role and that body continues. The trustees came into being and she served as president from 1982 to 1984. Latin and physics were added.

A Randolph resident for some years, she was president of the League of Women Voters there and taught a course in techniques for running for public office that was open to the public.

She had studied political science at Suffolk University and also assisted candidates in their races.

It was her suggestion that led to the changing of the name of Quincy City Hospital to Quincy Hospital. While her husband was a member of the board of managers, she approached former hospital director Mark Mundy with the idea of revising the name.

For 25 years, she was administrative assistant in her husband's accounting firm, Stanley Dennis & Co.

She was a member of the Quincy Council for the Arts at the time the Ruth Gordon Ampitheater was installed and had been a town meeting member in Randolph.

She was a graduate of Brookline High School and studied nursing for a time at Beth Israel Hospital.

She was a member of the Quincy Historical Society, the Quincy Chapter of Hadassah, the Women's League of Temple Beth El and Congregation Adas Shalom.

She enjoyed tennis, bicycling and traveling.

She is survived by her husband, Stanley Dennis; two sons, Allan Dennis and David Dennis; a daughter, Michelle Cote; a brother, Stephen Close; and a grandson.

Burial was in Sharon Memorial Park.

Ruth F. Northbridge, 85

A graveside service for Ruth F. Northridge, 85, of Quincy, will be held today (Thursday) in Hope Cemetery, Worcester.

Mrs. Northridge died June 10 in the Presidential Nursing Home, Quincy, after a long illness.

She was a secretary at John F. Meyer Manufacturing Co. in Worcester for more than 20 years.

Born in Worcester, she lived in Auburn most of her life before moving to Quincy last year.

She was a member of Stella Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, and the Auburn Seniors. She was a life member of Bethany Christian United Parish, Worcester.

She is survived by a cousin, William Abbott of Wollaston.

Funeral arrangements were by the Deware Funeral Home, 576 Hancock St.

Donations may be made to Stella Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, c/o Isabel Weldon, 1228 Pleasant St., Worcester, MA 01602, or to Bethany Christian United Parish, 1189 Main St., Worcester.

Former Bank Director; Owned Plumbing And Heating Company

A funeral service for Alexander E. Warmington, 76, of Quincy, was held Tuesday in First Presbyterian Church.

Mr. Warmington died June 13 in the Rice Eventide Nursing Home.

He was the retired owner of Metherall and McCausland Inc., a plumbing and heating company, and retired director of the former Quincy Cooperative Bank.

He and his wife, Anna I. (Grassick) Warmington, were members of the bond committee for construction of First Presbyterian Church where he was a life member and elder. He had been a member of the session, a Sunday School teacher, president of the Mr. and Mrs. Club and a member of the Boy Scout Committee.

He was a former member of the board of directors of South Shore YMCA and was active in campaigns for funds for construction of the Quincy Y on Coddington Street. He was involved in fundraising for charity through the Community Chest, Red Feather drive and United Fund, which his wife directed for many years.

He worked for Metherall and McCausland for 20 years before buying the company in 1960. He retired in 1980. He was past president of Local 275 of the AFL Plumbers and Pipefitters Union.

He retired from the bank in 1991.

A 32nd degree Mason, he was past master of Manet Lodge.

He was past president of Quincy Kiwanis Club, a member of the board of directors of the Neighborhood Club and the Rice Home, and a member of Clan MacGregor and the Charitable Mechanics Association.

Born and raised in Quincy, he was a graduate of Quincy High School, Boston Trade School and Franklin Institute.

He was a teacher at the former Quincy Evening Trade School and had been president of the Parent Teacher Associations of the former Adams School and South Junior High School.

He is also survived by a daughter, Donna Mayberry Greenberg of Scituate; a brother, Edward J. Warmington Jr. of Florida; and four grandchildren. He was the father of the late Alan R. Warmington.

Burial was in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were by the Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave.

Donations may be made to the Kiwanis Club of Quincy, 1 Independence Ave., Quincy, MA 02169; South Shore YMCA, 79 Coddington St., Quincy, MA 02169; or the American Cancer Society, 294 Pleasant St., Stoughton, MA 02072.

Kenneth R. West, 46
Survived 21 Years After Kidney Transplant

A funeral service for Kenneth R. West, 46, of Quincy, was held Monday at the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St.

Mr. West, who survived 21 years after a kidney transplant, died June 11 at University of Hospital, Boston, of complications from renal failure.

He was among the longest-surviving recipients of a kidney from a deceased accident victim. His mother, Hazel West of Quincy, said that those who are given kidneys from family members have a long survival rate but her son "made a little medical history" by living that long after receiving an accident victim's kidney.

He received his transplant in 1971 at University Hospital. He astonished his doctors by skiing the slopes of Cannon Mountain two weeks after leaving the hospital.

He had been working at the hospital when it was learned he had irreversible kidney disease. In October 1970 doctors removed both his kidneys.

He was kept alive on hemodialysis, which cleansed his blood, for six hours a day, three days a week. One afternoon in 1971, while attached to the kidney machine, he was told he was going to have a transplant within hours. The operation was successful but complications sent him back to the operating room three times in four days.

In 1974 he left Boston by bicycle for San Francisco to open the annual meeting of the Kidney Foundation. Along the way, he became ill and was forced to return home. He had planned stops at Kidney Foundation affiliates to hold news conferences and meetings to publicize kidney transplants and urge people to sign "pocket wills" to donate their kidneys.

He was an avid skier and did a lot of white-water canoeing, sports parachuting and mountain climbing. He climbed Mt. Washington in New Hampshire at least 95 times.

He had studied at Northeastern University and worked for the state Department of Youth Services. He coached youngsters at the Quincy YMCA.

After the transplant, he trained at Boy's Town in Nebraska and worked with troubled boys in Chicago and other cities before his illness forced him to return so he could be near University Hospital.

He became severely ill in November and was taken by his mother to the hospital, where he remained.

Born in Quincy, he attended North Quincy High School. He had been living in Natick before his most recent hospitalization.

He is also survived by a sister, Cynthia Granahan of Lynn; an aunt, Mabel Prevost of Quincy; and a dear friend, Betsy Johnson of Natick.

Burial was in Pine Hill Cemetery.

Donations may be made to University Hospital, 88 East Newton St., c/o Renal Unit, Boston, MA 02118.

Ann M. Fitzgerald, 88

A funeral Mass for Ann M. (Maloney) Fitzgerald, 88, of Quincy, was celebrated yesterday (Wednesday) in St. John's Church.

Mrs. Fitzgerald died June 13 in Ellis Nursing Home in Norwood.

She was a retired clerk for the City of Quincy.

She was a member of the Sodality of St. John's Church and Quincy Catholic Club.

She was born in Boston.

Wife of the late John J. Fitzgerald, she is survived by two sons, Lawrence J. Fitzgerald of Westwood and David M. Fitzgerald of Revere; a daughter, Ellen M. Bowling of Alexandria, Va.; and six grandchildren. She was the mother of the late John J. Fitzgerald Jr.

Burial was in New Calvary Cemetery, Boston.

Funeral arrangements were by the Sweeney Funeral Home, 74 Elm St.

Donations may be made to Father Bill's Place, Broad St., Quincy, MA 02169.

Catherine M. Downey, 68

A funeral Mass for Catherine M. (Mullahy) Downey, 68, of Quincy, was celebrated June 12 in Sacred Heart Church.

Mrs. Downey died June 9 at University Hospital in Boston after a brief illness.

She was a former employee of the Sheraton Hotel in Boston.

Born in Boston, she lived in Quincy for 30 years.

Wife of the late Robert J. Downey, she is survived by three sons, James T. Downey, Robert J. Downey, and Paul J. Downey, all of Quincy; two daughters, Carol A. Sloan of Quincy and Catherine Ann Partillo of Nashua, N.H.; two brothers, John Mullahy of Randolph and William Mullahy of Chicago; two sisters, Patricia Kuhen of Quincy and Frances Mullahy of Boston; 12 grandchildren, and four great-grandchildren. She was the mother of the late Ronald L. Downey.

Burial was in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were by the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St.

'Day Of Small Things' Bethany Sermon Topic

Rev. Roger Ketcham will preach on "The Day Of Small Things" at the 10 a.m. worship service Sunday at Bethany Congregational Church, Spear and Coddington Sts., Quincy Center.

Scripture reader will be Lynda Ketcham. Musical portions of the service will feature Paul Fraser, baritone and Gregory Flynn, organist. Greeters will be Helene Crofts and Ruth Penn.

Musical Tribute To The Sea At Convenant Congregational

Chairman David Day will lead the 10:45 a.m. worship service Sunday at Coveant Congregational Church, Whitwell and Granite Sts.

There will be readings, hymns and choral selections relating to the sea. The program was developed by Richard Smith, minister of music, who will directed and accompany the choir in the musical selections as well as play special piano pieces.

In observance of Fathers Day, the fathers of the congregation will be acknowledged. There is no Sunday School, but an attended nursery is still available for children age four and younger.

Following the service, coffee will be served in the fellowship hall downstairs. Volunteers are still needed to serve in July and August.

Activities for the week are: Ladies Aid meeting Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. and choir rehearsal Thursday at 7 p.m.

Coming events include a council meeting Tuesday, June 23 at 7 p.m. and continuing Pastoral Search Committee meetings.

For more information about any of the church's activities, call the church office at 479-5728.

'Those Who Follow Jesus' United Methodist Topic

"Those Who Follow Jesus" will be the sermon topic of the Rev. Harry Soper Jr. at the 10 a.m. worship service Sunday at the Quincy Community United Methodist Church, 40 Beale St., Wollaston.

Greeters will be Janet McGonigle and Melvia Sears. Ushers will be Bud and Julia Millham. Following the service, the fellowship hour will be hosted by Esther Paulsen, Eleanor Laitinen, Connie Schaffer and Dorothy Nogueira. Church facilities are handicapped accessible and nursery care is provided.

That evening, church members will attend the Boston Pops Concert. A few tickets are still available.

Other events for the week include the Bible Study Monday at 7:30 p.m., the trustees meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p.m., and the Finance Committee meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

TIME magazine says 75 million Americans have backache, and with each passing year, this astronomical figure grows by 7,000,000.

Backache has become a catastrophic issue with the Insurance companies and with our national economy. It is one of the top claims for disabilty. In addition to this, arthritis and rheumatic complaints affect 77 percent of our adult population, and every year millions sustain severe neck injuries from automobile collisions.

With the use of a few simple painless tests we will be able to determine the condition of the spine. Early detection of back problems is the best prevention for future back ailments.

The spinal screening will be offered without charge or obligation at the

Morrisette Rebounds For 3

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Morrisette Legion baseball team rebounded from its lone loss to win three in a row and a 6-5 comeback win over Holbrook Monday improved its record to 5-1.

Morrisette played at Milton last night (Wednesday), will face Quincy Saturday night at 8 and again Monday night at 8:30 at Adams Field and will host Randolph next Wednesday at 8:30 at Adams.

Winless Holbrook surprised by taking, 5-0 lead over Morrisette Monday after five innings. Only two of the runs off starter Mike Malvesti were earned.

Morrisette scored a run in the sixth when Mark Kelleher singled, one of his three hits, Mark Cahill reached on a fielder's choice and Dave Reinhart doubled. Morrisette tied it in the seventh when Robbie Kane and Pat Shea walked and Chris MacDonald was hit by a pitch to fill the bases. Kane scored on a fielder's choice and Kelliher single home Shea. Cahill grounded out and pinch hitter Serge Belcastro came through with the biggest hit, singling in two runs to tie the score.

Tommy Malvesti came in to pitch in the seventh and pitched two innings of scoreless ball, allowing two hits.

In the bottom of the eighth inning Tom Malvesti was hit by a pitch, took second on a wild pitch, moved to third on Kane's sacrifice and scored the winning run on Shea's suicide squeeze.

Tom Malvesti picked up his first Legion win and Matt O'Toole pitched 1 2/3 innings. Reinhart had a single and double and Tom Balzano and Mike Malvesti had hits.

Last Sunday Morrisette topped Canton, 8-5, taking advantage of nine walks and some costly errors. It also had six hits.

Sean Donovan was the complete-game winner for his second win. MacDonald, playing his first game after leading Abp. Williams High to the state title, had a single, two walks and a sacrifice fly and three RBI. Balzano had two hits and a walk, Kane a bunt single, a walk, two stolen bases and three runs scored. Shea and an RBI single and Pat Clifford a hit.

Earlier Mike Patch allowed only an infield hit as Morrisette blanked Braintree, 4-0. Patch struck out and didn't walk a batter as he recorded his second win.

Morrisette had 10 hits with Belcastro going 4-for-4, Patch 2-for-4 including a double, Cahill two hits and an RBI and Reinhart a single and sacrifice fly and two RBI.

Morrisette scored a run in the second on Cahill's single, Patch's double and Reinhart's sacrifice fly. It added three in the third on walk to Shea, Belcastro's single and singles by Cahill, Patch and Reinhart.

THE U-MASS Basketball team that went to the regional semi-finals in the NCAA tourney was honored by the state legislature recently. On hand for the tribute were, from left, former House Speaker David Bartley, coach John Calipari, former state representative George Burke of Quincy and Senator Paul Harold of Quincy. Bartley and Burke were teammates on the U-Mass teams of mid 1950's and Harold is an alumnus.

Wollaston Streak Snapped

After winning its first four games, the Wollaston Legion baseball team suffered its first loss, a 7-4 decision to Braintree.

Wollaston plays at Braintree tonight (Thursday) at 7:30, will host Canton Sunday night at 8 at Adams Field and will play at Holbrook next Wednesday night at 8:30.

Wollaston had won its fourth in a row with an easy 16-7 decision over Randolph.

Duane Holmes had a bases-loaded double and Jeff Craig was 2-for-4 with three RBI to spark the attack.

Steve Loud pitched his second victory for Wollaston.

In its previous game Wollaston had walloped Quincy, 11-2, with Terry Manning the winning pitcher and Steve Manning pitching well in relief.

Loud drove in three runs with a double which broke open a 4-2 game.

Holmes had three hits, Craig had a single and two RBI and Charlie Rozanitis had an RBI single.

Quincy In Slow Start

The Quincy Legion baseball team is off to a slow start, but Ed Spring, in his eighth year as coach, feels the team, although very young, will improve as the season progresses and will be competitive in a strong Zone 6.

Quincy was walloped by Wollaston and Braintree last week, with a two-run homer by Garett Butkuss against Braintree the lone bright spot.

Quincy will host Milton Friday night at Adams Field at 8:30, will face Morrisette Saturday at 8 at Adams, will meet Morrisette again Monday night at 8:30 and will be home to Randolph Tuesday night.

"We have been working very hard to turn this program around and the kids have worked awfully hard," said Spring, who is being assisted once again by Vic DiGravio. "We must have the best group of 16-year olds to come out for Quincy since the 1986 season, making our future bright."

Returning players are catchers John Gladu an Brian Scales, infielders Butkuss, Chris McCulley, Eric Kreuz and Aidan O'Donahue, and outfielders Jim Gately, Dan Kearns, Tom Nutley, Dave Raftery and Rob O'Connor.

Kearns, Kreuz and Raftery will also pitch.

Newcomers are infielders George Wirtz, Steve Miller, Mark Carlson, Mike Caporale and Terry Gaide, outfielders Brian Oliver and Pat Bryan and pitcher Tim Byrne. Gaide and Bryan also will pitch.

Quincy kicked off its season by hosting a get-together breakfast at the post hall with Bob and Evelyn O'Connor heading up the committee and the parents cooking and serving the meal.

"This was a good way for the parents to get to know each other before the season got under way," said Spring.

Quincy will sponsor a "Night at Pawtucket" Saturday, July 11, to see the Pawtucket Red Sox in action. The cost is $15 per ticket which includes round trip transportation by motor coach and a box seat ticket. The bus will leave Quincy Vo-Tech at 5:30 p.m.

Babe Ruth

Barry's Wins 8th Straight

Barry's Deli edged Sons of Italy, 7-6, for its eighth straight win, improving its Babe Ruth League record to 8-2.

Rookie Mike Hannon was the winning pitcher, with relief from Sean Kennerson and Rob Rose. The three combined for 10 strikeouts, gave up only four hits but walked 11.

Catcher Jim Goldrick led the attack with a double and two singles, Bruce Stenberg had a double and single and three RBI, Kennerson, two singles and Billy Manning, Greg Santoro, Ken Ledwak, Rose and Geoff Meade a hit each.

Defensively Santoro, Goldrick, Ledwak, Steve Finn, Tom Bowes, Greg Conway and Paul Greely played well.

Jim Milone pitched well in defeat. Billy Coughlin had two doubles and Jason Downey and Todd Deboer had the other hits.

Barry's topped the Sons of Italy in a return game, 5-3, with Ron McGann the winning pitcher, allowing two hits, striking out three and walking three in relief of starter Billy Manning.

Meade had a double and single, McGann two singles and Ledwak and Steve Finn singles. Defensively Ledwak, Sean Kinnerson, Greely, Rose, Manning, Hannon, Stenberg, Bowes and Conway stood out.

Finnegan Honored For 42 Years Service To Quincy Schools

By TOM SULLIVAN

More than 250 family members, former colleagues, former players and coaches and city and state officials paid tribute to retired Quincy Athletic Director Martin Finnegan Sunday at the Lantana in Randolph.

Quincy basketball coach John Franceschini was master of ceremonies and introduced the various guests.

Acting School Supt. Eugene Creedon was the opening speaker and paid tribute to Finnegan for his dedication during his 42 years in the school system.

Former player and student Vin Moscardelli spoke on behalf of those who played for Finnegan.

Mayor James Sheets was unable to attend but was represented by the newest member of the school committee, Margaret (Peggy) King, who gave a citation from Sheets, who proclaimed the day as Martin Finnegan Day.

Rev. Gary Jones gave the invocation. Bob Sylvia, Quincy's hockey coach for the past 28 years and one of Finnegan's closest friends, presented a citation from the physical education department.

Other speakers included former School Supt. Lawrence Creedon, former coach and longtime colleague Bill Sullivan, former Deputy Supt. for Personnel Carmen Mariano, Richard Neal, executive director of the Massachusetts Interscholastic Athletic Association (MIAA), who presented Finnegan with a gold membership card and a citation from the MIAA for his work not only in athletics but in the MIAA's chemical health program; Jean Ann (MacLean) Phinney, daughter of the late coach and athletic director Munroe MacLean; and two of Finnegan's sons, Mitchell and Richard.

A highlight of the program was a "This is Your Life" skit presented by Mrs. Phinney. Taking part representing Finnegan at the various stages of his career as teacher, coach and athletic director, were Boston University classmates Ken Rickson and Mike Casale, Mary Pratt, Franceschini and Rich Finnegan.

Several present and former coaches and athletic directors were introduced, including Waltham AD Don Prohovich, Revere AD Silvio Chella, a classmate of Finnegan's; Medford AD John Regan, Malden AD Joe Rossino, Arlington AD Liz McDonough, Abington AD Dan Tobin, Athletic Director of the Year and a former Quincy player; retired Somerville coach Walter Perry and retired Weymouth AD Bill Dempsey.

MARTY FINNEGAN'S family shared in his tribute attended by more than 250. Front, left to right, Mrs. Norma Finnegan, Marty and Suzie Finnegan. Back, Janet Finnegan Kelly, Richard Finnegan, Mitchell Finnegan, Christine Finnegan Koenig and Terri Finnegan. Missing from the photo si Patricia Finnegan, who also attended the tribute to her father.

Finnegan thanked all those in attendance and mentioned several people who gave him inspiration during his years in the school system. Among those were former hockey coach Bill Hutchinson, a patient at the Brockton VA Hospital, and longtime North Quincy coach LaRoy "Curly" Rogers, both of whom were introduced.

Marty introduced his family, wife Norma, daughters Christine, Patty, Janet, Terry and Susie, sons Rich and Mitch, his 92-year-old mother-in-law and his grandchildren.

In 1987 he received the Award of Merit from the MIAA for singular contributions to the MIAA chemical health program, received numerous awards and citations from schools, communities and organizations for work on chemical health and sportsmanship issues, and was named the Greater Boston League Coach of the Year.

In 1989 he was named The Quincy Sun's Citizen of the Year for his work with Project Impact and was inducted into the Quincy Basketball Hall of Fame as coach.

In 1990 he received a commendation from the Quincy City Council for the establishment of Project Impact and received the State Award of Merit from the National Interscholastic Athletic Administrators Association.

Last year he received the John E. Young Distinguished Service Award "for unique and invaluable service to the thousands of boys and girls attending MIAA member schools across the Commonwealth."

This year he received the Boston University School of Education Dean Arthur Herberg Award for outstanding achievement and distinction in service to his profession and community.

Quincy Players Lead Bishops To State Title

Quincy players were largely responsible for the Abp. Williams High baseball team winning its first state championship last Saturday with a 6-5 win over Greenfield.

Pat Clifford pitched all the way for the Bishop and finished an unbeaten season (12-0) for the 22-2 Bishops. He allowed five hits, struck out five and was a little wild, walking seven.

Chris MacDonald was the offensive star and it was his two-run triple which gave Williams a 5-3 lead and he scored what proved to be the winner on Clifford's sacrifice fly. MacDonald went 3-for-4 and had three RBI.

Chris Cunio had a fine game for the Bishops, singling and scoring the first run.

Other Quincy members of the team were Matt O'Toole and Tom Nutley.

While warming up in the top of the sixth inning Clifford was struck on the head when a return throw from catcher John Guilfoy slipped out of his hands and struck Clifford. Clifford was dazed but, after a short rest, returned to the mound.

The win was special for Connie Carlozzi, former Legion coach in Quincy, who has coached the Bishops for 22 years.

Clifford, MacDonald and O'Toole play for Morrisette Legion, Cunio for Wollaston Legion and Nutley for Quincy Legion.

MacDonald had a fruitful debut for Morrisette Sunday with a single and sacrifice fly and three RBI in an 8-5 decision over Canton.

Quincy PAL Road Race Raises $2,800

The recent road race sponsored by the Quincy PAL raised $2,800 after expenses which will be used to continue the PAL's "cops and kids" programs.

"The race was a great success with 377 runners and we plan to continue the race each year," said Officer Bob Hanna.

Each runner was given hot dogs, hamburgers and soda and 30 prizes donated by local merchants were awarded in a raffle.

"Next year we plan some changes, including an electronic finish to help speed up the results," Hanna said.

The PAL, with 36 police volunteers, none of whom are paid, provide summer recreation and the league currently is finishing a basketball program in the Houghs Neck-Germantown area. There will be street hockey this summer and the pal will continue its park programs with its mobile truck going into parks for four hours of field day events. Each youngster receives a T-shirt and refreshments.

"This is our way of working the police into the neighborhoods working with kids," said Hanna.

Michael Callahan was the men's winner and Sheila Kearney the women's winner in the PAL's first road race on May 17.

Junior Baseball

Elks, Keohane's Win

The Elks had their win streak snapped by Beacon Sports, 7-5, in Quincy Junior Baseball League action, dropping the Elks' record to 8-4-1.

Rob McDonough was the winning pitcher for Beacon, pitching five innings and striking out five. The loser was Matt McLaughlin.

Brian Doyle and Brian Ross led the Beacon attack with two hits each and Brent Austin had a hit and scored two runs.

The Elks were led by David Ilnicki with a two-run homer and T.J. Miller with three hits. Shaun Lynch and Billy Miller had RBI singles.

In their previous game the Elks topped the Lions, 4-1, with Ryan Piccinin the winning pitcher, combining with Miller on a two-hitter.

Piccinin also had an RBI double and scored a run. Scott Cooper had two hits and made some key defensive plays. Billy Armstrong and Ilnicki played strong defense.

Losing pitcher Mike McEvoy pitched well, striking out 10 and allowing five hits. He also doubled for one of the Lions' two hits. Jim Hasson caught a fine game and had the other hit.

Keohane's edged South Shore Buick, 9-8, in a see-saw game that featured timely hitting by both teams.

Peter Donnelly, Chris Cummings and Ryan Deshler had three hits and was given the game ball. Steve Clarke had two hits as did Jon Calari, Mike Sampson and Paul Lentini.

Defensively Tom Caldwell, Jim Barrett, Matt Donovan, Matt Tobin, John Gavin and Chris Mannix had strong games.

The Elks scored three runs in the final inning to edge the Police, 10-9. Miller was the winning pitcher, going all the way and striking out nine.

He was backed by some strong defense by Piccinin, Joe Miller and McLaughlin. Armstrong had two singles, two doubles, five RBI and two runs scored. Ilnicki, Joe Miller, T.J. Miller and Piccinin also had hits.

Losing pitcher Rusty Corner struck out nine and had two hits and two runs scored. Jose Diaz hit a long home run and added a single in a losing cause.

Rotary, which has come along fast after a slow start, came from behind to tie Continental Cable, 12-12, and drop Cable into a top tie with Kiwanis in the American League.

Kevin Regan helped Cable take the early lead with two hits, including a bases-clearing triple. John Sullivan also had two doubles and two RBI.

Rotary exploded for seven runs in the fourth inning as Bryan Linskey had a bases-loaded triple and Adam Delorey and Brian Kalil drove in runs. Linskey had a big day with four RBI while Mike McLaughlin added three hits and Delorey two. Adam Goodrich was impressive in relief of McLaughlin, hurling two scoreless innings and striking out four.

Rotary also defeated South Shore Buick, 12-8, with Kevin Shaw and Goodrich combining for the win.

Shaw had two hits, Goodrich went 3-for-4 including a triple, Delorey went 2-for-4 and Linskey 3-for-4. Billy Connolly, Kalil and Matt McDonough also had hits. The big blow came in the sixth with McLaughlin hitting a two-run homer over the left field fence at McCoy Field.

For Buick Steve Clarke, Jonathan Caliri, Mike Sampson and Matt Kiesel led the offense and John Gavin, T.J. Bell and Billy Deshler played well.

Cable bounced back to roll over Colonial Federal, 20-4, collecting 14 hits.

Chris Bregoli pitched all the way and struck out seven. He also had three hits including a triple and four RBI. Sullivan had three hits and three RBI and Mike Powers had four RBI. Regan had two RBI and scored five runs and Mark Miller, Danny Kinnecom, Kevin Walsh and Ron Gamel also drove in runs.

For Colonial Federal Jack Daley had three hits, including a triple, and Tom Daley, Mike Shaw, Randy Feetham and Tom Mann also had hits.

The standings:

AMERICAN LEAGUE: Kiwanis, 12-2-0; Cable, 11-1-2; Burgin Platner, 5-7-2; Beacon Sports, 5-6-2; Lions, 3-10-0; VFW, 1-12-0.

NATIONAL LEAGUE: Keohane's, 10-3-1; Elks, 8-4-1; Colonial Federal, 6-8-0; Police, 6-8-0; Rotary, 5-8-1; S.S. Buick, 4-9-1.

Triple A

Tigers, Mets, A's Win

The Tigers rolled over the Cubs, 22-6, in Quincy Triple A Baseball League action, with Tony Schweri the winning pitcher.

Steve Ford led the attack with two doubles and two singles, Pat O'Neil had a double and single and Colleen Nichols a triple.

Defensively, Alex King, Nichols and Ford played outstanding games.

The Mets scored 14 runs in the fifth to wallop the Pirates, 21-10. Brad Croall was the winning pitcher and had 12 strikeouts. Jason Lumaghini was the loser with seven strikeouts.

Gail Dann, Personal Lines Manager for Riley & Rielly Insurance Agency, wishes to thank all her friends, relatives and especially her corporate sponsors for making her the #1 fundraiser for the American Cancer Society Jail & Bail Telethon. She beat out her leading competitor by a quarter. She raised $1590.25. The corporate sponsors are listed below:

Riley & Rielly Ins. Agency	Sciaratta & Doucette Ins. Agency
Ambassador Motor Cars	F.P. Richardson Ins. Agency
Comprehensive Health Care	D.J. Rielly Insurance Agency
Supreme Bakery	Columbia Buick
Cronin's North	Boston Capital Partners

Improv. Inc.	John E. O'Connor D.M.D.
Appliance Warehouse	Paul A. Fugazzatto D.D.S. P.C.
John J. Lamb Ins. Agency

She would like to remind you that at Riley and Rielly Insurance Agency, you get service with a smile. She is smiling because of the three dentists listed above.

REASON TO SMILE--The Gillespie family of North Quincy had a lot to smile about after Lauraine Gillespie, right, won $100,000 in the State Lottery's Mass Cash game recently. Gillespie, a medical secretary at New England Medical Center, received $75,000 after taxes. Her husband James and daughter Taylor Ann accompanied her to Lottery headquarters in Braintree.

50,000- 75,000 Visitors Anticipated

Tourist Visits To Quincy On Record Pace

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Quincy's history could make a little history of its own this year as National Park and tourism officials anticipate record visitation to the city's historic sites.

Attendance in April and May at two major tourist sites, the Adams Mansion and Adams Birthplaces, was well above last year's figures, according to Marianne Peak, superintendent of the Adams National Historic Site.

The Mansion experienced a 45 percent increase in visitation during April and a 32 percent jump in May over last year. Attendance at the Birthplaces rose 30 percent in April and 16 percent in May compared to last season.

In April, 2038 visitors toured the Mansion, up 933 from last April's 1105 tourists. In May, 3741 people visited the Mansion, an increase of 1203 over last May's total of 2538.

At the Birthplaces, 760 tourists visited the site in April, up 231 over last year. In May, 1586 toured the Birthplaces, an increase of 252 visitors.

According to recent statistics., 2047 tourists have visited both the Old House and the Birthplaces through June 18. Officials estimate 125 guests are visiting the sites per day during June.

The numbers so far this tourist season indicate 1992 could be a banner year for tourism in Quincy. Peak said it is very possible the number of visitors could reach 50,000 to 75,000, which would perhaps be the most ever.

In recent years, about 30,000 people have visited Quincy, said Peak, who has been the superintendent at the Adams National Historic Site since 1986.

"If we continue at the rate we're going, we could see 50,000 to 75,000 visitors in Quincy this year. To my knowledge our visitation has never been as high as 50,000. Without question this could be our biggest year."

Maryanne McMahon, president of Quincy Tourism Association, predicted 1992 would be the most successful tourism year in Quincy ever.

McMahon said she is optimistic because many groups, including the Quincy Partnership, Mayor's Office, City Council, Quincy Center Business and Professional Association and other organizations are combining their efforts to boost tourism. She also said the arrival of the Tall Ships and the city's Bicentennial Celebration will help make this year "fabulous."

"I think this is going to be the best year for tourism in Quincy. Everybody is supporting our efforts. We think with that kind of support behind us, we can't help but be successful.

"I've always said that Quincy is Massachusetts' best kept secret. Well, this is the year we let that secret out of the bag."

Peak said four major factors have contributed to the rise in visitation.

First, Peak said the Park Service has taken an active role in communicating and increasing special events to attract people to the historic sites and to cultural events.

For example, a traveling exhibit showcasing artifacts from the White House is being featured in the Carriage House at the Mansion through July 25. The exhibit, which highlights the 200th anniversary of the construction of the White House, features many interesting artifacts, including furniture and china used by President John Adams and his wife, Abigail Adams.

Gunman Robs Bank

By MICHAEL WHALEN

A lone gunman escaped with what Quincy Police are calling a "large amount of money" following a robbery Tuesday morning at the Boston Five Cents Savings Bank on Granite Street.

According to Detective Lt. Thomas Casey, the gunman entered the bank at 9:22 a.m. and displayed a semi-automatic handgun which he pointed at bank employees.

"He ordered the employees to back up and then he vaulted over the teller counter," said Casey. "He got away with a large amount of money in a bag that had just been delivered by an armored car."

Casey said the gunman then exited the bank and, after pointing the gun at an elderly customer sitting in his car in the bank parking lot, sped off in his own vehicle.

The gunman has been described as a white male around 6' with a medium build wearing slacks, an open shirt, a white baseball cap and dark sunglasses. However, eyewitness accounts differ on the make and color of the getaway car.

"I've been told that it was an old blue Ford, an old blue Lincoln, and an old gray car. We know it's somewhere between blue and gray," said Casey, who added that such confusion is understandable under the circumstances.

"When something like this (robbery) happens, there's a tremendous amount of panic," he said. "It's just natural; people become scared."

In addition to bank employees, three customers, including two women and one man, were inside the bank at the time of the robbery. No one was hurt.

Casey said it is not yet certain whether the robbery was planned.

"I don't know whether he just happened to see the armored car pull up or what," he said. "It could very well have been a planned operation, but at this point it's still too early to say."

Casey added that although the amount stolen has been determined, he was "not at liberty" to make it known to the public.

Water, Sewer Rates Discussion At City Hall

Residents concerned about increased water and sewer rates may attend a free workshop with MWRA executive director Douglas MacDonald, Wednesday, June 24, from 7-9 p.m. at City Hall.

MacDonald said rate control is his top concern. He will present a slide show and be available for questions.

In the coming year, the average family of four will pay $515 for water and sewer service. The MWRA has raised wholesale water and sewer rates by more than 400 percent in recent years.

Other speakers at the workshop, sponsored by Quincy Community Action, include Sen. Paul Harold; Jay MacRitchie, Quincy's representative on the MWRA board of directors; Public Works Commissioner David Colton; and Edward Nelson, president of South Shore Rental Association.

Nicoletta Guerriero, Housing Counselor at QCA, said the speakers will discuss the increases in rates and what people can do to minimize the impact.

Harold will discuss legislation he has worked on to help rate payers.

MacRitchie will discuss what the MWRA board of directors does and his function on it.

Colton will discuss what steps the City of Quincy is taking and Nelson will discuss what landlords can do.

$500,720 In Wiring

The Quincy Department of Wire Inspection issued 121 permits totaling $4,266 in fees during May, reports Wire Inspector Thomas E. Purpura.

There was an estimateed $500,720 cost of wiring and 30 certificates of approval to the Massachusetts Electric Company.

In addition, there were 286 inspections, 50 defects noted, 44 reinspections and one fire call.

QUINCY ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS raised $7,500 during a recent Penny Drive to benefit the restoration of the Collins Rest-a-While Park at Southern Artery and Hancock St. The top three fund raising schools received flags which will hand in their lobbies. At Hancock Tire And Appliance

Maytag Washer Keeps Washing And Washing And Washing . . .

By MARK CROSBY

A Maytag washer was turned on at Joe Palumbo's Hancock Tire and Appliance Store on Franklin St., South Quincy, on Jan. 21, 1992.

It has been running ever since. And it shows no signs on running down.

The washer has been in operation for 3,694 hours. This is the equivalent to 8757 loads and 21 years of use. Based on the national average, a washer tackles eight loads of wash per week or 416 loads per year.

Maytag, in association with Joe Palumbo's Hancock Tire and Appliance, initiated a contest which puts a Maytag washer to the test. Guess how long the washer will run, and win a Maytag washer.

The winner will be determined by the guest closest to the time of the breakdown. When the washer quits, and needs a repair of $100 (including service charge) or more, the contest will terminate and a winner will be determined.

To enter the contest, visit Joe Palumbo's Hancock Tire and Appliance and fill out an entry form. You may, however, have to wait quite a while for the results. An identical contest in the Midwest featuring a Maytag washer has been operating for over a year and a half.

The Maytag running non-stop at Hancock Tire and Appliance is a heavy duty, large capacity, self cleaning washer.

JOE PALUMBO stands with a Maytag washer in his Hancock Tire and Appliance Store on Franklin St. in South Quincy. The washer has been running continously since Jan. 21.

Joe Palumbo's Hancock Tire and Appliance, located in Quincy for 47 years, prides itself in customer service. Third generation owner Joe Palumbo stresses the importance of selecting a product which best meets the needs of the customer. "We try to qualify what they're looking for," he says.

The staff at Joe Palumbo's Hancock Tire and Appliance accounts for such factors as estimated use and family size.

When will the Maytag washer quit? Nobody knows.

When will Hancock Tire and Appliance's commitment to personalized customer service quit? Never.

Quincy Tourism At Record Pace

Secondly, Peak credited Mayor James Sheets for expressing a serious and sincere interest in promoting Quincy tourism. "He understands the potential for tourism in the community and he is sensitive to preserving local historic sites," she said.

Peak also credited Sen. Paul Harold for his effort in successfully lobbying the state to erect historic site signs on the mayor highways running through Quincy. "People traveling to Cape Cod and Boston now have an opportunity to see the signs and to stop by if they hadn't planned on it

"The signs also give visitors better access. Before they didn't even know we existed--they'd drive right by Quincy."

Lastly, Peak said the community is getting involved in the tourism movement. She noted the Quincy Partnership, a volunteer group of government officials, civic organizations, business leaders and residents, has taken an active role in preserving Quincy's history and promoting its quality of life through its outdoor lighting campaign at several historic sites and the Quincy Flag Day Parade.

Other organizations, including the Quincy Rotary Club which has planted flowers at the Adams Academy, have also been involved.

"All these things are really enhancements," Peak said.

With more visitor's coming to Quincy, Peak said the city needs a visitor's center more than ever. The Sheets administration and Cong. Brian Donnelly's office are trying to secure federal funding for the project.

A visitor's center is essential to promoting Quincy's history since it would be a focal point to the city's tourism effort. Peak said a center would supply visitors with tour information as well as general information about the city. "Without one, it is very difficult to communicate and coordinate the city's resources."

Like the highway signs, Peak said a visitors center would make the city's historic sites more accessible.

"It's very important to provide visitors with an opportunity to find the city's historic resources. Without the signs, they weren't finding us. Now it's very clear."

With tourism on the rise, some "problems" are surfacing. For one thing, Peak is finding the size of the tours increasing from 8 to 10 people to 10 to 20 people. As a result, Peak and other local officials, including Mayor James Sheets, have asked Donnelly to lobby for federal money so that additional tour guides can be hired.

"We need to increase staffing to accommodate larger tours and to make tours smaller and more personable. We currently have three people per day giving tours.

"The tours are personable. We attempt to have tours as visitors arrive. We take people right away so that they don't have to wait for a tour.

"Now,10 to 15 to 20 people are arriving at the same time and they spend up to one hour touring the Old House and then they go to the Birthplaces."

Peak said she and her staff are planning for an influx of tourists to Quincy when the Tall Ships arrive July 11-16. Tourist industry officials expect some 300,000 people to travel into the Greater Boston area, including Quincy, after seeing the Ships.

Peak said the Tall Ships crowd could bring 1,000 to 1500 visitors to Quincy each day that week.

"We're planning for the numbers. They want us to extend our hours to 8 p.m. to allow more opportunities to see the Mansion. It will mainly be a self-guiding tour," she said.

Peak said she plans to conduct a study on the economic impact tourism has on the local economy. The study will attempt to show what impact a certain number of visitors has on Quincy businesses.

"I know we do have a positive impact on the economy but how much, I don't know. The study will show that," she said.

During Tall Ships Visit

Ayers Wants Equal Access To Long Island

By STEVE KAVANAGH

Ward 6 City Councillor Bruce Ayers says that if Long Island is not open to the public for viewing of the Tall Ships it shouldn't be open to anyone.

City of Boston officials have said that Long Island should be closed to the public because of dangerous conditions.

However, Ayers said he is proceeding as if arrangements can be made for public access between now and July 11.

Ayers said he is planning for the day with police, fire, EMT and other public safety officials. A hotline for information and to report emergencies may be set up he said. Also, Squantum residents will receive special stickers to allow them access back to Squantum by automobile.

Meanwhile, Mayor James Sheets will try to persuade Boston Mayor Ray Flynn to open the island for the Sail Boston celebration. Sheets and Flynn are both attending the United State Conference of Mayors in Houston this week.

"We've (Quincy) offered to help with cleanup and safety precautions on the island," Ayers said. He noted that many Ward 6 residents have offered to volunteer as have many local businesses.

"There are areas that could be roped off. We're not giving up," Ayers said.

The first-year Councillor said he has toured Long Island three times recently including last Friday.

"Each time I noticed the island had been cleaned up and improvements made," Ayers said.

"There are rumors that Flynn is planning a VIP party out there for his supporters and friends. Quincy residents should have equal access," Ayers said.

Ayers hinted that if Quincy residents are denied access to the island he would try to prevent outsiders from using Squantum streets to reach Long Island.

"We are checking with police to see what measures we can take within the law," he said.

Ayers criticized Flynn for poor planning.

"Flynn new this was coming. Certainly long enough to prepare with Quincy," he said.

"This is a spectacular event. An event of this caliber doesn't come along very often," Ayers said. "It's a shame the way it's been handled."

Annual Chris Peter Blood Drive July 14

The eighth annual Chris Peter Memorial Blood Drive will be held Tuesday, July 14 from 2 to 8 p.m. at St. Thomas Aquinas Hall, Darrow St., Houghs Neck.

The event, which benefits the American Red Cross, is held in memory of Chris Peter of Houghs Neck, who was killed by a drunk driver in September 1984 at the age of 22.

Babysitting and homemade goods will be available. For more information or for an appointment call Charles or Trudy Peter at 471-9586.

The Quincy Chapter 1 Parent Committee will meet tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. in the Myles Standish School (rear), 440 East Squantum St.

All parents are invited to attend.

Beach Water Sampling Begins June 30

The Quincy Health Department will begin its summer water sampling program Tuesday, June 30, announces Public Health Commissioner Jane Gallahue.

Water samples will be collected every Tuesday thereafter until Sept. 1 at 10 beaches, one to two hours before high tide. Results will be analyzed for fecal coliform counts by a certified private laboratory, and will be made available to the media throughout the summer months.

The MDC will collect and analyze water samples at four locations along Wollaston Beach. Samples will be obtained on Wednesday and will be reported to beach managers and the Quincy Health Department by Friday of each week.

Quincy, like most coastal communities in the South Shore area, utilizes a standard of 200 or greater fecal coliform colonies as an indication of health risk. Beaches with counts of 180 or greater will be resampled.

Beaches with counts of 200 or greater will be posted with signs which read: "Warning, Beach Unacceptable for Swimming, per order Quincy Health Department."

Such beaches are considered unsafe for swimming and the signs will remain in place until water samples who fecal coliform counts below 180.

If a period of rainfall has occurred after the water samples were taken on Tuesdays, it is important that people understand that such samples may not represent an accurate reflection of the water quality which will be reported on Fridays. Sewerage is often discharged into the harbor from pipes and drains that contain overflow wastewater in combination with rainwater after 1/4 of an inch of rainfall or greater occurs in a given day.

"We therefore recommend that people refrain from swimming or bathing for a period of 48 hours after a rainfall to allow for the natural flushing action of the tides to dilute and cleanse the water," Gallahue said.

Make '1776' Opening A Success

[A report from The Quincy Tourism Assn.]

Quincy Tourism starts off the Bicentennial Celebration activities with the opening of the Broadway musical "1776" at the Quincy Masonic Temple Lodge, 1170 Hancock St., this weekend.

It is interesting that the festivities should start with a musical that has John and Abigail Adams as principal characters. The signing of the Declaration of Independence was an incredible moment in time.

By selecting this event as the opening program for the celebration of Quincy's 200th birthday, the Quincy Tourism Association is reminding Quincy residents of their roots. The stirring of pride in our history will remind everyone of the obligation that comes with being a good citizen and that the civic pride in Quincy will encourage everyone to support the upcoming events.

It would be most encouraging if the general public makes the opening weekend of "1776" a success. The hard-working volunteers need to know that their enthusiasm in creating a wonderful summer program is appreciated by the people of Quincy. Tickets are available by calling 847-0929 or 843-5862.

SPINAL CORD INJURIES

Summer is the prime season for spinal cord injuries. Accidents that occur during cycling, diving and participation in other sports are among the most frequent causes of injuries to the nerve pathways that make up the spinal cord. These pathways are vital because they control many of the body's functions. The best treatment for spinal cord injuries is prevention. Always wear an approved safety helmet when riding bikes of any kind. Never dive into water without making certain it is deep enough. Wear a seat belt while driving. Be careful on ladders, slippery surfaces, stairs, and during sports activities. If you are injured, get immediate professional help. Even being incorrectly moved at the accident scene may cause further damage.

P.S. Symptoms of spinal cord injury almost always occur immediately, and include numbness, weakness and paralysis.

"Have you buckled up yet?" is the single most important question you can ask your fellow passengers in a car. John Quincy Wouldn't Like It

The Democrats' proposal to move Braintree into a Boston Congressional district must have John Quincy Adams turning in his tomb.

Adams served nearly 18 years in Congress after leaving the White House.

He represented 22 communities in the old Plymouth District from 1830 to Feb. 21, 1848 when he collapsed at his desk and died a few hours later at age 80.

Of those 22 communities, Quincy and Braintree had the most in common. That common link continues today.

The two go back to the Indian Deed of 1665 when Chief Wampatuck sold to the early settlers what is now Braintree, Quincy and Randolph.

As real estate goes, it was a pretty good buy. The price: 21 pounds, 10 shillings. About $22.

Separating Quincy and Braintree legislatively by shoving Braintree into the Congressional district of Joseph Moakley of South Boston is something akin to separating twins.

The two communities were one back in Colonial days and have been in the same state legislative district since 1792 — even before there were Congressional districts.

Although Quincy claims second president John Adams and sixth president John Quincy Adams as native sons, their birthplaces were actually in Braintree. What is now Quincy was then the north precinct of Old Braintree.

The north precinct became the town of Quincy in 1792 but the bond between the two communities remains strong.

The two are interwoven with common problems and concerns and similar interests.

Braintree just doesn't belong in a Boston Congressional district.

There's some speculation that an attempt may be made to move Quincy or part of Quincy into that same Boston district. Quincy doesn't belong there either.

The only thing for sure that Quincy has in common with Boston is the Neponset River — with Quincy on one side and Boston on the other.

The Congressional districts should be that way too. Quincy on one side, and Boston on the other.

A staunch Republican and former state representative, Card singled out Harold at the homecoming reception attended by a crowd of over 250:

CARD

"My good friend and colleague, Paul Harold, who, yes he is a partisan Democrat, but more importantly, he participants in the process and stands up for what he believes is right.

It would make a nice quote in a political ad as Harold makes his bid for the Congressional seat.

THERE SEEMS TO BE an early bumper crop of political signs around town.

MCGRATH

Initial impact honors would have to go to Steve McGrath, candidate for state senate for an eye-catching display at last week's Quincy Democratic Committee's Candidate's Forum at Marina Bay.

His supporters were lined up from east Squantum St. to the Marina Bay cafeteria where the forum was held — a near mile — with 125 signs.

On Saturday morning, Dorothy Shea and William Delahunt signs turned up along Hancock St. at Granite St. Shea, a candidate for the State Senate seat had 16 signs and Delahunt, Congressional candidate, three but one of them was king-sized.

MILESTONE: Frank Osborne, athletic officer at Morrisette Legion Post for 45 years, recently turned 80 but isn't trying out rocking chairs.

He was president of the Quincy Fathers Club, the Quincy High School football boosters club for 16 years and is still very active.

He and his wife, Elenior, have played key roles in keeping the baseball program going at Morrisette by raising funds each year. This year they raised $5,000.

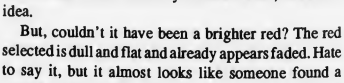
OBSERVATION: That red sidewalk stripe — Quincy's version of the Yellow Brick Road — which tourists can follow to the city's historic sites, was a nice idea.

But, couldn't it have been a brighter red? The red selected is dull and flat and already appears faded. Hate to say it, but it almost looks like someone found a couple of gallons of old paint in a garage somewhere.



Thomas Edison patented the phonograph in 1877.

Believes It Was A Miscarriage Of Justice

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Before I begin this letter I would like to state that this is being written by an individual who can be considered to have a biased opinion on the following matter:

On June 9, 1992 I was present in court when the jury returned a verdict convicting my close friend of the rape and assault of his daughter. To show support for my friend I attended the trial from beginning to end. Throughout the trial I believed in my friend and will always believe that he committed no crime!

The purpose for this letter is to express that I firmly believe that a miscarriage of justice has just occurred. From the beginning to end no physical evidence, dates or times were ever incorporated into this trial. The case was based on pure speculation and accusations. The prosecution gave their case and did a fairly good job with what they had, which was not much, and still won. This to me is the miscarriage of justice. My basic understanding of the outcome of this case is that a young man is in jail for something he was accused of but never actually physically proven. No evidence, no proof, nothing but plain speculations, plain accusations, accusations that led to the conviction that should have never taken place.

I strongly believe that we as a society live and die by the justice system and the way I feel now, I would rather die. After what I saw take place over the past 10 days in a courtroom during this trial makes me very nervous about the justice system. I have my degree in criminal justice and have been employed within the field for one year, through all my course work and on the job experience I have been able to gain great exposure to how the justice system should uphold the principle of innocent until proven guilty.

This case may have involved someone close to me, but the outcome was just ridiculous. This friend and good person is now in jail for a crime he did not commit, as far as it being proven beyond a reasonable doubt. If this is what our Constitution is based on, God help the rest of us, and to my friend: We love you, hang in there, and we will always be here for you!

The American People Need Action Dealing With The Issues

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

As a moderate Democrat, I see my party once again nominating yet another weak Democrat for President. When will the Democrats learn? When will they start nominating winners again?

The other day while passing through Wollaston Center, I noticed a placard in a storefront window which read, "Perot Petitions Here." I went in and signed it. This Democrat is keeping all options open for November. Perot deserves a spot on the presidential ballot. Whether I'll end up going for Door Number Three is yet to be determined.

To date, Republican George Bush has given me little evidence that he deserves a second term and Gov. Bill Clinton is potentially the weakest Democrat nominated since George McGovern 20 years ago. We all know who won in 1972 by default.

As the presidential campaign progresses over the summer, I will be watching all three top candidates closely. Perot the protest candidate now has a chance to offer alternative policies. If he doesn't, his vote could be quite low. Folks are tired of clueless leaders. Rhetoric is fine for press releases but the American people need action dealing with the issues facing America in these last years of the 20th century. President Bush and Gov. Clinton could be even better candidates as a result of the Perot candidacy.

Here's one Democrat who won't be voting for President Bush this year but has yet decided between Clinton and Perot. In 1976 when faced with a choice of unelected President Gerald Ford or Gov. Jimmy Carter, I voted in protest for Gene McCarthy. Democrat Clinton leaves much to be desired. Tell me more, Ross, if you really want my vote.

Shameful Silence

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

America's social institutions, morals, ethics and spirituality collapse before our very eyes. The once-proud backbone of our nation, America's gutless, docile middle class, look on in stunned and shameful silence!

New Civil Service List Has Radical Seniority Cuts

June 25-July 1
1940
52 Years Ago

Public Works Commissioner Ezekiel C. Sargent released a new state-mandated Civil Service seniority list which radically altered the status of all but 17 of the 227 employees of the Highway and Sanitary Departments.

The new list, which was ordered by State Civil Service Director Ulysses Lupien, based a worker's seniority on the number of successive years in which he worked at least 150 days. Some on the list lost 17 years of credits.

In two of the most radical changes, John Gregory slipped from sixth to 221st on the list and Daniel Flanigan went from seventh to 147th. Both started with the department in 1920.

The jolt was expected to be felt most severely in the fall when the construction season was over and 30 men were scheduled to be laid off.

A court suit against the new list was expected.

HEDGES AT CONVENTION

Rep. Charles W. Hedges (R-Quincy) reported from the Republican National Convention in Philadelphia that Thomas E. Dewey's presidential candidacy was weakening, Robert A. Taft was holding his own and dark horse Wendell Wilkie was gaining strength.

Hedges and George Olsson of Brockton were among the South Shore delegates who were trying to hold together a futile drive to gain the presidential nomination for Cong. Joseph W. Martin (R-Mass).

Later, Hedges played a major role in setting up a meeting between Wilkie and Martin that paved the way for Wilkie's victory. The Massachusetts delegation went for Martin 33-1 on the first ballot and 28-4 for Wilkie on the third.

NAVY CONTRACT

The U.S. Navy awarded the Bethlehem Steel Co.'s Fore River shipyard a $170 million contract to built eight cruisers, part of the largest warship construction program in history.

Our Policy On Engagement Photographs And Wedding Announcements

The Quincy Sun will continue to publish photographs with engagement announcements as it always has.

The Sun will also continue to use in wedding announcements the names of all members of the wedding party including maid or matron of honor, best man, parents, bridesmaids, ushers, flower girls and ringbearers, etc.

We invite engaged couples to submit their photos with their announcements and when submitting their wedding photo to include a complete listing of the wedding party.

Black and white photos are preferred. The Sun can convert most color photos to black and white for publication but the photo loses some clarity in the process.

We suggest that when you have your engagement photo taken, you request the studio to send a copy to The Sun with the reminder that The Sun is continuing its policy of publishing engagement photos.

The Sun also publishes articles and photos of wedding anniversaries beginning with the 25th anniversary.

And, as in the past, there is no charge.

Joanne Koval State Senate Candidate

Holbrook Selectman Joanne Koval announces she is a candidate for the Norfolk senate seat being vacated by Sen. Paul Harold, representing Avon, Braintree, Holbrook and Quincy.

"It is time to open the doors and windows of our State House and let the fresh air in. I believe we need to elect leaders who will work for us--full time," Koval said.

"The vote revolt is real. For too long, we have voted in our misery. 'We the People' should demand a level of excellence from all of our elected officials.

"I have a clear understanding of the issues and the problems that we face every day. I look forward to a vigorous campaign and healthy debate," she added.

Koval, considered a leader in the Holbrook community for many years, has worked as a volunteer, appointed official and elected municipal officer. Among the organization she has been involved in are Cub Scouts, athletic boosters, academic boosters, Self Help Inc. Board of Directors including executive committee and finance committee; and Head Start liaison. She has also served as a Meals on Wheels volunteer and youth commissioner.

JOANNE KOVAL

In addition, Koval served seven years on the Town of Holbrook Finance Committee, including four years as chairman. She has been an activist in the Baird and Maguire cleanup since the hazardous waste site was discovered.

Besides being a member of the Holbrook Board of Selectmen, Koval belongs to the Mass Municipal Association, Massachusetts Area Planning Committee. She is also a a town meeting member and a volunteer for the Boston Marathon.

Koval is married to Greg Koval and they have two sons, Bill, 26, a U.S. Navy veteran, and Dan, a junior at Thayer Academy.

Raised in Braintree, she is one of nine children. Her parents were the late Peg and John O'Keefe. Her father managed Standard Plumbing Supply in Quincy for 25 years.

- Lower back pain, hip pain, pain down leg

TIME magazine says 75 million Americans have backache, and with each passing year, this astronomical figure grows by 7,000,000.

Backache has become a catastrophic issue with the insurance companies and with our national economy. It is one of the top claims for disability. In addition to this, arthritis and rheumatic complaints affect 77 percent of our adult population, and every year millions sustain severe neck injuries from automobile collisions.

With the use of a few simple painless tests we will be able to determine the condition of the spine. Early detection of back problems is the best prevention for future back ailments.

The spinal screening will be offered without charge or obligation at the

QVNA Health Provider For Fr. Bill's Place

Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition recently held a reception to welcome Quincy Visiting Nurses Association as health care providers for Fr. Bill's Place, adult shelter for the homeless of the South Shore.

The occasion marked the beginning of a new partnership to meet the health needs of the homeless.

Present at the reception were representatives of the Board and Staff of Fr. Bill's Place, Quincy Visiting Nurses Association, and Health Care for the Homeless. The new shelter nurse, Marjorie Campbell, RN was also present.

The services rendered to the shelter by QVNA will be an on-site nurse who will provide health care screening, health and hygiene management, attendant medical care, as well as referral to appropriate medical providers.

QVNA Executive Director Steven Robbins said at the reception that this new effort represents a "positive community partnership" to deal with a difficult problem. Joe Finn, Executive Director of Fr. Bill's Place said that is the goal of QISC, whenever possible, "to reintegrate the homeless back into existing medical services." This is part of the rationale of including QVNA in the shelter's efforts to serve the homeless.

Funding for the partnership came from a number of sources, including The Harold Brooks Foundation, The Clipper Ship Foundation, The Antonelli Foundation, and Boston Health Care for the Homeless. The funding will provide for 20 hours of nursing per week.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

There is an ancient proverb which says, "When a man repeats a promise again and again he means to fail you."

Sadly, all too often a promise is just a roar of useless words ... Sometimes they are potent ...and sometimes they are impotent ... Sometimes they are important; sometimes unimportant. Written or spoken, the variances apply.

We all make many promises during our lifetime. These promises deal with all things, in every phase of life. Knowing what or whom to believe can and does pose problems at times.

A thought on this ... isn't it true that promises should never be given unless there is an intention to keep them? This is more than good common sense. Promises of wealth, power, love, and other things create new visions of life ... it is always best to check the vision for flaws in goodness, sincerity and integrity ...

Rev. John J. McMahon, 79

Former Pastor Of St. Mary's Church

Rev. JOHN J. McMAHON

A funeral Mass for The Rev. John J. McMahon, 79, of Boston and Dennis, was celebrated Monday at St. Mary's Church.

The Rev. McMahon died June 19 at his home in Dennis after a brief illness.

He was the pastor of St. Mary's Church in West Quincy for 20 years until his retirement in 1988.

Born and raised in Brockton, he lived in Boston and Dennis for many years.

He graduated from Brockton High School in 1931, St. Philip's Preparatory School in 1932, Boston College in 1938, and St. John's Seminary in 1943.

He was the associate pastor at the following churches: St. John's Church, Canton, from 1943-48; Immaculate Conception Church, Weymouth, for six months; St. Margaret's Church, Lowell, from 1948-50; St. Peter's Church, Plymouth, during 1950; St. William's Church, Dorchester, from 1950-64; and St. Mary's from 1964-68, after which he became pastor.

Among his first assignments at St. Mary's was to find a way to keep the church altar from falling through the floor of the church. He began a major reconstruction project during which the church foundation was rebuilt and Mullarkey Hall was built in the church basement. He was responsible for building a $250,000 convent for 12 sisters on the parish grounds. The convent is now home to the Boston Archdiocesan Catholic Youth Organization.

He was overseer of $300,000 in renovations to the upper church that met the changes recommended by Vatican Council II. He also renovated the school and added an extensive library.

He beautified and added to the church cemetery, installed blacktop roads and turned a former convent on the grounds into an apartment building.

When he marked his 40th anniversary as a priest, 300 people came through a severe snowstorm to honor him.

He was a member of the Quincy Housing Authority and was honorary chaplain of Morrisette American Legion Post.

He is survived by his sister, Mary Cull of Fort Meyers, Fla.; and his good friends, Leo and Mary Meady of Quincy.

Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were by the Sweeney Funeral Home, 326 Copeland St.

Robert Daniels, 60

Retired Food Service Worker

A graveside service for Robert Daniels, 60, of Quincy, was held June 18 in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

Legion Baseball

Morrisette Moves Into Top Spot

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Morrisette Legion baseball team took over first place in Zone 6 Monday night by rolling over Quincy, 15-1, at Adams Field to improve to 8-1.

Morrisette played Randolph last night (Wednesday), will play a New York all-star team at Braintree at 5:30 Friday, will be home to Wollaston Sunday night at 8 at Adams Field, will host Braintree Monday night at 8:30 and will be at Holbrook next Wednesday night at 8:30.

After Quincy had thrown a monumental scare into Morrisette last Saturday night before losing, 4-3, Morrisette pounded our 19 hits Monday.

Sean Donovan pitched a two-hitter for his third win in a row, putting down the first 14 batters he faced. Quincy's lone run came in the last inning on a delayed double steal. Donovan struck out seven and walked five.

Morrisette scored six runs in the first on six hits, a walk and an error. The big blows were a double by Chris MacDonald, driving in a run and a Mark Cahill double driving in two. Tom Balzano singled in a run as did Robbie Kane.

Morrisette added three in the second on singles by Serge Balcastro, MacDonald and Dave Reinhart and an error.

Belcastro and MacDonald had three hits apiece, Balzano, Mark Kelliher, Reinhart and Noel DiBona two each and Kane, Jay Schnabel, Pat Clifford, Mike Patch and Cahill one each.

For Quincy Terry Gaide and Bryan Oliver had the only hits. Eric Kreuz was the starter and loser for Quincy.

Quincy turned in one of its best efforts of the season Saturday in nearly pulling the upset of the year.

Gaide pitched well for Quincy while Matt O'Toole was having trouble with his control for Morrisette. Although he allowed only two hits in 3 1/3 innings, he walked four and when he developed a blister on his finger he gave way to Clifford with runners on first and second and one out and Morrisette holding a 1-0 lead.

Dan Kearns drove in Mark Carlson, who had singled, with a single and Steve Miller came all the way around on the hit as Morrisette threw the ball around. Kearns went to third on a grounder and scored on a wild pitch to give upstart Quincy a 3-1 lead.

Morrisette had scored a run in the first on a Pat Shea single, a balk, an infield error and Balzano's single. It took the lead with three in the fifth when Kane singled, stole second, went to third when the throw went into center field and scored on MacDonald's single. With two outs Balzano hit a mammoth home run that cleared the 357-foot sign in left field by a large margin, accounting for the tying and winning runs.

Clifford then put down the last 10 batters and picked up his first Legion win after going 12-0 for Abp. Williams' state champions.

Earlier last week Morrisette was outhit, 11-6, but got by Milton, 5-3. Patch had trouble with the pitching mound but survived as Milton stranded nine runners. O'Toole relieved in the last inning with runners on first and third and two outs and picked up a save when the batter flied out. It was Patch's third win in a row.

Morrisette clinched the win in the second when Kelliher hit a long homer to center field, Cahill singled and Clifford, Patch and Kane walked, forcing in a run. Shea singled up the middle to drive in two more runs and Morrisette had a 4-0 lead.

Milton scored two in the third with four hits including a triple.

Morrisette scored its final run in the fourth with just one base runner. Clifford singled, advanced on a wild pitch, went to third on a sacrifice bunt and scored when a pickoff throw went awry.

Milton scored a run in the sixth on three hits and only a fine defensive play by Kelliher in left field held it to a run.

Quincy Hospital Golf-Tennis Tourney Raises Over $14,000

The third annual Quincy Hospital Golf and Tennis Tournament held recently at the Cohasset Golf Club was a resounding success with more than $14,000 raised to benefit the hospital's Charitable Foundation.

This year's proceeds will support the renovation and refurbishment of the hospital's radiology department. The tournament was chaired by Quincy Hospital physicians Peter Barrett, M.D., Peter Ambrus, M.D., and George Calas, M.D., and Diane Gray of the Development Office.

More than 88 golfers and 18 tennis players enjoyed beautiful weather. John Dennis, sportscaster from Channel 7, joined in the fun as the guest celebrity golfer.

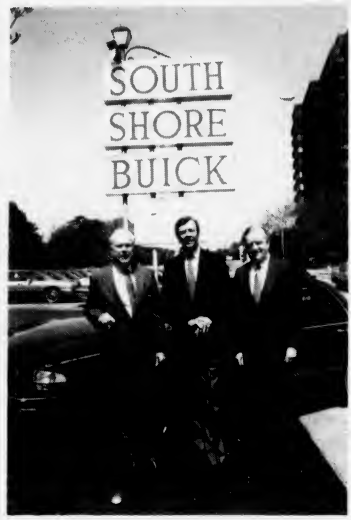
In golf, low gross was won by Alan Shah with 71; second low gross was won by Joe Gilmore of Brewster Ambulance with a 74. Low nest was a tie between Drs. Peter Friedensohn and George Gales with scores of 64.

The winning foursome was comprised of Drs. Robert Pressberg, Robert Garber, George Gales and Mr. Joe Gilmore. Dr. Angela Griffin won the Women's Low Net Trophy with a 77.

In tennis, Shawn Sheehan and Art Foley prevailed over Neil Stroman and Dr. Dugan Mahoney in the finals.

Quincy Hospital thanks the following for supporting the event:

Walker Associates, Allen and Hanburys, Glaxo, Inc., Quality Radiology, Knoll Pharmaceuticals, Marion-Merrell Dow Pharmaceuticals, Inc., Brewster Ambulance, Quorum Health Resources Inc., Parke-Davis, Eastman Kodak, Park Cardiographics, EM Parker, Inc., Crown Ob/Gyn, Browning-Ferris Industries, Elihu White Nursing Home, Quincy Radiology Associates, Norfolk-Bristol Ambulance Service, Horizon Mental Health Services Inc., E & L Security, South Shore Buick, Fuji Medical Systems USA, Inc., Quincy Psychiatric Associates, Schering Pharmaceuticals, Ellen and Peter Zane.



ROBERT COSTELLO of South Shore Buick, Dr. Peter Barrett, MD of Quincy Hospital and Bob Fitzgerald, also of South Shore Buick, with a new Buick from South Shore Buick that was offered as a prize for a hole-in-one at the recent Quincy Hospital Golf & Tennis Tournament. Unfortunately, no one came up with a hole-in-one.

Wollaston Sweeps Doubleheader

The Wollaston Legion baseball team is off to its best start in several years with a 7-2 record following a sweep of a doubleheader last Sunday.

Wollaston walloped Holbrook, 11-1, in a makeup game and followed with a 4-0 decision over Canton. It has won three games in a row after losses to Braintree and Weymouth.

Wollaston played at Holbrook last night (Wednesday), will face a New York all-star team Saturday at Adams Field, will meet Morrisette Sunday night at 8:30 at Adams Field, and will host Braintree next Tuesday at 8 at Adams.

Steve Manning pitched a complete game against Holbrook, scattering six hits. He was afforded outstanding support as Wollaston turned in three double plays and pounded out 16 hits.

Chris Cunio had four hits and scored three times, Duane Holmes, Scott Kohler, Bob Fitzpatrick and Terry Manning had two hits each.

Steve Loud pitched six innings of three-hit, shutout ball against Canton before Scott Dunn closed out the victory.

Pat Gallagher went 3-for-3 and Jeff Craig had two hits.

Wollaston avenged its loss to Braintree with a 5-4 victory last week with Dunn pitching all the way and striking out eight.

Braintree took a 2-0 lead but Gallagher's two-run homer tied it in the fifth.

Braintree regained the lead, 4-2, in the sixth, but Wollaston came back to win it with three runs. Cunio and Craig singled, Gallagher hit a sacrifice fly and Holmes and Fitzpatrick singled in the tying and winning runs.

Ponkapoag Ladies Tourney Winners

The Women's Division of the Ponkapoag Golf Association recently held a Dispensation Tournament (full handicap) with Hilda Appel, Edna Tenney, Florence Koffman, Laura Lynch and Catherine Kenney the nine-hole winners.

Kay Iredale was the 18-hole winner and was awarded the Rothera Cup.

Junior League

Kelly Hurls No-Hitter For Kiwanis Over Elks

Kiwanis blanked the Elks, 3-0, in Junior Baseball League action as Mark Kelly pitched a no-hitter. He struck out 14 in running his record to 8-1. In his last three outings he has pitched a one-hitter, two-hitter and no-hitter.

Kelly also played his position well. He had two hits and an RBI, and Chris Curry, Josh Echelle and Mike Carloni also had hits. Danny Toland played well catching.

Kiwanis also defeated South Shore Buick, 15-8, collecting 14 hits. Bobby Johnston improved his pitching record to 6-0. He also fielded his position well with a putout and three assists.

Johnston had three singles, Matt Nicklaus a bases-loaded triple and a double, Kelly a triple and a single, Echelle a triple and two singles, Jason Page a triple, Robby Bell a triple, Chris Curry and Mike Devin a single each. Devin played strong defense.

In a battle of division leaders, Continental Cable defeated Keohane's, 14-7.

Cable is tied with Kiwanis for first place in the American League and Keohane's leads the National League.

John Sullivan led the Cable attack with four hits and three RBI. Cable took a quick 3-0 lead as Chris Bregoli singled home a run and Kevin Walsh's double drove in two.

Keohane's tied it on Ray Sartre's long two-run homer.

Cable regained the lead on Sullivan's single and Mike Powers' double.

Keohane's took the lead when Pat McGann doubled and Ryan Deshler walked. Shawn Manning and Sartre drove them home. Powers relieved Sullivan on the mound for Cable and got out of the inning.

Cable put the game out of reach with a six-run fifth inning. Jonathan Brillo, Kevin Regan and Chad Fitzpatrick walked, Sullivan doubled home two runs, Powers, Bregoli and Walsh walked and Danny Kinnecom singled.

Powers earned the win in relief and also had three hits and three RBI. Walsh had three RBI. Fitzpatrick sparkled in the field, making several fine plays.

Keohane's was led by Sartre with three RBI. Pat Coughlin and Chris Cummings also had hits.

Cable edged the Elks, 3-2, in a fine pitchers' duel between Bregoli and the Elks' Matt McLaughlin. The scored was tied at 1-1 after four innings.

However, Cable scored twice in the fifth as Mark Miller doubled home Bregoli, who had walked and stolen second. Miller scored as Brillo walked with the bases loaded.

The Elks had taken a 1-0 lead as Billy Armstrong singled, reached third on a throwing error and scored on Dave Ilnicki's ground out.

Cable got that back when Fitzpatrick and Regan singled and Sullivan had a sacrifice fly that scored Fitzpatrick.

The Elks threatened in the sixth as McLaughlin walked and Armstrong doubled. McLaughlin scored on a wild pitch but Bregoli got T.J. Miller to pop up to end the game.

Burgin Platner tied Keohane's, 2-2, in a game called after nine innings due to darkness.

Jim Cunio pitched well for Burgin. Jason Chagnon had three hits, Will Tracy, Tony Staffier and Jason Crossman two apiece and Mark Driscoll, John Barron and Devin O'Brien one each. Barron had the only extra base hit, a double.

Burgin walloped VFW, 9-2, with Tracy striking out eight in three innings and walking two. He caught a game-ending liner while playing third base, had a homer and two singles and was given the game ball.

Chagnon and Jessie Winters also pitched, striking out five and allowing one hit.

Barron went 3-for-3, O'Brien and Winters had triples, Chagnon two doubles, Cunio two singles and Staffier and Judson Sherman-Rose singles. Will O'Connell and Crossman played strong defense.

The standings:

AMERICAN LEAGUE: Kiwanis, 14-2; Cable, 13-1-2; Beacon Sports, 8-6-2; Burgin Platner, 7-7-2; Lions, 2-13; VFW, 1-15.

NATIONAL LEAGUE: Keohane's, 10-5-1; Elks, 9-6-1; Colonial Federal, 7-9; Police, 7-9; Rotary, 6-9-1; S.S. Buick, 5-10-1.

Triple A

13-Run Inning Powers Dodger Over Pirates

The Dodgers erupted for 13 runs in the fifth inning and overwhelmed the Pirates, 23-6, in Quincy Triple A Baseball League action.

Patrick Dugan pitched a complete game and struck out 12. Jason Lumaghini had seven strikeouts for the Pirates.

Jeff Russo led the Dodger's with a double, triple and 3 RBI. Sean Garvey had a double, 3 RBI and 3 stolen bases, Charlie Doherty had a double and 3 RBI, Matt Allen a double, triple and 2 RBI, Matt Nelson a double and Zach Winderl 2 RBI.

John Parastatides, Chris Doherty, Russo and Dugan played fine defense.

For the Pirates, Kevin Bowes had a homer, Lumaghini and Brian Brownell two hits each, Brownell a homer and Paul Carney a triple.

Chris O'Donnell, Lumaghini, Brownell and Chris Hall played strong defense.

The Dodgers also outslugged the Mets, 11-9.

The Mets scored four runs in the top of the sixth to close within two but the Dodgers hung on.

Nathan Dorosana tripled, Pat Grogan singled, and after a walk and two Dodger errors, Jason Newhall singled. But pitcher Charlie Doherty struck out the next batter and Parastatides, catching his first game, picked a runner off third, and Doherty got Rich Bonvie to ground out with the bases loaded to end it.

Chris Doherty went 2-for-4 with a double, Parastatides had a triple, double, single and five stolen bases, Nelson a RBI and a stolen base, Mark Hawes a triple and a RBI, Garvey 4 RBI, and Jim Parastatides and Jim Callahan a RBI each. Charlie Doherty stole six bases.

Defensively, Callahan, Garvey, Chris Doherty and John Parastatides all played well.

For the Mets Pat Grogan went 3-for-3 and had three stolen bases, Newhall went 3-for-4 including a double and 2 RBI, Mike Mulvey had a double and 2 RBI, Jessica Linskey had a double and a RBI, Dorosana a triple and Bonvie a double.

Defensively, Bonvie, Brad Croall, Mulvey, Grogan and Rich Kam played well.

The A's defeated the White Sox, 9-5, as Dennis Palardy was pressed into service in the unfamiliar role of long reliever.

He relieved Brian Stuart in the first inning with one out and went on to allow just one hit, strike out 14 and walk two.

Mike Cosse, the only White Sox player with a hit, scored from first by stealing his way around the bases and making a fine head-first diving, twisting slide into home.

For the A's, Jamie MacIsaac went 3-for-4, Jamie Panagos and Palardy each had two hits and Joshua Olson and Steve Chabot had one apiece.

The A's also defeated the Blue Jays, 9-4, with Gary MacKenzie, in his first pitching appearance, going three strong innings, striking out four and allowing four runs. Panagos came in to relieve in the fourth and struck out six while pitching shutout ball.

John Quinn of the Blue Jays had two hits.

The A's catchers, Olsen and Mike Raciciot, had a busy day, throwing out four runners trying to steal.

MacIsaac and Palardy combined to catch Quinn in a rundown between second and third.

Panagos and Palardy led the offense with three hits each and Sima Junkovic had a home run and single. Junkovic was awarded the game ball for his hitting and outstanding game at third base.

Spillane Sparks Sagamore Bell Boosts Granite Rail

Sagamore Inn won three games last week, two in extra innings, to move into first place in the A Division of the Quincy Men's Softball League.

Sagamore beat Washington Tap B, 5-2; Deco Double G, 11-2; and Luke's Lounge, 13-11.

Tied 2-2 in the eighth inning, Sagamore scored three runs in the top of the inning and ended the game on a 4-6-3 triple play.

Scott Messina went 4-for-4 and Gary Keaney, Brian Lowe and Ed Paige had key hits for Sagamore. Ed Laura pitched a solid game and had a hit.

Bob Hennelly and Mike Bates played well for Tap.

Tom Spillane belted two home runs to lead the way over Deco. Tom Dormady, Messina, Lowe, Keaney and Gary McGrath also had key hits. Laura pitched well for the win.

Laura won his 11th (11-2) in the first-place showdown with Luke's. Sagamore overcame a 10-0 deficit as Spillane again hit two homers, including a grand slam. McGrath belted a three-run homer and Messina was 3-for-3.

Joe Callahan, Ron Paine, Keaney, Paige and Lowe had key hits and played good defense.

Steve Touma blasted a long home run for Luke's.

Luke's also dropped a 14-8 decision to Washington Tap B which pounded out 22 hits.

Mike Ash led the way for Tap with a 3-for-4 4 RBI performance.

Bates, John McManus and Lou Moccia had three hits each and Dave Toccio, Hennelly and Joe Godfrey had two hits apiece as Tap defeated Luke's for the first time.

Joe Callahan, Bob Hedlund and Don Cooper played well for Luke's.

Granite Rail had two solid wins to move up in the B Division. The Rail defeated Fowler House, 5-4, and hammered perennial A Division power Low Overhead Carpet, 14-1.

Fowler House led 4-0 but Granite Rail rallied for five runs in the fifth. Chris Bell keyed the comeback with a bases-loaded double knocking in three runs.

George Martell, Paul Prezioso, Rick Radzik, Russ Hubbard, Frank Reynolds and John McKay played well for the Rail.

Larry Taglieri and Bruce Tobin stood out for Fowler House.

Against Low Overhead Carpet, the Rail exploded for five runs in the fifth inning . Martell smacked a bases-loaded triple among his three hits. Prezioso went 5-for-5, Mike Nader was 3-for-3 and Radzik, Bell and McKay combined to go 9-for-10.

Reynolds, Dave Morocco and John Cristiani had two hits each and Mike Conlon had a RBI single. Infielders Hubbard, Reynolds, Radzik and Bell combined on four double plays.

Liberty Lounge also had a good week and moved into second place in the B Division.

Paul Cedrone and Randy Hoblitzelle each went 3-for-3 in a win over Washington Tap.

Mike Venna, Whitey Lyman and Vaughn Driscoll had two hits each.

Dave Tocchio, Mike Bates and Mike Ash played well for Tap.

Cagney's upset Alumni Cafe in extra innings in the C Division by scoring six runs in the eighth.

Rod Lynn and Dan Murphy each went 4-for-5 to lead the way. Sean Kennedy, Vin Capone, Bob Serves, Joe Taylor, Jr., and pitcher Steve Mullin each had key hits.

Scott Andrews, Chris Bigeant and Jay Miller played well for Alumni.

Washington Tap C edged Hat Rack, 4-3, led by brothers Bob and Scott St. John. Bob pitched well and Scott had a good game at second base.

Rob Cannela hit a two-run homer and Mike Lane, Paul Moriarty, Jim Slattery and Rob Cinquegrano exceled on defense.

Babe Ruth

Bryan, Poland Win

Bryan Post VFW edged Morrisette, 6-5, in Quincy Babe Ruth League action as Scott Pyer pitched five-hit ball and struck out nine.

Morrisette jumped off to an early 4-0 but Bryan stormed back with six runs in the fourth on Jon Ryan's single and Michael Koski's bases-loaded double.

Morrisette scored in the bottom of the fourth to close to 6-5, but Pyer bore down and avoided further trouble by striking out the last three batters.

Morrisette threatened in the final inning, but Pyer struck out two batters and retired the last batter as David Rowell made a spectacular diving catch of a pop foul fly.

Dan Donahue had two hits for Bryan and catcher Ryan played fine defense. Pyer also benefited from excellent infield play by Matt McSweeney, Bob Shaw, Koski and Rowell and outfielders Rob Callow, Jeremy Nielson, Michael Eddy and Patrick Cummings. Ken O'Connell and Bill Graney also had strong games.

Dave Pacino had two hits for Morrisette, Jeff Feiner tripled and Ken Burke and Joe McPhee had a hit each. Burke and McPhee pitched well, allowing four hits and striking out nine, while Joe Ciagini played well catching.

Poland Springs rebounded from a six-game losing streak by defeating Barry's Deli, 6-4, and Fire Department, 8-6, to even their record at 7-7.

Against Barry's, J.J. Farrell started his first game and scattered six hits while striking out four to stop Barry's eight-game winning streak. Farrell also helped himself out in the field by fielding several bunts perfectly.

Thirteen-year-old Chris Erler had two hits for Poland Springs and Paul Marnikovic and Martin Shields had key doubles in a three-run sixth inning. Adam DeBoer also doubled and Joe Renzi singled to drive in a run.

Ronnie McGann, Jim Goldrick, and Sean Kennerson each had two hits for Barry's.

Marnikovic collected his third win in the game against the Fire Department, as he fired a five-hitter and struck out four, including the last batter to end the game.

Shields scored three runs and three bases for Poland Springs. Shortstop Mike Gibbons and catcher DeBoer each had a hit and both played well defensively. Erler singled and Joe Renzi drove in two big runs with a single to provide the winning margin. Mike Kenney and Brian Driscoll both played well and John Greene, Chris Malone, Billy Nelson and John Paul DeAngelis also contributed to the win.

Brendan Ridge had two hits for the Fire Department and Keith Martinson made an outstanding play in center field to rob Marnikovic of extra bases.

A race between a horse and "Tom Thumb," the first locomotive built in America, took place on Sept. 18, 1830. The horse won—the locomotive sprang a leak in its boiler and failed to finish.

Chretien Supports Policies To Reduce Oil Dependency

Larry Chretien, Democratic candidate for state representative in the First Norfolk District, says he supports stronger policies to reduce the state's dependency on oil, coal and nuclear power for energy sources.

"These sources of energy are too expensive and too damaging to the environment," Chretien said. He is the councillor of Ward 3 and director of the Energy Conservation for Quincy Community Action Program, a local non-profit agency.

"Many people do not realize that America is more dependent on foreign oil than it was in 1973 or 1979, when OPEC nations were able to throw us into recessions. We talk a lot about the trade deficit and how much it relates to Japan and Europe.

"But a huge percentage of the trade deficit is related to oil imports. Massachusetts is more dependent on oil than just about any other state," Chretien said. "When the price of oil goes up, people in Houston might benefit, but the people of Quincy will get hurt a lot.

"Consumers will pay more and many people will lose their jobs."

Chretien said the state has to aggressively change the ways it generates and uses energy. "With existing technologies, we can dramatically improve the energy efficiency of our businesses, homes, and transportation network."

First, he said manufacturers should be given more incentives to modernize their machinery to "save jobs and dollars that would have been spent on oil imports."

Second, Chretien said electricity can be saved by installing state-of-the-art light bulbs and air conditioners. "We can make these bulbs right here in Massachusetts."

Third, Chretien said Massachusetts can become a leader in developing new sources of energy. "There are companies already here that could become big exporters of photovoltaic energy, which is a way to make electricity from sunlight.

"If the leaders of the world take steps to reduce emissions that cause the greenhouse effect and other forms of pollution, then photovoltaics will become a household word."

Lastly, Chretien said the state must develop a world-class transportation system to compete with other regions and countries and to comply with the federal Clean Air Act. He said he supports more fuel efficient cars, commuter boats between Quincy and Boston, and the Old Colony Railroad provided the MBTA "give Quincy all the noise mitigation and landscaping that we deserve."

QHA Awarded $40,000 For Computer Training Of Young Housing Tenants

The Quincy Housing Authority has been awarded a grant from South Coastal Career Development Administration for over $40,000 for a comprehensive computer training program designed for public housing tenants ages 14 to 21.

The "Summer Youth Automated Office Training" program will prepare participants for the realities of the workplace. Those accepted into the program will be introduced to a variety of skills including computer literacy, office communication and the professional skills necessary to obtain high end jobs in the corporate sector, such as business language, resume writing and appropriate attire.

Instruction will be provided by the Sinnott School in East Weymouth. Transportation and a stripend will be provided.

For more information call Joanne Nawn at the Quincy Housing Authority, 847-4378.

Stephen Cantelli Named Southwest Person Of The Year

Stephen Cantelli, a West Quincy resident and fifth grade teacher at the Lincoln-Hancock Community School, was recently presented the Albert Conti Southwest Person of the Year Award by Ward 4 Councillor Thomas Fabrizio at the Faith Lutheran Center.

The award was established two years ago by the Ward 4 Neighborhood Association and Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services in memory of community activist Albert Conti. It is award in recognition of outstanding community service. Association President Ernie Aristide praised the late Mr. Conti for his involvement in neighborhood issues.

Cantelli has been a member of the Ward 4 Neighborhood Association for six years and has served as a co-chair of the organization. A lifelong West Quincy resident, he has been active in civic and church activities.

Attended by more than 75 people, the program featured many guests who have worked with Cantelli on various community projects. Mary Moran, director of religious education at St. Mary's Church, praised Cantelli for his work with the church's young people. Nicole Sheffer, Ward 4 Youth Councillor and former student, noted his youth drama productions and credited him for her ongoing appreciation of the arts.

Mayor James Sheets, Rep. Stephen Tobin, Lincoln-Hancock PTC member Peg Orlando, former resident Diana Kinch and Fabrizio all praised Cantelli for his work with Quincy's young people, and recognized his efforts to help make youth aware of the needs of the homeless and the contributions of veterans.

Cantelli was accompanied by his wife, Julie, and children, James, Catherine and Andrew. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fray Cantelli of West Quincy.

HOST FAMILIES NEEDED

We are a Spanish high school in Randolph in need of a few more families for a summer program (July 2nd-Aug. 14th) for students ages 14-19 wanting to improve their English.

Also needed are families for the academic year 92-93.

Families with children who study Spanish would have an in-house tutor!

Housing allowance. Transportation to and from school provided. Many school trips.

PLEASE CALL 961-2428 or 986-8606 for more information

Registration June 29-30 For Sailing Instruction Program

Registration for the Quincy Recreation Department's rowing, sailing, windsurfing and canoeing instruction program will begin Monday, June 29 and Tuesday, June 30 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the William F. Ryan Boating and Sailing Facility adjacent to Black's Creek in Merrymount Park.

The entrance to the boathouse is the road adjacent to Adams Field that proceeds through Pageant Field to the boathouse parking lot.

The first day of lessons will be Wednesday, July 1, at the facility. Registration will continue weekdays throughout the summer.

The program is open to all Quincy residents on a fee basis.

The instructional program is divided into age and skill classes. Youth age 8-16 who have passed a qualifying swim test will be offered classes in rowing, sailing, canoeing and windsurfing from beginning to advanced levels. The program will be offered daily, with classes scheduled at various times.

Interested applicants may take the swim tests at the Lincoln Hancock Community School poll Wednesday, July 1 and Thursday, July 2 between 4 p.m. and 5 p.m. Swim tests will also be offered Tuesdays and Thursdays at 7 p.m. beginning July 6.

Adults may participate in all programs daily from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m. Adult and family sailing is conducted on weekends. Saturday hours will be 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday hours will be noon to 6 p.m. on a limited basis.

Special adult instruction may be arranged during the day for adults who work evenings.
